As A Man Thinketh

Among the proverbs of the Life Bible Shines a jeweled verse, emitting
A potent message to you and me:

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he,"
And as we embrace this thought
Another truth comes to light:
"Man shall not live by bread alone."

The above Aphorisms are close,

Both in scope and substance Revealing to us of b-read that breathes with life,
Strengthen men's inner forces.
Also, observe, as you pluck the letter-B-out of bread.

You'll discover ... Read ...
Bringing us to another revelation.

That literally, we are what we Eat and Read.

Awareness of physical and mental culture takes its stand.
If we are to build strong bodies and pure minds.

Just as we sow seeds for plantation,

Requiring cultivation and clearing weeds for reproduction,
In like manner, we tend the garden of our minds.

Weeding out wrong, useless and impure thoughts,

Educating and striving for perfection.

Lady Circumstance may not bow to our liking,

But we can bend to her by Planting thought-seeds of our choice.

Allowing them to conceive and blossom in due time to Action, bearing its own fruitage of opportunities and conditions.

Character is a chain-habit formation
Of noble and ignoble thoughts.

Right-stressation should the goal be if you seek;

For the Wrong-stressation brings sadness sure,

But if genuine character you seek,

Link Purpose to your desires
For without it, will you drift,

Losing moral and spiritual grounds.

Let us grip ourselves with a mental clasp of Positiveness

Releasing our emotions and intellects from "doubts and fears".

Courageously exercising the will-power cord,

In the knowledge that we Can Do Anything we Set our minds to.

Setting our characters and ustinies.

Effort and sacrifice our achievements do crown

Blessed with supreme wisdom - Serenity

VERSATILE — Permanent press cotton in a navy trunk-liner print shapes a dress that's at home at park or party. The dirndl skirt is attached to a puckered peplum bodice with lace-edged puffed sleeves. By Cinderella, it can be machine-washed and never needs ironing.

EASY GOING — Cotton knits play the separates game in this comfy combo. The long-sleeved pucker knit top makes a great put-on for straight leg pants with stitched-in creases. Both by Miss Ingenué.

AROMA AND FLAVOR are heightened when peanut butter and jelly sandwich is dipped in egg and milk mixture and grilled.

Peanut Butter And Jelly Reach New Glory In The 'Love' Sandwich

Can anything be better than a plain peanut butter and jelly sandwich?

Ask some young or old fans of that longtime favorite sandwich combination and it's likely they will nod and give you a two-word answer: "Grill it."

The idea of serving hot peanut butter and jelly sandwiches came out of Alabama and Georgia, where farm families in the Southeastern peanut belt found that grilling the peanut butter and jelly sandwich intensified the flavor and aroma.

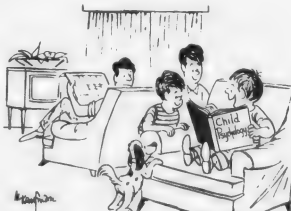

Now the hot idea has gained some added virtues in a recipe developed by home economists of the Kraft Kitchens. After spreading soft margarine on the outside of the peanut butter and jelly sandwich, they suggest dipping it in an egg and milk mixture before grilling. The result is everything one could ask of a sandwich: inviting aroma and golden brown appearance, rich flavor and good nutritional values.

"Peanut Butter Is Love ... Spread Some Around Today," proclaims a new pop art poster. With so much going for it this recipe naturally qualifies for the name: "The Love Sandwich."

Grilled Peanut Butter And Jelly Love Sandwich (makes four sandwiches)

8 slices white bread	Soft margarine
Peanut butter	2 eggs, beaten
Grape jelly or strawberry preserves	1/2 cup milk

For each sandwich spread one slice of bread with peanut butter; top with second slice that is spread with jelly. Spread top and bottom of sandwich with soft margarine. Dip in combined egg and milk mixture. Grill on both sides until lightly browned.

"Hey, look! I found a loophole!"

"I have friends in high places."

It's In To Be Thin

Director, The Diet Workshop

Not so bad...

If that's what you were thinking when you gave yourself a quick eye in the mirror this morning, dressed simply in your birthday suit, you might be interested to know what it takes to stay that way.

Not everybody has excess weight to lose, and if you are one of these lucky people, read on.

The average adult female requires 16.5 calories per day for each pound of body weight. That means that a woman who weighs 110 pounds should take in (on the average) 1815 calories a day to keep her pounds on an even keel.

Of course if you aren't happy with the bulges in your status quo, you should cut your calorie intake. 3,500 calories equal a pound—if you consume more than is necessary for your maintenance it will add that pound to you—if you consume less, it will subtract a pound from you.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

UN Council Of South Shore To Hear Christian Science Editor

"What changes will the admission of Mainland China bring to the United Nations?" is a question anyone interested in international affairs must ask. Another is, "Who will be the next Secretary General?"

These are some of the questions which will come up when Earl W. Foell speaks to members of the United Nations Council of the South Shore at their first meeting of the year Oct. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall of First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

This first meeting is also sponsored by the United Nations Association of Greater Boston.

Foell, whose topic is "New Life for a Tired United Nations", was formerly United Nations correspondent for the Los Angeles Times, before his present job as Managing Editor of the Christian Science Monitor.

He has travelled to various countries of Western Europe on news assignments as well as to Romania, Czechoslovakia, Algeria and Cyprus. In 1963 he received an award for best United Nations coverage, and has served as governor and president of the 250-member United Nations Correspondents Association.

The lectures of the U. N. Council of the South Shore are free and open to the public. There will be other talks later in the year by different speakers all related to the peaceful settlement of international affairs. All are followed by a question period. The meetings end promptly at 9 p.m.

Before the talks a supper is served at 6:30 p.m. Those wishing reservations for the meal are asked to call either Miss Edith Coulman or Miss Vera Call at 1000 Southern Artery, Quincy, before Oct. 11. There are a few places at supper reserved for students at a reduced rate.

At Quincy High 'Rap Session'

Hannon, Brett Speak Out On Open Space, Industry

By DONALD SWEENEY

Preservation of open spaces and attracting new industry to the city highlighted a "rap session" between mayoralty contenders Joseph E. Brett and Walter J. Hannon and Quincy high school students.

Brett said he favored new industries but stressed concern over preserving open spaces. Hannon emphasized the need for new industries and the revenue they would bring to the city.

The contenders answered questions which students of Quincy High School and the Vocational Technical School raised.

The series will continue today and tomorrow with city council candidates at-large as guests. Scheduled to appear today are Councilor Arthur Tobin and candidates David R. Houston and Joseph J. LaRaia. On Friday, Councilor John J. Quinn and candidates Paul C. Kelly and Joseph McDonough will appear.

The series is being conducted by the Social Studies Department at Quincy High headed by John Harrington.

The idea began in an attempt to interest, involve, and educate students in city affairs.

The presentation was moderated by State Representative Clifford Marshall. The event was video-taped for future use in other classrooms.

The session began with individual talks by each of the two mayoral contestants. Both candidates spoke about the issues which they thought were important in the coming election and to the city.

Brett, first speaker, emphasized his concern for the city's open spaces.

"I'm a conservationist," he said. "I am opposed to the reckless destruction of our open spaces. By this I mean destruction of our woodlands, our golf courses, and our playground facilities. I want to see these areas kept clear."

"I was opposed to the State Street Bank's taking over the North Quincy marshes. Now, we are left with less of that land, and I feel that we must keep what area there is left."

"I'm not against the idea of industries coming into Quincy. We are going to have a demand for more building as Quincy becomes a larger metropolis. But it comes down to a question of losing our open spaces. I believe that all our open areas should be preserved."

Brett also emphasized his concern relative to expenditure, saying, "I am the more conservative of the two of us as far as money goes." He said that "we should do all we can to cut down on wasteful spending."

If elected, he said, he plans to form a committee of responsible and interested citizens as advisors to those people formulating the Quincy budget. The committee would be unpaid.

Brett also said he would like to see the mayoral campaign run smoothly. He said that candidates should not deal with "criticism of fellow candidates" during the campaign but, rather, should "work on a positive level."

Hannon opened by supporting incoming industries.

"Over the past few years, fiscal power on a city-wide basis has been limited due to collective bargaining and other programs. Because of this, cities have had to look for other sources of revenue. Such sources are incoming industries. The Jordan Marsh Warehouse, which I was most instrumental in bringing to Quincy, brings tax money into the city and also makes new jobs available. The new State Street Bank complex will also bring tax money and create 5,000 new jobs."

"We need new schools and new city facilities. We could ask you [the students] parents, as taxpayers, to pay for these things. I think a better plan would be to have someone else pay."

"The Jordan Marsh and State Street Bank building operations will bring in an incredible amount of new revenue. If new businesses aren't brought in to the city, the city could fall apart. I think this is the great issue. With taxes becoming oppressive, we must look to other sources of revenue."

Hannon also said he was not opposed to high rise apartments, and gave reasons why Boston's ventures of this sort had fallen apart.

"Quincy people have a fear of high rise apartments. But Boston's high rise apartments may have fallen apart not because they were, simply, high rise apartments, but because of political neglect on the part of Boston officials. We won't let that happen in Quincy. We will build up our neighborhoods and care for them."

Hannon presented his view on office holders who leave their offices in the middle of a term to seek other offices.

"All political office holders should finish their elected term. People who hold office would save Quincy a lot of money in extra elections if they were to retain their office until the end of their term."

After the two speeches, the students questioned the candidates.

Hannon, asked for his opinion on the influence of the new MBTA rapid transit extension, replied:

"I don't think there will be any great influx of people. I don't see a great rise in Quincy's population in the immediate future because of the extension. It will, however, bring new businesses into the city. The State Street Bank would never have built in Quincy unless it had the MBTA."

Both candidates were asked to comment on federal funds.

"I wouldn't do anything to keep federal funds from coming into Quincy," said Brett. "But, of course, we pay federal taxes. We send money to Washington and the bureaucrats there send some of it back. I look forward to the day when the money can be kept in the citizens' pockets."

Hannon said, "I favor President Nixon's revenue sharing program. The only way we as a city can survive is with our new projects, but we couldn't do anything without the help of federal funds."

The two candidates differed greatly on the refuse disposal problem in Quincy.

"I have always been recommending," said Brett, "one and a half million dollars for the construction of a city incinerator. I have personally seen some that give out no by-product but steam like that from a teakettle. This steam disappears in a matter of seconds. The smoke goes through a cleansing process and comes out harmless. I still believe an incinerator of this type and quality is the only solution. Some people fear dirty air from incinerators, but there are some that exude no filth whatsoever."

Hannon expressing an opposite standpoint, said:

"I am against incinerators. I feel that they are faulty. I would hate to see Quincy's landscape blighted by an incinerator. Our sanitary land-fill operations are working very well. We are now going to be at the West Quincy quarry dumps for 20 years. By the time that those 20 years are over, I feel there will be some technological breakthrough which will solve our trash problems without the use of incineration."

First Year Great Books Discussion Group Opens Oct. 19

The Metropolitan Boston Great Books Council announces that for the 19th consecutive year the Thomas Crane Library of Quincy will sponsor a first year Great Books Discussion Group.

The group, which is open to the public, will meet on alternate Tuesdays starting Oct. 19 at 8 p.m. at the North Quincy Branch Library, 381 Hancock St.

Fred Alexander of Belmont, president of the Board of Directors of the Council, commended the library and the community for its sustained interest in and support of Great Books, a world-wide liberal education program that contributes to the civic awareness and cultural development of individuals.

Alexander specifically cited the many years of enthusiastic effort given by Dr. Charles Djerf, Quincy pediatrician and civic leader, to the initiation and growth of the South Shore Great Books program. It is the largest and most active segment in the metropolitan Boston area.

Dr. Djerf organized and led the first Thomas Crane Great Books Discussion Group in the fall of 1953 and has continued to lead, support and advise local groups. He has been a director of the Metropolitan Boston Great Books Council since its inception and has twice served as president of the Board of Directors.

Dr. Djerf instigated the annual South Shore Great Books Get-Togethers, and he is vice-chairman of the Colby Summer Institute, a Great Books seminar held yearly at Colby College, Waterville, Maine.

Discussion leaders for the new Great Books group will be Mrs. Robert Burgess of Weymouth and Mrs. Roy Lawson of Wollaston. Both leaders have completed Leader Training Courses given by Mr.

Cyril Keller, Regional Representative of the Great Books Foundation.

The Oct. 19th meeting will be devoted to an explanation of the aims and method of the Great Books program, followed by a demonstration discussion of The Declaration of Independence. Authors on the first year reading list include Plato, Shakespeare, Machiavelli, DeTocqueville, Tolstoy and James Joyce.

There are no educational or financial requirements for joining a Great Books Discussion Group. All that is necessary is an interest in reading and discussing books which deal with ideas that have influenced the thinking and actions of men in all eras and areas of life.

Further information about the program and local groups may be obtained from Mrs. Jane Mudge, Great Books Coordinator, 264 Furnace Brook Parkway, Quincy.

●Along The Campaign Trail Gacia Urges Better Use Of Available Tax Dollar

Peter P. Gacia, top vote getter in the primary election for Ward 3 Councillor was honored at a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Goyette of 96 Garfield St.

Gacia said that many times throughout his campaign he has been asked why he was seeking public office. His answer, he said, has been: "I am seeking this office because it has been my desire for many years. I organized my insurance and equipment business about 17 years ago. Most of that time was devoted to building my business to a successful operation and the raising of my three children. At present both my business and family do not require as much time so that I am flexible to devote the necessary time that this office requires."

"I was born and brought up in Quincy. I like this city. It is a good city. The people are good people and I want to contribute something to them. I feel with my education and business experience I can do a good job and bring maturity in government."

Citing the problems of taxes, he said that taxes can not be reduced in the present inflationary economy.

"The great need of our time is not more tax dollars but better use of the available tax dollar. My guiding principle is that the city should spend the taxpayers money on those services and items deemed absolutely necessary and postpone the expenditures of the tax dollar on non-essential items."

"A great effort should be made towards broadening the tax base. This can be done by attracting a combination of light industry, office complexes and apartments. This diversification will not make the city's economy dependent on any one business but will bring in the needed revenue to relieve the homeowner and rent payer."

"I have met many fine people who are concerned about Ward 3 and have expressed some good ideas. I would like to see a Ward 3 Civic Association formed whereby we can meet periodically to put our ideas together and voice our opinion as one strong effective body."

Raymondi Reiterates Opposition To Outside Quincy School Busing

Daniel G. Raymondi, candidate for the Quincy School Committee, speaking at the home of Louis C. Arienti, 22 Barry St., re-emphasized his opposition to school busing programs.

Raymondi said, "I am opposed to any and all school busing schemes which would require the transportation of Quincy students to schools outside the city. It is illogically unreasonable to require Quincy parents to pay taxes for schools in this city and then be forced to send their children to other cities."

Continuing the theme of his campaign that communications must be strengthened and improved throughout the school department, Raymondi said.

"It is difficult if not impossible to establish meaningful interaction among parents, students and school officials now. Busing programs would only further complicate this problem. I cannot see the educational advantages that would compensate for the time, money and inconvenience spent in busing students."

Graham Cites Darrow St.-Manet Ave. Danger

Ward 1 City Councillor Edward S. Graham has asked the Police Department to correct a dangerous situation involving over 200 school children at the corner of Darrow St. and Manet Ave.

"Over 200 children cross this intersection daily going to and from school," he said. Cars and trucks coming off Sea St. head straight into Darrow St. at excess speeds and proceed through the intersection endangering the lives of our children."

He suggested immediate action and the implementation of the following steps to correct this situation:

-- Have the stop sign at Darrow St. and Manet Ave. reversed.

-- Install school zone speed limit signs.

-- Paint the crosswalk a solid yellow.

Harold Calls For Tuition Subsidy At Junior College

Paul D. Harold, Democratic candidate for state representative in Ward One, told a group of junior college students at his Granite St. headquarters, that he will seek state subsidy of tuitions at Quincy Junior College.

With state take over of Quincy Junior College in 1974 or 1976 tuitions will be lowered to the $200 state college level. In the meantime, however, students enrolled at the junior college pay from $600 to $700, he said.

"I don't think it's fair for these students to pay $400 or $500 more just because they are enrolled during the interim period. We should encourage these people to continue their education, not penalize them."

"As state representative from First Norfolk District, I would support legislation which would provide for subsidies of Q.J.C. tuitions to put them in line with the state college level immediately."

Harrington Calls For Ward 6 Lighting Study

Dennis E. Harrington Jr., candidate for Ward 6 City Councilor, said during a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Boyd, of 65 Conant Road:

"During the recent weeks while I have been visiting the homes in Ward 6, I have observed many areas of outdated and underpowered street lighting.

"Such condition lead to a great many accidents and to an increase in neighborhood crime.

Housebreaks and the theft of property, especially bicycles, have become a fast-growing problem and one certain way to slow this is to improve our neighborhood street lighting."

Harrington suggested that the city undertake a study of the problem in Ward 6 so that a coordinated plan could be formulated to supplement lighting in areas that are now "dark spots" and to replace with modern units those lights which are obviously outdated.

Delahunt Favors Retaining Wollaston Golf Course Land

Atty. William Delahunt, candidate for the Ward 5 City Council seat, strongly favors retaining the Wollaston Golf Club land as a recreational area.

He noted that by expanding existing facilities to include tennis courts, a swimming pool, a skating rink, basketball courts, a clubhouse area for neighborhood youths, and leisure facilities for senior citizens, the complex would be one of the best and most comprehensive in the state.

"The number of people per square mile in Quincy is already very high and available recreation areas are at a premium," Delahunt said. "The people of this area simply cannot afford to see such a particularly fine recreational facility be plowed under and be replaced with even more housing developments.

"I think that the retention of the golf club land as a recreational area capable of affording people pleasure year-round will, in future years, be seen as one of the most significant and worthwhile ventures undertaken in recent years."

The present owners of the golf club several years ago expressed its desire to relocate and consequently to sell its existing property, Delahunt said. The land on which the course is situated lies partially in Quincy and partially in Milton.

The total estimated cost of acquiring the land [36 acres in Quincy and 57.7 acres in Milton] and of developing the area to meet acceptable standards and desired needs is approximately $1.8 million to $2 million. If a governmental agency were to purchase, develop, and maintain the facility there is a possibility that federal money would be available to supplement local funds, he said.

Delahunt said that he was not committed to the notion that the land must necessarily be purchased either jointly or separately by Quincy and/or Milton. Instead, he called for a complete reinvestigation of potential approaches to the problem of acquisition and management.

He said that state law may require that Quincy and Milton seek a special act of the state legislature prior to their entering into any joint purchase agreement. Because of the difficulties involved in such a process and because of the obvious problems involved in any purchase where the purchasing party is unable to obtain jurisdiction over the entire area to be sold, he suggested that a special regional authority might be established to oversee the purchase and management of the area.

Delahunt added that, if such is not feasible, then some agency which presently does have jurisdiction over the entire area, such as the County or the MDC, begin considering the problem. He agreed that there are many problems, notably those of taxation and area management, that must be seriously considered prior to the golf course being taken over by any public agency. He felt however, that none of these problems was unsolvable and that with careful and thorough planning, the area could be a great benefit to area citizens for many years to come.

●Along The Campaign Trail Buckley Hits Out At 'Squandering' Of Money

Thomas J. Buckley, Democratic candidate for state representative in Ward 1, criticizes the legislature for squandering money.

"The legislature has been passing laws and programs which cost the cities and towns money," said Buckley. "These laws and programs have not been funded. In other words, the legislature is not providing the money and no funds have been appropriated, making it a big expense for the cities and towns to carry out these laws and programs."

Every year cities and towns throughout the state lose hundreds of thousands of dollars on the archaic way the excise taxes are collected, he said. He suggested the excise tax be collected at the Registry of Motor Vehicles when the car is registered, just like the sales tax.

Buckley said that spending on the state level has become chaotic. He pointed to the computerized automatic elevators installed in the Public Works Building, 100 Nashua St., Boston, at the cost of $200,000. Each elevator has an operator who operates the automatic elevator. Annual salaries amount to $150,000, he said.

"A businessman is needed to stop this negligent spending," Buckley concluded.

McLelland Cites 'Mature Positive Approach To Government'

Theophilus (Ted) McLelland, candidate for the Ward 3 City Council seat, says he is "taking a mature positive approach to government."

McLelland, speaking at a reception at the home of Lt. and Mrs. Peter Giglio, compared that approach to what he termed his opponent's "defeatist attitude."

McLelland said the latter in campaign statements stated "that taxes cannot be reduced."

"I totally disagree with this defeatist attitude," McLelland declared. "I say they can be reduced and submit the following facts to substantiate this position.

"Federal Revenue Sharing Plan presently before Congress which will return monies to the local cities and towns.

"Master Tax Plan presently being studied by the Taxation Committee in the Massachusetts Legislature which proposes reduction in local property taxes.

"I propose that the Federal Government take over the complete cost of the Welfare Program which is skyrocketing out of sight.

"I propose reimburse cities and towns for costs of education and school salaries.

"New state lottery which will return an estimated millions of dollars to local cities and towns.

"My five point platform which I support will and can reduce local property taxes if we have a mature, responsible, aggressive councillor who will work closely with the state and congressional delegation to bring the programs into being."

McLelland said that if elected he will encourage the new mayor to travel with him to Washington and Beacon Hill to discuss these programs for the overburdened property owner of Ward 3 and the entire city.

Davis Asks That Nominees Attend School Committee Executive Sessions

Harold Davis, a candidate for the Quincy School Committee, has asked that the six Quincy School Committee nominees be permitted to attend the School Committee executive sessions.

Speaking at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, 29 Hobomack Rd., Davis said that he believes that this would result in a smoother transfer of duties in January.

"It is now the practice of the President of the United States and other elected officials to give special briefings and permit newly elected officials to attend meetings in order to ensure that the wheels of government will function efficiently during the first few months that the new office holder takes his position.

"Especially this year when a majority of the new school committee will be composed of individuals who have never served on the committee, I believe it is imperative that the new members be aware in January of the problems and goals of the committee."

Davis said that since much of the sensitive business of the committee is conducted in executive session, the nominees will to some extent be in the dark with respect to some of the committee policies.

"I believe my proposal will enable the newly elected members no matter who they be, to more quickly contribute to the improvement of our school system."

Davis added that if the School Committee is advised that existing laws ban the attendance of newly-elected members at executive sessions then perhaps a series of briefings by the existing committee and School Superintendent would also produce a smoother transition.

●Along The Campaign Trail Give Unemployment Top Priority, Urges Brownell

Atty. Thomas F. Brownell, candidate for Ward 1 State Representative at a gathering of 40 supporters at the home of Richard P. Ward, 120 Putnam St., called upon federal, state and municipal public officials to give the unemployment problem top priority.

"Unemployment in the Quincy and the South Shore area has reached dangerous proportions," he said. "In August, unemployment rose to 7.5 per cent and it appears that it will rise even higher in September. The fact that General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard has no new contracts beyond September 1972 is cause for serious alarm."

He urged all citizens to contact Congressman James Burke to express their concern before the situation gets out of control.

In campaigning in Ward One, Atty. Brownell, said that he has discovered that the unemployment level is acute in Ward 1, especially in the Houghs Neck, Germantown and Merrymount areas. Brownell is a former Asst. Atty. General and a lecturer of government at Suffolk University.

School Budget Will Reach $20 Million, Notes McCauley

The Quincy School Committee budget will reach $20 million annually during the term of office of the successful School Committee candidates in the Nov. 2 city election, Francis X. McCauley, Quincy bank president and nominee, pointed out to over 40 people attending a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Casey of 63 Phillips St., Wollaston.

McCauley said that the School Committee will be faced with many important and expensive decisions if quality education is to be maintained during the decade of the 1970's.

He reviewed his background in banking, finance and business administration during the past 13 years and noted that if elected he would be the only member of the School Committee with a financial background.

PTA-Like Associations Needed, Says Kennedy

Christopher F. Kennedy, candidate for School Committee, at a coffee hour held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thadeus W. Kowalik, of 18 Huckins Ave., Squantum, said:

"In its heyday, PTA was criticized for its emphasis on socializing and fund raising, and for its reluctance to deal with meaningful educational and other issues. Despite the validity of much of the criticism, PTA performed a very valuable service in bringing together parents and teachers united in their common interest in the education of the children of the community.

"Unfortunately, at this time PTAs in Quincy are generally not very active. This represents the whole community's loss, because communication about education is more important today than ever before.

"In order for parents and others to understand and appreciate the types and extent of the new programs and methods currently in use, it is necessary for spokesmen for the School Department and School Committee to talk with interested groups in all sections of the city. Only in this way can information be spread effectively; and, at the same time, feedback from the community can find its way to school authorities.

"Therefore, whether it's known as PTA or by some other designation, there has to be an association of parents, teachers, students, and others, which will provide the vehicle for the communication which is so vital. In addition, if it is to succeed, it must have the active encouragement of school officials."

Prezioso, Halter Endorse Gacicia In Ward 3

Peter P. Gacicia, candidate for the Ward 3 City Council seat, has been endorsed by Fred J. Prezioso and Ronald Halter unsuccessful candidates in the preliminary election.

Gacicia said he had met with Prezioso and Halter "and we have unanimously agreed that Ward 3 requires a man with strength, education and business experience to bring maturity in government."

"They have pledged their support to me and I will pledge to the voters of Ward 3 optimum use of my education and business experience to the efficient and economical functions of government."

Bomb Malden 41-14

Undefeated Raiders Face Medford Test

By TOM SULLIVAN

Before the North Quincy football team opened its season, Coach Ralph Frazier labelled the Raiders as "explosive".

They proved in their first three games they were just that but they showed it beyond any doubt last week when they exploded for 30 points in the first period and rolled to a 44-14 win over Malden at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

This was North's home opener following impressive non-league wins over Weymouth North and South and a league victory over Revere.

Saturday the unbeaten Raiders face a major test as they host undefeated Medford in a 1:30 p.m. league game at the Stadium.

Medford bombed Somerville, 48-28, last week after wins over Chelsea, 43-0, and Boston Latin, 22-6, in a non-league match.

"This will be a big test, make no mistake about it, but our boys have a great attitude and honestly feel they can beat anyone," Frazier said.

"That 30-point outburst last week was really something. Everything just went our way and it seemed we could do nothing wrong."

"We have some fine running backs, a fine passing and running quarterback and we have the linemen to open the holes. With that combination, our offense really can explode. And our defense, inexperienced at the season's start, is coming along very well."

Frazier credited the entire offensive line for opening the holes and also hailed the secondary for covering well on passes. Despite Mike Byrne hitting on eight of 19 for 133 yards and two touchdowns, he found his receivers covered on several occasions and he was forced to run the ball.

Shining in the offensive line were Paul Cadigan, Bill O'Hare,

Sparkling the running attack again was Tom Burke, who scored on a 54-yard run on the first play of the game and netted 125 yards on the ground. Quarterback Bob McKay ran for 62 yards and two touchdowns and hit on four of nine passes, two for scores. John Linehan, who gained 58 yards, and Kevin Egan also ran well.

"McKay runs the option play very well and it paid off against Malden," Frazier added. "Tom Fitzgerald, our offensive backfield coach, worked hard on this play."

Defensive coaches Dick Meyer and Jack Bowes had praise for many players. They included Meyer, Joe Morrissey, John Harrington, Bernie Halloran, making his first start; Walter Collins, Egan, Matthews, Wayne Bell, Bob Guerriero, Billy Fong, who excelled again as a defensive back and had another interception, and another newcomer to the lineup, John Pomerole.

"They all did a fantastic job," Meyer said and his sentiments were echoed by Bowes.

Russ Smith, rangy end, caught seven of Malden's eight completed passes including those for both touchdowns.

Burke's 54-yard run gave North the lead in just 12 seconds and McKay passed to Linehan for the points.

Egan recovered a fumble on the ensuing kickoff and with only 1:57 gone in the game McKay raced 23 yards on a keeper to make it 14-0 and then passed again to Linehan for the points.

In the third period Malden scored on a 10-yard pass from Byrne to Smith on which he made a questionable diving catch. John Wilcox rushed for the points.

North came back on McKay's 21-yard scoring pass to Driscoll and the quarterback rushed for the points.

With the subs in action, Bobby Morton hit Paul Cunniff for 33 yards and then passed to Rick Paulson for an 11-yard touchdown play.

Touchdown number three came moments later on a one-yard sneak by McKay following a 41-yard pass from McKay to Carroll and runs of 18 yards by Linehan and 14 by Burke.

Fong intercepted a pass and McKay hit Linehan for a 42-yard soaring pass and Burke rushed for the points.

In that opening period North Quincy had an amazing total of 240 yards gained overall.

"Morton could be playing number one quarterback for many teams and he doesn't weaken us a bit when I use him," Frazier said. "We are lucky to have two such fine quarterbacks."

This win, incidentally, was the first for Frazier over Malden since he became head coach two years ago. Last year Byrne completed six passes in the waning seconds to give Malden a 21-20 win over North.

Quincy Looks Like Champ

Quincy's soccer team looms as the champion of the Norfolk Association and Coach Ron Martin credits the Presidents' success to "a great all-around team effort".

Quincy Tuesday sought its eighth league win without a defeat when it played at Sharon. Today the Presidents went to Avon. Next Tuesday they play Duxbury of the South Shore Association.

Meanwhile, North Quincy

with a 3-4 league mark, visited Foxboro Tuesday and today hosts Norfolk Aggies. Tuesday the Raiders go to Franklin.

Quincy ran its league mark to 7-0 last week with a 3-1 win over rival North, its second win over the North booters.

Artie Boyle, Bob Curtis and Harry England had Quincy's goals with Rich Trubiano and Pete Doucette having assists.

George Golding's North team averted a shutout in the final period on a goal by Matt Rockman with an assist for Rich Kelleher.

Earlier in the week Quincy had defeated Franklin, 2-0, on two goals by England, a native of England and the Presidents' top scorer. Both goals were unassisted.

North shut out Avon, 3-0, with Pete Joyce scoring twice and Rich Golden once. Mike Delaney, Joyce and Rich Carroll had assists.

Face Uphill Battle

Presidents Hope To Rebound At Malden

Quincy's football team, following its first Greater Boston League defeat in two years and only the second in three years, faces an uphill battle to successfully defend its title.

Hank Conroy's Presidents will try to rebound from last week's 20-8 defeat at Everett when they play winless Malden Saturday at Malden. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m.

Malden was bombed by North Quincy, 44-14, last week following non-league losses to Waltham and Haverhill, so Quincy will be trying to win by a convincing score.

"We just couldn't penetrate Everett's line and they bottled up our attack pretty well," said a disappointed Conroy whose team now is 1-2 (1-1 in the league). "There wasn't a lot of passing in the game but Jim Walker returned to action for the first time since injuring his shoulder in a pre-season scrimmage and I think our scrambling attack will now improve. He did well and it was his long pass to Dave Coull which gave us our only touchdown."

Quincy's offensive perked up in the final period when it scored its touchdown and Steve McCarthy and Bobby Malvesti again sparked the attack.

McCarthy gained 101 yards rushing and on pass receptions while Malvesti picked up 56 on the ground.

Walker passed to Bobby McDermott for the points after the touchdown.

"We know Malden is big and they have an outstanding passer in [Mike] Byrne," Conroy said. "I don't think they are as bad as the North Quincy score indicates and I expect plenty of trouble."

"Our kids have plenty of pride and they still hope to take the league championship. I don't have to worry about them being up for the game."

Walker completed three of seven passes in his first appearance of the season. Everett intercepted one of his passes and recovered one Quincy fumble. Quincy had no interceptions and also recovered one Everett fumble.

Everett scored in the second period on a five-yard run by John Ramboli.

The Crimson Tide made it 14-0 in the final period on Frank Nuzzo's eight-yard run and a conversion pass from Frank Venuto to Kevin Washington.

Following Quincy's touchdown Everett wrapped it up in the final seconds on Nuzzo's 15-yard run.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

That "THE ANDERSON TAPES" will have its gala European premiere in Glasgow, Scotland is no coincidence. Proceeds from the grand opening will benefit star SEAN CONNERY's pet charity, the Scottish International Education Trust... SUSAN HAYWARD is back! Best remembered for her 1958 Oscar winning performance in "I WANT TO LIVE", Miss HAYWARD has the femme lead opposite WILLIAM HOLDEN in the soon-to-be filmed "THE REVENGERS"... The motion picture industry goes through as many fad changes as there are days in a month. Now that the "student youth revolt" thing has run its course, watch for producers to focus their lenses on stories centering on working and suburban youth in turmoil...

Silence may be golden, but don't ask French filmmaker EDOUARD LUNTZ to espouse its virtues. His "VAGABOND HUMOR", which press screened at the recent Venice Film Festival, was critically received without any ooh, aah, or ugh... After the screening of the picture a press conference was held, LUNTZ, smiling, seated himself at a heavily microphoned table ready, willing and able to answer any and all questions regarding his debut picture... But there were none. Only blank stares of disinterest... After five minutes of squirming nervously in his chair, LUNTZ did the only reasonable thing, and fled the environment... And yes, the critics continued the embargo of silence right into their reviews, by not appraising his vehicle one way or the other...

The big film of '71 is fast shaping up to be "CARNAL KNOWLEDGE". In the short duration of only 10 weeks, this blockbuster is topping the charts at a sizzling $10 million. If this picture continues at its present pace, domestic and foreign rentals could exceed $35 million by year's end... And yes, veteran actor WALTER SLEZAK is still in the moviemaking business. You can catch him at his best in the Thanksgiving happyfest, "BLACK BEAUTY"... FABERGE, the cosmetics people, are now in the motion picture financing business. The company's initial venture will be "NUMBERS", featuring RAYMOND ST. JACQUES and an all-Black cast...

A get-well-soon sentiment to old pro FORREST TUCKER, who is ailing. He is now recuperating at his West Coast Manse after having undergone a serious operation some months back... ANGEL TOMPKINS stands a better than even chance of developing into a major star by mid '72. The ever ambitious, and talented, Miss TOMPKINS snared the femme lead opposite LEE MARVIN in the big budgeted, "KANSAS CITY PRIME"... Those who enjoy their westerns on the gory side, with heapings of violence thrown in, might find "THE HUNTING PARTY" to their liking. Personally, I'm fed up with the overexposure of any visual excess, and long for a nostalgic return to westerns in the ROY ROGERS-GENE AUTRY tradition. At least they "entertained"...

Are films in New York piano player WAYNE SAUNDERS immediate plans? Must be taking acting lessons for some reason... Several studios, both major and independent, are vying for the film rights of IRVING WALLACE's new book, "THE WORD"... Director FRANCIS FORD COPPOLA really has his hands full these days. He has to reduce 500,000 feet of "THE GODFATHER" film footage to a mere 150,000 feet... Such are the trials and tribulations of being a "name" filmmaker... MITZI GAYNOR is mulling a return to the screen, provided she can find a "clean" script... Actress VIVA would be a more publicly accepted performer, if she could only unshine herself of her "WARHOHL" underground" image. A competent PR man would do wonders for her career...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: DUSTIN HOFFMAN ho-humming the insignificance of Film Festivals: "It makes no sense to go somewhere and then spend all your time talking about cinema"... A return of silent movies you ask? Not as ridiculous as it sounds, if impresario DON RUGOFF has his way. He's negotiating a deal with silent star BUDDY ROGERS for the release of a score of MARY PICKFORD pictures... If negotiations come off smoothly, the films will be re-released commercially... And wouldn't JERRY LEWIS' Labor Day weekend Telethon have to rate as the most heartwarming event of the television year?...

Track Club In X-Country Action

The girls [and boys] of Coach Peter Gallagher's Quincy Track Club are keeping busy this fall with weekly cross-country meets.

The Quincy club and Quincy High school sponsored the latest meet last Saturday in Quincy with Quincy competing against Cambridge Sports Union, Liberty A. C. of Wellesley and Brockton High school, with a few unattached runners also taking part.

In the girls' 10-13 group Quincy earned a 29-29 tie with the much more experienced Liberty A. C., which has had track and cross-country for many years, but Liberty dominated the 14-17 group, taking five of the first seven places. Liberty won the overall meet by a comfortable margin.

In the 10-13 race Quincy's Maria Ciano won over the one-mile route in 5:35, a new record for this distance, followed by Cary Beckwith of Liberty, Debby Mueller of Liberty and Jill Seamans of Quincy.

The best Quincy could do in the 14-17 group was Cathy Glennon's 11th. Cathy Ilaqua was 13th and Sherree Tripp 14th. Cambridge and Liberty dominated the 18 and up race.

In the boys' 12 and under race Robert Nolan and Joe Flynn of Quincy finished 1-2 while Jennifer Seamans won the girls' 9 and under run.

Three girls broke Maria

Ciano's record for the 1½-mile course. Her mark was 9:02. Sara Berman of Cambridge did the distance in 8:18, Kathy Whitcomb of Liberty in 8:37 and Dede Milligan, unattached, in 8:52.

In the opening run of the year at Fresh Pond, Cambridge, Miss Ciano and Jill Seamans were 1-2 in the 10-13 event, Susan Seamans was second in the 8-9 group, Matthew Seamans second in boys' seven and under, Joyce Flynn first, Barbara King second, Rory Nohn fourth and Gertrude McManus sixth in the 11-13 event.

Saturday the Quincy team will compete in a meet at Wellesley, sponsored by the Liberty A. C.

Living, Today

'What's Your Kind Of Marriage?'

When my recent column appeared... "Pretending Not To Be Married"... I received many calls and letters [I try to answer them all.] from people who said they longed for the relationship they had had before they were married. A 46 year old wife wrote... "before we were married he couldn't keep his hands off me... now I get no affection except when he wants sex in bed. I'm lucky to get a pat on the fanny once a week. I found the first year that I'd married a mama's boy. He's irresponsible with money... doesn't take a bath unless I nag him... still has to be called four times to get him up in the mornings... puts it off he doesn't get his way. I hate his mother for what she's done to our lives."

A man wrote... "Ever since we married I've been called a financial failure... told she could run the business better than I do. She's always reminding me of what I "should" do and what I "ought" to be. I see now that all these years I was afraid of my wife... afraid of her sharp tongue... afraid of losing her. So I let her insult me... and emasculate me. Now I'm spending my evenings at the local bar. Of course, she blames me for this... but it's better than being torn apart every night." If I'd known it would be like this 15 years ago you can be sure I wouldn't have married her."

Such situations should have been corrected right at the start of the marriage. The boy spoiled by an indulgent mother makes a poor husband... unless he sees what has happened to him and wants to change. If he wants to change he can do it. But someone must show him how to be a man. The woman who emasculates her husband should have been brought up short right at the beginning... or better still before the marriage took place. This woman will never be happy until she changes her negative attitude toward men... stops trying to compete with... control... "use" her husband. Such a woman can change overnight... when she realizes what she's doing... and wants to change.

What can be done for people trapped in such marital situations? Some will say... "You made your bed... now lie in it." Not many people can accept that answer in 1971. Others may suggest to the 46 year old wife of the mama's boy... "find yourself a lover... be discreet... but satisfy your womanly needs by by-passing your immature boy-husband." That isn't what most people really want... it's a poor substitute for a loving... companionable marriage.

Try these suggestions. First... try to know why he/she acts as he/she does. It's possible that your complaint isn't valid... or that you yourself are a contributing cause of your unhappiness. It may be a temporary worry... resentment or retaliation. Or... it may be early life conditioning. Try to know why your marriage isn't working.

Secondly... calmly but firmly... talk with your husband/wife of your intolerable suffering... of your unmet needs... how you feel toward him/her... what it's doing to your relationship. Mince no words... be blunt... get your message across. If he/she is intelligent and cares at all he/she will listen... and learn from what you say. Together you may be able to resolve the painful problem. The change can be immediate.

Thirdly... I suggest professional assistance if the problem seems to go deeper than you can cope with yourselves. Some men have never had an example of a real man in their fathers... so they really don't know how to be strong... responsible... sensitive men to a woman. They need to be taught. So seek a teaching counselor... a man who can level with another man. Some women have never had an example of a warm... loving woman in their mothers. They need to learn how to feed a man's soul... how to meet her husband's needs emotionally as well as physically. If a woman doesn't know how, she needs to be taught. So seek a teaching counselor... a person who can point out without hesitation or embarrassment what a normal man needs from a woman... and how she can give it.

It's just not that difficult to be happily married. But you just can't drag along the distorted behavior of the past... and keep ramming it down your partner's throat. You can be liberated from the chains of yesterday.

5,466 Quincy Residents Immunized

A total of 5,466 Quincy residents have been immunized against influenza this year, reports Dr. Alfred Mahoney, City Health Commissioner.

The recently completed flu vaccine program was the most successful ever conducted by the city, Dr. Mahoney said.

At a mass public clinic at the Health Department Sept. 18, 3,400 injections were given, he said.

Prior to and following that clinic, 11 other clinics were held in the various sections of the city.

Some 1,796 senior citizens were immunized at the clinics, and at nursing homes and at their own homes if they were shut-ins.

All city employees were immunized at work.

Dr. Mahoney said there is a small amount of vaccine available. It is being offered at the Wednesday adult immunization clinic being held each Wednesday as long as the vaccine lasts.

The clinics will be at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., on Wednesday from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m.

EYE CHART NOT A GOOD TEST

If you have 20/20 eyesight don't assume that you have perfect vision. As the song goes: "It ain't necessarily so" - and according to the odds, probably not.

This visual eye chart test measures only your visual acuity and only at a single distance. The first number indicates your distance from the chart in feet [usually 20], and the second number is the distance at which people with "normal" vision can read a given line of letters.

But there is more to good eyesight than just visual acuity at a given distance. You can be 20/20 and have poor depth perception, poor night vision, poor color vision, poor muscle coordination, and a field of vision so limited that you're an absolute menace on the highway. You can be seriously farsighted or suffering from glaucoma and still read 20/20. In short, no simple eye-chart test can provide an adequate check on your vision.

●Along The Campaign Trail Powers Proposes Ward 5 Forum

Warren Powers, candidate for Ward 5 City Councilor has announced plans for a citizens' forum "to bring the voters of Ward 5 closer together."

Speaking before a gathering at a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Burke of 174 Warren Ave., Powers said his plan - to be called "Ward Five Forum" - would bring the residents together every eight weeks for an open forum discussion at either the Beechwood Knoll or Wollaston school. Focal point of each meeting would be "a report to the people by their City Councilor," he said.

"Many people take a cynical attitude toward government, viewing it as largely unresponsive to their needs," Powers said. "The Forum can rectify this by allowing periodic discussions on all cogent issues - taxation, zoning, drug abuse, or law enforcement. I'm sure everyone will benefit greatly from the exchange of ideas."

Powers also said he felt the Forum would help cast issues in their proper perspective, as well as greatly speed action in solving community problems.

"We are a great many people in Ward Five," said Powers, "and the only way we're going to solve some of our problems is to come together in a closer involvement. I think the Forum is a good beginning."

Houston Points To His Service As Treasurer

David R. Houston, candidate for councilor-at-large, said at a coffee hour at the home of Mrs. George P. Fandel, Jr., 94 Grandview Ave., Wollaston, that public service is public trust.

He said he felt during his five and one-quarter years as city treasurer he upheld that trust in his pursuit to save the taxpayers' money.

He noted he had initiated legislation to suspend the licenses of delinquent excise taxpayers after a hearing by the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

At a coffee hour at the home of Mrs. Peter Houston, 81 Plymouth St., Houston pointed out he earned $400,000 for the city through the investments of long-term borrowings of monies not currently needed.

He said as a result of his experience as treasurer he felt his knowledge of the intricacies of municipal government would directly benefit the residents of Quincy if he served as councilor-at-large.

LaPointe Endorses McLelland For Ward 3 Seat

Atty. Jeffrey C. LaPointe, unsuccessful candidate for the Ward 3 City Council seat, has endorsed Theophilus [Ted] McLelland for the post.

In an open letter to voters of Ward 3, LaPointe noted he would continue to be "a concerned and responsive voice" in the ward and declared:

"The future of our ward remains extremely important to me and I feel strongly that our next Ward 3 councilor must be firmly committed to solving the problems of municipal government.

"Through many conversations with Ted McLelland I know he shares these same concerns. Ted has the qualifications and intelligence to make an outstanding ward councilor. He has the unique capacity to intelligently pinpoint problems and find solutions. Ted McLelland acts when others merely talk.

"I urge each and every voter to consider his candidacy because Ted McLelland cares about each and every one of you."

Quincy District Court Clerk Dennis F. Ryan will be the emcee.

Maj. Gen. Charles Sweeney Quincy UN Day Keynote Speaker

Major General Charles M. Sweeney will be the keynote speaker at Quincy's United Nations Day Ceremonies, Friday, Oct. 22.

Gen. Sweeney who piloted the B-29 which dropped the second atomic bomb on Nagasaki Aug. 9, 1945, will meet with Quincy High School social studies students at 11 a.m. and will then participate at the noon ceremonies on the lawn of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

School Committeeman Paul C. Sweeney is UN Day Chairman.

Gen. Sweeney was born in Lawrence, graduated from North Quincy High School in 1937 and is now a resident of Milton. He and his wife Mary are the parents of 10 children.

Gen. Sweeney entered the military service in 1941 as an Army Air Corps Cadet. He quickly received the rank of pilot and in 1943 was an operations officer and test pilot at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

In 1946 Sweeney reverted to the Officers Reserve Corps-Air Corps. He was chosen as the Air Corps Technical Advisor to the motion picture "Beginning or the End", the atomic bomb story produced for the public.

Sweeney remained active in the Officers Reserve Corps. He joined the Mass. Air National Guard in 1947 and became Wing Commander retaining his flying status as Command Pilot, qualified in jet aircraft. In 1961 he was ordered to active duty by the President of the United States due to the Berlin Crisis.

In 1961, Sweeney flew his own jet fighter, personally leading a flight of 78 F-86's to Europe. All 78 fighters landed in France in record time without a single incident, a feat heretofore unheard of in the history of the Air Force.

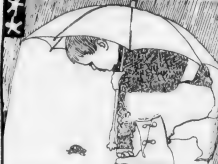

Gen. Sweeney is currently Chief of Staff, Headquarters of the Massachusetts Air National Guard.

He has been active in civic and professional organizations in the city of Boston and is a partner in Kelley and Sweeney Leather Company, Boston.

Quincy is one of many cities across the country participating in the UN Day observance.

THE WAGE-PRICE FREEZE Questions and Answers

This column of question and answers on the Wage and Price Freeze is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about the Wage and Price Freeze announced August 15 by President Nixon.

Q - Will exemptions from the freeze be granted for persons with low incomes?

A - While the Cost of Living Council has not granted formal exemptions for low income persons, it has stated that, during the freeze, the following are allowed: increases that are necessary to bring wages into line with minimum wage legislation; increases that eliminate discriminatory wage practices; increases in welfare payments; and increases in coverage or benefits under Social Security.

Q - How can a customer be sure that a seller's ceiling price for a particular item is not in violation of the freeze?

A - Under the law, the retailer must maintain and have available for public inspection a list of his ceiling prices. The consumer can request to see these ceiling prices if he has a question.

If the consumer believes that the price charged is in violation of the ceiling, he can request that the seller produce supporting records that must be maintained. If the seller does not supply supporting records, the consumer may complain to the Internal Revenue Service, which will review the complaint and follow-up as appropriate.

Experience has shown that when local IRS officials review a complaint, it frequently leads to a telephone discussion with the businessman to acquaint him with the requirements of the law. In virtually all cases, the problem has been resolved amicably.

Q - The lease on my apartment provides for an automatic rent increase of five dollars next month. Can my landlord make me pay this increase?

A - No. Rents on apartments and houses cannot be raised during the freeze, even if the lease provides for an increase.

Q - Does the freeze cover dividends?

A - No. However, the President requested that American corporations voluntarily put a ceiling on their dividends.

To comply with the spirit and intent of the President's request, corporations should not declare dividends on their common stock at a rate exceeding the effective rate declared in the most recent dividend period prior to August 15, 1971.

If, for each of the last three years, a company has either declared extra dividends at a particular time of year, or followed a pattern of variation in dividends throughout the year, it may increase its dividends according to past practice. The extra dividends, or the level of dividends declared in a fixed pattern, must not exceed those declared last year. In addition, the practices must be documented upon request.

The Cost of Living Council has emphasized that it will continue actively to scrutinize and monitor dividends declared by companies.

Q - Can an employer change his employees' health insurance plan to provide for increased benefits?

A - Yes. The employer may change to the new plan with improved benefits as long as he makes no additional contribution. Any savings realized, however, may not be passed along to employees, since this would be an increase in real wages.

Q - Are postal rate increases frozen?

A - Yes, postal rates cannot be increased during the freeze.

Gets Kiss From Coleman

She's 97 And A Rabid Red Sox Rooter

Ida Pratt has a real crush on the Red Sox and Ken Coleman.

At 97, she's quite a gal. And, don't let that 97 fool you. She doesn't look it, act it or feel it.

Mrs. Pratt lives at the Eventide Home, 215 Adams St. where she has assembled a rabid rooting section for the Red Sox.

She follows the Sox by TV and radio - loves to listen to North Quincy's Ken Coleman - "Voice of the Red Sox".

In fact, when the Sox are on the West Coast she goes to bed early, sets the alarm for 11 p.m. and gets up to hear the game.

On her 97th birthday, she sent a contribution to the Jimmy Fund. And was thrilled when Coleman announced it during one of the games and wished her a happy birthday.

A week ago, Ken's sister, Mrs. Ruth Pabst and Mrs. Edith Corey of the Quincy City Election Department were at the Eventide Home registering new voters.

Mrs. Pabst spotted Mrs. Pratt sitting with mending work-with a big Red Sox banner beside her.

She struck up a conversation with her about the Red Sox and noted that she was Ken's sister.

"Oh, do you think he might come out someday

KEN COLEMAN, "Voice of the Red Sox", chats with Mrs. Ida Pratt, 97, rabid Red Sox fan, at the Eventide Home in Quincy during recent special visit.

see me?" Mrs. Pratt asked.

Mrs. Pabst said she would tell Ken.

And, a few days later, he dropped by.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Pratt had taken up a collection among the residents.

When Ken arrived, she presented him with $100 for the Jimmy Fund.

They chatted about their favorite Red Sox for a while.

When it came time for Ken to depart, Mrs. Pratt asked him for a kiss.

He smiled and complied.

Later, he remarked: "It was the most enjoyable and inspirational visit I have ever had."

Incidentally, Mrs. Pratt says "wait'll next year."

She thinks the Sox will be back in form.

Love

Love is walking hand in hand along the ocean and the sand.

Love is humming in his ear
the soft melody

Love is talking, understanding, caring.

Love is the ache

Mirror Of My Mind

I try to see myself in my minds eye.

What is reflected there?
What have I done that was good

That I might lay by like winter grain?

Have I judged others?
Do I look for good in others?
Do I see only greed or is it a reflection in my minds eye?

To search one's soul is a hurting thing.

To find the real me an impossible dream.

The pain to great to bear.....

Fresh cauliflower sold at retail is generally wrapped in clear plastic film with most of the green outer leaf covering [the jacket leaves] removed.

The white, edible portion of cauliflower [the curd] should be clean, compact, and white to creamy-white. A slightly "ricey" texture will not hurt the eating quality if the curd is compact. If the jacket leaves are attached, good green color is a sign of freshness.

FRUITS & VEGETABLES: --
Plenty of fresh, crisp vegetables are on sale. Look for broccoli, carrots, celery hearts, cucumbers, peppers, potatoes and butternut squash for good buys.

Fresh fruits on sale are:
McIntosh apples and Bartlett pears -- great for after school eats or for just a snack.

McIntosh apples are plentiful this year where many people have and will enjoy going out to the orchards and pick your own apples.

Many of the fresh produce is at the end of the season but still can be found at roadside stands.

Best buys: Beets, carrots, chicory, eggplant, escarole,
Romaine lettuce, potatoes, pumpkins, blue Hubbard squash, trellis tomatoes, McIntosh apples, and cranberries.

will help to compensate for some of the hard work you have been doing lately. Watch health.

suddenly interested in developing your mind through ESP or the study of a related subject.

complete so plan accordingly.

Erasers are made for mistakes, but what if you eat the wrong thing? You can't erase your stomach.

True. But you can pause for a moment. You can take stock of the situation, and resolve to re-commit yourself AS OF
THAT VERY MOMENT.

Too many diets fail by the wayside waiting for the tomorrow that never comes.
Dieting is not easy—it requires discipline, self control and will and won't power.

Give yourself some will power—I will be back on my diet with the very next mouthful.
Exert some won't power—I won't rationalize that today is gone.

Norfolk County Legion Veterans Day Memorial Mass Monday At St. Mary's

The Norfolk County American Legion Council will conduct its annual Veterans Day Memorial Services Sunday morning, announces County Chaplain J. Eugene Young.

A Memorial Mass would be offered at St. Mary's Church, Crescent St., West Quincy at 10 a.m. in memory of departed comrades-in-arms.

Legionnaires and Auxiliaries are asked to assemble in the parking lot of the Morrisette Legion Post at 9:30 a.m. to march back to the post.

Bryant L. Carter, Sr., Norfolk County Legion Commander expects a large turnout for the Memorial Service.

He noted that although Nov. 11 has traditionally been acknowledged as a day set aside for veterans and the Armistice

Day of World War I, the changing of the date to the last Monday in October as Veterans Day has not affected the meaning of this national holiday.

"Observing Veterans Day on Oct. 25, in no way detracts from the hundreds of thousands of Americans who sacrificed their lives or bear the wounds of war in their efforts to obtain an honorable world peace," he said.

Tribute To A Hero

A Playground To Remember Him By

Lance Corporal Paul V. Grasso, killed on patrol duty in Vietnam May 4, 1966 was remembered by his City Sunday in the dedication of a playground in his memory.

Cpl. Grasso who was described as "a gallant Marine, a friend, a neighbor and a native son of whom Quincy will be forever proud" in a speech prepared by the hospitalized Mayor McIntyre and presented by Senator and Council President Arthur H. Tobin, used to play on the grounds now bearing his name.

"You who knew him well will recall that as soon as Paul was able to walk, his footsteps turned to Columbia Street playground and on this very spot he spent many moments acquiring, at an early age, the skills and prowess in all sports that would later earn him distinction as an all-around athlete," the mayor noted.

The Quincy athlete began his interest in competitive sports while attending Lincoln School and Sterling Junior High School. He participated in all sports while showing a special interest and ability in baseball.

Cpl. Grasso, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic R. Grasso of 195 Liberty St., played varsity baseball, football and basketball at Quincy High School. His performance with the Morrisette American Legion baseball team was so outstanding that he was given a tryout with the New York Yankees.

He enlisted in the Marine Corps and became one of the select few who were promoted to Private First Class upon graduation in 1966.

The mayor continued in tribute: "As the members of the William R. Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League dedicate this playground in his name and in his honor, let his family, his friends and neighbors be assured of the eternal pride and esteem of a grateful City.

"The test of a nation is whether or not our young men will, under trying circumstances, acquit themselves honorably on the field of battle. Fortunately, we have had over the years men like Corporal Grasso who have been willing to face our foe even without great support at home because it was their duty, it was their honor, and it was their country.

"Corporal Grasso's life and death will be an example for the young men and women of Quincy who will play in the future on this ground. It is my sincere hope that our future will continue to produce men like Corporal Grasso, for if we fail to do so then our entire nation will fail."

Lance Corporal Paul V. Grasso Playground was recently renovated. It contains play equipment for young children and a basketball court for the older children. Enclosed by a fence, the playground is used for planned recreation programs in the summer.

CAN TEETH LAST LIFETIME?

Can your teeth last a lifetime? Yes! The deep-rooted belief that you must inevitably lose your teeth as you grow older ranks among the most serious of the old wife's tales. There is no reason to resign yourself to replacing teeth with false ones. With good care, your teeth have an excellent chance of lasting a lifetime.

The greatest single cause of tooth loss in adults is pyorrhea [gum disease] and not, as most people believe, cavities. But deposits that cause this gum disease can be regularly removed through good home hygiene and by the dentist.

It's seldom too late to begin taking really good care of your teeth - and it's obviously well worth the effort. Dentures, efficient as they are, simply don't function as well as your natural teeth. For convenience and performance there are no teeth like your own.

Candidates Present Views On Issues

The 25 candidates in the Nov. 2 Quincy City election have been given the opportunity to speak out on key issues through a questionnaire compiled by the League of Women Voters of Quincy.

The public service project was carried out under the direction of Mrs. Alan Anderson, League President and Mrs. John Toland, Voter Services Chairman.

Assisting them were committee members Mrs. Thomas Stevenson, Mrs. William Scott, Mrs. David Coletti, Mrs. William Connolly, Mrs. Arthur Wahlberg, Mrs. John Kane and Mrs. David Burns.

In addition to background information, the candidates were asked two questions each on issues pertaining to the office they seek.

The candidates were requested not to exceed 150 words in replying to the two questions.

Following are those replies - printed as they were received from the candidates.

• Mayor

Question 1: In general what would you say are the most critical issues facing Quincy during the next Mayor's term of office?

Question 2: What impact do you expect the State Street South complex to have on the city of Quincy; what steps will you take to match the needs of the community with the manpower requirements of the State Street South complex?

JOSEPH E. BRETT, 254 Fenn St. Age: 64.

Occupation: State Representative. Owner package store.

Education: Boston, Quincy schools. Graduate of Dean Academy.

Previous political experience: Former City Councillor. Member Democratic City Committee, Ward 5 Democratic Committee. Member Conservation Commission. State Representative 13 years.

Answer 1: High taxes due to excessive costs of city government. Budgets must be pruned to eliminate all non-essential items and to keep cost of government within the limits of the taxpayers ability to pay. Quincy, a city of 90,000 persons, needs and deserves a full-time mayor which is what Representative Brett has pledged to be. A full-time mayor will eliminate the need for a highly paid "executive secretary" and several other part-time assistants to the mayor. Brett will operate the city on a business-like basis and city hall will not be a sanctuary for a bunch of political hacks. Essential services will be maintained and improved while non-essential services will be eliminated. The City of Quincy should be run from City Hall and not from the State House.

Answer 2: Hopefully, the State Street South project will provide enough tax revenue to offset the increased costs resulting from the influx of population which will be brought into the city and the many additional services that will have to be provided to accommodate the increased population. While I was opposed to the location of the project in the virgin marshlands abutting the Neponset River, it is now a fait-accompli and I am prepared to do all I can to make the situation compatible with the needs and desires of the citizenry of our city. The office of the mayor will be open at all times to discuss this and other matters of concern to any interested citizens of our city.

WALTER J. HANNON, 45 Forbes Hill Rd. Age: 40.

Occupation: Owner-Operator Hannon Tire Company.

Education: Quincy Elementary Schools, North Quincy High School, Graduated - 1949.

Previous political experience: Present Quincy City Councillor, Ward 5. Present State Representative - Third Norfolk District.

Answer 1: The idea of keeping the City moving; a progressive Mayor who is concerned with jobs and taxes. The MBTA - getting it out of Quincy and into Braintree; willing to make the hard decisions necessary for a good city.

Answer 2: I think State Street South will have far-reaching effects upon Quincy from the standpoint of taxes and jobs. There are very few communities outside of the Greater Boston area that are fortunate enough to have this type of a business complex building in their community.

This is by no means offensive industry-this is very desirable business that will be an asset to our community and will play a big part in the future of our city. We are extremely fortunate to have the Quincy Vocational-Technical School to train people. We have a good progressive school system that can adapt itself to match its curriculum to the needs of these new types of businesses, which we are also quite fortunate to have locate in our city.

• Council At-Large

Question 1: What do you see as the most important problem [s] in Quincy? What solution [s] do you propose?

Question 2: What impact do you expect the State Street South complex to have on the city of Quincy; what steps will you take to match the needs of the community with the manpower requirements of the State Street South complex?

ARTHUR H. TOBIN, 58 Huntly Rd. Age: 41.

Occupation: Attorney. Education: Quincy public schools, Boston College, B.S., B.A., Suffolk Law, J.D.

Previous political experience: City Councillor, three terms. Council President, second year. State Representative, five and a half years. State Senator, three months.

Answer 1: [1] real property taxes and revaluation; [2] the MBTA and [3] drugs.

I think the overburdened taxpayers of this City are seeking relief and think there are many programs being discussed and deliberated upon at this time which I feel could help in holding the line and possibly reducing local property taxes. The new Master Tax Plan under consideration in the State proposes a reduction in property taxes. The President's tax plan proposes relief from property taxes. The recently enacted State lottery proposes real taxes relief to cities and towns. I strongly supported measures which would grant relief to local property owners and will continue the leadership role in fighting revaluation. I think the reevaluation law is an unjust and unfair law which is a burden to the people.

MBTA - the success of a public Mass transportation will be how the MBTA is received and in order to be received well on the South Shore it must be convenient, clean and inexpensive. We on the local government must do all we can to work towards these goals.

Drugs - the drug menace is here as in other communities. There is an apparent need for coordinated efforts between elected officials and private organizations to combat this menacing problem.

Answer 2: I think that there will be a tremendous financial impact. I think, the proposed taxes to be received will be in the millions of dollars which will have a tremendous financial impact on the rising cost of government.

We will all work to help coordinate a complex of this magnitude which will not only bring millions of dollars to the City but will also open some 5,000 jobs.

JOHN J. QUINN, 86 Grandview Ave. Age: 48.

Occupation: Massachusetts Blue Cross District Representative.

Education: Central Junior High, North Quincy High School, Boston College [1950], B.S. Degree Economics and Government; Boston University Evening School Public Finance Courses.

Previous political experience: City Councillor at-large, 14 years. Vice-President and Dean of City Council. Chairman, Finance Committee, Public Works Committee, Ordinance Committee, Public Safety Committee, Veterans Service Committee, Federal Funds Committee, Rules Committee.

Answer 1: The most pressing problem is to continue and strengthen Quincy's good government. Our present tax base must expand in order to balance the budgets. I'm confident this goal will be reached and the fiscal future of Quincy is "bright" considering the Jordan Marsh Complex, State Street South and Kemper Insurance's planned office development.

I fought against & voted against revaluation. This issue is not concluded yet & as your Councillor-at-Large, I shall continue to resist it.

I strongly advocate a new addition to the North Quincy High School to alleviate the overcrowded conditions. Favor construction of Senior Citizens Housing in the Wollaston & West Quincy sections.

Strict compliance of the new zoning laws will protect the residential character of the neighborhoods.

Answer 2: State Street South means more permanent jobs & tax dollars to the city. While rendering a unique service to their clients. Upland Rd & MBTA must be extended southward. A traffic engineering survey must be undertaken around the State Street South, to avoid congestion. A High School - State Street South work program should be initiated.

DAVID R. HOUSTON, 33 Puritan Drive. Age: 41.

Occupation: Municipal Services Officer - Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co.

Education: St. John's School, Quincy High School, Bentley College of Accounting & Finance, Municipal courses at Harvard University, Boston College and Quincy Junior College.

Previous political experience: Mayorality appointee of Mayor McIntyre to position of Treasurer-Collector.

Answer 1: By prudent development of the 1,700 plus acres of available land already zoned for business and industry we will help to stabilize the rising tax rate. This could be done by reactivating the highly successful [Jordan Marsh Warehouse, State Street South]

Industrial Development Commission.

Answer 2: The State Street South complex, upon completion, will result in at least an additional $2 million in taxable revenues to the city. As a result of this development the city is receiving national coverage. Developers from all over the country have been here to view the project or have called or written to inquire about the project. The entire project will employ high caliber employees, many of whom will be Quincy residents. For those employees who are not Quincy residents but desirous of moving to Quincy, I propose the construction of apartment houses in properly zoned residential "B" and "C" areas, along with Planned Unit Development areas.

PAUL C. KELLY, 93 Ames St. Quincy. Age: 42.

Occupation: Graduate Boston College B.S./B.A. Graduate Boston College Law School L.L.B.J.D.

Previous political experience: Elected member Quincy School Committee - 4 years. Former member Quincy Planning Board - 3 years. Chairman - School Committee Collective Bargaining Team [1968]. Chairman - United Nations Day [1971]. Chairman - Cancer Drive 1971 - [Residential]. Vice-chairman - Quincy committee to prevent vandalism in our Schools, parks and playgrounds. Chairman - Ward 4 - Democratic City Committee.

Answer 1: One major problem facing Quincy is the increasing number of house-breaks, and there is evidence that much of it is drug-related. I advocate safer and brighter streets, special neighborhood patrols by our police and additional police personnel. Drug-addiction, closely related to the house-breaks problem, is another major concern. We must do more as a community, especially in the area of Rehabilitation. 400 addicts cannot be allowed to paralyze a city of this size. Our schools are doing a great deal in the drug education area but the community must assist now! Wollaston Beach must be cleared of addicts and pushers and I strongly advocate legislation and action to move in on this problem.

Answer 2: State Street South will be the catalyst for further development of North Quincy. The tax impact from this broadening of the base is predictable, but steps should be taken now by our officials to provide for hiring of Quincy's residents many of whom are unemployed. I expect further high-rise development in areas already zoned for that category to accommodate those employees who want to live near their work. We must also review our existing fire and police services for adequacy and make adjustments where necessary.

JOSEPH J. LARAIA, 54
Grogan Ave. Age: 39.

Occupation: Deputy Administrator.

Education: Graduate of Quincy Schools, Boston College.

Previous political experience:
Six years service as City
Councillor, 2 years as President of the City Council.

Answer 1: The most important problem in Quincy is the well being of its citizens of all ages whether it be the struggle to meet real estate taxes, the safety of the public against drug related crimes, the need for adequate bus service for the non-driving public and need for proper space requirements for our public school needs.

The safety of the public requires the deployment of additional patrolmen in residential areas, combined with the use of improved street lighting.

Our schools need expansion, particularly at North Quincy High and as councillor-at-large, I will cast my vote for the bond issue to construct this much needed addition.

The MBTA is not providing the necessary bus service to the working public and senior citizens. Review of the bus routes for improved service must be made by MBTA and local officials.

Answer 2: The State Street South complex will be one of the higher paying taxpayers in Quincy and will relieve local property taxpayers. In 1965 I voted for the construction of the Quincy Vocational School which is now providing the manpower requirements for this complex.

JOSEPH P. McDONOUGH, 65
Miller St. Age: 57.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Education: Bishop Cheverus
H.S., Suffolk Law School
[Honors] Quincy Junior College [Business Course].

Previous political experience:

Served as Delegate to Democratic National Convention, nominated by Democratic party for the offices of State Representative, State Senator, and District Attorney.

Answer 1: Taxes,
Development of police powers,
Rubbish Disposal,
Unemployment, and Protection of our environment are some of the most important problems, not necessarily in that order.
Consideration must also be given to the drugs threat as it affects all of us, and to the unique problems confronting our more mature citizens, particularly in those areas affecting the pocketbook.

The most crucial problem of course is taxes. In the ten year period between 1960 and 1970, the cost of Municipal services in our city leaped $23,465,460.
The most expensive item being Education which jumped to a
from $5,920,949 in 1960 to $15,496,131. Solution - On August 30, 1971, the Supreme Judicial Court of California rendered a decision [John Serrano vs. Ivy Baker Priest No.
938254] which bans the use of the home owners taxes to pay for the school system, legislation has already been filed in Massachusetts to grant the same relief to our property owners; passage of this legislation will give Quincy money it needs to develop more police protection, [including more illumination] and to solve the other problems indicated above.

Answer 2: Impact - terrific.
Steps to take - Train our unemployed to fill jobs which will become available.

Ward Council

Question 1: What do you see as the most important problem
[s] in your ward? What solution
[s] do you propose?

Question 2: What impact do you expect the State Street South complex to have on the city of Quincy? What steps will you take to match the needs of the community with the manpower requirements of the State Street South Complex?

• Ward 1

EDWARD S. GRAHAM, 32 Shed St. Age: 45

Occupation: Account
Executive - Revere Sugar Refinery.

Education: Boston University and Burdette College.

Previous political experience:
Ward One City Councillor
1968-1969 and 1970-1971.

Answer 1: In the area of bail reform for second and multiple offenders and drug pushers. File new legislation to set higher bails on such succeeding offense. New Court in Dedham to expedite fastier trials. Detention centers for rehabilitation and it is my intention to lobby for passage of this bail reform.

Answer 2: I expect the State
Street South complex to have a very positive impact on the City of Quincy when it is completed.
It has been estimated by many that this complex will exceed 400 Million Dollars in taxable property when completed. I believe the present Quincy City Council acted wisely to support this complex and was responsive to the broadening of the tax base. I would take whatever steps necessary to meet the needs of this new community, always bearing in mind the best interests of our City and its residents.

LEO KELLY, 29 Charles St.
Age: 39.

Occupation: Businessman.
Education: Quincy Schools, Feener School of Drafting and Design, Vaughn School of Barbering.

Previous political experience:
None.

Answer 1: A few of the many problems are the continuing rise in housebreaks and drugs, a spiraling tax rate, the need for closer cooperation with the city council and school committee.
Land erosion in Germantown and Houghs Neck, poor condition of Sea St., flooding in Edgemere Circle area, Traffic conditions on Newcomb and Spear Streets.

My solution is to know the people and their ideas of the eight civic organizations in Ward 1 and anyone who is interested in meeting with me at least once a month to discuss ways of improving the representation of this ward.

Answer 2: This complex will have the most tremendous impact this city has ever seen in terms of job opportunities, new tax revenues, increased retail sales, tourism, and use of the MBTA.

I propose that the city immediately take steps to work with all of the companies that will be using the ten structures with over three million square feet of office space to give the people of Quincy the first opportunity for employment.

64 Edison St. Age: 33.

Occupation: State Representative - 2nd Norfolk District.

Education: Quincy Public
Schools - Adult Drug Ed. Quincy
Jr. College - Suffolk University, Personnel & Administration
Courses, Marine Corps Institute.

Previous political experience:
Ward 2 Councillor since 1966.
State Representative - 2 terms.

Answer 1: I believe the most effort should be placed into municipal services rendered to the ward & residents. Along these lines the new Federal Code HUD Grant must be carefully watched & implemented and expanded to cover the entire district. Major improvements along the waterfront and assistance to keep General Dynamics a viable, healthy part of our community are most important as well. The unemployment situation is drastic and Federal & State assistance should be a prime asset in assisting to curtail the unemployment problems for Veterans and others.

The continuing improvements of residential & the small business district is most important along with proper housing. I intend to work vigorously toward meeting these problems as I have in the past and to continue to make myself aware of all the problems facing the entire city so I may understand them when asked to vote on issues effecting the entire city.

Answer 2: I sincerely feel that State Street South will have a tremendously favorable impact on Quincy & the entire South Shore. This complex when it is completed will assist the taxpayers in many ways, not only the favorable impact on the tax situation but also with possible municipal use of their computer system, employment for city residents, training areas perhaps for Voch-Tech students, intern programs and a general theme of valuable assistance & consultation on municipal matters and financing.

I expect this complex to be self-contained with security & services for employees so I do not expect a drain on municipal services now available. We all know that this will be the largest single taxpayer in the city and it is up to the new administration of the city to make sure we can implement our needs into favorable cooperation with State Street South.

Occupation: Self-employed -
Insurance and Equipment.

Education: Boston University
[B.S.B.A. degree]; Northeastern University, Quincy Public Schools.

Previous political experience:
No elected office. I have been interested and active in civic affairs.

Answer 1: In Ward 3 we do not have any one problem that is more important than another.
Several sections of Ward 3 have problems which are local in that particular area. One section of the Ward has a water pressure problem, in another section there is a flooding problem, in still another section there is a traffic control problem, noise and dirt pollution exists in another section, and an unemployment problem exists in several sections. There are also problems which are city wide such as taxes, crime, and drugs.
There are also such needed improvements as street lighting and better recreational facilities.

As I have mentioned several times before I would like to see a Ward 3 Civic Association organized so that the citizens of Ward 3 can meet periodically to express their views, arrive at a course of action and then voice their opinion in a strong and effective manner. As the Ward 3 Councillor I will listen to the voice of the people and respond to their needs.

Answer 2: I expect the State
Street South Complex to have a far reaching effect on our tax structure. This confirms my position of broadening the tax base by attracting business complexes to our city to increase city revenue.

A great many Quincy residents will obtain employment here thus increasing the total revenue received from this complex.
Non-Quincy residents will be attracted to this complex and with advent of the MBTA these people will be transported to and from Quincy quite rapidly, hopefully, with a minimum of traffic congestion. The attraction of these non-residents will have a beneficial impact on our Quincy Shopping centers.

Age: 31.

Occupation: Scientist.
Education: Quincy Public
Schools, Northeastern University, 1968 to present, following a degree in B.S. Chemical and Physical Technology.

Answer 1: The problems in Ward 3 and in the City are many and varied: Our property tax rate. The threat of revaluation, the flooding problem in Ward 3.
The deplorable conditions of our parks and playgrounds in Ward
3. The drug problem among our teenagers and young adults and the increased crime rate it causes. Traffic safety for our children. All of these are problems which require action, not talk.

Our next Councillor must be aggressive, mature and knowledgeable about the workings of municipal government.

I believe I have shown the voters of Ward 3 that I am concerned about their problems and that I can react to find solutions.

Answer 2: State Street South and the Kemper Insurance Building will create thousands of jobs, many of which will be filled by Quincy residents. With the threat of massive layoffs at the General Dynamics Shipyard, this complex will stop Quincy from becoming a depressed area.
This complex will be the largest single taxpayer in our city and will help to relieve the already over burdened taxpayers.

Previous political experience:
Present Councillor Ward Four
for past two terms.

Answer 1: One can not discuss the future of the West Quincy area without first reviewing its immediate past.
These last few years have witnessed startling changes within our city and Ward 4 and I am proud of my role and voting decisions as they relate to these progressive projects, namely:
the Re-zoning Ordinance, securing of new and vital business complexes, the MBTA, additional Senior Citizen's Housing and Medical Programs, improved Police and Fire protection, Recreational activities and numerous other civic oriented accomplishments.

Due to increased population factors within our Ward, I shall obtain Traffic Surveys and recommend strongly that funds be allocated for road improvements and construction.
I strongly advocate additional youth programs both in the recreational and civic fields.

Answer 2: This $200 million dollar State Street South Complex will have a dramatic effect on our city both as a source of new employment and a substantial tax return. It would be imperative that officials of city government and local Quincy businessmen join together to insure the full realization of this splendid venture.

This entity should also decrease the MBTA Deficit Load assessment placed on our city and it's taxpayers by substantially increasing passenger travel on its surface vehicles.

I would propose a Central City Job Agency which would be established to secure employment for interested Quincy residents at this complex or act as a Referral Department to Personnel Offices to insure that our residents receive preferential considerations.

THOMAS P. HUGHES, 30 Cross St. Age: 32.

Occupation: Director Drug Abuse Prevention and Education Unit, Norfolk County Office of the District Attorney.

Education: B.S. History/Secondary Ed. Boston State

Previous political experience: None.

Answer 1: The random placing of apartment buildings throughout the Ward is aiding in the destruction of the residential characteristics of our Ward and is considered to be one of the major problems facing the area in coming years. Many of the streets on which apartments are being built are inadequate to handle the traffic and parking generated through apartment construction. As City Councilor I would seek to change the present zoning regulations so that apartment buildings must meet the requirements of at least two parking spaces for each unit and two additional visitor parking spaces for each five units. Additionally, I believe we should consider placing apartments on streets that are of sufficient width so as to accommodate the increase in traffic and parking that is generated through apartment construction.

Answer 2: The State Street Complex will help Quincy to stabilize the tax rate and offer many job opportunities for Quincy residents. As councilor I would urge the City and the involved business to operate job seminars throughout the City hoping to employ as many of our residents as possible at the complex. Additionally, I would urge the Quincy School Dept. to work closely with the complex in developing relevant curriculum so those students seeking jobs at State Street would be properly trained to the needs of the business community.

WILLIAM D. DELAHUNT, 33 Elmwood Park. Age: 30.

Occupation: Legal Counsel to the Quincy Police Dept.; practicing Trial Attorney with offices in Quincy.

Education: Thayer Academy, Middlebury College, A.B. Political Science; Boston College Law School, Doctor of Jurisprudence.

Previous political experience: 1969 Nominee for Ward Five Councilor - lost by 42 votes to present incumbent and Mayoral candidate, Walter J. Hannon.

Answer 1: One of the most important issues involving the residents of Wollaston is the sale of the Wollaston Golf Course. The number of people per square mile in Quincy is already very high and available open space and recreation areas are at a premium. Retention of the Golf Course through the joint efforts of Quincy and Milton or the County of Norfolk would be a significant step in favor of the people of the area. The expansion of existing facilities to include tennis courts, a swimming pool, a skating rink, a ski tow and a clubhouse area for youths and leisure facilities for senior citizens would make the complex one of the best and comprehensive in the state. This would be at a minimal cost to the taxpayer as federal funds for such development are available.

Answer 2: The most obvious impact that the complex will have is the broadening of the tax base which will hopefully relieve the overburdened taxpayer. Another aspect which must be mentioned is the traffic that will result from the complex. A traffic survey should be conducted so as to protect adjoining residential areas. I would recommend a series of work seminars conducted by the newly established Emergency Employment office to coordinate efforts to match community needs with the manpower requirements of the complex.

WARREN A. POWERS, 3 Grandview Terrace. Age: 30.

Occupation: Legal assistant to the District Attorney of Norfolk County.

Education: Wollaston School-Central Junior High School; Quincy High School, Suffolk University, Bachelor of Science in Management, Suffolk Law School, Doctor of Laws.

Previous political experience: None.

Answer 1: The Drug Problem: Prevention through education and guidance is the most effective way of dealing with this problem. I support programs which will provide the most up-to-date information and equipment for the people of Quincy. I will endeavor to provide increased police protection for the areas most affected by this critical problem of our times.

The Ever Increasing Tax Burden: I will examine the capital structure of the City and analyze all expenditures in order to make a more effective use of existing tax dollars. Presently, over 58% of our tax dollar is derived from real estate and personal property taxes and only 10.4% of our tax dollar is income from the State. We must do everything possible to broaden the tax base, consistent with our new zoning plan. We must also look to other sources of revenue such as available State and Federal funds.

Answer 2: The State Street South Complex will help to curb unemployment, give us a greater tax base, will be a stimulus for other businesses and, overall, will help Quincy's economy. However, we must do everything we can to maintain the Wollaston Golf Course as a

J. VINCENT SMYTH, 184 Lansdowne St. Age: 51.

Occupation: Pres. & Treas. - J. J. Smyth Package Store, No. Quincy.

Education: Quincy Public Schools, Boston College High School, Boston College [1942] - A.B. Economics.

Previous political experience: Ward 6 Councilor - 6 years. President, City Council [1968-1969]; Chairmen, Finance Committee, 1970-1971.

Answer 1: Safety on the streets and expansion of police protection in the neighborhoods are the most vital concerns in Ward 6. I shall continue to advocate an appropriation of money for a modern and systematic neighborhood street lighting program. Adequate lighting will not only be a strong deterrent in curbing acts of violence but also will insure the safety and welfare of all citizens. More frequent patrols by the police in the neighborhoods can only result in a return of proper respect for private property.

Answer 2: The State Street South Complex will provide not only revenue in the form of taxes to help keep down the homeowner's property tax but also a new labor market for diversified talents. The city and the South Shore Chamber of Commerce should embark on a vigorous selling program to encourage the employees to shop in No. Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Square. The Quincy School Department must up-date the subjects in the business curriculum and add, where necessary, new courses designed to train students in the types of position the bank has to offer.

Occupation: Attorney-at-Law, 339 Hancock St. No. Quincy.

Education: Boston College Arts & Sciences A.B. Degree. Boston University School of Law Juris Doctor Degree.

Previous political experience: None.

Answer 1: Unrealistic Real Estate Tax Burden. The Drug Abuse among Youth. Need for funds for Parks & Recreation. Need for safer streets. Need for planned & coordinated development.

The most important problems facing Ward 6 are the unrealistic tax burden upon homeowners, drug abuse among our youth, the need for safer streets, the need for additional funds to improve parks and recreational facilities, and the need for the well-planned and coordinated development of our area.

I will support all proposals which will broaden the tax base and which do not correspondingly increase city outlay. I will continue to support all preventive drug education programs. I will seek State and Federal funds and explore all sources of funds so that our street lighting may be improved, our police protection improved and our parks and recreational facilities improved. On the Council, I will make sure that any proposed development will be such that the basic suburban character of North Quincy will not be changed so that the rights of residents will not be infringed upon.

Answer 2: The State Street South Complex will have several impacts on the City of Quincy.

First, it will be the largest single taxpayer in Quincy, and, thereby, will broaden our tax base significantly. Second, the complex, by creating employment, will improve the economic climate of our City.

Third, it will provide the impetus for further business expansion and further growth in Quincy. However, expansion must be controlled by a well-coordinated plan development so that our basic suburban character will not be changed. Proper planning is needed to insure that the rights of those located near the planned development are protected.

VOTE!

• School Committee

Question 1: To what specific issues would you give top priority during your term of office?

Question 2: How do you view the role of the Work Study Program within the concept of student education?

HAROLD DAVIS, 1390 Quincy Shore Drive, Age: 27.

Occupation: Attorney specializing in school and municipal law.

Education: Quincy schools, Thayer Academy, Magna cum laude graduate of Bowdoin College A.B. 1966; Georgetown University Law Center, Juris Doctor degree, 1969.

Answer 1: Perhaps the most pressing crisis facing the Quincy public schools is the over-crowding at several schools in the City. The situation at North Quincy High School is perhaps most acute. While moving to solve this problem as quickly and as efficiently as possible, the School Committee should act with reference to the declining birth rate in the City and projected decrease in long term school enrollment. Beyond this and other pressing problems I hope to stimulate greater community involvement in the schools and greater involvement by the students in community projects.

Answer 2: I believe the concept of a Work Study Program is fine. It obviously gives the students the opportunity to explore possible future careers by practically applying concepts learned in school. In addition, students who might otherwise not complete high school may be encouraged to complete their formal education.

The difficulties with a Work Study Program arise with its operation. For example, a pupil interested in automobile mechanics should work on car engines and not merely pump gas if he is working part time.

LEO HANNON JR., 1220 Hancock St. Age: 39.

Occupation: Realtor.

Education: Quincy Schools & Boston University.

Previous political experience: None.

Answer 1: I feel it is necessary to build an enriched curriculum tailored to what our young people need to know with a proper understanding between administration, teachers and students.

An effective drug program is needed in our elementary schools and an increased involvement in the area of rehabilitation of young people addicted to narcotics.

Increased efforts to involve more young people in Vocational education is necessary.

A personal examination of older buildings with an eye towards safety and cleanliness is necessary.

We must use our tax dollar wisely without impairing the quality of education in the City of Quincy.

Other important issues such as open campus, hot lunch program, work-study programs and inter-city busing must be dealt with an acute awareness and understanding within the next four years.

Answer 2: The Work Study Program in education is an excellent opportunity for all students, especially those who are less academically inclined.

It affords the student the opportunity to become oriented to the business world and gives them the experience needed after graduation without hindering his school his school studies since most work time is made available during their study periods at school anyway. It gives the student a sense of responsibility and closes the communication gap between the young and old.

I feel this will be a matter where some important decisions will have to be made by the school committee in the next four years. I consider this an important role within the concept of student education.

CHRISTOPHER F. KENNEDY, 27 Barham Ave. Age: 49.

Occupation: Dean of Students, Northeastern University.

Education: Boston Latin School, Harvard College [AB], Boston State College [Ed.M].

Previous political experience: None.

Answer 1: The very different methods of education and the many changes of curriculum require clarification for and understanding from parents, teachers, students, and the whole community. The School Department and School Committee have a responsibility to set up and monitor the necessary channels of communication. PTA's and other organizations must be actively encouraged to assist in this two-way exchange of information.

Vocational-technical education must receive the respect it deserves from all members of the community. College bound students should be urged to enroll in a yearly technical elective. The benefits which will accrue to all students now and in the future will also help unify the school system.

Answer 2: Work-study programs in education have long since proven themselves in college. Their introduction into high school is welcome. Young people who find it extremely difficult to discover relevance in

Candidates Night To Be Held Oct. 27 At Broad Meadows

The Quincy Education Association and the League of Women Voters of Quincy will co-sponsor a "real get-acquainted" Candidates Night Oct. 27.

The event, with all 25 candidates in the Nov. 2 City Election invited, will be held at the Broadmeadows Junior High School, 50 Calvin Rd. at 8 p.m.

of Women Voters.

• Candidates for Mayor, Councilor at-large and School Committee will then participate in small informal discussion groups with the audience on a timed rotation basis.

• Ward council candidates will have an opportunity during this time to meet informally with their constituents.

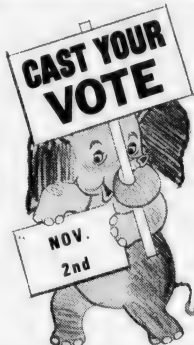

Mrs. Alan Anderson, president of the Quincy League of Women Voters and Thomas Regan, president of the Quincy Education Association urge residents to attend, listen to, question and meet the candidates.

"The League and the Quincy Education Association are certain this will be an informative and enjoyable evening for the voter," said Mrs. John Toland, Voters Services Chairman for the League.

Refreshments will be served.

FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY, 210 Manet Ave. Age: 41.

Occupation: President, Shipbuilders Co-operative Bank, Quincy.

Education: Attended Quincy Elementary Schools, Graduate Boston College High School, Graduate Bentley College Accounting & Finance, Graduate Indiana University School of Banking.

Previous political experience: Quincy City Councillor 1964-1968.

Answer 1: Top priority should be given to providing a practical education for our young people. Our main emphasis should be aimed at seeing that our children achieve a proficiency in the basic skills, the three R's. Secondly, the curriculum should be geared to preparation for college, business or the acquisition of technical skills. No longer can we afford the luxury of general educational courses which do not equip students to obtain employment after their school days are over.

Finally courses should be provided to enable our young people to have an understanding of our social, economic and political structure.

Answer 2: The Work Study Program can be a very important part of student education. For the program to be successful however, I think that students should be carefully selected so that only those who will benefit the most be allowed to participate. I also believe that the jobs offered be meaningful and be compatible with the course of study the particular student is undertaking.

DEAN PAUL NICASTRO, 45 Edison St. Age: 23.

Occupation: Instructor in classics, Boston College High School.

Education: Harvard Law School [1st yr. completed toward Doctor of Law], Harvard College [A.B. magna cum laude; Phi Beta Kappa, summa orator], Boston College High School, National Honor Society of Secondary Schools, [class valedictorian; 1st in class rank].

Previous political experience: Research & Legal Asst. to Mayor of Quincy [summers, 1968, 1969] Legal Consultant to Harvard Project for Quincy Center [summer, 1970].

Answer 1: As great numbers of our high school graduates do not pursue advanced instruction in academic areas, vocational and technical programs require a major expansion; there is need to increase the involvement of students in programs of occupational and career education at all levels on a comprehensive basis. At the same time the enhancement of academic and liberal arts schooling should be a constant goal.

Overcrowding problems will merit the most practical, economical and equitable solutions.

Answer 2: Employment of secondary students on a work-study or co-operative basis should be a community-wide project utilizing the full potential of business, industry, public service and organized labor in the areas of job placement and skills-development. From such initiatives many students could derive a first-hand work experience not matched in a formal instructional environment. On the vocational side, the learning process might avail itself of industry-owned machinery and equipment which, for reasons of expense, it would be unadvisable for the school department to purchase or rent. Moreover, increased enrollment in these programs will free classroom space for instructional use and should reduce the number of drop-outs.

DANIEL G. RAYMONDI, 16 Miller Stile Road. Age: 24.

Occupation: Law School Student, Boston College Law School.

Education: Quincy Public Schools, Holy Cross College, AB History, Boston College Law School.

Previous political experience: None.

Answer 1: Even though statistics show that only a minority of students go on to college, our curriculum is designed, principally in the academic areas. Quincy has moved towards meeting the needs of all students. A well-balanced course structure tends to reduce feelings of alienation and boredom and establish an atmosphere of relevance and challenge to the educational process.

In order to most effectively combat drug use, I would seek a better working relationship among law enforcers, school administrators and Survival.

Overcrowding in schools impedes the educational growth of our youth. Our problem is to alleviate the congestion without overburdening the taxpayer.

Answer 2: The Work Study Program may be the most effective and rational method to educate students who are not primarily interested in the academic areas. It exposes the individual to the business world and furnishes him a laboratory within which he can practically apply what he has learned in the classroom.

Harrington Endorses Nicastro

James F. Harrington has endorsed the candidacy of Dean Paul Nicastro for School Committee.

Harrington, 1969 school committee nominee was unsuccessful in his bid in last month's preliminary election.

Harrington cited Nicastro's academic credentials and experience in municipal administration as evidence of "the high level of intelligent thought and practical sense which Mr. Nicastro will contribute to the public education of the school children of Quincy if he is elected to our school committee."

"Mr. Nicastro is conscientious and dynamic," added Harrington. "He speaks specifics and not in clichés. As the second highest vote-getter in North Quincy and Wollaston combined in the recent primary election, I strongly urge the voters of Quincy to elect Dean Paul Nicastro to the Quincy School Committee on Nov. 2."

Nicastro publicly thanked Mr. Harrington for "his kind words and help" and added that "as top vote-getter in the southern parts of the city in the September primary, I especially welcome Jim Harrington's vigorous endorsement."

McCauley pointed out that as a member of the City Council he supported and voted for new school and school addition funds whenever needed.

McCauley made his remarks at a coffee hour held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Baker, 162 Warren Ave., Wollaston.

Title Hopes Vanish

Presidents Host To Somerville Saturday

Malden's football team scored five touchdowns this year against Quincy and North Quincy and every one came on a pass from Mike Byrne to Russ Smith, big end.

However, the results for the local clubs were somewhat different.

Whereas North exploded for a 44-14 win over Malden two weeks ago, Quincy was upset by the Golden Tornado, 20-16, last week at Malden, just about ending any hopes it had to repeat as Greater Boston League Champion.

The Presidents will try to come back from two straight losses - the first time in three years they dropped two in a row - Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium against Somerville. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Somerville has had little to cheer about in recent years but last week erupted for a 37-0 win over Chelsea. Previously the Highlanders had bowed to Arlington, 21-0; Everett, 42-14, and Medford, 48-28.

"We just didn't play our game at Malden and failed to cash in our opportunities," a disappointed Hank Conroy said. "Malden has a pretty fair club and Byrne is an excellent passer. It was a typical game for us, just a point or two away."

The loss gives Quincy a 1-3 overall record (1-2 in the league) and the way such teams as North Quincy, Medford and Everett are rolling, those two losses loom mighty big.

The Byrne-Smith combination, which accounted for both touchdowns against North, clicked for the three scores last week and the game winner was a heartbreaker for Quincy. It was a bomb that deflected off two Quincy defenders and went 70 yards in the final period.

"Jimmy Walker started his first game of the year at quarterback and did a good job," Conroy said. "Dave Coull was excellent as a pass receiver and Steve McCarthy and Bobby McDermott again were outstanding on offense."

The Quincy coach singled out Joe Davis, 260-pound Mike Varrasso, Joe Coner and McDermott for their efforts on defense.

Byrne hit Smith with a 14-yarder to open the scoring in the first period but McCarthy went six yards to tie it in the second quarter.

Malden did it 14-6 in the third session on a 22-yarder from Byrne to Smith and a pass to John Wilcox added the points.

Walker, who had returned to action in the second half against Everett two weeks ago and threw a long scoring pass to Coull, did it again, covering 40 yards, and Walker rushed for the tying points himself.

● Junior High Spotlight Broadmeadows Continues To Shine Under New Coach

teams were always in the thick of the Quincy Junior High League race under Coach Vin Quagge and this year's team is continuing to shine under a new coach, Bill Mitchell.

Mitchell, one of three new coaches in the league, piloted his ninth grade team to a 3-1-1 record in its first five games.

"We have a fine group of boys and I think we will give a good account of ourselves," Mitchell said. "Ted Wiedemann, Terry O'Day and Jim Forrester are our leading backs and we have two excellent ends in Mike MacKenzie and Rich Hebert."

Although the seventh and eighth grade teams aren't enjoying the success of the ninth graders, each has made some fine showings and have several exceptional players.

Playing for Steve Campana's

eighth grade team are:

Donald Allen, Phil Anastasio, Bill Carroll, Steve Coleman, John Conroy, Michael Conti, Wendell Cosgrove, Bob Dacey, Jim Dickson, Dave DiMarzio, Kevin Donovan, Paul Ferris, Lewis Fishman, Pat Foley, Chris Fox, Frank Guest, Jim Grimmer, Ron Hennessey, Rich LeBel and Bill MacRae.

Also, Brian McCarthy, Charles McDermott, Martin McDonald, Pat Moriarty, John Powers, Michael Renzi, Charles Reynolds, Michael Rooney, Steve Sullivan, Floyd Thomas, Ken Trillcott, Shawn Wallace, Tom Ward, Jim Weners and Harry Williams.

After Medford Heartbreaker

Raiders Hope To Bounce Back At Chelsea

A few weeks ago Revere pushed North Quincy's football team all over the field with a huge edge in every statistic but lost, 14-12.

North Quincy knows just how Revere felt as it seeks to rebound from its first defeat of the season Saturday at Chelsea where it meets the winless Red Devils in a 1:30 p.m. Greater Boston League game.

Ralph Frazier's Raiders ground out 20 first downs to only six for undefeated Medford last week at Veterans Memorial Stadium and gained 200 yards passing to nothing for the Mustangs. Medford did have a 238-166 edge in rushing and overcame a 20-0 deficit to edge North, 24-20.

The win gave Medford a 4-0 record [3-0 in the league] while the loss dropped North to 4-1 [2-1 in league play].

Barring a letdown following last week's toughie, the Raiders should have little trouble winning Saturday. Chelsea, which has proven too weak for the GBL, has been bombed by Boston Tech, 30-6; Medford, 43-0; Revere, 41-6 and last week Somerville, 37-0.

"I've never been prouder of these kids," Frazier said following the disappointing loss. "The way they stopped those big Medford runners was tremendous. Except for two plays [touchdown runs of 73 and 62 yards by Kevin Cunniff, who played brilliantly for Medford] and those extra point tries [Medford converted after each touchdown to provide the winning margin], our boys did a fantastic job on defense."

Frazier and Assistant Jack Bowes raved about the entire defensive unit and had special words of praise for Kevin Egan, who backed up the line well in the 4-3 defense; Bobby Guerriero, Billy Fong, John Meyer, Joe Morrissey and Bobby Morton, who made two fine pass interceptions.

Assistant Tom Fitzgerald said all the offensive backs did a fine job but singled out quarterback Bob McKay for special praise.

"I think Bob is one of the finest quarterbacks in the league and he proved it again today," Fitzgerald said. "He passed very well [12 for 22 including two for touchdowns] and again ran the option well. Very few quarterbacks can run the option like he does."

"Tom Burke was fantastic, especially in the first half, and Kevin Egan also had his best day running. And don't forget Jim Driscoll's fine punting."

Frazier hailed the work of Meyer, Bill O'Hare, Paul Cadigan, Dave Mahoney and Driscoll in the offensive live.

Quincy Bears Crush Bruisers At Boston State

In the first game of the Boston State College Intramural Football Tournament the Quincy Bears scored an upset 23-0 victory over the Bruisers, last year's intramural runnersup.

Sparked by veteran quarterback Don Smith, the Bear offense exploded on the scoreboard with his three touchdown passes, one each to John Halleran, Al Bortolotti and player-coach Brian [Buck] Buckley.

The defense was highlighted by the punishing line work of Gus Grazio, Rich Speranzo and "I can't get over how quickly Burke has learned," Frazier said. "He is a senior and hadn't played since the ninth grade. In the first game he just took the ball and ran but he has learned to block, is a fine pass receiver and has developed quickly into a standout all-around back."

NORTH QUINCY SCORING

Egan	3	0	6

Fong	1	0	6
Mahoney	1	0	6

Last week he caught five passes for 115 yards and added 53 yards rushing.

Cunniff, 6-3, 215 pounds, was amazing for Medford. He was supposed to be the Mustangs' top quarterback but played most of the game at tailback. In addition to his two long scoring runs, he made other fine runs, intercepted two passes, one on the goal line, the other in the final minute, played on the kickoff team and did just about everything.

North's pass defense was outstanding as Medford failed to connect on any of eight passes and had three intercepted.

McKay scored from the one in the first period but a rush for the points failed.

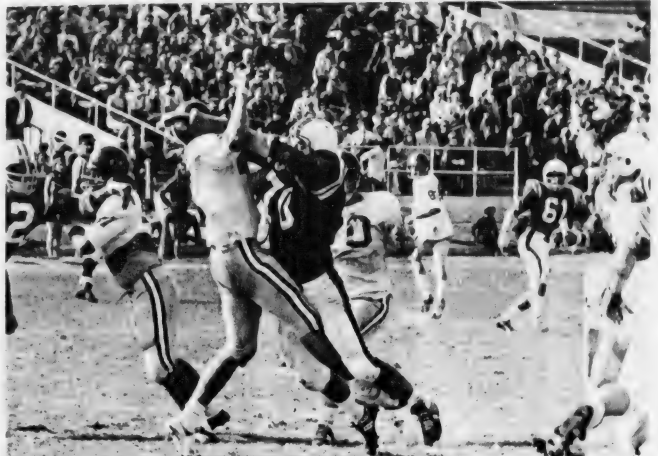

In the second period McKay hit Mahoney with a 13-yard touchdown pass and Burke rushed the points. A few minutes later McKay threw a 41-yard pass to Burke, who made a spectacular leaping catch to snatch the ball from a defender for the third TD. A pass for the points failed.

Cunniff broke loose on his 73-yard touchdown run shortly after and Bob Colenne rushed the points.

Linebacker Carlo Brogna intercepted a McKay pass and returned it 56 yards for Medford's second score and Cunniff rushed for the extra points. Cunniff also threw a key block, taking out two North players, on Brogna's return. Cunniff's 62-yarder scored the clincher in the third period and again the points were good on a pass to Chuck Finn.

Several North Quincy players were hurt with Egan and Fong suffering leg injuries. Frazier has hopes both will be back for Chelsea.

Ted Sadowski's North sophomores are unbeaten with a 2-0-1 record and his junior varsity is 2-2 following a 20-18 loss to Medford last week.

SHALL WE DANCE? Hardly, says North Quincy's Joe Morrissey as he puts the rush on Medford quarterback Kevin Cunniff in Veterans Stadium action.

Quincy Can Clinch Soccer Title Today

Quincy's soccer team, undefeated [9-0] in the Norfolk Association and 10-1 overall, can clinch the association's first championship today when it hosts Foxboro.

A win will give Ron Martin's Presidents the title and if they should falter today, they can clinch it Tuesday at Norfolk Aggies. They finish the regular season Oct. 28 at home against Franklin.

Meanwhile George Golding's North Quincy team, which last year was the undefeated South Shore Association Champ, had a 3-5-1 league mark and 4-6-1 overall record going into Tuesday's game at Franklin. The Raiders meet Hingham in a non-league game today, host Sharon Tuesday and wind up at Avon on the 28th.

Quincy moved to within a win of clinching the title with a 4-0 victory over Avon last week as Artie Boyle scored three goals. The other was scored by Rich Trubiano, whose twin brother Bob turned in another excellent job in goal. Tom Gibbons and Willy Bertrand had assists.

Earlier in the week the Presidents had nipped Sharon, 2-1, on two third period goals.

Trubiano and Boyle scored the goals with Harry England, an outstanding player from England, setting both up with fine passes in front of the goal. North Quincy outshot Norfolk Aggies, 33-12, but had to settle for a 2-2 tie as Norfolk's goalie, Russ Bragdon, was sensational.

The Raiders' goals were scored by Mike Delaney on a penalty kick and Mike Mullaney with Max Rockman assisting.

Earlier the Raiders had bowed to Foxboro, 3-0, as the Warriors scored a goal in the third period and two in the final quarter.

Sterling Tied By A-N But Undefeated

One of the Sterling Junior High soccer team's most impressive records came to an end last week when it was held to a 2-2 tie by Atlantic-North.

The goals were the first scored against Joe Amoroso's Sterling team in 15 games. The tie, however, extended Sterling's unbeaten streak to 22 games.

The tie deadlocked Leo Donovan's Atlantic-North booters with Sterling for the league lead. They are followed by Broad Meadows, Central and Point.

John McKay was the hero for Atlantic-North as he scored both goals. Bob Barris and Henry Pakkala scored for Sterling.

Sharing the spotlight, for A-N, however, was goalie Ken O'Sullivan, who made a fantastic save on a Sterling penalty kick after time had expired.

Broad Meadows blanked Point, 2-0, on goals by Ken Donovan and Joe McEachern.

The passing of the Broad Meadows forward line was greatly improved over the opening day loss to Sterling. BM had many shots but Point goalie Rick Iacobucci was outstanding.

Quincy, North X-Country Teams In League Windup Today

The Quincy and North Quincy cross country teams meet today at Medford in the final Greater Boston League race of the season for both.

The all-league meet will be run Tuesday at Medford and the annual state meet is set for Saturday, Oct. 30, over the Franklin Park course.

Tom Hall's Quincy harriers, with a 4-2 record, are favored to defeat Bob Gentry's young North team, which has a 1-5 mark.

Quincy Monday defeated Everett for its fourth win and Bobby Ciano continued unbeaten over a two-year period.

North, despite its best showing, bowed to Malden, 22-38, as Rich Malloy placed second and turned his best time, 13:54. Gary Cunniff was North's second finisher.

The Raiders last week topped Malden, 21-39, for its only win of the season.

"We just don't have that lead runner which is so necessary," Gentry said. "We are inexperienced but Malloy, Cunniff, John Murphy and Sam Salomaa have all done well."

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

A memo to all ALEC GUINNESS film buffs: Be sure to take in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts salute to this fascinatingly, versatile actor. The GUINNESS Film Festival began Oct. 5, and will continue on a once a week Tuesday basis for eight weeks, ending on Nov. 23... The two a day, 11 a.m. and 6 p.m., showings will feature such GUINNESS classics as "THE BRIDGE ON THE RIVER KWAI", "KINGS HEARTS AND CROWNETS", "THE LADYKILLERS", and the Academy Award winning "GREAT EXPECTATIONS"... The 8 motion pictures which comprise the Festival, showcase GUINNESS in every imaginable characterization, from excellent dramatic portrayals to hilarious comic interpretations... A display of an artist at his best...

While many a motion picture studio flounders around in a sea of red ink, Warner Bros. gets better, and bigger with age. Warner Bros. began away back in the era of silent movies. Over a span of more than 50 years this studio has been churning out pictures at a prolific rate... To give you an idea of this company's productivity, "SKIN GAME" is its 1,500th release to date... ALI MACGRAW and RYAN O'NEAL were chosen as Photoplay magazine's favorite actress and actor of the 1970-71 season. And favorite film you ask? "LOVE STORY"... natch!... And yes VICTOR BUONO is still making movies. He is at his villainous best in the Italian oater, "BOOT HILL"...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: ARTHUR DREIFUSS, founder and president of New Age Productions, commenting on the value of making pictures geared to the taste of general audiences: "A good story should be treated for what it is worth - nothing more, nothing less. This business of throwing every popular element into the pot and coming up with a plastic bouillabaise is never going to work"... DREIFUSS viewpoint on producing a film with a certain age audience in mind coincides with this critics own view when he said, "I don't believe films should be made specifically for young audiences any more than they should be made for middleage filmgoers"...

MICHAEL CAINE, director MIKE HODGES, and producer MICHAEL KLINGER are placing all bets that lightning will strike twice with the soon-to-be-filmed "SCANDAL". All three were associated with the highly acclaimed and publicly received "GET CARTER"... And, oh yes, while talking about MICHAEL CAINE, another director BRIAN HUTTON has big plans for him. James Bond plans... Seems that HUTTON is all set to direct the next Bond caper, and will do so with the proviso he has cast approval of the James Bond character. And of course, he wants CAINE, and no one else. Should be interesting to see what develops... CAINE may have other ideas...

Producers may be shying away from making pictures suited to an all children audience, but this doesn't mean that there still aren't plenty of children's films available. Walt Disney and MGM have several lined up for immediate reissue. The former is set to release "PINOCCHIO", and the latter company will do likewise with the nostalgia classics, "THE YEARLING", "CAPTAIN SINBAD", [my childhood favorite], "KIM", and several in the "LASSIE" series... What more could a parent ask for... Would you believe a cowboy version of all things, Shakespear? Well, you'd better. "JOHNNY HAMLET", a western version of the classic, is being readied for release for March of '72... The feature stars the comebacking GILBERT ROLAND...

How to ruin a Sunday afternoon department: Do what I did several weeks ago and become confused trying to piece together the muddled plot of a fic titled "DEEP END"... The ending, no I'm not going to give it away, makes no sense whatever with the basic theme of the picture. Namely, a young boy falls in love with an older woman... At first, I thought I was witnessing a mild comedy. By the middle of the picture I changed direction completely, and became engrossed in what I assumed was a dramatic love story. But the last 2 minutes threw me... Why the violence? There was no need for it... I really don't understand the thinking of some of our "younger" filmmakers. They'll do anything to shock, offend and upset the equilibrium of the viewer...

However, if you do insist on seeing "DEEP END", and judge for yourself, be advised to do so at the end of the week, when nothing else can go wrong anyway. But please, never on a Sunday afternoon... What a way to begin a week... For a young lady with so few films to her credit, FLORINDA BOLKAN is one remarkable actress. She gets better every time I see her... Her newest release is "THE ANONYMOUS VENETIAN", highly recommended because of Miss BOLKAN's acting, and strong script... Just one mans opinion of course, but I can't understand why producers insist in casting the rather dull RICHARD BENJAMIN in romantic leads. A CLARK GABLE he ain't...

Wouldn't you say DEAN MARTIN's come a long way as an actor since his first solo film, "10,000 BEDROOMS". For those too young to recall, this was his first release without JERRY LEWIS. "BEDROOMS" didn't click, but MARTIN did two years later in "THE YOUNG LIONS"...

What makes "JOHNNY GOT HIS GUN" such a moving anti-war film is the no-holds-bar script of DALTON TRUMBO. And no wonder... TRUMBO is the author of such screen classics as "EXODUS" and "THE SANDPIPER"... So what's in a name? PETER MARK RICHMAN, now of televisions "LONGSTREET" was, until just recently, billed as plain old MARK RICHMAN... With the PETER added on, RICHMAN probably figures his career will last that much longer... Baseball's VIDA BLUE has the acting itch. He recently signed with the prestigious WILLIAM MORRIS Agency, filmdoms top booker of talent... And while on the subject of athlete-actors, scratch the name TONY CONIGLIARO. His value has diminished since his exit from the playing field...

Weymouth Rotary Club Big Band Night Nov. 5

The Weymouth Rotary Club will hold its seventh annual "Big Band Night", Friday, Nov. 5, from 8:30 to midnight, at the Surf in Nantasket.

Recreating the sounds of the famed "big band era" will be John Savini and his band of 15 musicians, many of whom played with the greats of that nostalgic period.

Included in the program of old favorite arrangements are Benny Goodman's "Let's Dance", Tommy Dorsey's "Song of India", Duke Ellington's "Take the 'A' Train", Glenn Miller's "Moonlight Serenade", "In The Mood", "String Of Pearls", Stan Keaton's "Opus in Pastels", Les Brown's "Bizet Has His Way" and Harry James' "You Made Me Love You".

Prior to the regular performance, The Weymouth Rotary Club's "Young Big Band" will conduct a concert. Comprised of Weymouth students who play the "Big Band Sound", the group is directed by David Brayton, Weymouth School Music supervisor, and John Hoffman. Both are members of the Rotary.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Rotary's Scholarship and Community Funds.

General Chairman for the "Big Band Night" is Fire Chief James Stevens. Dr. Lloyd Hazen is ticket chairman.

Rotary Club officers are: Frank S. Lagrotteria, president; Robert D. Hunt, vice president; Wesley Culver, secretary; Edward Cipullo, treasurer; William Elliott, sergeant-at-arms.

Club directors are: Lawrence Casse, Robert D. Hunt, Frank S. Lagrotteria, Francis Martin, Norman Reilly and George Rugman.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Adults Are Going To School'

Our children are back in school this fall...so are thousands of adults...on the college campus...adult education courses at night in our towns...skill and talent developing courses...therapy groups. People in large numbers are trying to improve themselves...to dispel loneliness...to learn how to be happy. The curriculum ranges from auto mechanics to zoology.

There is probably no area where as many people need educational "refreshing" as in the area of human relations.

I've had many requests for a group where people may study under my leadership life problems in relationship to other people...how to live happily with a husband/wife...how to cope with a rebellious child...what to do for a senile parent...how to get along with an unreasonable employer. We're beginning such a group on Friday morning, October 8 [10:00 - 11:30] and people who enroll can expect to grow personally...and find some new solutions for some old problems.

I suppose the relationship which is bringing more unhappiness to people than any other is marriage. When we're unhappy at work at least there's the reward of the paycheck at the end of the week. But in marriage...if the partners are unhappy with each other every other aspect in their lives is colored by that unhappiness...and no superficial reward offsets it. Part of the problem in marriage is that as little boys and girls we didn't learn how to relate to members of the opposite sex. The result is that large numbers of men do not know how to live happily with a woman...large numbers of women don't know how to live happily with a man. Love alone won't make a marriage work. If there isn't trust...respect...desire to please a man as only a woman can...as only a man can please a woman...there's inevitably going to be unhappiness...and there's no "paycheck" to pick up at the end of the week to offset the unhappiness of the week.

What are some of the things which we will study in the therapy group which are making people unhappy in their marriage? High on this list for both men and women is lack of affection...lack of feeling close to the other person...literally being lonely while married. If the man lives in a shell and will not share his life with his wife she will probably feel unfulfilled...spiritually alone. If a woman doesn't really trust her man...[and perhaps she doesn't trust and respect any men]...then her husband is going to find it impossible to get close to her and will live a frustrated life until she changes this or he leaves her. Affection includes more than making love in bed...this will likely be thwarted if they can't be close at other times. The therapy group will seek solutions to the affection problem.

Then there's lack of agreement...genuine commitment and plans arrived at together and carried out according to plan. Both husbands and wives need to know what they can count on...know how the partner is going to come through. In therapy we learn how to reach decisions together and carry them out.

Another is appreciation. A wife who recently went to work said..."I never really appreciated my husband until I took this job...I don't have to work like the woman with four children...I was spoiled and didn't know it...I've learned to appreciate a man more than I ever did." Wives also need to have appreciation expressed to them. Both the male and female ego needs to be fed with appreciation.

I believe that the feeding of our human spirits is a primary aspect of marriage. Right here is where many husbands and wives stub their toes...they go along doing what they want to do...doing for the partner not what the partner needs or wants...but the way "my mother did it"...or just as likely..."I just assumed he'd/she'd like it." You couldn't run a business that way...you can't run a successful marriage that way either. Unless it's injurious...give your partner what he/she wants...even if the whole world looks askance. When you're left alone the whole world isn't going to care very much about your lonely feelings. If you don't know your partner's desires and feelings...find out. How? Ask him...ask her. That's what we call communication...and that helps a marriage to be happy too. In the therapy group we'll learn how to be more pleasing to our partners.

Every marriage is an individual entity...no two are alike...no two men are alike...no two women are alike. Each person must learn what his/her partner likes...and then if at all possible...if it isn't injurious...give it happily. There should be rewarding happiness worth much more than a "paycheck".

If you need some help along these lines call me and enroll in our new Therapy Group starting October 8.

At Least Seven New Faces To Be Elected

70% Vote Forecast For City Election Tuesday

Quincy voters will choose their first new mayor in six years next Tuesday in the feature attraction of the city election.

A heavy voter turnout is expected to cast ballots to bring about one of the most momentous government change-overs in Quincy's history.

City Clerk John M. Gillis sees 70 per cent of the city's 47,978 eligible voters going to the polls.

The polls in the 39 voting precincts will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In addition to a new chief executive, Quincy will have new faces in at least six other elective municipal posts:

- One new councillor at-large.
- Two new ward councillors.
- Three new school committee members.

All of those posts are being vacated by incumbents.

On the ballot in addition to the 25 candidates is a referendum question asking voters to approve or disapprove granting of licenses to operate Beano games. The "yes" or "no" question reads: "Shall licenses be granted in this city for the operation, holding or conducting a game commonly called BEANO?"

Although the mayoralty campaign between contender Joseph E. Brett, 64, and Walter J. Hannon, 40, never really heated up, major interest will be focused on that race next Tuesday.

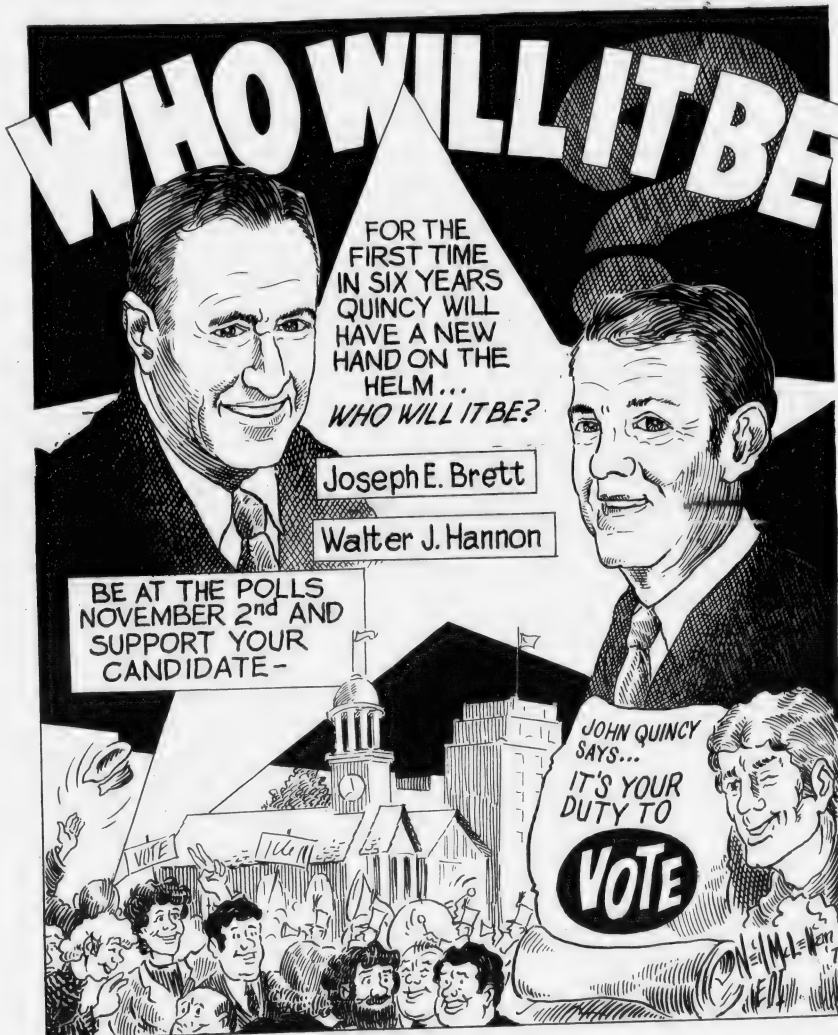

The two contenders, both state representatives, have carried on low-key campaign since winning the two nominations last month.

Most political observers found it to be an unusually quiet mayoralty race especially with an open seat up for grabs. Mar have found it considerably du

Some observers, however, think there may be a sudden burst of action before the week is out.

The winner will succeed James R. McIntyre who decided to bow out after three terms

In Their Own Words

Brett, Hannon: 'Why I Want To Be Mayor'

By JOSEPH E. BRETT

First, let me express my gratitude to the Quincy Sun for giving the candidates the opportunity to outline some of their views relative to the election of a new Mayor of Quincy for the first time in several years.

I have entered the contest for the office of mayor because I believe my business background and political experience as a former city councillor and a state representative for 13 years qualifies me to perform the duties of the office of mayor in a manner which will best represent the desires and best interests of all of the citizens of our city.

To begin with, I have pledged to the people of Quincy that, upon my election as mayor, I shall resign my position as state representative so that I shall be able to devote my full time to the administration of city affairs.

We've all heard the old saying, "No man can serve two masters", and I believe

"Why Do I Want To Be Mayor and What Will I Do For Quincy If Elected?"

That was the question put to the two mayoral candidates by the Quincy Sun for this exclusive feature and public service to the voters of Quincy.

The Sun invited contenders Joseph E. Brett and Walter J. Hannon to answer this -- the key question in next Tuesday's city election in their own words.

By WALTER J. HANNON

I would like to be Mayor of the City of Quincy because I feel it is important to keep our city moving forward.

After serving eight years in the City Council, being 40 years of age and having five children, I am totally committed to living and working in this city. I am very interested in where Quincy is going in the next few decades.

Many people think of Quincy as a suburb, and it is, but it is also a city and it has to act like a city.

People want the city to acquire the Wollaston Golf Course, they want a skating rink, and an $8 million addition to North Quincy High School. I support all three of these proposals, but that means money. Schools are absolutely necessary, skating rinks and the acquisition of golf courses are the luxury type things for a city, and yet I feel that we should have all three.

A number of years ago I could foresee some of the

• Youth Speaks Out

A World Of Numbers And Names

By LAURA CAMERON
Grade 12
North Quincy High School

The value of humanity is decidedly underrated in today's school systems. The emphasis has been misplaced on marks and memorization, at the cost of human relations and interpersonal contact.

In school you are usually a number, 521125 or a name, to be included on lists or placed on seating charts. The question has often changed from, "How are you?", to "What did you get on the College Boards". In classes you frequently know more names, dates, and places than your classmates, another misplaced emphasis.

The value of humanity and human interaction is that while schoolwork will be forgotten, friends and skills in dealing with people will be remembered and useful long after graduation. The knowledge of the sum of an arithmetic progression, or the third person form of the German verb "tun", may be forgotten, but the example of a good teacher or friend will help in the struggle against a dehumanizing society.

Today's society continues to number people and disregard human characteristics. This trend must be balanced with a move toward the other extremes, of seeking company for its own sake.

I feel the subject of the value of humanity to be important because it is one of the more important lessons I've learned in high school. On days when everything is going badly, and school seems impossible, a kind word from a friend makes it seem worth living again.

In a world of numbers and names, the fact that the guidance secretary knows you and is proud of a recent achievement of yours can mean a great deal. The knowledge I keep from high school may not be the fact that $C = 2 \text{ Hr}$, but the remembrance of a good teacher. My memories of history will not be that Jackson was elected in 1828, but that facts must be interpreted by humans to be meaningful.

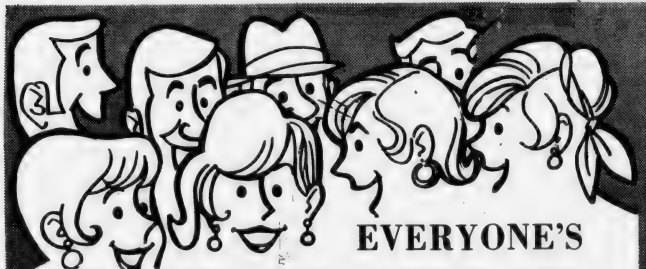

This knowledge of people, and the need for human interaction are the only things that are going to make this year liveable, for teachers and students alike.

I think that for the sake of mankind, human experiences should be emphasized even at the cost of grades and statistics.

- California Governor Reagan paid no state income tax last year, and yet he complains about the high number of people on welfare.
- Students at Quincy High were going to have an assembly about apathy, but no one could be bothered.
- Politicians in Quincy have confused two sports — the hockey rink has become a political football.

- Vice President Agnew is worried he might not be on the ticket in 1972, which might seriously affect his wristwatch and tee-shirt sales.

THE WAGE-PRICE FREEZE Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on the Wage and Price Freeze is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about the Wage and Price Freeze announced August 15 by President Nixon.

Q - My health insurance program at work is having its annual "open season". It's only at this time that an employee can increase his benefits or change programs. Is this considered a fringe benefit prohibited by the freeze?

A - No. The fringe benefit prohibition does not apply to those benefit programs that, according to established practice, require an employee to exercise his right to join a program or to increase his benefits at a single specified time during the year or lose the opportunity to do so for at least a year. In such an instance, the employee may exercise his right even though the specified enrollment time falls within the freeze period.

Q - Where can I find the Policy Statements of the President's Cost of Living Council on the wage-price freeze?

A - Basic decisions of the Cost of Living Council are initially published in the form of questions and answers as well as declarative statements. They have appeared in most newspapers throughout the country. These decisions are subsequently published in the "Federal Register" as Economic Stabilization Regulations and Circulars.

Q - Can the bank that's financing my home mortgage loan increase amounts paid as "points"?

A - Since the variation of points is principally a function of interest rate changes, points are not subject to the freeze. Nevertheless, in keeping with the spirit and intent of the President's wage-price freeze, the level of these points should be no higher than that during the base period.

Q - Are customers entitled to inspect a store's records of prices prevailing during the base period?

A - Sellers must maintain lists of ceiling prices and customers have a right to inspect the lists on an item-by-item basis. If a customer questions the accuracy of ceiling prices for goods or services, the seller is encouraged but not required to show the supporting records of transactions on which the ceiling prices are based.

Sellers, must, however, provide all lists and supporting records to federal employees responsible for investigating complaints.

Q - What is the policy governing salary increases for teachers under the wage-price freeze?

A - The eligibility of teachers for pay increases is determined by the date each individual teacher became eligible to accrue wages at a higher rate. If this date was earlier than August 15, the increased rate of pay stays in effect through the freeze. Thus, the eligibility of any single teacher does not per se qualify everyone else. Each teacher's eligibility is determined individually on the basis of his or her terms of employment.

A loan or advance against future wages is not considered to be an accrual of wages.

the city's chief executive. He has yet made no public endorsement of either candidate but a number of his followers are known to be in the Hannon camp.

The most active campaigning has been for council at-large, school committee and in Wards 3 and 5.

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, 41, and John J. Quinn, 48, are the only two council at-large incumbents seeking re-election. George B. McDonald is vacating his seat.

Contenders for the three at-large seats are: Former City Treasurer David R. Houston, 41, School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly, 42, former City Council President Joseph J. LaRaia, 39, and Atty. Joseph P. McDonough, 57.

In Ward 1, Councillor Edward S. Graham, 45, is challenged by Leo Kelly, 39.

Ward 2 Councillor Clifford H. Marshall, 33, won't have to sit up and wait for the returns to come in. He is running unopposed and thus all but officially re-elected.

In Ward 3, Peter P. Gacicia, 46, and Theophilus [Ted] McLelland, 31, have been hooked up in a hot campaign duel to succeed John F. Koegler who vacated the seat to become Quincy's new forestry director.

Ward 4 Councillor Albert R. Barilaro, 50, is opposed by Atty. Thomas P. Hughes, 32, son of late Police Chief Joseph P. Hughes.

Ward 5 has another good race going between Atty. William D. Delahunt, 30, and Atty. Warren A. Powers, 30, for the post vacated by Hannon to run for mayor.

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth, 51, is challenged by Atty. Dennis E. Harrington Jr., 29.

Six contenders - most of whom have carried out vigorous campaigns - seek three vacant seats on the School Committee. They are:

Atty. Harold Davis, 27; Leo Hannon, 39; Christopher F. Kennedy, 49; former City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, 41; Dean Paul Nicastro, 23 and Daniel G. Raymondi, 24.

The three open School Committee seats are those of Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick who ran for mayor in the preliminary election last month; Mrs. Alice Mitchell and Miss Ruth Scanlan, both of whom decided not to seek re-election.

If School Committeeman Kelly is successful in his bid for City Council at-large, it would mean a fourth new face on the School Committee. He would have to vacate his seat to serve as councillor.

Poet's Corner

A Tribute To Trinity Lutheran

The following poem was written by B. Bernard Turnquist, a member of Salem Lutheran Church, and dedicated to Trinity Lutheran Church at the latter church's recent Diamond Jubilee Banquet.

A group of young Finns, just arrived from abroad
United in faith, to worship
They praised the good Lord, many hymns have they sung
Using the language of their mother tongue.

They worshiped for years on Suomi Road Through sorrow and joy they all shared the load
And from 1896 to 1949
They worshiped on the hill, their good Lord Divine.

Down through the years, times change, that is true
The language and customs that these folks all knew Are really much different so that by now
English has overruled Finnish, somehow.

And in their new church down on Roberts Street Since 1949 that's where they all meet
And tonight all celebrate 75
May they continue to keep this church alive.
B. Bernard Turnquist

FRUITS & VEGETABLES:
As the season comes to a close on fresh vegetables, so does the specials. Most of the vegetables will be shipped in from Florida, California or Mexico. Beets, escarole, carrots, yellow onions, sweet peppers, potatoes and butternut squash are considered good buys.

Oranges from Florida is on sale on the fruit counters. Also apples of all varieties are on sale along with McIntosh apples, Red Delicious and Macouns.

MASSACHUSETTS FARMS:
Fresh apple cider is available in heavy supply at most roadside stands. Now is the time to pick some up through November regardless of the price. Fresh, pressed cider with no preservatives added is an excellent drink for the young and old.

Pumpkins are abundant this year with its large size too. With Halloween coming up, decorate your home with pumpkins, Indian corn and gourds.

Best buys: Broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, cranberries, escarole, romaine lettuce, parsnips, green peppers, potatoes, pumpkins, butternut squash.

Rabbit better hop a freight

By JOHN SINOR
Copley News Service

The harvest moon is coming up. I went outside to water the garden, but the garden was gone. I said: "What the — WHAT HAPPENED?"

The long, big-leaved squash plants were nothing but thin little green wires.
There was NOTHING left to the strawberry plants.

The giant pumpkin plant (up to 100 pounds, the seed envelope said) was cut back to a few little stubs of vine.

We had a rabbit named Robert who ran away after eating all our flowers in the back yard. He had never touched the vegetable garden, but he LOVED flowers. (I figured he'd run off to deflower the rest of the neighborhood.)

"It's the new rabbit," said a child. "He ate 'em."
I said: "WHAT new rabbit? Who ordered any new rabbits around here?"

It seems we do have a new rabbit. A big, white, pink-eyed rabbit. A vegetarian rabbit.

"Mike dropped him off," I was told. It seems the oldest son had a friend who had a rabbit. Since the friend was going to college . . . Since we had a fenced-in yard . . .

I said: "Go find my will. I want to scratch that kid's name out."

I planned to harvest that big up-to-100-pounds pumpkin for Halloween. I was going to make a jack-o'-lantern big enough to scare the ships at sea.

A moppet said: "Now will we have to buy a pumpkin to carve up?"

I said: "I guess so. However, I may also carve up a little something so we can have rabbit stew on Halloween."

They said: "You CAN'T hurt the rabbit. We LOVE it."
(I swear, if a dragon strayed into our yard, they would LOVE it. I wouldn't be allowed to touch it.)

Well, I do not LOVE that rabbit. (I might like it a little bit, if it were under glass. With mashed potatoes on the side.)

But, I did LOVE that garden. I put kinks in my back, dirt under my fingernails, and dents in the budget with that garden.

It was to be an organic garden. No sprays, no powders. A worm in every other tomato, maybe, but strictly organic.

I said: "We're going back to nature, people. Back to the land. Land sakes, it gives a man a good feeling to work with the earth."

Now, the garden is gone. All that remains is one little cherry tomato plant. (I guess the rabbit passed on the tomatoes.) What can you do with a handful of cherry tomatoes?

Then I remembered reading you could use a cherry tomato instead of an olive when making a martini.

It's true. And I sat down and finished up the rest of the garden that evening. Singing "Shine On, Harvest Moon."

"Of course I said I'd work harder if you promoted me. Haven't you ever heard of campaign promises?"

Would you believe your doctor would like to see less of you?

Well, I don't mean that he clutches his stethoscope in anguish every time you walk into his office. What I do mean is that most likely he would prefer to see you with a few pounds off.

Overweight is considered the number one health hazard in the United States; it either had adverse effects on a disease you may have, or it may in itself cause poor health results.

And that is why your doctor would like to see less of you—I understand that some doctors think that weight loss where necessary, will help with all health problems—even raggedy hangnails!

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Four From Quincy In Handel And Haydn Concert

Four Quincy residents will perform in the opening concert of Handel and Haydn Society Concert, Oct. 29 at 8:30 p.m. in Jordan Hall, Boston.

They are Christopher Lindbloom, 2 Davis St., David Moore, 50 West Elm Ave., Quincy; Archimedes Sanchez, 177 Whitwell St., and Christine L. Frens, Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston.

Thomas Dunn will conduct the concert which opens the 157th season of the Society.

Highlighting the program will be the production of Francaix's puppet opera "Le Diable Boiteux" [The Lame Duck]. Staged by the Pickwick Puppet Theatre of New York and directed by Larry Berthelson, this satiric tale is about a devil who goes about tearing the roofs from houses and uncovering the private lives of their inhabitants.

The program will also feature the Society's 100-voice chorus in Sweelinck's "Psalm 150", a brilliant setting for eight-page chorus by the famous Dutch organ virtuoso of the turn of the 17th century.

Not all solemnity, however, it includes clever imitations of the musical instruments mentioned by the psalmist. Members of the Boston Philharmonic will perform J. C. Bach's Symphony in G Minor and Stravinsky's Dumbarton Oaks Concerto.

Tickets are on sale at Society's office, 416 Marlborough St., Boston or at the Jordan Hall box office [536-2412]. For further information, call the Society's office at 536-2951.

A Tribute To Trinity Lutheran

The following poem was written by B. Bernard Turnquist, a member of Salem Lutheran Church, and dedicated to Trinity Lutheran Church at the latter church's recent Diamond Jubilee Banquet.

A group of young Finns, just arrived from abroad, united in faith, to worship and pray. They praised the good Lord, many hymns have they sung. Using the language of their mother tongue.

They worshipped for years on Suomi Road. Through sorrow and joy they all shared the load. And from 1896 to 1949 They worshipped on the hill, their good Lord Divine.

Down through the years, times change, that is true. The language and customs that these folks all knew. Are really much different so that by now. English has overruled Finnish, somehow.

And in their new church down on Roberts Street. Since 1949 that's where they all meet.

And tonight all celebrate 75. May they continue to keep this church alive.

B. Bernard Turnquist

FRUITS & VEGETABLES: As the season comes to a close on fresh vegetables, so does the special. Most of the vegetables will be shipped in from Florida, California or Mexico. Beets, escarole, carrots, yellow onions, sweet peppers, potatoes and butternut squash are considered good buys.

Grapes from Florida are on sale on the fruit counters. Also grapes of all varieties are on sale along with McIntosh apples, Red Delicious and Macouns.

MASSACHUSETTS FARMS: Fresh apple cider is available in heavy supply at most roadside stands. Now is the time to pick some up through November regardless of the price. Fresh, pressed cider with no preservatives added is an excellent drink for the young and old.

Pumpkins are abundant this year with its large size too. With Halloween coming up, decorate your home with pumpkins, Indian corn and gourds.

Best buys: Broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, cranberries, escarole, romaine lettuce, parsnips, green peppers, potatoes, pumpkins, butternut squash.

SPLASHDOWN '71 — The stylish way to go out in the rain this fall and winter: wear a quilted cotton. Miss Gallery opts for blue denim trimmed with fake lamb's fur at the collar and cuffs for a cozy and comfortable look.

ROOM AT THE TOP — The wide-shouldered look of the Forties is given a Seventies flavor in this artful design by Cuddlecoat. In quilted cotton strewn with pink and red flowers, the coat is styled with a semi-cape over long full sleeves.

Rabbit better hop a freight

By JOHN SINOR
Copley News Service

The harvest moon is coming up. I went outside to water the garden, but the garden was gone. I said: "What the — WHAT HAPPENED?"

The long, big-leaved squash plants were nothing but thin little green wires.

There was NOTHING left to the strawberry plants.

The giant pumpkin plant (up to 100 pounds, the seed envelope said) was cut back to a few little stubs of vine.

We had a rabbit named Robert who ran away after eating all our flowers in the back yard. He had never touched the vegetable garden, but he LOVED flowers. (I figured he'd run off to deflower the rest of the neighborhood.)

"It's the new rabbit," said a child. "He ate 'em."

I said: "WHAT new rabbit? Who ordered any new rabbits around here?"

It seems we do have a new rabbit. A big, white, pink-eyed rabbit. A vegetarian rabbit.

"Mike dropped him off," I was told. It seems the oldest son had a friend who had a rabbit. Since the friend was going to college . . . Since we had a fenced-in yard . . .

I said, "Go find my wife. I want to scratch that kid's name out."

I planned to harvest that big up-to-100-pounds pumpkin for Halloween. I was going to make a jack-o'-lantern big enough to scare the ships at sea.

A moppet said: "Now will we have to buy a pumpkin to carve up?"

I said: "I guess so. However, I may also carve up a little something so we can have rabbit stew on Halloween."

They said: "You CAN'T hurt the rabbit. We LOVE it."

(I swear, if a dragon strayed into our yard, they would LOVE it. I wouldn't be allowed to touch it.)

Well, I do not LOVE that rabbit. (I might like it a little bit, if it were under glass. With mashed potatoes on the side.)

But, I did LOVE that garden. I put kinks in my back, dirt under my fingernails, and dents in the budget with that garden.

It was to be an organic garden. No sprays, no powders. A worm in every other tomato, maybe, but strictly organic.

I said: "We're going back to nature, people. Back to the land. Land sakes, it gives a man a good feeling to work with the earth."

Now, the garden is gone. All that remains is one little cherry tomato plant. (I guess the rabbit passed on the tomatoes.) What can you do with a handful of cherry tomatoes?

Then I remembered reading you could use a cherry tomato instead of an olive when making a martini.

It's true. And I sat down and finished up the rest of the garden that evening. Singing "Shine On, Harvest Moon."

"Of course I said I'd work harder if you promoted me. Haven't you ever heard of campaign promises?"

Week of Oct. 28 - Nov. 4

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - If you're not a genius, don't try to act like one - it could boomerang. Put more stress on cooperating with others.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Luck will be with you if you don't force issues in career matters. Forcing things only brings trouble this week.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Watch your spending - save a little so you will have something to show for your labor. Health needs attention too.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - The family circle is unsettled and causes rebellious action on your part. You need to consider a creative hobby.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Rather than spend your energy in fighting, put it to good use cleaning up all those unfinished projects.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - To build your self-assurance and help further your plans for the future, surround yourself with comfortable people.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - If you have a pet project going, you can win the support of others by acting with courage and faith.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - If your home has been upset by quarrels, get busy on housework and repairs and forget your differences.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Don't dissipate this lucky period with aimless enjoyment. Roll up your sleeves and grab that opportunity.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - By taking up creative work or a hobby, you can rid yourself of a lot of drudgery. Changing jobs helps, also.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Your magnetic field is vibrating and you can get what you want [including romance] - use persuasion, not force.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Aimless drifting gets you no where, examine where your difficulties lie and turn energy toward improving that area.

Would you believe your doctor would like to see less of you?

Well, I don't mean that he clutches his stethoscope in anguish every time you walk into his office. What I do mean is that most likely he would prefer to see you with a few pounds off.

Overweight is considered the number one health hazard in the United States—it either had adverse effects on a disease you may have, or it may in itself cause poor health results.

And that is why your doctor would like to see less of you—I understand that some doctors think that weight loss where necessary, will help with all health problems—even raggedy handhalls!

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Four From Quincy In Handel And Haydn Concert

Four Quincy residents will perform in the opening concert of Handel and Haydn Society Concert, Oct. 29 at 8:30 p.m. in Jordan Hall, Boston.

They are Christopher Lindbloom, 2 Davis St., David Moore, 50 West Elm Ave., Quincy; Archimedes Sanchez, 177 Whitwell St., and Christine L. Frens, Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston.

Thomas Dunn will conduct the concert which opens the 157th season of the Society.

Highlighting the program will be the production of Francaix's puppet opera "Le Diable Boiteux" [The Lame Duck]. Staged by the Pickwick Puppet Theatre of New York and directed by Larry Berthelson, this satiric tale is about a devil who goes about tearing the roofs

from houses and uncovering the private lives of their inhabitants.

The program will also feature the Society's 100-voice chorus in Sweelinck's "Psalm 150", a brilliant setting for eight-page chorus by the famous Dutch organ virtuoso of the turn of the 17th century.

Not all solemnity, however, it includes clever imitations of the musical instruments mentioned by the psalmist. Members of the Boston Philharmonic will perform J. C. Bach's Symphony in G Minor and Stravinsky's Dumbarton Oaks Concerto.

Tickets are on sale at Society's office, 416 Marlborough St., Boston or at the Jordan Hall box office [536-2412]. For further information, call the Society's office at 536-2951.

this applies particularly to the point that the Mayor of Quincy can't be in City Hall and the State House at the same time.

Both the office of mayor and the position of state legislator are time-consuming jobs and, if someone is trying to do both, something has to be neglected. It's just physically impossible to be in two places at the same time. If Joe Brett is elected mayor, he will spend his time in the one place he should...that is in the Mayor's office.

One thing I plan to encourage when in the office of mayor is "Citizen Participation". We hear this term spoken of frequently in rather pious terms but I propose to stimulate even greater citizen participation in the government of Quincy by keeping in close contact with the various civic groups throughout the city which represent a myriad of viewpoints from all facets of our population.

This can be accomplished by a full-time mayor as he will have the time to discuss and listen to the views of all, whether they have a special interest for themselves or a greater interest in the welfare of the entire community.

In another area, that of examining the annual budget requests of the various city departments, I plan to set up some ad hoc unpaid special committees of qualified citizens to examine and review carefully the various budgets and to submit to the mayor their recommendations as to areas where some money can be saved by avoiding duplication of services and eliminating any waste, inefficiency, or unnecessary services.

I feel sure that, with careful scrutiny of the budget requests, sizeable reductions can be made in the costs of our city government without, in any way, curtailing the important and necessary functions of the city.

In 15 years of public service in City Hall and at the State House, I have gained the reputation of being a conservative in financial matters.

I have voted often against expenditures, which, in my judgment, were not worthy of the costs involved in administering them. Many times, we all have desires to have something we would like but, when we consider the effects on our pocketbooks, we have to put our desires aside for the time being, at least.

For example, I have always longed to have a Cadillac automobile but my better judgment prevails and I still drive a Rambler. I have the feeling that the people of Quincy don't want the "big spenders" in City Hall; that they would rather have the candidate who will watch over the spending of their money as he does his own, in other words a financial conservative.

The city of Quincy is going to grow tremendously in the years ahead. It shall be one of my foremost tasks to see that such growth is properly directed so that the many desirable qualities of our city are not destroyed and that housing requirements and other needs of the growing population can be met without creating undue hardship and severe financial strain upon our fellow citizens.

With expertise I have acquired through 15 years of public service and my position in the legislature as chairman of the Committee on Urban Affairs, I believe I have the qualifications necessary to operate the government of the city of Quincy in a manner which will prove beneficial to the present citizens and taxpayers and to the generations which will follow us.

It is therefore with appropriate modesty that I commend myself to the voters of Quincy as one who will devote his full energies in the best interests of all our citizens if they see fit to elect me to the office of Mayor of Quincy on Election Day, Nov. 2.

Hannon

problems that we were going to have and the expense that would be involved. The MBTA was coming to Quincy and the MBTA was going to cost us a lot of money. As Chairman of the Industrial Development Commission, I seriously accepted the challenge of bringing in new business and industry to the City of Quincy. The reason for this is to try and offset the additional expenses of many of the programs that I have just mentioned.

We had a tax increase this year of $10. Without the Jordan Marsh Warehouse, it could easily have been $15. The State Street South project will be a tremendous asset to the City of Quincy. The two most important things State Street South will provide for Quincy are jobs and taxes.

Without my filing of the necessary legislation, State Street South would not be a reality in the City of Quincy. I did this, knowing full well of the possible loss of a few hundred votes, but it was with the best interests of the entire city that I was concerned.

The General Dynamics Shipyard, which plays a large part in the economic fate of Quincy must be kept active with ship-building contracts and I am prepared to meet with the Congressional delegations in Washington to see that we get our share of Government shipbuilding contracts.

Quincy has an abundance of skilled labor. We must increase this skilled labor force, through our Vocational-Technical High School and the Quincy School System. The schools must adapt their curriculums to meet the changing job requirements that are needed in today's society. As Mayor and Chairman of the School Committee, I will continue to work to maintain quality education in the City of Quincy.

We must have Senior Citizen Housing in the northern end of our city. Most of our Senior Citizen housing has been concentrated in the Germantown and Quincy Point areas. I would encourage both public and private development of this much needed aspect of Senior Citizen requirement.

The recreational facilities in Quincy have always been very good, but I feel that there has to be a new direction and imagination put into them. There are many areas that are completely under-developed and could be made into excellent recreational facilities. I will do everything I can to retain the Wollaston Golf Course as a municipal golf course for the benefit of the citizens of Quincy.

Faxon Park, a completely under-developed area, should be brought to its fullest recreational potential. There is a tremendous gap in our recreational program for the 14-18 year olds, and I think some new ideas have to be brought about to bridge this gap for the development of young people in those very critical years.

With all this work to do, I, Walter J. Hannon, age 40, father of 5 children, want to be mayor of our City of Quincy.

If elected, I feel I have the programs, and the enthusiasm to progressively meet the challenges that are facing every major city in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

THE KEY TO LONG LIFE

Experts on longevity have always believed that the key to long life depended on an inherited tendency to live long. That the surest way to a long life was to have two parents and four grandparents whose lifespan totaled 500 years.

However, in a recent study made in the geriatric division of Duke Medical School on 500 volunteers, the results may have thrown this theory out the window. It concluded that the most important factor affecting longevity is work and satisfaction with work. If a person, therefore, is happy in his work, or way of life, and keeps busy after retirement, he will tend to live long. Other important factors were found to be happiness, good physical functioning and abstinence from smoking.

Curiously, however, the study found no correlation between a person's length of life and his family's history of longevity.

●Along The Campaign Trail Armory Rally, Motorcade For Brett Saturday Night

A mammoth rally and reception honoring Rep. Joseph E. Brett will be held Saturday beginning at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Armory, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Leading national, state, and city officials have been invited to participate. A motorcade through Quincy Center will precede the reception.

In addition to the motorcade and reception there will be entertainment and refreshments served. The general public is invited to attend. Admission is free.

Coordinators for the reception are Russell DiMaggio, Laurence J. Curtin and Frank McNally.

Brett is a candidate for Mayor of Quincy and has been touring the city on a platform that Quincy needs a full-time Mayor. He has pledged that if elected Mayor he will resign his seat in the House of Representatives at the end of this year.

Speaking before a large gathering at a rally in his honor held at the Walter Scott Hall, South Quincy, by the Ward 3 Committee to elect Brett Mayor, the mayoralty candidate reaffirmed his position.

Brett said that the duties of the Mayor's office are such that a full-time Mayor is needed.

"I shall bring the city government back to the people and be available at City Hall to listen to the people. I shall also invite citizens participation in affairs of Quincy. I will ask citizen participation on various committees to assist in improving our city government," said Brett.

He told his South Quincy audience that one of the saddest days in his political life was the loss of Ward 3 as part of the district he had represented for many years.

He expressed grave concern over the decline in employment at the General Dynamics shipyard and said he would cooperate in whatever way possible with Congressman James A. Burke to secure new contracts for the plant.

Laurence Curtin, master of ceremonies, praised Brett for his stand on legislation favoring the proper observance of all legal holidays. He also mentioned that Brett was active in defeating a city council order signed by the Mayor that would require the taking of homes and business establishments for an addition to the Ross Parking area.

Joseph Sullivan, Vice-President of the State A.F.L.-C.I.O. Labor Council, said that Brett had voted consistently for the working and union man and that by so doing, Brett was voting for the people, the average person who works hard for what he can get.

Sullivan pointed out that Brett had been endorsed by the Massachusetts and Norfolk County Labor Councils.

Brownell, McGowan Resume Ward 1 House Seat Campaigns

Nominees Thomas J. Brownell and John W. McGowan resumed their campaign this week for state representative in Quincy's Ward 1.

Brownell, Democrat, and McGowan, Republican, who won their party nominations in last week's special primary election, will square off in the final showdown Nov. 16.

Brownell was the top vote-getter in the primary, polling 1,494 votes.

McGowan won the GOP nomination with only 551 votes. His opponent, John J. McNally had 272 votes.

Runner-up to Brownell on the Democratic ticket was William A. Dwyer with 1,122. Behind him were Paul D. Harold, 638 and Thomas J. Buckley, 367.

Some 4,565 voters - or 40 per cent of those eligible in Ward 1 - turned out. This was more than twice as many as forecast.

'Fear Of Partner Control'

When two strong personalities marry...there may be conflict. Each wants to be in control...to take charge. The co-chairmanship system may not work too well without clearly defined roles and functions.

There are several "control patterns" in marriage...the most common in our times is that of the domineering woman and the recessive or passive husband. The second kind is where the man is "head" of the family...he is so recognized both in word and action. How tight a ship he runs depends on the man himself. Children know the responsibility and disciplined love of the father...and the warmth and tenderness of the mother...which is what everybody seems to want...and when this comes off everybody in the home falls well.

The third kind is where nobody seems to be the leader of the family group...few if any rules...what few there are aren't enforced...there isn't much order...the home is more like a rooming house...except the monetary load falls on the father...the cooking on the mother. Children do pretty much as they please...and often feel neglected because nobody really cares.

Right now I'm concerned with the pattern competing for control. There are several ways in which people control each other. One is by belittling the other...ridiculing...making light of name calling... "you act like a two-year old"... "stupid"... "you're not a man." If these make the other partner fighting angry...the name caller gains control...he/she won that round because angry explosions seem to mean he/she can't take it. We all have our vulnerable spots. Those who play this "control game" quickly learn the partner's Achilles' heel and try to put the knife in at that point. Ego destruction of one or both partners is the result.

A man often exerts himself by controlling the money...doling it out sparingly...even grudgingly...thinking to prove his power...his control. Women retaliate by controlling the sex department...even to the point of psychologically castrating the man. That has a tendency to bring him "under control"...rather viciously...but sooner or later she loses her man...or he loses his manhood.

The children are caught in a trap between two domineering parents...often living in fear of the violent quarrels of their father and mother. "I remember how I used to lie in bed and shake when my parents fought at night"...said one 28 year old woman trying to overcome her present nervousness and resistance to me. "Most of their quarrels were at night"...she said... "I guess that's because they weren't together during the day time...and at night it was the sexual struggle." Isn't that sad...night time should be one of the happiest parts of the day.

So...how are these domineering partners...each hell bent for control...ever to resolve this power struggle and find happiness together? It's a big problem for many because too few women will admit to being domineering...too few men seek help to resolve the situation. Both are guilty of denying that "this is our problem." Getting the problem in clear focus is a big step toward solution. Projecting blame to the other in a sort of shouting match is a common part of this "controlling game"... "You did say my mother spoiled everything at the party"... "My mother had no more to do with it than your father...he was drunk the whole time." Each of these punches are supposed to score points...but they don't resolve the control problem. No one wins.

The first step to resolving the power struggle is to accept the fact that "I am domineering in nature...good or bad...that's what I am...and I have to decide how this can work out in a marriage. I must start with self control...by not doing what hurts...I must become aware and sensitive to how I hurt."

Secondly...Respect the dignity of the partner as a person...a man or a woman human being. Attack the thing you don't like in the control struggle...not the person. Your wife may not function as the tender...loving...warm woman you need. Rather than accuse her of being a "fish wife"... "just like your mother"... "you man-hating witch"...make it clear that "I will not be subjected to this sort of indignity...either stop it or lose me."

Nor should a wife endure the indignities and belittling which the controlling husbands deal out...put your foot down...put on your best dress and go out for the evening. Behave yourself...but a few times of these and a smart man gets the message.

The best solution is talking through rationally as two strong business men might. Imagine you're each president of a large corporation...you both want to merge. Decide on the sort of merger you want...whose to be "in charge" of different departments...who writes the checks...who supervises the children...and when...and how. Decide what you'll handle "together"...where either may be aggressive...in answering the telephone...accepting invitations...showing affection and initiating love-making.

There's no one right way to run a marriage...I just think there needs to be shared responsibility...clear understanding...and respect for a man as a man...for a woman as a woman. Get it clear which you are!

South Shore Cancer Unit Presents Crusade Awards

Cancer Crusade awards to 1971 South Shore campaign leaders were presented at the second annual Crusade leadership reception at Sherry's, Monday night.

The program was conducted by the South Shore Cancer Unit and included leadership volunteers from several area communities.

Unit president Pasquale S. DiStefano, 1971 Quincy Crusade chairman, and co-chairman James Sheets reported record-high Crusade totals in all Unit communities, including Quincy's $17,000 total.

Awards were presented by Unit director Joseph E. Brett of Quincy to recipients from Quincy, Weymouth, Randolph, Hingham, Duxbury, Foxboro and Halifax.

A message of congratulation was read by DiStefano from 1972 Massachusetts Crusade chairman, Lt. Gov. Donald R. Dwight who was unable to be present.

In congratulating the South Shore Unit, Dwight expressed confidence that the 1972 Massachusetts Crusade would reach its goal of $1.8 million.

DiStefano also expressed special thanks to Mayor James R. McIntyre for his continuing support of Quincy Crusade efforts. It was also announced that plans are fully underway for a "Sword of Hope" benefit dance to be held next March. Unit co-chairman of the special event are Mrs. Raymond C. Southwick and Mrs. Alfred J. Grazioso of Quincy.

For the first time in 1972, the Unit will coordinate Cancer Crusades in member communities of Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Randolph, Hingham and Cohasset, DiStefano said. Serving as 1972 national chairman will be motion picture personality Joan Crawford.

Among those from Quincy cited were Paul C. Kelly, residential chairman; William D.

Delahunt, special gifts; Frank P. J. DiCesare, business and industry; Mrs. Albert D. Stiefel, clubs and organizations, Arthur Keough, publicity; John J. Farmer, treasurer.

● Along The Campaign Trail McCauley Calls Busing Pupils Outside Area 'A Disgrace'

Francis X. McCauley, nominee for the Quincy School Committee, termed the busing of school children from one area to another for the purpose of achieving racial balance, a national disgrace.

In the San Francisco area, elementary school children are bused up to 25 miles a day and spend almost as much time in transit as they do in the classrooms, McCauley said.

In addition, in an era of ever-rising school costs the tax dollar should be spent for education and not for unnecessary transportation.

McCauley also said that the busing program now in effect in many areas of the country is opposed by both black as well as white parents.

McCauley promised that if elected to the School Committee he would strongly oppose any attempts to bus school children in or out of Quincy.

McCauley made his remarks at a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wardrop, 58 Curtis Ave., Quincy Point.

Hughes Scores Zoning Variances For Apartments

Thomas P. Hughes, candidate for the Ward 4 City Council seat, speaking at a recent coffee hour, said "The new zoning regulations, while adequate on paper, are being eroded by the granting of variances, particularly in regards to the erection of apartment buildings in many areas of the city."

Hughes said he "would urge the City of Quincy to take another look at the zoning regulations, particularly as they apply to Residence B areas as the present regulations are aiding in the destruction of the residential characteristics of our neighborhoods."

"Apartment buildings should not be built," he said, "on streets that are inadequate to handle the traffic and overflow parking generated through their construction."

Hughes said that "if elected he would introduce a resolve seeking to change the minimum requirements so that there would be at least two off street parking spaces for each apartment unit and two additional visitor parking spaces for each five apartment units."

"In addition," he said, "he would also be in favor of placing a requirement on street widths so that apartments would only be built on streets that were wide enough to accommodate the increase in traffic generated through their construction."

Bus Tokens Should Be Available At MBTA Stations Says Kelly

"The MBTA has been trying covertly to force Quincy bus patrons to pay an additional 20 per cent fare," asserts School Committeeman Paul Kelly, a candidate for Councillor-at-Large.

"A quiet but effective campaign has been waged by MBTA officials to discourage and eventually discontinue the use of tokens on local bus routes formerly serviced by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company," he said.

"These tokens reduce the bus fare from 30 cents to 25 cents, but many Quincy citizens are being required to pay the full fare, merely because these tokens are not easily obtainable."

"The tokens can be purchased at the MBTA garage on Hancock Street at four for one dollar."

"These tokens should be offered for sale at all rapid transit stations, and their availability should be well publicized."

"We have seen the effectiveness of a media campaign to inform patrons about fare regulations such as 'exact change' on local bus routes. However, the MBTA seems to ignore fare regulations which save the rider money, such as the use of reduced-fare tokens on buses."

"I am therefore requesting the MBTA to institute the sale of tokens at all rapid transit stations in Quincy, and to publicize their cost, use, and place and hours of purchase."

"Public transportation has become an expensive service, especially to those on fixed or limited incomes."

"We must not, and must not allow the MBTA, to discourage the use of money-saving features on their buses."

Major Ronald Ross At Air Force Command

Major Ronald D. Ross, son of Mrs. Mary A. Ross of 73 Waterston Ave., Wollaston, is attending the U.S. Air Force Command and Staff College at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Major Ross is one of more than 600 select government officials and officers from U.S. and allied armed forces enrolled in his class. The curriculum covers advanced military leadership, management and use of aerospace forces.

The 10-month program* is part of the Air University's professional education system to prepare officers for higher command and staff positions.

The major, who has served in Vietnam, attended Quincy High School. He received his B.A. degree in 1966 from Syracuse [N.Y.] University.

Major Ross' wife is the former Marcia A. McGuire.

Quincy Orchestra, ENC Choir In Joint Concert Oct. 29

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra and Eastern Nazarene College "A Cappella Choir" will appear in a joint concert Oct. 29 at 8:30 p.m. at Weymouth North High School auditorium. It will be the annual Benefit Concert co-sponsored by the Protestant Social Service Bureau and the South Shore Council of Churches.

The choir will be directed by Prof. Gregory Larkin, and the orchestra, conducted by Prof. Robert E. Brown. Both are members of the faculty of Eastern Nazarene College.

The program will feature the orchestra performing the first, second and sixth movements of Handel's "Water Music", the "Triumphal March from Aida" by Giuseppe Verdi, "Buglers Holiday" by Leroy Anderson, and the "King and I" by Richard Rodgers.

The chorus will present: "Song of the Open Road" by Norman Delio Joio, "Adoramus te" by Giacomo Perti [1661-1756], "Las Canas" by Joan Brudieu [d. 1591], "Brazilian Psalm" by Jean Berger; Spirituals: "There is a Balm in Gilead" - Arr. Dawson, "In That Great Gittin-up Morning" by Hairston, and "Polly Wolly Doodle" - Arr. Kubik.

The program will close with the chorus and orchestra playing "Finlandia" by Jean Sibelius, composer, and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" arranged by Wilhousky.

Presidents Get Set For Weymouth North

Quincy's football team, which unleashed a furious ground-air attack last week to return to the win column, takes a day off from Greater Boston League action Saturday when it travels to Legion Field in Weymouth to meet Weymouth North of the Suburban League at 1:30 p.m.

A year ago Quincy barely nipped North, 14-13, and Coach Hank Conroy expects plenty of trouble again, especially after Weymouth's impressive 20-6 win over Waltham last week. North also upset Lowell, while losing to Brookline by only two points, North Quincy and unbeaten Newton.

Quincy's defending GBL champs outscored Somerville, 44-22, last week at Veterans Memorial Stadium to snap a two-game losing streak. The win gave the Presidents a 2-2 league record and 2-3 overall mark.

"We did a great job on offense but I am still a bit disappointed in our defense, which has been spotty all year long," Conroy said. "Steve McCarthy [171 yards rushing] was again outstanding and I feel he is one of the best running backs in the state."

"Steve has some fantastic moves and a great change of pace. And Bob Malvesti also ran very well once again. He is all over the place and also has some good moves."

"Dave Coull, whom I consider one of the finest pass receivers in the league did another excellent job [two TD catches, one a leaping beauty] and Jimmy Walker is coming along well at quarterback. This was only his second start after being injured and he ran and passed well, despite a pulled leg muscle in the second half." [Walker was 7 for 13 passing including three for touchdowns].

Conroy hailed Joe Coner's performance in the line and also singled out Dave Sten, a big sophomore playing his first varsity game. He and another huge soph, 260-pound Mike Varrasso, played well. Also coming in for their share of praise were Jim Hanlon, a two way standout who started at fullback on offense, Rick Silva at safety and Joe Davis and Allan Franzipane at defensive end. Junior Paul Creedon played a good deal on defense and recovered a fumble late in the game.

"Three of our reserve backs played more than usual and I was impressed with them," the Quincy coach added. "Pete Garcia, George Sisti and Jim Warren all ran well. It is pretty tough to play behind such standouts as McCarthy and Malvesti, but they showed today they can run."

Quincy gained an amazing 522 yards overall, 391 on the ground and 146 through the air. Somerville, which, despite only one win, has moved well all year, had 236 on the ground and 123 passing.

McCarthy raced 65 yards on the second play of the game to put Quincy on the score board and then kicked the extra point.

Walker hit Malvesti for a 22-yard gain to the two and John [Duke] Whitney drove across for his first touchdown of the year.

After Pat Scrima scored for Somerville and Tom Wilson added the points, Coull made a great jumping catch of a Walker pass in the end zone for a 28-yard scoring pass.

In the second quarter Wilson scored for Somerville and Quincy bounced back with a 31-yard picture pass from Walker to Bob Walter, who caught the perfect pass in the end zone for his first touchdown.

In the third period Malvesti scored from the three and McCarthy went 12 yards for his second touchdown.

In the final period Wilson scored for Somerville and Scrima added the points. The final Quincy score came on a 15-yard pass from Walker to Coull. McCarthy kicked the point.

● Junior High Spotlight Sterling A Grid Powerhouse Past, Present And Future

Last year the Sterling ninth grade football team won the Quincy Junior High championship under Coach Lou DiMartini.

This fall, under new coach Dana Smith, the Sterling team is again at the top of the league. So are the seventh and eighth grade squads.

Sterling last week edged Broad Meadows, 8-6, to run its record to 4-1 and drop BM to a 4-2-1 mark. The league title could be decided tomorrow [Friday] when Sterling faces North-Atlantic, which was 4-1-1 as of last week.

"These boys have done a great job and so have the seventh and eighth graders," Smith said. "Our quarterback, Joe Tocchio, has done an outstanding job as has flanker back Preston Carroll. Among our top linemen are Jerry Durante, Dave Gosselin and John Columbus. All have excelled both offensively and defensively."

Members of the ninth grade squad are Bob Bennett, Bruce Berardinelli, Phil Boire, Steve Canale, Bob Carrelia, Preston Carroll, John Columbus, Danny DiBona, Paul DiChristafaro, Jerry Durante, Scott Dunn, Dave Gosselin, Mike Goyette, Gary Haskell, Jack Kenney, Jim LeVangie and Dick Lucier.

Quincy X-Cross Country Team In State Meet Saturday

Quincy's cross country team is the city champion and will compete in Saturday's annual state meet over the Franklin Park course as undefeated Bobby Ciano tries to add to his laurels.

The Presidents wound up their Greater Boston League season last week with a 16-39 win over North Quincy as Ciano completed another unbeaten league season. He hasn't been beaten in any running event over a two-year period.

Ciano won last week's race in 1:36 and was followed by three teammates, Mark MacLeod, Paul Whilberg and Brian Feeney. North averaged a shutout when Rich Mailloy placed fifth. Quincy's Marty Swirko was sixth, North's John Murphy seventh, Paul Bonoli eighth and Bob Coldero ninth.

Tom Hall's Presidents finished 5-2 while Bob Gentry's inexperienced Raiders had only a 1-6 mark, despite some good individual performances, and they won't compete in Saturday's state meet.

Ciano won the league's most valuable player award.

The annual all-league meet was run Tuesday at Medford.

Raiders Face Big Title Test By Everett

North Quincy's football team, 5-1 overall and 3-1 in the Greater Boston League, faces one of its big tests Saturday when it hosts Everett, unbeaten in the league, in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Raiders must upset the Crimson Tide to stay in the running for the league crown.

While Ralph Frazier's North team was waltzing over winless Chelsea, 44-6, last week, Everett was handing Medford its first loss of the season, 26-12, to hike its league record to 3-0-1. It was tied by Revere and dropped a 6-0 non-league decision to undefeated-untied Newton.

"This is a big one for us and I just hope we are up for it," Frazier said. "Last week's game at Chelsea was just a good work-out and I don't know if it was good or bad to have this game between the Medford and Everett games. It gives you no joy whatever to win a game like that."

"The only good part about it was I was able to give everyone a chance and get a good line on many of my sophomores. I used the first unit only for a period and a half, started the second defensive team in the second half and used my third offensive team a lot."

"There is no doubt about the starters not being up for the game and actually the second line outplayed the first. The last three touchdowns were scored by second and third stringers."

Tom Burke scored the first four North touchdowns as he had another great day. After his fourth score, the starters went out and spent the rest of the game on the sidelines.

"Burke, of course, was outstanding again and Bob McKay played another excellent game at quarterback but I was especially pleased with the subs as Bobby Morton, number two quarterback, scored as did John Pomerole and sophomore John Flynn," Frazier added.

"Sophomore Carl Leone played longer at quarterback than either McKay or Morton and did a fine job," Leone threw a pass to Charlie Santoro for an apparent score but Santoro was just out of the end zone.

Other reserve backs coming in for praise were Bob McCormick, Paul Cuniff and Reggie Sandifer.

"The second line did an outstanding job," Frazier lauded in heaping praise upon Peter Quinn, Jimmy Neal, Wayne Bell, Mark Mulvaney, Billy Carroll and Rich Paulson.

Burke scored on runs of five and nine yards, ran back a punt 60 yards and scored on a 14-yarder after which Jack Linehan rushed for the only extra points. Morton scored from the five to round out the first half scoring and in the second half Pomerole raced 56 yards and Flynn went 19 for the final touchdowns.

Chelsea scored its only TD late in the game on a pass.

Souvenir Booklet Of Q-N Grid Series On Sale Friday

There are probably many residents of Quincy and North Quincy who are unfamiliar with some aspects of the 38-year old football series between the two high schools.

These people should know everything there is to know about the traditional game when a 44-page souvenir booklet put together by Miss Alberta Murray, North English Teacher and Miss Teresa Carsten, Media Specialist and teacher of photography at Quincy Voc-Tech, and a number of students at North and Quincy, goes on sale tomorrow [Friday].

"The booklet is being printed as a souvenir of the Thanksgiving game but we decided to put it on sale this month," Miss Murray said.

"We are having 10,000 copies printed and hope to sell them all. We will give 2,000 to each school for sale by the students and send another 2,000 to the North Quincy Boosters Club and the Quincy Fathers Club. Then of course, they will be on sale at the game."

"The purpose of the booklet is to raise money for the athletic programs of the two schools and also for the two boosters clubs."

She explained that the booklet is in two parts. The first part includes the history of the entire series which began in 1933, comments from all the coaches involved, Mayor McIntyre, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon and others involved in the annual game. There are also several old photos from the 1930's and '40s.

The second part has photos of the present squads, bands, cheerleaders, baton twirlers and others involved with the squad and shots showing the pageantry connected with the game.

"This was Larry Creedon's idea and my students as well as some of the journalism students really went all out," Miss Murray said. "All the research, and there was plenty, was done by the students and we had a real ball putting it together."

"These kids were fantastic as they went through micro films of past games, clippings, wrote stories and took photos. They went through newspaper files to get the rosters of all the teams and many residents came through with old pictures and clippings which they let us take. They interviewed newspaper and radio personnel, members of the boosters clubs and performed sundry other jobs. We have about 3,500 names and there are no ads.

It had been planned to charge $1 for the booklet but, due to the rising costs in printing, it is necessary to charge $1.50, which still seems reasonable for such a production.

Members of Miss Murray's English classes who did so much work on the booklet are Deborah Meehan, Deborah Gobbi, George Swinton, Richard Mullen, Jerrie Adelberg, Charles Santoro, Douglas Morrill, Walter Collins, David Mahoney, Robert Guerriero, Glen Sullivan, Linda Abdon, Anne Lippens, Dorothy Carter and Sheila Mannix.

This souvenir booklet looks like a good investment for all residents of the city. All photos for the publication were taken by Linda McCausland, a Quincy High graduate now attending the Mass. School of Art and Mary Ann Lessard, a Quincy High student. They spent about a month in the dark room.

Ron Martin's classy team clinched the title last week with a 3-0 win over Foxboro. Tuesday the Presidents played at Norfolk Aggies and today wind up their regular season at home against Franklin. Then comes the state tournament.

Harry England, in this country only a year from his native England, continued his brilliant play as he scored two of Quincy's goals in the title-clinching win. Artie Boyle had the other goal and England and Nick Condelaro had assists.

"These boys really have played as a team and they would like to finish unbeaten in the league," Martin said. "It has been a fine season and everyone has done an excellent job."

Bob Trubiano who has been outstanding all year, had another fine day in the Quincy goal.

Quincy's overall record for the year is 11-1 with a non-league win over Somerville and non-league loss to Duxbury of the South Shore Association.

North bowed to Hingham of the South Shore Association, 5-1, last week, its second loss to the Harbormen. Brad Martinson scored the only Raider goal.

Earlier in the week North had defeated Franklin, 2-0, on Peter Joyce's goals. Ken Shurtliff and Johann Axelsson, a Swedish exchange student, had assists.

Babe Ruth League For 16-18 Year Olds Established

A Babe Ruth League for 16 to 18 year olds has been established on the South Shore announces Secretary-Treasurer John L. McDonnell of 249 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

The league will be of special interest to those boys who graduate from the 13 to 15 year old Babe Ruth Baseball Program, currently the largest and most successful baseball program for boys ever run on the South Shore. It will give the 16 to 18 year old boys a new opportunity to continue playing baseball.

Officers of this new league feel that the Babe Ruth Leagues on the South Shore are a constructive means of assisting youth and that it is far better to spend on this type of activity, now, so as to cut down in the future the enormous sums spent trying to wipe out drugs, violence and vandalism in the area.

"We seem to have forgotten the old adage, 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure'," said McDonnell. "This is the reason we are anxious to obtain the help of anyone in the Area who is willing to help 16 to 18 year old boys.

Any one in the area willing to assist in the project, even in the smallest way, is asked to contact the officials of the 13-to-15 age Babe Ruth League in their town immediately.

Charter members of the new league are: Braintree, Milton, Quincy (12 teams), Randolph and Weymouth (2 teams). All teams are being supervised and maintained by the officers of their respective 13 to 15 Local Babe Ruth Leagues with the exception of Weymouth, which is being directed by James King, 15 Chisholm Rd., South Weymouth. He may be contacted at 335-8116.

Other South Shore towns interested in joining the League may contact President Fred Coolen at 773-8507 or John L. McDonnell at 479-5478.

Veterans News

The Veterans Administration cautions every veteran who sells a home purchased with a GI loan to get a "release of liability" before the sale is consummated.

Loan Guaranty officials say such a release could save the veteran considerable difficulty and worry should the purchaser ever default on the loan contract.

A veteran should request the VA office that guaranteed his home loan for release from further liability to the government before he signs the sales contract. VA may issue such a release if the loan is current and the veteran's purchaser agrees to assume all of the veteran's liabilities.

In addition, the Veterans Administration must be satisfied the person who buys the property is a good credit risk, and has sufficient income to meet the payments on the GI loan.

Unless a veteran specifically asks VA for a "release of liability", and gets it, he still is responsible for satisfactory completion of the financial obligation of the initial GI loan - should the new purchaser fail to make the monthly payments.

The veteran may sell his home to anyone - another veteran, or to anyone who has never been in military service. In any case, however, he should ask for the "release of liability."

If the veteran's purchaser obtains his own financing to purchase the veteran's home instead of assuming the veteran's GI loan and the GI loan is thus paid in full at settlement, under certain conditions the veteran may then have his loan guaranty eligibility restored.

"Release of liability" and restoration of GI home loan guaranty details are available at any VA office, or from veterans service organization representatives.

●Along The Campaign Trail Delahunt Calls For Downtown Revitalization

William D. Delahunt, candidate for Ward 5 City Councillor, said one of the more important problems currently facing the city is the "depressed condition" of the business community in Quincy Center.

Speaking at a tea held in his honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lydon, Jr., 468 Beale St., Wollaston, Delahunt noted that "with few exceptions, the businesses in this area have been experiencing a continued economic decline in recent years."

He cited the opening of the South Shore Plaza in 1963 as initiating many of the current problems and added that with the total completion of the Hanover Mall off Rte. 3, Quincy's businesses will be further adversely affected.

Delahunt emphasized that "The business areas in Quincy must be revitalized, made more attractive and convenient for shoppers, if they are going to continue to be able to compete with surrounding shopping areas."

He warned however, that any unplanned, helters-skelter activity along those lines would likely prove far more harmful than productive.

"Because of the necessary magnitude and scope of the project, any revitalization that is to occur must be undertaken in an intelligent, well-thought-out, and carefully planned manner," he said.

Delahunt placed his support behind the current efforts of the City's Planning and Development Department and the Downtown Steering Committee.

"They fully understand the potentially disastrous traffic problems that might result from hasty action," he said. "I was also pleased to hear that they consider the completion of both the Upland Rd extension and the Capens Bridge ramp as definite prerequisites to any extensive revisions to the Quincy Center area."

Delahunt further noted that he hoped that plans for both a shoppers mall on what is presently Hancock Street and for a large parking facility in the area would become a reality.

In response to questions, Delahunt said that the MBTA extension would not, and as yet has not, provided any appreciable influx of shoppers to the area. In fact, he noted, it has enabled many people in Quincy who had never been able to get to Boston with an opportunity to go there to do their shopping, thus reinforcing and perpetuating the drain of money from the local business districts.

Arienti Endorses Raymond

Daniel G. Raymond, candidate for the Quincy School Committee has been endorsed by Louis C. Arienti of 22 Barry St.

Arienti, a Brockton High School Guidance counselor, was a candidate in the City preliminary election.

In his statement Arienti said: "Dan Raymond is a uniquely qualified candidate for the school committee possessing not only a logical and rational mind but a sincere and understanding approach to education. I am sure that Dan will make an exceptionally fine School Committeeman."

Commenting on Raymond's proposal for the expansion of the Work Study Program,

Arienti said:

"Dan Raymond is the only candidate talking about the Work Study Program within the context of a total curriculum development program. As a high school guidance counselor, I see the need everyday for this type of training. So many students would find high school much more meaningful if they could combine classroom work with on the job experience!"

In his proposal, Raymond has pledged himself, when elected, to solicit the cooperation of Quincy businesses and industrial firms in order to further expand the Work Study Program. The program is designed primarily for the student who is not interested in the academic areas.

Raymond said: "The program should consist of a well-balanced classroom curriculum of academic and practical training coupled with appropriate job opportunities preparing the student for work in the business and industrial world. The most critical part of the program is the procurement of job opportunities which are meaningful and relevant for the individual student."

Raymond said of the Arienti endorsement: "It certainly is an honor to obtain an endorsement from a man who has such fine credentials. I am pleased to have Louis C. Arienti's support."

'Enlightened Vigilance' Needed To Stem Drugs, Says Powers

Warren Powers, candidate for Ward 5 City Councillor, has called for a "heightened public awareness to help stem the spread of drug abuse in Quincy."

Speaking before a gathering of campaign workers at the home of Thomas McManus of 74 Old Colon Ave., Powers said drug rehabilitation programs were a "binding necessity," but that they were only "a treatment after the fact."

"What we need are not only combative law enforcement programs, or remedial clinics, but well-founded drug education programs that will awaken the public to the gravity of the problem," he said. "Only by disseminating information 'before the fact' can we hope to impede, and eventually stamp out, drug abuse."

"We can't allow ourselves to slip into apathy. Because drug abuse is costly to society—costly not only in human terms, in the number of lives destroyed, but costly too in terms of dollars and cents, in the thefts and destruction of property committed every day in the support of expensive drug habits."

Powers said that the attitude of "it can't happen here" must be replaced by one of "enlightened vigilance."

"Only in this way," he said, "can the problem finally be surmounted."

I would like to thank the voters of the First Norfolk District, Ward One, who supported my candidacy for State Representative and the Democratic Primary held last week.

Davis Asks Driver Education

Harold Davis, candidate for Quincy School Committee, has recommended that a driver education course be instituted at both high schools in the city.

While such a course has been available in the past, it is presently not being offered. Addressing a group of parents and former teachers at the home of Helen McLaughlin, 9 Edgemere Rd, Davis said that a driver's license is often a prerequisite to a job and almost a necessity in the community.

"Of all non-academic courses which might be offered in our high schools, I believe driver education would prove to be one of the most worthwhile," he said. "It has been statistically proven that driver education courses reduce accidents and hence save lives."

Davis said that if the costs of the program proved to be a burden to the taxpayer then a fee should be charged the participants.

"Even if a charge was made for the course, I believe the students and their parents would realize a considerable savings over the private driver education courses," he said. "The lower cost would encourage more students to participate and hence reduce automobile accidents."

Davis also revealed the findings of a recent Gallup poll which reported that 83 per cent of Americans favored legislation requiring high school students to take driver education before they graduate.

"While I do not necessarily favor making driver education compulsory, the poll I believe, shows that most citizens view that subject as having a proper place in our high schools," Davis said.

Kennedy Stresses Role Of School Committee

Christopher F. Kennedy, candidate for School Committee, at a coffee hour held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Connolly of 1348 Quincy Shore Drive, Merrymount, stressed the great importance of the School Committee.

"The selecting and hiring of the superintendent, approving of the school budget, changing of personnel, settling of disputes, are all the ultimate responsibility of the School Committee," he declared.

"This is hardly a job to be taken lightly or to be used casually as a stepping stone to future political advancement. Rather, the office is certainly a worthy end in itself."

"There have been suggestions in some circles that the school committee is too important to be entrusted to the voters, that its members should be appointed. I could not disagree more strongly. The line of authority which holds the superintendent responsible to the School Committee and members of the Committee answerable to the voters provides the greatest possible protection to the public.

"It is essential, then, that the best qualified men and women who reside in Quincy be encouraged to run for School Committee and that they be given wide support; however, we must be very careful of imposing special geographic or other restrictions, which could close out potentially fine candidates and which would also tend to bring a divisiveness to the school system. We can ill afford this for financial reasons and because the city-wide equality of education would be impaired."

Coming Attraction:

'Millhouse: A White Comedy'

You say you always wanted to own a theatre chain?... E. M. LOEW, the Boston-based owner impresario of 129 theatres, including hardtop and drive-ins, wants to sell his mini-empire. Asking price?... Somewhere in the $60 million neighborhood... Thus far, the only interested prospect has been LOEW CORP. [no relation]. But they have a different, lower figure in mind. More like $40 million... Hollywood, once every actors residence status symbol, is losing inhabitants by the droves... The latest to join the Exodus are JACK PALANCE, off to swinging London, and DAVID NIVEN, who finds the clime of Fiji more restful...

Jet Set fashion model extraordinaire VERUSCHKA, all six feet of her, is still saying "no" to all film offers. Producers have been after this statuette beauty for years now... VERUSCHKA realizes her forte is modeling, not acting, and doesn't feel a camera change would prove beneficial to her career... Smart girl... All too many models, having excelled in the former media, switch to the latter, and with dismal results... There's gold to be made on the small tube, which is why so many name actors have made the switch. For instance, TONY CURTIS will haul home a half a million for his series, "THE PERSUADERS"...

Seems just like yesterday that singer-actor PAUL ANKA broke into show business, and here he is celebrating his 15th year in the field. Whew, but time does fly... Starlet LEE TERRI makes her debut in the much publicized, TROY DONAHUE starrer, "SWEET SAVIOR"... Amid speculation to the contrary, JOSEPH E. LEVINE denies all reports that he is leaving his AVCO EMBASSY position as president. LEVINE states emphatically, "My contract with AVCO runs another five years and I expect to use up every minute of it"... Time will tell... NEIL SIMON's next film script is supposed to be a "comedy". Titled "THE HEARTBREAK KID", the story centers on a young man who discovers he is not in love with the girl he married. On his wedding night... A comedy?... Sounds more tragic than funny...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: EMILE DE ANTONIO explaining the purpose of his NIXON political satire, "MILLHOUSE: A WHITE COMEDY": "The point is not fairness and objectivity, but rather to subjectively illustrate the claim that NIXON is, and always has been, a banal, mindless, political opportunist"... And de ANTONIO'S picture reads the same way if we are to use New York City as an audience yardstick. In the few short weeks it has been running, the film has left viewers in a state of belly-ached hysterics. The DANIEL TALBOT New Yorker Theatre was sold out two consecutive weekends... And yes, "MILLHOUSE" will be playing in Boston. The end of the month to be exact...

Those anticipating a "vacation" to Las Vegas are forewarned that said city is Western Union's biggest money payout office in the world. The quote "Send money" ticker tapes on a continuous 24 hour span... "SWEET SWEETBACK" is the only American film banned in Australia. The Commonwealth Film Censorship Board list the picture as excessive in indecency and violence... The JACK LEMMON starrer, "THE WAR BETWEEN MEN AND WOMEN" is being readied for a summer of '72 release. Written and directed by MELVILLE SHAVELSON, the supporting cast is bolstered with those superb actors, JASON ROBARDS and BARBARA HARRIS...

And whatever became of French lovely CORINNE CALVERT? Don't recall seeing her on the screen for a spell now. At 45, Miss CALVERT couldn't have thrown in the towel. Or could she?... JOAN CRAWFORD and BETTE DAVIS get my vote as two of filmdom's more convincing anti-heroines. They gave the Cinema a flair, what with their on the screen cheating, lying, scheming, and conniving to get the man or money they were after... "ADIOS SABATA" is being press billed as "The latest and best of the Italian westerns." That it is the latest is without question. But the best?... Hardly! Star YUL BRYNNER lacks the menacing zip of his predecessor LEE VAN CLEEF...

You still can't convince me GLENDA JACKSON is all she is press raved about, even with "SUNDAY, BLOODY SUNDAY" added to her screen credits. Just don't consider her acting that spectacular in merit... Be sure to catch "SKIN GAME". One of the more funny films to be released this season... What makes this picture so enjoyable is its irreverent "ALL IN THE FAMILY" approach on the subject of mid-nineteenth century prejudice... And wouldn't you just know that ANDY WARHOL would be a judge of the first New York Erotic Film Festival. The same for GORE VIDAL, although KAREN SPERLING as a Festival judge comes as somewhat of a shock...

LANA WOOD, younger sister of NATALIE, gives stardom another stab with "A PLACE CALLED TODAY". The young Miss WOOD has had repeated opportunities and the chance to show her mettle as an actress. And each time she has batted zero... Her newest film is an important one. Both from an artistic and monetary viewpoint. A great many talented people, and good deal of money, are riding on a wave of optimism that LANA WOOD comes through with an exemplary performance... All it really takes is that one film to make it. If she doesn't excel with "A PLACE CALLED TODAY", Miss WOOD would be well advised to try another endeavor as a means of support...

MIA FARROW will portray the life of HANNA SENESH, Israel's legendary "Joan of Arc" in the forthcoming "ANIKO"... What's STEVE REEVES doing these days? Hasn't been seen on the screen since his "HERCULES" showstoppers...

● Youth Speaks Out

- The U.N. recognizes countries like Chad and Sierra Leone but Taiwan with a population of 14,000,000 is all of a sudden non-existent.
- With the way things have been going it might be better to congratulate the losers in the elections.
- A prediction -- no one in the greater Boston area will know who Louise Day Hicks is in five years.
- President Nixon has begun to make friends with Red China who for years has been helping kill American soldiers in Vietnam and yet he continues to ignore Red Cuba who has never been at "war" with the U.S.
- Vietnamese democracy is supposed to have a two-party system not a Thieu-party system.
- As long as we're moving holidays around, how about making election day the same day as Halloween. After all it's the biggest trick or treat we have.
- With all the apathy there is around, maybe we need a "Care" package.
- The Senate has killed the Foreign Aid Bill, but don't get your hopes up -- John Q. Public is not going to see any of the $3 billion.

WE GET LETTERS

'Campaign '71': Student Involvement

Editor: Quincy Sun:

The beginning of the 1971-72 school year at Quincy High and the Quincy Vocational-Technical School has witnessed much activity in the area of student involvement, but perhaps none so successful and significant as "Campaign '71".

"Campaign '71", sponsored jointly by the Social Studies Department and the Student Council, brought virtually all candidates running for city-wide office to Quincy High and Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

A total of five meetings between candidates and groups of students were conducted, during which meaningful dialogues between the candidates and students took place, relating to topics of general community interest and those connected specifically with issues in the city's school system.

This unprecedented venture in creating a sure and objective social awareness on the part of the students, which allowed them to formulate their own opinions regarding the candidates and issues based on the discussions with the candidates, enjoyed wide popularity among the students.

Simultaneously, the candidates themselves were informed as to the concerns of the city's high school community.

Of course, the success of "Campaign '71" would not have been possible without the cooperation of the candidates, which was given wholeheartedly, the local news media, especially the Quincy Sun, which allowed student correspondents to publish articles on the program, and "Campaign '71's" most capable moderator, City Councillor and State Representative Clifford Marshall.

On behalf of the Social Studies Department and the Student Council, I extend most sincere appreciation to all those who have cooperated so generously to make "Campaign '71" a success. Through their participation, they have shown the high school community their commitment to the concerns of the youth of Quincy.

Sincerely yours,
Jonathan Kolodney, President
Quincy High and Quincy
Vocational-Technical School Student Council.

THE WAGE-PRICE FREEZE Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on the Wage and Price Freeze is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about the Wage and Price Freeze announced August 15 by President Nixon.

Q - My local supermarket has just discontinued its policy of giving out trading stamps. Can they do this during the freeze?

A - Yes. Retail outlets may discontinue trading stamps if they pass on the value of the stamps to their customers in the form of lower prices on their merchandise.

This can be done in either of two ways. Merchants can lower the prices of everything they sell by the value of the stamps or, when you pay for your purchases at the cash register, they can deduct the market value of the stamps at redemption from the prices of those items for which trading stamps would have been given.

If retailers adopt the latter method of passing on the lower prices, they must post, in a prominent place in each retail outlet at least one sign [minimum of 30" x 40"], plus a readily visible sign at each cash register, advising customers of the discontinuance of the trading stamps and the reduction in total value of the merchandise they are buying.

Q - Can a landlord require a person to rent or purchase furniture, where it was not his established practice before the freeze?

A - No. Any practice which constitutes a means to obtain a higher rent than is permitted under the freeze is prohibited.

Q - The football team in my town is giving tickets for future games to those season ticket-holders due a refund because of prices charged above the wage-price ceiling. Is this form of compensation permitted?

A - Yes. Teams may offer patrons tickets to future games or other forms of compensation in lieu of a cash refund. However, at the same time, it still must offer the option of a cash refund when the other forms of compensation are unsatisfactory to the patron.

Q - I will be retiring very shortly after 25 years of service and will be eligible for increased pension benefits. Can I still receive these benefits?

A - Employees retiring during the freeze will not be prejudiced by the ceiling. For purposes of computation of their pension benefits, these employees will be treated as though the freeze had not occurred. In your case, you may receive any increment upon retirement even if the completion of 25 years employment occurs after August 15.

However, any additional increment must not exceed increments given prior to the freeze, for the same amount of service, unless an increase in benefits was announced before August 15.

Q - Is military pay subject to the freeze?

A - Yes military pay is subject to the terms and conditions of the President's freeze on wage increases. However, exceptions have been granted for pay for personnel in the combat zone or missing in action, prisoners of war and hospitalized war casualties.

In addition, benefits for military personnel placed in a retired status during the freeze period will be computed and paid as if the freeze were not in effect. Military personnel who qualify for proficiency pay increases and similar military learning pay programs are treated in the same manner as civilians. This means that increases will be authorized if the person has increased his proficiency or has been promoted to a new position.

Smyth Seeks Covering For N.Q. Pedestrian Overpass

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth has asked the MBTA to cover the pedestrian overpass at Billings Rd and Holbrook Rd in North Quincy.

Smyth told MBTA General Manager Joseph C. Kelly of a meeting last March in which area residents expressed their fear of snow and ice on the walkway in winter.

During the meeting, Smyth said, MBTA South Shore Director Albert Pacelli indicated he would have a feasibility study done on the matter.

Smyth, the residents and Rep. Joseph E. Brett had gone to Pacelli because the overpass is the only ready access for Montclair residents to reach Norfolk Downs.

"We have heard nothing since then," Smyth said, "so I wrote to Mr. Kelly to re-acquaint the MBTA with the issue."

"We discussed two or three different types of cover and asked specifically that a roof and panelling the height of the railing be put up where the overpass crosses the tracks."

Smyth said that, "Because of the crime and violence going on today, the MBTA, with good reason, likes to leave some visibility. It's for the safety of the people."

He said he felt a roof and side panelling would help decrease danger of falling on ice while keeping the danger of violence at a minimum.

Quincy At 50 Per Cent Mark In United Fund Drive

Quincy has raised $27,450 or 50 per cent of its goal of $54,892 in the Massachusetts Bay United Fund campaign.

Joseph A. Donahue, Quincy Community Chairman, hosted a luncheon of his cabinet workers at the Neighborhood Club and heard reports from his chairman.

Gerald Reilly, chairman of the accountants division, reported over 100 per cent; Francis J. Hackett, clubs and organizations chairman, 86.3 per cent; and William O'Malley, special gifts chairman, 74 per cent.

Donahue noted that two weeks before, the cabinet had reported 18 per cent.

"The 50 per cent reported this week is approximately the same amount as was reported at this time last year," Donahue said.

With three weeks left to complete solicitation, with the drive closing on Nov. 17, Donahue urged workers "to make recalls on all prospects as soon as possible."

Others reporting were: Neighborhood, Donahue, 50 per cent; schools, Bruce McLean, chairman, 55 per cent; municipal, Mrs. David J. Crowley, 39 per cent; local business, Robert J. Quinn, 29 per cent; and professional, Douglas Purdy, 23 per cent.

CATARACT 'CURES'

Never believe the claim that cataracts can now be cured by medication, especially if the claimer's selling something.

"There are no salves, pills, drops, magic potions, or medications known today that will dissolve, absorb, retard or prevent the progress of cataract," reports the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. The Society adds, "There is only one possible cure: surgery."

Cataract is the clouding of the lens within an eye to the point where it hampers vision. In the corrective operation, this lens is removed. Its function is then assumed by thick cataract glasses or, increasingly, by contact lenses.

If a doctor recommends postponing surgery, eye drops may sometimes be used to dilate the pupil, thus permitting better vision through the lens' outer rim temporarily. But such drops are in no way a cure for cataract.

Spiral Citadel

Where'er you go, where'er you may be,
There stands a lofty refuge,
A symbol of the heaven's above.

Reminding us of God's dwelling-place on earth,
Where all His people congregate

Attending His Holy Mass service

Showing our love for Him by adoration, prayers, and meditations.

Accompanied with songs of hymnic praises.

Purpose of such devotion brings

To mind, imitations of Christ's teachings and earthly performances,

To love and help one another.

We should all try to Attend Mass on Sundays, Unless we have a reasonable excuse.

Our Father is more understanding than you think. Therefore, don't utter that useless and lifeless expression—"I don't have the time."

One hour's devotion a week is nothing compared to hours spent, on frivolous matters.

The "gift of time and eternity" is bestowed on us,

By His will and grace...

Without it, nothing would be possible.

The "love" of Our Father is as great as the world itself,

Though church visits may be far and wide, the Stately House of God still stands, like a tranquil, spiritual fortress.

With hope and patience the Lord waits,

For some of his lost sheep to come back to the fold.

At last! The "wand'ers" come!

Like thirsty travelers with a desire to drink and quench their soul-thirsts.

Our Savior rejoices at their presence and

With arms outstretched, He embraces them close to His bosom...

Satisfying the tabernacle of their Souls.

Anna T. Anderson, Quincy

Weather-Wise Cottons

AT HOME—A cozy design for hearthside entertaining is this one-piece hostess ensemble with the look of separates. Colorful cotton paisley shapes long flowing sleeves and a quilted skirt, while cotton velveteen gives a vest effect to the Royal Robes design.

WINTERIZED—Crompton's ribless cotton corduroy in a distinctive rust and blue print shapes a winter-ready coat with luxurious fur trim. It's by John Anthony.

Boots A 'Must' For Mini, Midi, Maxi

Beneath all the available skirt lengths for this season, mini, midi, and maxi, one daytime look remains unanimously in favor: the boot look. Ankle-high to knee-high boots have been included in every major ready-to-wear line.

American women, accused of sheeplike followship where fashion is concerned, have developed new fashion independence, choosing the looks and lengths they like for themselves in 1970. And their first fashion choice for footwear remains boots.

With skirts above the knee women favor high boots worn with heavily textured or cable knit stockings or tights. (Very young women like the new old French fad of allowing a fancy stocking top to show below the hemline.) The wet-look Zipster boot, 15 inches high, glove-fitted and slide-fastened snugly from ankle to knee, is a beautiful choice for fall through winter.

Sophisticated country styled clothing introduces carpeting coats and suits worn with knit or leather vests and tunics. Most of these, and pants suits, too, of course, look best with elegant ankle-high boots like the Sno-Brite. With all bulky clothing, however, it is the width of the skirt that finally determines the footwear, and some of the very full-skirted maxi coats require tall slim boots. A practical choice for a wardrobe that includes several skirt lengths is a 13-inch high mid-calf molded boot on a small heel. The pylon Ravenna, pile lined and totally waterproof, is a versatile style spanning, especially good with at-the-knee hems.

Newest and most controversial of the fall offerings is the midi look of the fashion boutique with skirt hems falling just over the tops of tall boots. Essential to this style is design detail on the boot front to carry the eye naturally up or down the newly elongated body. The boot can be zipped, as the tall platform-soled Satellite is, or laced or buckled, but it must contribute to the overall lean look of the longline.

The boots illustrated are all by Red Ball Footwear, boot-makers for over a century. Major retail stores carrying this line countrywide seem newly aware of the importance of boots to the long and short of fashion. Some stores are placing boots of varying heights in dressing rooms for customers to try on with several skirt lengths this fall.

North Quincy Apaches Win Title

Quincy Youth Football League

By TOM SULLIVAN

For 21 years the Quincy Youth Football League has been giving city boys between the ages of 11 and 14 and weighing between 85 and 140 pounds an opportunity to play in an organized league.

Approximately 160 boys each year participate in the league, which plays each Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Most of the Quincy and North Quincy High school players received their starts in the league.

The league finished its season Sunday with the Apaches topping the Panthers to win the championship with a 6-0 record.

The Panthers were 4-2, losing only to the champs twice.

The Manets defeated the Elks Sunday to finish 2-4 and the Elks, the smallest and least experienced team in the league, were 0-6.

A large number went on to make a name for themselves in college.

Probably the best known graduate is Jimmy Colclough, who starred for Quincy High, Boston College and the Boston Patriots.

Mike Jordan, former Holy Cross captain; Jack Gantley, who played at the U.S. Naval Academy; Bob Murray, Ken Reale, Tom Daley, Ken Prouty and most members of this year's Quincy and North squads played in the league. The weight limit probably is the reason Dick Varney, former North Quincy and Harvard star, didn't play.

Billy Myers, general manager of the Panthers, a perennial league power, has been connected with the league since its inception in 1951.

"I own the Panther franchise and we have been involved in 11 championships," Myers said. "Our team has played many outside games, playing for the state championship on some occasions and playing in New Rochelle, N.Y., on Long Island and in Rhode Island and Connecticut. Some of the other league clubs also have played outside games."

All Teams except the Elks are self-supporting and stay in business through dances, candy sales and other activities. The great interest shown by residents of Quincy in coaching the teams and performing many other chores keeps the league in operation.

President of the league this year is John MacLeod. Tom Keely is vice president, Maurie Horrigan secretary and Bud William, treasurer. Commissioners include Bob Coira, Stan Maher, Jim Evans, Dave Eastwich, Paul Grant, Fred Aimola, Tom McAuley, Bill

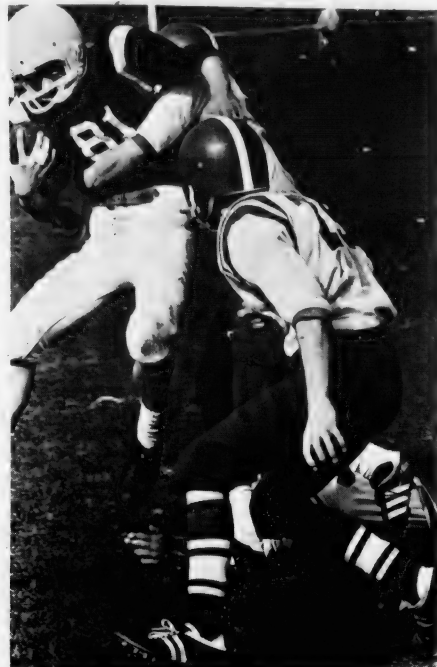

LEADING THE CHEERS for the Elks are, Caroline Vincent, Patty Corto, Lisa Gosselin, Hunt, Janie Ferzoco, Alicia Cahill, Eileen Car-

O'Hara, Dom Burke, Frank O'Hare and Ed Amoroso.

"We need the help of more parents to assist us in various capacities," MacLeod said. He explained that each October the league conducts a dance for the parents. "This gives them a chance to meet the league officials and each other," he said.

The games are handled by board officials, Marty Barnes, Kevin Mahoney, Art Melia, Jr.,

ENC Soccer Takes 8-3 Record Into Final Game

The Eastern Nazarene College soccer team blanked St. Francis 9-0 last week to up its season's record to 8-3.

North Quincy's Steve Shoff and Bob Mollica had three goals apiece. Abel Espada, Herbie Newell and Dan McCabe rounded out the scoring.

ENC meets Stonehill at 2 p.m. Saturday, to finish the most successful soccer season in the school's history.

Each of the team's losses has been by one goal and "we had our chances to win each one," said coach Bob Jack.

"In each game we've played this year we've outshot the opposition," Jack said. "If we had converted on a few more of those opportunities we'd have a clean slate."

The injury riddled ENC was beaten this season by Nasson 3-2, by Southeastern Massachusetts 5-4 and by Barrington 2-1.

Freshman inside Bob Madeiros of Quincy has been lost to a knee injury in the Barrington game. Goalie Mark Sanford punctured a lung against Nasson and fullback Jim Patton broke an ankle in practice.

Atlantic-North In Top Spot, McElaney Sets Record

Last week's Quincy Junior High soccer games provided two highlights.

Sterling's defending league champions were knocked out of first place for the first time in three years, at least temporarily.

And Atlantic-North's Ed McElaney set a league record with four goals in one game.

When Leo Donovan's Atlantic-North team blanked Broad Meadows, 5-0, it moved ahead of Sterling by one point. Earlier in the week A-N nipped improving Point, 1-0, and the two wins gave it a 5-0-1 record. Sterling, a 4-0 winner over Central in its only game of the week, dropped to second place with a 4-0-2 mark.

McElaney put on quite a show for A-N with his record spree. Bill Donovan scored the other goal.

John MacKay, tied with teammate McElaney for second place in scoring, scored the only goal in the win over winless but much proved Point.

Mario DiCenzo, the league's top scorer, had two goals for Joe Amorosino's Sterling club in its win over Central. Scott DeMarco and Ed Landis had the other goals.

Central bounced back to edge Point, 2-1, for its first win of the season as Don Blaney and Mike Gibbons scored for Central and Ed McGowan for Point.

Raiders Off, Prep For Somerville

North Quincy's football team, with little or no chance for the Greater Boston League title following a 14-8 loss to league leader Everett last week, has a day off Saturday.

The Raiders, however, will put in a little extra work for Somerville, their foe, at Veterans Memorial Stadium, Nov. 13.

A win for North last week would have left it in a three-way battle with Everett and Medford for first place but the loss dropped the Raiders into fourth place and left Everett as the only unbeaten league team [4-0-1].

"Our defense was excellent and the boys gave a great effort," Coach Ralph Frazier said. "We lost to a real good team and I think this boy [John] Romboli is the finest punter in the league. It was his booming punts which kept us in our own territory. They also played fine defense and we were unable to move the ball until the second half. Then, when we did move into their territory, Romboli's punts pushed us back again."

Romboli, who scored a touchdown and was the game's leading rusher, had to punt five times and averaged 47.4 yards a punt. In the second half he had punts of 71, 59 and 42 yards.

"That 71-yarder nearly backfired as our boys stood there with their mouths open watching the kick and North Quincy almost broke it for a touchdown", Coach Moody Sarno said.

Tom Burke almost went all the way as he took the ball on his one and was tripped out of bounds after a 47-yard return with one man to beat.

A pass interception and fumble set up the Everett touchdowns and it was an even game most of the way.

Frazier hailed the offensive performances of quarterback Bob McKay, halfback Burke, tackle John Meyer and end Dave Mahoney.

On defense he singled out Meyer, Mahoney, Walt Collins, Wayne Bell and Joe Morrissey.

A North fumble was recovered by Everett's Steve Anzalone on the Raiders 44 in the second period and Romboli climaxed the drive when he scored from the four.

In the third period North began to move but Frank Nuzzo intercepted a pass and returned it to North's 10. Here the Raiders put on a great stand but on fourth down Everett made a first down by inches and on the next play Frank Russo scored.

Later in the period North scored with McKay running the option well to lead the team downfield quickly. He scored from the one and passed to Mahoney for the points.

Junior High Spotlight

Point 8th Graders 'Give All' But Odds Against Them

Point Junior High's football team hasn't had much luck in the city-wide league but Coach Fran Conroy's boys have done well considering their handicaps.

"Due to our small enrollment we have no eighth grade coach and, as a result, I must use eight eighth graders on the ninth grade squad," Conroy said. "The kids have really battled and we usually give the other clubs a good game for a half but then they run out of steam and the others have beaten us in the second half. The boys have always given me 100 per cent but the odds are just too much."

Conroy has been using six eighth graders on the starting offensive team and six on the starting defensive unit [several play both ways] and playing against all-ninth grade teams has proven a bit too much for the Pointers.

Conroy rates Doug King, the captain, and Bill Breen as the top linemen and rates eighth grader Mike Carloni, the leading scorer, as his best back.

"Steve Palumbo, only an eighth grader, runs the ninth grade team at quarterback and Dwight Anderson, another eighth grader, backs him up," the Point coach explained. "Either can start and do a fine job for us."

Among the best players on defense are ninth graders Breen and King and eighth graders Carloni and Anderson.

Ninth graders on the squad are King, Breen, Pete Lomanno, Jim Johnson, Jim Martell, Paul Farmer, Bob Russo, Pat Hart and Ed MacDonald.

Eighth graders playing ninth grade ball are Carloni, Paul Briggitt, Anderson, Bob Varrasso, Ken Sunnerberg, Bob Silva, Palumbo, Dan Johnson, Tony Spadorcia and Tom Cordasi.

Point doesn't have an eighth grade team as every other school does, but it does have a seventh grade team coached by Gaetano Abruzzese. This team has made a good showing in the league.

The seventh grade roster includes Doug and Duane Affas, Michael Bair, Joe Comolletti, Leo Boyd, Matthew French, John Carloni, Jim Londen, Vin Miele, Sal Coscia, Bob MacDonald, Anthony Medico and Bob D'Olympio.

Quincy Soccer Team Finishes

Quincy's soccer team finished its first undefeated league season in history last week with a 2-1 win over Franklin and the Norfolk Association champions opened their quest for state honors Tuesday as the annual state tourney got underway.

Ron Martin's Presidents were 12-0 in the league and had an overall mark of 13-1 as they defeated Somerville and lost to Duxbury, which won its fourth South Shore Association title in five years with a 2-0 win over Norwell last week. Duxbury also is in the state tourney.

Harry England, who has been in this country only a year from his native England and who was one of the Presidents' standouts, scored the first goal in the win over Franklin, converting Tom Gibbons' pass. Pete Doucette scored the clincher with Gibbons again assisting.

Earlier in the week Quincy had defeated Norfolk, 6-2, as England scored twice and Artie Boyle, Mike Ranalli, Rick Trubiano and Fred Condelaro scored the others. Marty O'Toole had two assists, England had two and Gus Dano one.

George Golding's North Quincy booters, who last year were unbeaten South Shore Association champs, took a 3-0 win over Avon and finished up with a 5-5-1 record.

Swedish exchange student Johan Axelsson scored two of North's goals and Pete Joyce the other. Max Rookman, Rich Carroll and Joyce had assists.

Presidents Meet Winless Chelsea

Quincy's football team will be an odds-on favorite to roll over winless Chelsea Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium, but Coach Hank Conroy sees some trouble for his Presidents if the defense doesn't perk up.

"Our defense was terrible in the second half at Weymouth last week [Quincy squeezed by Weymouth North, 29-26, after leading, 29-6, at the half]," Conroy said. "Chelsea is weak but if our defense doesn't come alive, we might not have as easy a time as most people expect."

Quincy's win last week, a non-league affair, gave it a 3-3 overall record and a 2-2 Greater Boston League mark.

Chelsea, which shouldn't be in the GBL, has an 0-6 record [0-5 in the league] and has been outscored, 237-26.

Quincy played an outstanding first half as Jimmy Walker threw three scoring passes and Steve McCarthy ran for another. Meanwhile, the defense was strong as it held Weymouth to one touchdown, a 54-yard run by Steve Antonowicz.

The second half was a far different story as the Presidents were held scoreless and were unable to contain Weymouth's razzle-dazzle offense which clicked for three touchdowns.

"They put on quite an offensive show in that second half and at times two and three backs handled the ball on a play," Conroy said. "Both the quarterback and halfback were throwing passes and we were lucky to survive. Our defense let down terribly."

The Quincy coach wouldn't single out any players on defense but praised McCarthy, who did some more beautiful running; Walker, Dave Coull, Bobby McDermott and Bob Malvesti for their work on offense.

McCarthy picked up 123 yards with some tremendous moves and Malvesti added more than 60 yards and gained most of his yardage with superlative second efforts. Walker hit on seven of 13 passes for 127 yards and three touchdowns.

In the last half Walker was thrown four times for losses of 22 yards, a big reason the Presidents' attack was stopped.

In the first period Walker passed to Coull for 23 yards and the first touchdown and McCarthy kicked the point. It was the fourth touchdown pass for this combo in the last three games.

In the second quarter McCarthy raced 31 yards and, after Antonowicz' 54-yard run, McCarthy took a screen pass and raced 50 yards for his second score. Malvesti rushed the points. Walker then passed to McDermott, who caught the ball in the corner of the end zone for the final TD.

Weymouth came back with a vengeance in the last two periods as Antonowicz scored on a pass from John Bouley, John Friberg went 10 for a score and Bouley raced 22 yards for the final tally.

Quincy Bears Beat Falcons In Boston State Tourney

Alfred Bartolotti led the Quincy Bears to their second straight victory, 13-7, in the Boston State College Intramural Football Tournament.

Bartolotti, captain of the 1969 Archbishop Williams High School football team, scored all his team's points and picked off two Falcon passes.

The winning touchdown came late in the fourth quarter when Bartolotti broke a 7-7 tie on the receiving end of a pick and lateral play.

The Bears defensive unit picked off six Falcon passes during the game.

The victory sent the Bears to the tournament quarterfinals. They will play the defending champion Diddy-Boppers at 10:30 a.m. Nov. 10 at Fens Stadium, Back Bay.

St. Joseph's Hockey Opens

'Common Market' Nov. 11 Topic For United Nations Council

"The Meaning of the Common Market" will be the topic of Geoffrey Godsell when the United Nations Council of the South Shore meets, Nov. 11 at 7:30 in the Parish Hall of First Parish Church, Quincy Sq. This is the second in this year's Council series.

Whether Britain would or would not join the Common Market has divided that country, but not entirely on party lines. Godsell, born and educated in Great Britain, was formerly with the British Broadcasting Corporation.

At present he is Overseas

News Editor of the Christian Science Monitor. His comments are familiar to viewers of Channel 2 and WGBH Radio.

The talk is free and open to the public, and will be followed by a question period. Preceding the meeting there is a supper at 6:30 p.m., for which there is a charge.

Those wishing to make reservations for the meal should do so by Nov. 8 by either writing Miss Lena Foster, 12 Francis Ave., Quincy 02169, or calling Mrs. Viola Ellis, 18 Terne Road, or Mrs. Arthur H. Shattuck, 44 Huntley Road, both of Quincy.

At supper there are a few places reserved for students at a reduced charge.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

The grief which a loving wife feels upon the death of her husband is surpassed only by her lingering loneliness. Many a widow feels buried alive...a forgotten part of society...a threat to their best friends. Divorced women somehow seem to fare better than widows in finding a new male companion.

Widows have been forced into this situation...they did not choose it. A divorced woman has chosen to be divorced...she believes the status is better than being married to the husband who had made her so unhappy. She may try to make herself believe that "it was the will of God". I could never accept that. What kind of capricious God is He that wills death and torturous loneliness for people? If this idea gives comfort to some widows...O.K. but we may be well advised to examine just what kind of God we really have. But whatever she believes about God's will...she's still the lonely widow.

Or...she may try to console herself that she had ten or twenty "wonderful years with Charlie...without one single quarrel"...[how quickly the unpleasantness do fade]...and I will now live on with those memories." O.K. if she can...but as good as her memories are they're poor substitutes for a strong...loving husband on the cold winter night...and in the crowd of lively couples.

If the widow seeks companionship well-meaning friends raise eyebrows and may even suggest to her...or more likely to each other...that she should have at least waited until the grass begins to grow on Charlie's grave.

If she doesn't get out and seek companionship...these same "friends" will decide for her that "she's never going to get over her grief unless she gets out and finds herself a man...no use for her to sit around and feel sorry for herself"...they say.

I received a letter recently from a widow who tells me that she's seeking information concerning the role of the widow in our area...by asking the following questions.

1. After you became a widow, did your friends still socialize with you?

2. Do you want to get married again?

3. What chance have you to meet a man?

4. How did women's liberation influence your life?

5. Do you think that a divorced woman has a better chance to get married again?

6. Have you adopted the "new morality" regarding sex?

7. How do men treat you on dates?

8. What do you think should be done for widows?

9. Your age? ... Years married? ... Number of children? ...

If you wish to share in this woman's study, write me your answers to her questions...we'll compile them and give you the summary in a later column.

I frequently read the "Personals" in magazines...often I'm touched by them. They go like this..."Widow, late 40's, seeks male companion 45-55, unmarried with car. I am easy to get along with, considered attractive, am decent but lonely. Write Box..."

"Widow, middle 30's would like to meet widower in 40's, I'm affectionate, like to travel, ski, a one-man woman. I'm lonely and will give a worthy man the womanly warmth every man craves. Write me at Box..."

These people are not usually "kooks"...they're just lonely...forgotten widows...reaching out for companionship. I wonder how many there are among my readers. My heart truly goes out to them. There is no distress quite as painful as loneliness. Maybe this little research may assist in pointing the way to new happiness. Let me hear from you. I'll answer your letter.

Sacco And Vanzetti Looks Like Dud

The "JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR" phenomenon is fast snowballing into the greatest "All-Media" parlay in the long history of Show Business. There has just been nothing to equal it in imagination and breathtaking verve... "SUPERSTAR" first overwhelmed us last year when its' sounds broke loose on disks as a runaway LP album. Shortly after, it rocked America's soul in a concert form never before devised... And now Broadway, as a play, where this critic predicts "SUPERSTAR" will overshadow the memory of its predecessor "HAIR". Overshadow? Yes, because by comparison, "HAIR" seems so banal alongside the imaginative scope of "SUPERSTAR"...

And still, there's more on the way... Nurtured as a brainchild by ANDREW LLOYD WEBBER and TIM RICE, "SUPERSTAR" is going Hollywood. By years end, film production will begin... For those who tabulate the cash-in-flow, it's difficult to place an exact figure in total future revenue. Really, the financial outlook has all the earmarkings of "the skys the limit forecast"... With three million LP's sold, and 500,000 tapes already bought up, better than $40 million has been appreciated from the "SUPERSTAR" bonanza. What with concerts, the Broadway play, and the motion picture intake, one can only let their imagination run freely in dollars and cents... We may never see another "All-Media" parlay of its genre again...

"LeMANS" didn't break any records here in the States, but is doing better than capacity [SRO] business in sunny Italy. The STEVE McQUEEN feature is the number one Yank pic in that country... SANDY DUNCAN, who's the recipient of a bounty of publicity, has a chance to impress the all important viewer in her debut film "STAR SPANGLED GIRL". And for her sake, we wish her well... Getting too much rare superlatives too soon, has been the fall of more than one "can't miss" star... One need only be reminded of EDMUND PURDUM with the "can't miss tag"... If anything, a budding thespian has a better chance of making it to the top if the individual is discovered by the critics and public...

And in this respect one only looks back on the career of, say a PETER USTINOV. He debuted in "THE EGYPTIAN" [the PURDUM starrer] with nary a drop of ink spent on his background. His characterization was so humanistically portrayed, that critics and the public alike went wild over "their" discovery... That was 17 years ago, and we all know how USTINOV's doing. But getting back to Miss DUNCAN. It irritates me what with all the pre-ballyhoo she's got. More has been written of her this year than any new name since JULIE ANDREWS. And Miss DUNCAN is no JULIE ANDREWS, even if she is pixy and all that rubbish...

Judging her by that thing she does on television, doesn't in any way impress me with enthusiasm to sing her praises. If anything, I am more inclined to do the reverse... Just have to wait and see how "STAR SPANGLED GIRL" pans out. It's slated to be released during the Christmas holidays. I just hope seeing it won't ruin my endearing, "better to give than receive" holiday attitude... "TOGETHER" is as trashy a flim as I wish I had never seen. And they have the nerve to sell it yet, as a sex educational picture... Titles can be deceiving Dept: "PLAY MISTY FOR ME" is not a romantic interlude by any means. Catch it, and you'll see what I mean...

Those wondering how the American-Russian "Cold War" is coming along should find the following bit of info an encouraging trend. Columbia Pictures has finalized a $3.5 deal with Sovexport covering 15-18 films which will be released for the Russian market... Sounds interesting, but I do hope Columbia has good sense to distribute only those films which show America in good form. I'm sure the Russians can do without motion pictures dealing with this country's drug problem, troubled youth, and what have you... "KOTCHI" establishes JACK LEMMON as a "Director" to watch. As for Walter Matthau? His best acting stint to date...

Quotable Quotes: REX HARRISON bemoaning his "STAIRCASE" servitude: "They made it a much harsher picture than both BURTON and I thought it would be when we agreed to do it. When I tried to get out of it, they threatened to sue me for a million dollars. After seeing the final cut, I wished I had paid the million"... Such is show biz!... BILL COSBY, who year ago vowed retirement, makes his dramatic film debut in "MAN AND BOY"... Wouldn't you say producer ROBERTO AMOROSO got the jump on Paramount studios with his just Italian released "THE GODSON"? He claims it's an "original" creation, though it strikes this viewer as a cheap parody...

LEE VAN CLEEF spoofs himself in the muddled "CAPTAIN APACHE". The western was meant to be a comical takeoff on the spaghetti outer genre, but unfortunately fell far short of this aim... Oh well, better luck next time... KATE MILLET, staunch critic of Male Chauvinism and all that, has formed her own film company called, unimaginatively enough, Women's Liberation Cinema Co... Miss MILLET probably feels this is as good a way as any to propagandize the masses with her doctrine of Female supremacy... DAVID MERRICK has signed MARLON BRANDO for a key role in the psychological thriller, "CHILD'S PLAY"...

"SACCO AND VANZETTI" isn't quite packing them in the way I had anticipated it would, when I first heard of its being filmed a year ago. With its' controversial subject matter, I felt this picture would be a box office hit... Then again the viewers interest could be waning from message films... Of course it's still too early to tell, but if the first box office returns are an indication, "SACCO AND VANZETTI" is a dud!...

Weymouth Jaycees Present 'Jesus Christ Superstar'

Quincy residents will have the opportunity to see and hear this area's first stage production of "Jesus Christ Superstar", Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The famous rock opera, with lyrics by Tim Rice and music by Andrew Lloyd Webber, is being presented by college, high school, and junior high school students from the South Shore and produced by the Weymouth Jaycees.

Four performances will be held at Weymouth North High School Auditorium, 1051 Commercial St., East Weymouth on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, at 7:30 p.m., with an additional Sunday matinee at 2 p.m.

"Superstar" deals with the last seven days of Christ's life on earth, including those events from the Gospel that include the entrance into Jerusalem, the plotting by the hostile priests and the night at Gethsemane. However, it is mainly concerned with the betrayal by Judas and the final crucifixion.

The purpose of the student-Jaycees presentation is to raise funds for youth projects such as a scholarship fund and a contribution towards a youth center. The Jaycees also consider the "Superstar" production to be an effective way to get students involved in the arts.

The re-creation of the stage version of "Superstar" has proved to be most impressive at the rehearsals, which were started last June. The voices of the leads combined with the support of the chorus, over-come with enthusiasm throughout the opera, result in an uncanny parallel to both the record album and the touring concert.

This particular theatrical production also includes four songs outside "Superstar" such as "My Sweet Lord", "See Me, Hear Me, Feel Me", "Mother" and "Cast Your Fate To The Wind". These songs blend into a two hour musical stage presentation that is powerful and emotive.

Good advance seating is still available. Tickets may be reserved in advance by calling Jack Fraioli at 337-4948 or Bob Stetson at 335-4505 or 337-7733. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

'Futhering Interests Of Quincy'

Brett Pledges His Support To Mayor-Elect Hannon

By DICK MATTULINA

Rep. Joseph E. Brett, defeated in the Nov. 2 mayoral election by a 17,966-15,373 vote, has pledged his support to Mayor-elect Walter J. Hannon in "furthering the interests of the city of Quincy."

"I will continue to do everything I can to support the mayor in city government as long as I feel it is in the best interest of all the people," Brett said.

The mayor-elect was unavailable for comment on Brett's pledge of support as he had not returned from a post-election vacation.

Hannon, a state representative and Ward 5 councillor, will become Quincy's third mayor in 18 years.

Some 70.8 per cent of the city's 47,978 registered voters braved a rainy Tuesday to cast their ballots.

The election gave Quincy a new mayor, three new city councillors and three new school committee members. Joseph J. LaRau, elected at-large returns to the city council after a six-year absence.

Hannon's 2,593 vote margin supported the contentions of both candidates that each had an uphill fight in the campaign.

Hannon had said he was at a disadvantage as a Republican

City Seeks Gift List For Christmas In Vietnam

The Quincy Department of Veterans Services is compiling a list of Quincy men and women in Vietnam for its sixth annual "Christmas in Vietnam" campaign.

Each year since 1966 the department has sent food and gift packages to local servicemen and women in Southeast Asia.

Director William L. Villone asks that the complete name, rank and mailing address be sent to him at City Hall, before Nov. 23.

This year's package will include cake, salami, mints, marmalade, candy, nuts and canned goods.

The Quincy Sun, in conjunction with the department, is also compiling a list for publication in order that the servicemen may also receive cards and private packages.

A light turnout is expected for the Ward 1 special election Tuesday as two young Quincy attorneys vie for the state representative seat vacated by Sen. Arthur H. Tobin.

City Clerk John M. Gillis predicts that only 20 percent of the 11,606 registered voters in the city's largest ward will turn out at the polls.

Voters will choose Tuesday between Democrat Thomas H. Brownell, 31, of 15 Moreland Rd., Merrymount and Republican John W. McGowan, 30, of 67 Bigelow St., Quincy Center.

Brownell, a former assistant state attorney general, was top vote-getter in the Oct. 19 primary with 1,494 votes.

McGowan won the GOP nod over John J. McNally by a 551-272 margin.

Democratic runners-up were William A. Dwyer with 1,122 votes, Paul D. Harold at 638 and Thomas J. Buckley, 367.

The primary election turnout almost tripled City Hall predictions of 15 percent as 4,565 voters - or 40 percent of those eligible in Ward 1 - went to the polls.

The ward, like the city, is predominantly Democratic. There are 5,716 Democrats, 2,298 Republicans and 3,592 Independents registered.

The polls will be open next Tuesday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Voters in the nine precincts will vote at the following places: Precinct 1, 2 -- Woodward School, Hancock St.

Precinct 3 -- Quincy Vocational Technical School, Coddington St.

Precinct 4 -- Nathaniel Hunting School, Pelican Rd.

Precincts 5, 8 -- Atherton Hough School, Sea St.

Precinct 6 -- Cranch St. - Whitwell St.

Precinct 7 -- Merrymount School, Agawam Rd.

Precinct 9 -- Snug Harbor School, Palmer St.

N.Q. Girls Bring Nursing Home Sunshine

Twelve North Quincy High School girls brought cookies, juice and sunshine to patients at the Marion Manor Nursing Home in Dorchester Sunday.

The girls, members of the North Quincy High School Tri-Hi-Y, spent Sunday afternoon with the senior citizens as part of a group service project.

Participating were Joanne Haley, Ellen Mullaney, Debbie Larkin, Ann Lippens, Virginia Kelley, Jeanne Warner, Ellen Rooney, Alicia Noble, Susan Donaghey, Cheryl Noonan, Dorothy Carter and Linda Vitagliano.

Joanne Haley said the patients seemed "so happy to see someone come to visit them" that the group plans to continue visits to the home on a monthly basis.

The North Quincy Tri-Hi-Y is under the direction of Mrs. Jacqueline Whitcomb.

● Youth Speaks Out

●We blew up Amchitka Island to show the world that we could kill everyone on the earth three times over. It's kind of like the game kids play over whose toys are better.

●We hope that the political signs come down with the same enthusiasm they went up.

●Did you know that there is a bottle recycling center in Braintree? The Coca-Cola company in Braintree accepts all types of bottles on Saturday morning.

●President Nixon is an excellent mathematician. The number of troops in Vietnam is directly proportional to the number of days left before the 1972 election.

●Let us hope that world conditions improve enough so that one of these Thanksgivings we can really give thanks.

●It's amazing how quickly we forget about things after the trouble has stopped. Prison reform and gun control are two examples.

●Some people accuse students of wanting change too quickly, but this isn't always true, students have been very patient about Open Campus.

WE GET LETTERS

Suggests Aug. 13 As New Veterans Day Date

Editor, Quincy Sun:

VETERANS DAY, the new MONDAY HOLIDAY, is coming soon: and of interest to all Veterans and the Public is that the second Monday in AUGUST is now proposed as A FAR MORE MEANINGFUL DATE than the present fourth Monday in October. It would fall on Monday, August 13, in THE PERPETUAL CALENDAR.

THE REASON: The Spanish-American War armistice was signed on August 12, 1898; and in WW II, the Japanese surrendered on August 14, 1945. Also, we now have no "national" holiday in August. However, August 14 is "WW II Memorial or Victory Day" in Arkansas, and the second Monday in August is now "Victory Day" in Rhode Island.

At the hearings on MONDAY HOLIDAYS in Congress, some businessmen felt that a Veterans Day celebration in November would be too close to Thanksgiving Day and Christmas. Therefore, Congress chose an October date, and may have over-looked the more meaningful AUGUST date.

I am the one who first proposed MONDAY HOLIDAYS and PRESIDENTS DAY, and I worked for their adoption until implementation in 1971. PRESIDENTS DAY was first established in Hawaii, in 1953. I'm now working to change Veterans Day to the second Monday in August as much more meaningful than the fourth Monday in October.

Veterans Day is October 25, 1971, but favorable editorial comment on my proposal of a "national" AUGUST date would be appreciated at any time, and I think many thousands of Veterans will appreciate it also.

THE PERPETUAL CALENDAR was shown and described on page 13 of The Christian Science Monitor of Wed, June 30, 1971 and may be seen in Christian Science Reading Rooms. This same article and a commending Hawaii Senate Resolution of April 15, 1971 were published on pages E9105-E9106 of The Congressional Record of August 6, 1971 and may be seen in Public Libraries.

Why The Federation Of Senior Citizens Club?

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Why the Federation Of Senior Citizens Clubs?

In 1968-69 when there was a possibility of obtaining federal funds for Senior Citizen activities and solutions for their problems the Quincy Council on Aging established a Professional Advisory Committee to come up with some specifics on resolving some of the problems.

Of the major recommendations, the most important was the establishing of a Federation of Senior Citizens Clubs. This would have two representatives from each senior citizen club in the city. A set of by-laws was drawn up and the Federation was assigned the inauguration and carrying out of city-wide senior citizen activities, with a minimum of direction from the Council on Aging.

With senior citizens doing their own 'thing' it was felt that there would be more active participation by all senior citizens than if programs were planned and carried out by the Council on Aging without consulting with the representatives from the different groups.

Without active and full participation by senior citizens in their own activities they are inclined to vegetate and, in time, lose interest in all activities that might require simply the effort to get out of the house. And, with the senior citizens themselves carrying out their activities, a heavy work load is lifted from the staff of the Council on Aging. Although the City Council has been generous in budget requirements of the Council on Aging there is still a lot of groundwork that must be covered and the Federation is the answer.

The Federation is self-governing. As long as it functions under its own by-laws it takes no orders from the Council on Aging, the City Council, or even the Mayor. And that's the way it should be.

The city election may be over as far as the general public is concerned, but two more races are off and running behind scenes.

The prizes, up for grabs: City Council president and School Committee vice-chairman.

Just about every one of the incumbent councillors is after the gavel now held by Arthur Tobin.

And, they're busy trying to put together the necessary five vote bloc before the January organizational meeting. Latest report is that no one has more than two votes - including his own.

Leading contenders appear to be John Quinn, "dean" of the council, Clifford Marshall and Vincent Smyth.

The big question is whether Tobin wants to relinquish the gavel. To the best of anyone's memory's, no council president has succeeded himself after serving two years. Tradition is that he step aside and let someone else have it.

The three freshmen councillors-Joseph LaRaia, William Delahunt and Ted McClelland [the latter's victory still subject to a recount] are not considered contenders but will have a lot to say about who does get the post.

LaRaia, of course, is not purely a freshman, having served as both councillor and council president. He could possibly become a compromise candidate for the presidency if things get deadlocked.

MEANWHILE, Paul Kelly and Charles Sweeney appear to be the leading contenders to succeed James McCormick as school committee vice-chairman at this writing.

Here, too, three newcomers-Harold Davis, Francis McCauley and Daniel Raymond-will have a lot to say about it.

LOOK FOR SOME changes the next two years around the City Council chamber on Monday nights. At least three incumbent councillors vow they will be "a new me".

They aren't too happy over the fact that they won re-election by small margins. They sense dissatisfaction on the part of voters in general and intend "to do things differently" the next two years.

One predicts the relationship between the executive and legislative branches is not going to be as buddy-buddy as it was during Mayor McIntyre's six-year administration.

With McIntyre it seemed to be "whatever Jimmy wants, Jimmy gets." Mayor-elect Walter Hannon, however, may find himself having to fight a little to get what he wants. Like Amelio Della Chiesa had to do.

No doubt there will be a brief honeymoon between the new mayor and the council. But after that, it appears that several of the councillors at least intend to stand up and speak their mind-and do their own thing.

To put it plainly, it doesn't look like it is going to be a "rubber stamp council".

MEANWHILE, the Speculation Corps is already busy guessing who will comprise Mayor-elect Hannon's "official family". And wondering who he will hold over from the McIntyre administration and for how long.

For openers, they're wondering who will get the nod for City Solicitor. Names being mentioned: former City Councillor Richard Barry, Atty. Joseph McParland and-get this-former Lt. Gov. Francis Bellotti.

Never a dull moment in politics

THE MAYORALTY race between Walter Hannon and Joseph Brett turned out to be the closest since the Della Chiesa-McIntyre duel in 1959.

Hannon topped Brett by 2,593 votes. Della Chiesa turned back McIntyre by 2,100 votes. Thirteen hundred votes the other way and Brett would be planning his inaugural address.

HERE'S ONE: Harold Crowley at the Snug Harbor School reports there was a recent discussion by grade one youngsters about the program "Evening At The Pops - Sesame Street Special".

The youngsters were asked this question: "Who is the conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra?" When no answer came, this hint was given: "Arthur...?"

And, piped up one youngster: "Tobin!"

Brett Pledges Support To Hannon

running in a predominately Democratic city. Brett expressed concern that prominent Democrats were openly or tacitly supporting Hannon.

On the issues, Hannon favored limited urban renewal in Quincy Square, extension of Upland Road and the MBTA and preservation of Wollaston Golf Course.

Brett was a "tight money" candidate, opposed to urban renewal and to the extension of Upland Road.

After his defeat, Brett said he and Hannon had "worked together for several years in the Legislature. I am sure we can continue to disagree on certain issues without becoming disagreeable," he declared.

"I will continue to do everything I can to support the mayor in city government as long as I feel it is in the best interest of all the people," Brett said.

The closest race in the election was for the Ward 3 Council seat, vacated last July by John F. Koegler.

Political newcomers Theophilus McLelland III and Peter P. Gaicia ran neck-and-neck with McLelland garnering a 35-vote victory margin, 1,657-1,622. Gaicia has filed for a recount.

The other new council face is Atty. William D. Delahunt who defeated Warren A. Powers 5,484-2,446 for the Ward 5 seat.

Incumbents were successful in re-election bids for the other four ward seats.

Edward S. Graham returned as Ward 1 Councillor with a 4,113-3,662 tally over Leo Kelly. Ward 2 Councillor Clifford H. Marshall was unopposed. Incumbent Albert R. Barilaro defeated Thomas P. Hughes, 2,089-1,578, in Ward 4. In Ward 6, J. Vincent Smyth outpolled Dennis E. Harrington Jr., 3,569-3,184.

Arthur H. Tobin and John J.

Quinn, placed first and second, respectively, in the six-man race for Council at-large with LaRata taking the seat vacated by George B. McDonald.

Results of the at-large race were as follows: Tobin, 19,761; Quinn, 18,216; LaRata, 17,842; Paul C. Kelly, 15,372; David R. Houston, 11,273; Joseph P. McDonough, 5,515.

Harold Davis, 26, an attorney, topped the six-man field for school committee with 16,396 votes.

Joining him on the board are 24-year-old law student Daniel G. Raymond, who received 15,678 votes, and former city councillor Francis X. McCauley with 14,700.

Rounding out the ballot were Christopher F. Kennedy, 14,349; Leo J. Hannon Jr., 13,322 and Dean Paul Nicastro, 12,664.

The voters overwhelmingly supported the only referendum on the ballot, providing for city licensing of "beano" games.

Beano was the top vote-getter in the election, winning by a margin of 25,190-6,550.

'The Forgotten Woman'

"A woman's place is in the home." Who said that? I don't know...but I think many people still believe it...and are against women taking jobs outside the home. Some husbands feel this way...their earlier conditioning taught them that the "woman's place is in the home." Some now feel their male ego threatened if the wife wants to go to work. I hope it won't upset our economy too much for me to say that I believe that many women would be much happier...and probably their husbands and families would too...if they were to take jobs outside their homes.

Many women are bored. They have time on their hands. The modern home with its push button equipment...no butter to churn...no bread to knead...no water to carry...no yarn to spin...no vegetables to can...the well organized woman inevitably has time on her hands. If she has small babies she probably isn't bored...but small babies quickly grow up. The number of women in their homes who have "everything" but who are restless and bored with life are legion. You may be one of them. Now you must do something with this idle time...you can gossip on the telephone...you can work on charity committees...you can sit at home and drink [millions of suburban wives are doing just that]...you can strike up an affair with some guy who has days free...or you can take a job.

You may say, "The children need me." Children need both a mother and a father...but not all the time. Too much "mothering" creates as great a problem for the child as too little. I think you can handle the "children need me" fact all right. That's been greatly over-worked.

"My husband needs me"...doesn't want me to work." I would ask "why not?" An honest need we respect...a whim should not control anyone's life. He doesn't need you as a "maid in waiting" for her lord. Meet his honest needs...of course. Still you can go to work.

The truth is that a woman may be a better wife and mother if she is working. I say this because some wonderful things can take place for the working woman. She will realize a personal growth not likely to happen if she remains in the home. One of the problems in marriage is that men grow away from their wives. Personality development results from new experiences...new encounters with people...talking with people...coping with difficult problems. The average home doesn't offer such opportunity for our women to grow.

Furthermore...the working woman can enjoy a more meaningful relationship with her husband. She can appreciate the business problems with which he has to struggle...and be more understanding...and helpful...she can "talk his language" better if she knows the language...and I haven't yet found a substitute for communication in marriage. The working woman is more likely to "keep up" with current thinking...ideas...even her dress and hair styles if she's out there where the action is. A man said recently in discussing his marital problem...to be honest with you Dr. Knox...I'm ashamed to take my wife out among my business associates...she's fifteen years behind in her thinking and dressing...she really embarrasses me." You may enhance the relationship with your husband if you can take a job.

Then...her personal organization of necessity must improve if she takes a job. Having a job is no excuse for neglect of the home...unmade beds...poor meals...laundry hamper overflowing. The truth is that there's probably more such neglect among "unworking" women than "working" women...because the women who take jobs have to be organized. They have to get up and get going in the mornings...plan ahead for meals and management of the home...and make assignments of chores for the children. That way the children too benefit...because they're learning practical responsibility. You can take a job.

Perhaps...your reason for taking a job may be the need for personal creativity...a sense of usefulness above and beyond keeping house and getting meals...some way to use your training...your mind...your personality...and at the same time put money in your pocketbook...your money...money you've earned...not money which is no substitute for that "feeling". You can take a job.

Dr. Arthur W. Trott To Head Mass. Bay March Of Dimes Drive

Dr. Arthur W. Trott, of Quincy will be campaign director for the 1972 Massachusetts Bay Chapter-March of Dimes Drive. The appointment was made by chapter chairman, Rubin Epstein.

Dr. Trott is Senior Associate Orthopedic Surgeon at the Children's Hospital in Boston. His service to the March of Dimes extends over the past 18 years back to when the March of Dimes chief concern was the eradication of polio to its chief target since 1958, birth defects.

During this time span, Dr. Trott has held many volunteer positions including Past Chapter Chairman and present Medical Advisory Committee Chairman. "Birth defects now strike some quarter of a million infants every year in this country," Dr. Trott noted, "depriving those children of an equal start in life."

To overcome this toll, the March of Dimes helps maintain more than 100 birth defects centers at major hospitals and medical centers. Throughout this network, the latest medical findings in prevention and patient care are distributed through programs of professional and public health education.

March of Dimes Chapters around the country have been working closely with local health departments and medical societies in Rubella immunization activities to end a prime source of devastating birth defects.

FIREMEN & HEART

It is universally agreed that two thirds of all heart attack deaths occur in the first hour. And of those who die in the first hour, medical experts claim that half live 30 minutes. It is this group that can be saved by emergency treatment and two California Fire Departments, Inglewood and Los Angeles County, are doing it.

The pilot program became possible under a new law which permits specially trained personnel to administer necessary drugs and perform other emergency heart care duties.

The rescue teams have gone through extensive training and each carries specialized medical emergency equipment and drugs plus a radio that allows conversations with doctors and also transmits the EKG results to the hospital.

It is quite an ambitious undertaking that warrants investigation by other communities. They're saving lives every day. ★★★★★

Brett Requests Foot Patrolmen For Squantum

Rep. Joseph E. Brett has written the Quincy Police Department a request for foot patrolmen to be assigned to the Squantum section of the city.

"As experience has shown, the officer riding around in a car cannot be in as close contact with neighborhood situations as the patrolman on the beat," Brett wrote to Chief Francis X. Finn.

"The route patrolman gets to know the neighborhood and its residents which gives him the advantage of knowing where trouble is likely to occur and whom to look for when it does," he said.

A spokesman for Chief Finn said the Squantum area is patrolled by a Scout vehicle, "and that's the only way we can cover it."

The department cited manpower problems and the increase in the crime rate in all sections of the city as reasons why officers must be more mobile.

Ask Vets' Day Observance Change

The Quincy City Council voted unanimously last week to petition Congress to change the observance of Veterans Day back to Nov. 11 beginning next year.

"This significant date in history will be far more meaningful and in keeping with the solemn remembrance of our honored dead, who paid the supreme sacrifice in World War I," the resolve read.

The petition, bearing the signatures of the nine council members and the mayor, has been sent to both Massachusetts Senators, Cong. James A. Burke and every veterans organization in the city.

Until the institution of Monday holidays this year, Veterans Day had been celebrated on November 11, the anniversary of the armistice ending World War I.

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth said he introduced the resolution because of the many comments he has heard from veterans groups and private citizens.

Smyth said he approves of celebrating certain holidays on Mondays, "but some of them should not be changed and Veterans Day is one of them."

"The thing that bothered me was that Veterans Day was observed on Oct. 25 this year, which had absolutely no significance to anybody," he said.

THE WAGE-PRICE FREEZE Questions and Answers

Q - Will the rulings of the Cost of Living Council that were issued during the freeze still be in effect after November 13?

A - The rulings of the Cost of Living Council on wages and prices will remain in effect until they are changed or altered by the Pay Board or Price Commission.

Q - I want to sell my motorcycle. I have no idea what its price was during the month prior to August 16. What should I do?

A - Inquire locally as to what comparable motorcycles sold for during the period of July 15 - August 15. Note down and retain these facts for your own records before selling.

Q - I know that, if certain criteria are met, an increase in rent can be charged for property which undergoes a substantial capital improvement. But what is meant by a "capital improvement"?

A - Capital improvements increase the value of the property, prolong its life, or make it adaptable to a different use. Some examples are new electric wiring, a new roof, new floors, new plumbing, lighting improvements, cement sidewalks, fire escapes, elevators, etc. On the other hand, ordinary maintenance and repairs, such as patching and repairing floors, repainting the inside and outside of a building, repairing roofs and gutters, mending leaks, etc., are not considered capital improvements. Thus a higher rent cannot be charged for property undergoing mere repairs.

Q - This fall, the price of fuel has increased in my area over the summer prices. Is this consistent with the freeze?

A - Prices, as well as wages and rents, which normally fluctuate in distinct seasonal patterns may be adjusted during the freeze, subject to the following conditions:

1 - Prices and wages must show a large and distinct fluctuation at a specific, identifiable point in time, which must be a documented and established practice that has taken place in each of the past three years.

2 - Each change must be tied to a specific date, e.g., in the case of fuel price increases, the beginning of the fall. In addition, the price change generally may not take place earlier this year than in 1970, unless the date is tied to a specific event.

3 - If the price or wage change qualifies as seasonal by the above criteria, the seller is permitted a choice of base periods to use in determining his ceiling price or wage for the period following the specific event. He may use the statutory base period [30 days ending August 14 or the most recent 30 days when sales were made] or he may use the seasonal period of 1970 [from the date of the specific event through November 13.] His ceiling price is based, therefore, on the prices realized on a substantial number of transactions during whichever base period he chooses to use.

4 - The seller or employer must have adequate records available to demonstrate the existence of the traditional practice in the three preceding years and the basis for calculating his ceiling price from the 1970 period.

Eric Swider To Assume Chamber Executive Duties Dec. 1

The executive reins of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce will change hands for the first time in 20 years Dec. 1 when Eric M. Swider, 29, assumes his duties as executive vice-president.

Swider, a divisional manager for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce based in Columbus, Ohio will succeed William A. O'Connell.

O'Connell, executive vice-president since April 1951, resigned Oct. 28 because of ill health. He will, however, serve the Chamber in a consulting capacity.

Announcement of Swider's selection by the Board of Directors, was announced by John Blake, first vice-president, in the absence of President Harold Stah who is traveling in the Orient.

Swider, Blake noted, has had broad-based organizational management experience serving with two local Chambers of Commerce and as the primary representative for the National Chamber in Ohio for 18 months.

He received a B.S. Degree from the University of Rhode Island, College of Business Administration, where he was Editor-in-Chief of The Beacon, the weekly newspaper and President of Alpha Delta Sigma fraternity. Upon graduation in 1963 he joined Socony-Mobil Oil Company as a marketing representative in Schenectady.

In June of 1965, Swider was named Manager of Trade Development for the Schenectady County, New York Chamber of Commerce and served in that capacity until he was chosen Executive Director of the Malden [Mass.] Chamber of Commerce in May of 1968.

In August of 1970, although far below the normal age for such an appointment, he was selected by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to be their District Manager for the State of Ohio.

In September of this year he was appointed Legislative and Political Affairs Manager, Northern Central Division of the U. S. Chamber. This position includes responsibilities for actively involving business members and organizations in grass roots legislative work in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. Swider is married to the former Claudette Lussier of Lincoln, Rhode Island. They are the parents of three children: Lee-Ann, 6; Marcelle, 3; and Jeff, 8 months.

While in Malden, Swider was the founder of Adolescent Counseling in Drugs as well as the Teen Center, Inc. He was general chairman of the Heart Fund for the Mystic Valley Region in 1968 and served as newsletter editor and executive committee member of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce Executives in 1970.

Breeze By Chelsea, 44-16

Presidents Face Tough Mustangs

Quincy's football team, the expected breeze last week, but Saturday faces one of the Greater Boston League powerhouses when it goes to Medford for a 1:30 p.m. game.

Medford was upset by Everett two weeks ago, its only loss, and is tied with Malden for second place in the league with a 4-1 record. The Mustangs are 6-1 overall and own the only win over Newton. They rallied from a 20-0 deficit to edge North Quincy, 24-20, and last week bombed a strong Revere club, 35-8.

Quincy had little trouble romping over winless Chelsea, which is trying to get out of the GBL and play independent ball, 44-16, last week at Veterans Memorial Stadium as Coach Hank Conroy cleared his bench and used 63 players. The starters played only a period and a half.

"It never gives you much of a thrill to beat Chelsea and I just hope the boys are up for the Medford game," Conroy said. "Medford is good but if we can contain [Kevin] Cunniff, who will have a chance." Cunniff, who moved from quarterback to halfback and wrecked North Quincy with runs of 73 and 62 yards and was brilliant on defense, added three touchdowns against Revere last week.

Bobby Malvesti scored three touchdowns and had a fourth nullified by a penalty. Jimmy Walker had three touchdown passes and Kevin Shea two, but Conroy preferred to talk about some of the unsung reserves who had a chance to shine.

"Malvesti and Walker were outstanding again, of course, and all the starters performed well while they were in there, but some of the boys who don't play much did a great job today," the Quincy coach said.

"Steve McCarthy, probably the best runner in the league, didn't play because of a leg injury and Jack Warren, who has been his understudy for two years, started and scored 18 points. He did a terrific job and so did George Sisti, who played defensive halfback as well as running from his halfback spot, and Peter Gacicia, who ran well. I used all three quarterbacks and the number three boy, Paul Creedon, threw some nice passes. He usually plays on defense but this was the longest he has played on offense."

Other reserves who played a good deal and were praised by Conroy were Walter Riggs, Vin Picardi, Rich Walker who caught a touchdown pass, Rich Russo, Bob Spillane, who caught two of Creedon's passes, Charlie McKay, Al Almola, playing in his first game, and Jim Smith, who played the entire second half at offensive center after missing most of the season with two broken hands [suffered at different times].

The one thing which disturbed Conroy was the excessive number of penalties against the Presidents. They were hit with more than 225 yards in penalties, including 13 15-yarders. Most were for holding and clipping. Two touchdowns were nullified by penalties, but Walker threw a TD pass immediately after his 33-yard scoring run was called back.

The Statistics were extremely one-sided in Quincy's favor in the first half but, with everyone playing in the last two periods,

QUINCY SCORING

	TD	PAT	TOTAL
McCarthy	8	6	54
Malvesti	6	4	40
Coull	5	0	30
Warren	2	6	18
Walker	2	0	12
McDermott	1	2	8
Whitney	1	2	8
Hanlon	0	2	2

Quincy's backs were thrown for losses many times and the figures changed considerably.

A fumble recovery by Quincy's Russo set up the first touchdown after a screen pass from Medford's Kevin Keohane to Mike McDonald, who scored both touchdowns, ate up 40 yards. After Walker's 33-yard run was called back by offsetting penalties, he passed to Malvesti who was all alone, for the first TD.

Quincy's Joe Coner intercepted a pass on the Chelsea 44 and on the first play Walker again hit Malvesti, who was all alone again and raced for the second score. Warren rushed for the points.

On the first play of the second quarter Malvesti raced 29 yards for his third tally and again Warren added the extra points.

Another fumble recovery, this one by McKay, paved the way for the next touchdown which came on an 18-yard screen pass from Walker to Warren. John Whitney rushed for the points.

Again in the second period Quincy scored on a 14-yard pass from Shea to Warren and Warren rushed for the points. Three plays earlier Malvesti had gone 39 yards for an apparent score only to have a clip void it.

In the third period Shea hit Walker with a 30-yard scoring pass to wind up Quincy's scoring for the day.

In the final period McDonald scored from the four after a pass from Keohane to Dick Breau clicked for 44 yards. McDonald later caught a screen pass from Keohane and raced 45 yards for the final touchdown.

After 'Day Off'

Raiders Host To Somerville Saturday

Although North Quincy's football team had a day off last Saturday, the Raiders worked just as hard as if it had a game as they prepared for Saturday's game against Somerville at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"We didn't take it easy because we know Somerville can give us plenty of trouble," Coach Ralph Frazier said. "The day off gave some of our injured players a chance to heal but we are anxious to finish up strong with wins over Somerville and Quincy."

Although North is virtually out of the Greater Boston League title picture with a 3-2 league record, it has a 5-2 overall mark and it is aiming for a 7-2 season.

Despite the fact Somerville has only one win, it has scored in every game and has almost as many points as North in the GBL.

"This team scored three and four touchdowns against three of the strongest clubs in the league with 28 points against Medford, 22 against Quincy and 20 against Malden in addition to 37 against Chelsea," Frazier said.

"They have been weak on defense with a lot of inexperienced boys but they have improved there and they could give us plenty of trouble."

North lost only to league leading Everett, 14-8, and second place Medford, 24-20, blowing a 20-0 lead against Medford.

Quincy-North Tickets On Sale Monday

Reserve seat and general admission tickets for the 1971 Quincy-North Thanksgiving football game will go on sale Monday at both high schools.

However, the defending champs, improving every week, not only won their third successive championship but finished their third straight undefeated season.

"That win gave us our fifth shut-out of the year and the 1941 during the past three years," Anastosine said. "Our three-year record is 20-0-4 and we are unbeaten in our last 27 games. The 25 goals we scored set a school record [21 was the old mark] and Marco DiCenzo's goal in the final game tied him with Marty O'Toole, now with Quincy High, for the most goals by a Sterling player in a season, seven."

Scott DeMarco scored the winner against A-N while the goals in the final game were scored by DiCienzo, Edson Westlund, Pete Keenan and Glen Schlager.

Diffienzo, DeMarco, Kearney, Pakkala, Hickey and Landers are all ninth graders, while Keenan, Bruce Aristide, Schlager, Barrus and Michaelangelo are eighth graders.

Following the final game the players presented Amoroso with a trophy with the inscription "To the number one coach. When the going got tough, we got going."

Today at 3 p.m. the league All-Stars play Sterling. Trophies will be given to the most valuable player of each team.

Atlantic, which boasted size and experience, had a starting club of ninth graders Joe Pennella, Steve Brown, Dave Nesti, Ken Sullivan, John Mackey, Steve Martenelli, Paul Mackey and Jim Ahern, eighth graders Pete Donovan and Mark Verronea and seventh graders Matt Schaefer and Ed McClaney. McClaney and John Mackey were right behind DiCenzo in the scoring race.

Other seventh graders were Charles Uranas, Steve Helfrich, Paul Rizzo, Kevin Nestor, Karl Sten, Martin Golden, Ken Johnson, Kev Murphy, Tony Reilly, Jim Maloney, Steve Papas, Norman Ferrier and Peter Will.

Broad Meadows, coached by Scott Newell, finished in third place and had one of the league's top scorers in Ken Donovan. Other BM players were Steve Giggy, Tom Connolly, Kevin Blake, Scott Corwin, Paul Flynn, Dan Lantillo, Jeff Harrison, Dave LaRosa, Billy MacIsaac, Joe McCarthy, Joe Melachern, Bill Morrison, Dick Neves, Bruce Parton, Dave Prescott, Dan Squire, Ken Thompson, and Dave Veithen.

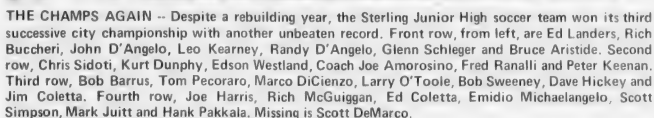

Although Paul Sullivan's Central team had little luck, it did play some excellent games and gave the leaders some tough games.

Ninth graders on the squad were Tim Kane, Joe Rice, Pat Deery, Bob Whitman, Dan Ilacqua, Dan Blaney, Neal Jordan, Buzzy Djerf, Charlie Morse, Brian Hurley, Ed Yee, Bob Voegtlin, Mark Raimondi, Gary Nankin, Bob Mewis, Sam Leoncello, Rich Nikander, Art DeLoreto, John Pagnano and Mike Gibbons.

Eighth graders were Russ Hodgkins, Joe Long, Jon Pearsall, Dimitri Ayoub and Brian Fleming, and seventh graders were John Dolbec, Charlie Reynolds, Steve Kane and Scott Needel.

Like Central, Coach Stan Sadowski's Point club had a rough season but, improving steadily as the season progressed, it gave the leaders some good competition.

The squad included Bill Ferguson, Wayne Lamie, Ed Warchal, Rich Iacobucci, Scott Fardif, Steve LeBlanc, Ed McGowan, Joe Lisinski, Glen Post, Brian Cormack, Dave Perdios, Brian Worth, Bill Maloney, Noel DiBona, Bill Mezzetti, and Paul Higgins.

● Junior High Spotlight Troup Pilots North To Ninth Grade Title In First Year

Bob Troup was one of three new coaches this year in the Quincy Junior High football league and he made a most auspicious debut by piloting North to the ninth grade championship.

North's 18-0 win over Point last week clinched the title with a 6-1 record.

The championship climaxed a fine season for the Atlantic-North teams.

John Oliva's Atlantic eighth graders had a 3-2-1 record and the seventh graders, coached by Walter McCarthy, finished with a 4-2-1 mark.

"We had a fine, dedicated group of boys," Troup said. "They all did a fine job and it was fitting they should win the title. It was a well-balanced team which displayed strong defense and a fine offense."

North had a classy starting backfield of quarterback Mike Meehan, halfbacks Paul O'Donnell and Steve Lothrop and fullback Don Schafer.

The starting offensive line had Bill Driscoll and Joe Wilkenson at end, Tim Clifford and Paul Doherty tackles, Tom Callahan and Frank Granara guards and Dennis McGuire center.

The number one defensive unit included Callahan and Walter Conley ends, Clifford and O'Donnell guards, McGuire center, Al Keliher and Chris Morton cornerbacks, Granara and Schafer line-backers and Meehan and Lothrop safeties.

Other members of the squad were Bob Marinelli, Bob Shaw, Jim Wiswell, John Furlong, Ron Colon, John Vogel, Steve McCormick, Pat Connolly, Sean Morgan, Bob Furlong, Jimmy Doyle, Allen Hendry, Mike Riggins, Bob Kennedy, Mike Driscoll, Mark Danckert, Budd Meyer, John Nolan and Pat Morrissey.

Eighth Grade Coach Oliva singled out Warren Jordan, Steve Aborn, Paul Messina, Matt Constantino, Jay Nelson and Rick Marre for special praise.

"Jordan, at 5-11 and 160 pounds, is an outstanding quarterback," Oliva said. "Aborn is a fine tackle, Messina and Constantino excellent backs. Marre a terrific defensive end and Nelson a stand-out end."

Also, Jim Smith, Frank McNeil, Steve Giglio, Jim Snowling, Bill Goslin, Tom Nazzaro, John Collins, Pete Hemphill, Jim Spavento, Dan Nolan, Mike DiMinio, Mark Furtado, Anthony Alessi, Dave

Sox Trade Won't Hurt But Won't Help Much Either

BY TOM SULLIVAN

When Red Sox officials said they were going to clean house, they weren't kidding.

They started out with a bang when they traded six players to the Milwaukee Brewers in exchange for four players, including a rookie with no major league experience.

This writer can't get too enthused over this trade, despite Dick O'Connell's opinion that the Sox got the better of it.

I don't think the Sox hurt themselves but also don't feel they helped themselves to any great extent. I frankly think they gave up a little too much.

I felt that Billy Conigliaro, George Scott, Ken Brett and Don Pavletich were sure to go and also that there was a good chance Joe Lahoud would leave. However, I was surprised to see Jim Lonborg traded, especially after the fine pitching he did over the last month of the season.

With Scott's departure, it seems certain rookie Cecil Cooper, one of the several youngsters who led the Sox to nine wins in 10 games late in the season, will get a chance to nail down the first base job next year. If, however, he fails, don't be surprised to see Carl Yastrzemski move back to first.

Tommy Harper is certainly as good as Conigliaro and Lahoud. Not only is he a good hitter and outfielder, but he can also play third base and has loads of speed. The rookie, Pat Skrabale, will undoubtedly be sent to Louisville.

The Red Sox are certain to make at least one more trade for a starting pitcher and the trade could be made by the time this story is read. They are still in need of pitchers.

It appears Manager Eddie Kasko is putting too much faith in Sonny Siebert, Ray Culp and Gary Peters, who are getting older. They blew hot and cold this year and it doesn't seem they will do any better in 1972. Peters and Sparky Lyle look like the most likely trade bait in an attempt to further bolster the pitching staff.

Rookie Roger Moret looms as a certain starting pitcher next year and another rookie, John Curtis, stands a great chance of making the grade. Look for Bill Lee to remain as one of the mainstays of the bullpen, but don't be surprised if Ken Tatum and Bob Bolin are traded if the opportunity presents itself.

Marty Pattin will certainly help the Red Sox and possibly is an improvement over Lonborg, while Lew Krause is bound to help the bull pen. He can't help but do better than Brett, one of the major Sox disappointments. However, I feel Krause's best years are behind him.

Rookie Carlton Fisk is sure to stay after being given the brushoff last spring. Pavletich was excess baggage and it is possible either Duane Josephson or Bob Montgomery could be traded.

I look for another rookie, outfielder Rick Miller, to stick next year and possibly Ben Oglive. Both looked good over the final month of the season with the Sox.

At a Quincy Rotary luncheon last year attended by members of the Sox staff, Quincy's Sam Mele stated that Oglive was sure to make the Sox in a short time.

Juan Beniquez, who sparkled at shortstop for the Sox after he and the others came up, is almost ready to take over but, with Kasko saying he expects 130 games out of Luis Aparicio, it probably would be better if little Juan played another year in the minors instead of playing only occasionally with the parent club.

One Sox player certain to remain is Supersub John Kennedy, one of the best handymen in the league. Also, don't look for Yaz, Reggie Smith, Doug Griffin or Aparicio to go. Mike Fiore is expendable, but Phil Gagliano, a real hustler, will no doubt stay.

There is still the possibility that Rico Petrocelli will be traded if the Sox can get a first class pitcher for him. This possibility looms even greater now that the Sox have Harper, who can play third well.

The Sox are trying to get the players to get back in contention for the pennant and, with the greatest fans in the league, let's hope they succeed.

Killilea Celtics Chief Scout

John Killilea, a former Quincy High basketball stand-out who later excelled at Boston University and went on to become one of the most successful schoolboy coaches in the state, has been named chief scout of the Boston Celtics.

Killilea made his coaching start at Old Town, Me., followed by successful tours of duty at Silver Lake and Melrose. His 19-year coaching mark was a brilliant 314 wins and only 91 losses.

While at Silver Lake he established a Tech Tourney "first" when he took his Class C Lakers into Class A. They won their first game but were eliminated in the second round.

In making the appointment, Celtics President Red Auerbach said, "I have known John for many years and consider him one of the best basketball minds and judges of talent I ever knew. Not only will he scout the colleges but also other pro teams."

Killilea has been active in summer basketball camps for 12 years with Auerbach, Bill Sharman and for the past seven years Sam Jones.

Veterans News

The Veterans Administration now offers high school equivalency examinations to hospitalized veterans at 97 locations and eventually will make them available at all hospitals where the need exists.

Throughout New England these tests are administered at the VA hospitals located in Jamaica Plain, West Roxbury, Bedford, Brockton and Northampton, Mass.; Manchester, N.H. and West Haven, Conn.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said "the broadened educational service would expedite patient rehabilitation."

Johnson reported that 1,115 veterans earned diplomas in hospitals last calendar year and estimated that at least twice that number will take the examinations this calendar year.

In January 1969 only 69 hospitals were authorized to give high school equivalency examinations, he said, but by January 1971, 93 could administer them.

The VA Administrator said the expanded education service grew out of negotiations last year with the Commission on Accreditation of Service Experience of the American Council on Education. The Commission sets standards for accreditation of nontraditional study with traditional schools.

Veterans not hospitalized, who may wish to take high school equivalency tests should contact their local Board of Education for the location of nearby examining facilities.

New Councillors To Get Sanitation Briefing

Outgoing Councillor George B. McDonald has called a meeting of his Disposal and Dumping Committee for 10 a.m. Saturday to acquaint the new city council with Quincy's sanitation situation.

McDonald said he called the meeting because he is "quite concerned about the life of our present municipal dumping area and the effect on our lease contract."

"Because of the state ban on open burning, we have already lost five years' lifetime from the present facility off Willard Street," he said.

The rubbish disposal contractors, M & C Corp. of Dorchester, have added an additional one and one-half trucks to their routes due to increases in refuse volume.

McDonald has invited M & C officials and Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti to inform the new mayor and council members on financial and physical needs of the future.

McGowan To Seek Delay Of MBTA Assement

John W. McGowan, Republican candidate for Ward 1 state representative, said he will file legislation to postpone direct assessment on Quincy for MBTA operating expenses.

McGowan, an attorney on leave of absence from the National Shawmut Bank, said he has the bill ready and will see that it is filed regardless of the outcome of Tuesday's election.

He charged that the South Shore MBTA line is "another example of Quincy being overrun by officials eager to please everyone but the people of Quincy."

The estimated MBTA deficit next year would increase Quincy's contribution at least $130,000, he said.

If elected, he said, "I will represent Quincy citizens and not let our tax rate be increased for the benefit of out-of-towners."

What's New Department: Candice Bergen In Clean Movie

TILLY SAVALAS, screendoms' meanest villain, and ESTELLE PARSONS, an alumni of numerous stage productions, are Broadway bound in the comedy, "SIDNEY AND THE WEREWOLF WIDOW". The WILLIAM MANHOFF scenario is slated to open in the spring of '72, provided it survives the scrutiny of out of town critics... And speaking of critics, REX REED is acting in the stage production of "ROPE" at the Pheasant Run Playhouse, Chicago. Could he be punning for a second career? If so, he has a long way to go if we are to judge him solely on his "MYRA BRICKINRIDGE" spoof... Talk persists to the effect MERV GRIFFIN's CBS contract won't be renewed Dec. 15...

Quotable Quotes: CANDICE BERGEN barbing the merits of her newest flim, "T. R. BASKIN": "It is the first film I've made that I will let my grandmother see"... At last she's made a clean movie. If Miss BERGEN continues with the new image, she may yet live up to her billing as heir apparent to GRACE KELLY... And on the other side of the coin, TONY CURTIS sounds off on his 1968 "THE BOSTON STRANGLER" Oscar nomination snub: "When they ignored me at Oscar time for my performance, I'd had it. I was finished, I don't need them anymore. They can keep their awards and nominations. Where were they when I needed their accolades?"...

Those pondering the breathtaking resurgence of ANN MARGRET as an actress, are reminded of the truth of the old axiom, behind every successful woman, there is a man. The man in her life being husband ROGER SMITH, a one-time actor turned agent-producer... Four years ago ANN-MARGRET's career as an actress and nightclub entertainer was at a standstill. As fate would have it, at this time she met, fell in love with and married the former "77 SUNSET STRIP" television personality... He at the time was also in a period of flux, SMITH was abandoning acting for producing, and immediately overseeded the career of his wife...

Coincidentally or not, ANN-MARGRET's career started uphill again with her marriage to SMITH. Acting as her business manager-agent, he wisely selected scripts worthy of her ability as an actress... Such as "R.P.M." served as tuneups in which critics took "notice" of the new ANN-MARGRET. Though not a box office success, this film spotlighted her as a jewel of a talent... VINCENT CANBY, N. Y. Times critic, wrote, "The film becomes so much-headed that only ANN-MARGRET can be recognized as truth. She is both beautiful and funny"... That was a year ago.

Today she is riding the wave of unbounded success. She is so much in demand, that if she were to accept all offers that are now coming her way, she would be committed till the year 1982... "CARNAL KNOWLEDGE" is the film responsible for bringing her critical and public recognition. However, this burst of Renaissance was brainchild, masterminded as it were, some four years back... ROGER SMITH producer-agent-husband, is the man directly responsible for ANN-MARGRET's rebirth as an entertainer...

HONOR BLACKMAN makes her cowboy oater debut in the western-adventure "SOMETHING BIG". And wouldn't you say Miss BLACKMAN makes a sophisticated about face from her ultra-femme "GOLDFINGER" heroics... From the world of James Bond intrigue to the wide open prairies is a big chasm for anyone to hurdle... Appearing opposite Miss BLACKMAN is old sagebrush himself, BRIAN KEITH... ABC-TV has purchased the rights to show the Russian-made six and a half hour epic "WAR AND PEACE". More than likely it will be video released as a three niter... And for the curious, "BORN FREE" holds down the number four position of the highest rated movies in television history...

The recent passing of CHESTER CONKLIN, 83, one of the last surviving members of the KEYSTONE KOP era, slowly brings the curtain down on the formative period of film comedy... Born in Iowa, CONKLIN received his start in show business as a BARNUM AND BAILEY circus clown. From there he graduated into motion pictures in 1913... For over a decade CONKLIN amused millions with his hilarious antics in hundreds of MACK SENNETT shorts. His best remembered performance was in "DOUGH AND DYNAMITE", in which he shared billing with another comic, CHARLIE CHAPLIN... A pioneer in the true sense of the word, CONKLIN's memory will live on in the legacy of the KEYSTONE KOP classics...

Actress YVETTE MIMIEUX is doing the CANDICE BERGEN bit with a side career as a writer. In the near future she will appear in a Warner Bros. film based on a script she wrote. We wish her well... And would you believe DR. JOYCE BROTHERS the actress? Well you'd better, as the boob tubes most famous shrink is signed for a cameo role in "STAND UP AND BE COUNTED"... Natch' the DR. BROTHERS flim has to do with Womens Lib... Oh brother!... The National Assn of Theatre Owners will honor ALI MacGRAW as its female "Star of the Year"... Continuing on the awards trail, WALTER MATTHAU was named "King of the Hall" for 1971 by Radio City Music Hall in honor of his record-setting 20 weeks as star of features which appeared at that theatre...

Wouldn't you say JOHNNY CARSON is giving Manhattan a bad rap what with his overdoing anti-Gotham gags? New York City's Chamber of Commerce is throwing gags over CARSON's sniporous tongue... Like business' sniporous tongue...

Chamber In Tribute To O'Connell

The directors and members of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce paid tribute Monday night to William A. O'Connell, executive vice president of the chamber for 20 years.

Mr. O'Connell, who is retiring from his post due to ill health, was honored at Lantana in Randolph for "twenty years of loyal and dedicated service."

Mr. O'Connell was unable to attend the 75th annual Fall meeting because of his health.

Chamber President Harold H. Slate read to the membership a citation expressing the "high regard, genuine esteem and grateful appreciation" of the chamber.

"His broad experience, sound judgement and natural administrative ability are clearly reflected in the growth and progress of the Chamber of Commerce under his leadership," the citation read.

"He is truly a remarkable man and is so recognized by his host of friends in his native city of Quincy and throughout the South Shore."

The citation read that "probably no one individual has contributed more of himself in both time and effort than he in bringing to fruition many civic improvements."

It mentioned off-street parking, public transportation, street widening, modernization of building and zoning codes, traffic control regulations, the Christmas Festival, waterfront development, and many other projects.

"Thus we pay this well-deserved and certainly well-earned tribute to a 'builder' in its highest sense, an honored and respected citizen of Quincy," Mr. Slate read.

Mr. O'Connell, the citation reads, is "a community leader who has served and will continue to serve a grateful citizenry with distinction and dedication."

The tribute was prepared on behalf of the Chamber Board of Directors and membership by former Quincy Mayor Thomas S. Burgin.

Voc-Tech Students Collecting Clothing For Indian Needy

A special drive to collect clothing for adults and children of Appalachia and the Cherokee Indian Reservation of North Carolina will be completed Friday at Quincy Vocational-Technical High School.

Students and teachers are asked to bring in clean and wearable clothing for deposit in a container in the lobby of the school. The material collected during the drive will be bundled and shipped to the Save The Children Federation in Knoxville, Tennessee.

The Federation has held such clothing drives for the past 26 years throughout the country. The Federation, which was founded in 1932, aids families in the Southern Appalachian Mountains, on American Indian reservations, and in many countries abroad.

Citizens wishing to donate clothing or shoes to the organization may also bring their items to the Vocational-Technical High School by Friday.

New Bus Schedule For MBTA Stations Nov. 27

New schedules for bus service to and from the three Quincy rapid transit stations, planned to go into effect on Nov. 20, will be postponed to Saturday Nov. 27, the MBTA announces.

The week's postponement, the Authority said, is due to an unforeseen delay in re-assigning operators for the new schedules that have already been announced.

The new schedules will be available at the three rapid transit stations as well as at other locations where bus riders usually pick them up.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox

'Only 42 More Days'

I'd risen early to write my column. My younger son came in as I was typing. "Daddy...it's only 42 more days 'til my birthday" he interrupted. "Oh!" I said between lines... "why are you counting the days, David?" "Because I only have to wait that long for my birthday"...he said innocently. His ninth birthday will be a happy celebration...they always are. Are birthdays what really makes this boy happy? Or...is it each day...his home life...school...friends...learning new things?

There's just enough "little boy" left in me to need things to look forward to...a happy meeting...a letter in the mail...an article published...a trip. The most rewarding of all for me is to see an emotionally distraught person get well...or a marriage on the rocks start sailing with joy again. I need things like this to look forward to.

Hope...anticipation for the future is an important dimension of life. Some religious people look forward to life after death...heaven for them is their big goal. They comfort themselves that however much of a failure their lives are here somehow God will put a crown on their heads when they die...and join the "saints as they go marching in." O.K. I'll not quarrel with that "hope". I personally want to start that next life at as far advanced a level as I can. I have a hunch that if we don't get somewhat accustomed to love...happiness...good relationships with others in this life that we'll be rather uncomfortable in heaven...because I understand that's what heaven's all about. Hope in life beyond is a strong tug for many of us. I think we're only ready to live when we're ready to die. I'm ready...but I'm in no hurry!

But I think we need goals and hopes of shorter range to tug us along...to give buoyancy and zest to life. Birthdays may bring the most anticipation for children. But when we grow up we soon get to the point that special days are less important than the daily progress toward life goals.

What are you looking forward to?...Christmas...A Patriot's win...a winter vacation...a new contract...a move...a new job...a boat that sleeps six? All fine...but don't stop living while looking forward to things you hope for. Such events may not really change your life that much. Changes for happiness usually come within oneself...not by outside events.

It's possible to live so much for the future and to always be looking forward to something that we miss the joys...meanings...relationships of the present. The process of living...the "how" of living...the quality of living...is as important as the achievement of the goal in bringing fulfillment and happiness.

I remember as a high school sophomore two days of preparation for a party. I remember being up on the ladder...hanging pretty crepe paper...laughing and having fun with other students. I remember the quick kiss of the girl I liked. I remember gathering up the mess in the hall after the decorations were completed. I don't remember the party...not even sure I was there. See what I mean...the process of happiness is often more important than the goal.

All of life is a process. It's what happens between the big goals that counts. It's how we handle the uneventful days...the routine part of lives...the every day relationships that really make us happy. It's how we turn the dullness of life into happiness that makes life count.

Why do many people live for the coming of some big event for their happiness? Probably because many have not matured...we remain as children...looking for a birthday...expecting God to intervene...some dramatic event to change our lives...heaven. True happiness usually is found in the daily life...relationships which we already have...husband with wife...parents with children...friends. That's the heaven that really counts. The problem for many people is that they are so inhibited in living...so petty...so fearful...so restricted in their ideas...that they aren't free to enjoy the blessings...the beauties...the things that make us happy. We get out of each day what we bring to the day.

Get rid of your limitations if you would be happy. Be true to yourself first of all...then you'll be free to be the person you want to be. Your capabilities are all built in...don't allow anything...or anyone to restrict your use of your own powers.

Don't be satisfied to grow old...looking forward to some big personal event. Instead grow up...get free...be yourself. Therein lies your key to happiness.

Graham Plans Meetings On Ward 1 Improvement Project Survey

Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham said he plans to hold regular meetings with Houghs Neck-Germantown-Adams Shore residents to present progress reports on the proposed new Federal Concentrated Code Enforcement Survey.

The City Council resolved Monday night to have the planning department conduct a survey which "might develop information that would make these areas eligible for federal neighborhood improvement funds and/or other assistance to improve homes, streets and public facilities."

Graham said he proposed the resolve so "the residents of Houghs Neck, Germantown and Adams Shore may anticipate the benefits of these programs that have occurred in other areas of our city."

Such surveys have resulted in work underway in the Quincy Point and North Quincy Area Improvement programs.

"It is possible to get a three per cent federal loan for home repairs if the area is designated and direct grants of up to $3,500 are available to eligible homeowners on limited or low incomes," Graham said.

"I can't see any drawback at all," he said. "Homeowners can fix plumbing, install new electrical facilities, new aluminum sidings and roofing. Also miles and miles of sidewalks and street lighting could be available."

Graham told the council, "It is my belief that a master plan should be developed so that home improvement loans and grants such as those available under the Federal Concentrated Code Enforcement Program, street improvements such as a parallel road to Germantown and public facilities such as a fire station in Germantown and more parkland can be developed."

He said, that, with Mayor James R. McIntyre's approval, planning director Geoffrey A. Davidson would conduct the survey and select certain streets for eligibility.

"These are things the city couldn't afford to do," Graham said. "As studies are going on, I will ask Mr. Davidson to give me information so I can have meetings with the people to inform them of progress."

Tribute To A Season

Fall, you have not fallen in our book.
When beauty dazzled from every nook.

Fiercy reds and flaming yellows,
Tell of a season as it mellows.

Your leafy splendor caressed the eye,
But now it's time to bid good-bye.

Hark, winter nears with icy tongue,
The wind will howl with hoary lung.

And when we curse at ice and snow,
We'll think of Autumn's showy show.

Mrs. Edwin F. Burnett
31 Elm Crest Road
Wakefield, Mass.

Hand Power

Lend me, for a spell,
Your eyes and ears, my dears.
And a human slender yarn
Will I spin to thee.

Begin I will with Anatomy
For the hand organ is a Physiological limb of the body.

Supported by the shoulders,
It extends to the arm,
Encircling the wrist,
Spreading out to the hollow palm of the hand.

Four fingers branch out --
Set apart from the thumb.
So arranged is this short,
thick digit,

That its pressure used against the fingers

Makes movements of seizure possible;

While the nails on the fingertips

Serve to pick up tiny things.
And also to work on elaborate and delicate mechanisms.

What the mind perceives,
The hand performs in action.
Because without this sense-perception,
Pain or pleasure wouldn't exist.

For without mind, thy hand
Twigs would be.

This delicate and powerful servant

Is "king" of the five senses
T-O-U-C-H, directed, by its Master-mind,
Every imaginable Creation has been wrought.

And especially, is it most manifest,
In the affairs of the Heart.

Endowed are we all, with
This wonderful and miraculous instrument.

But whether, it will so remain,

Solely depends on man's steady mind,

For to every force power,
Reaction there is -- good or evil.

Its impulse and stroke of the owner

A graceful "wielder" will be

For all Eternity!

Anna T. Anderson

IF WINTER COMES -- Will hotpants still be a trend? Proof positive is seen in this outfit of wine-colored cotton velveteen. The shorts are topped by a blazer that's lavishly embroidered in orange flowers. For the faint-hearted, a matching floor-length skirt is available. By Victoria Royal.

OPULENT -- Plush cotton velvet in a rich maroon color is ornamented with gold for an elegant evening look. The long, full skirt and short-cut jacket are teamed with a gold lame blouse. It's a Victoria Royal design.

Q. How can you tell when a turkey is done?

A. The use of a roast meat thermometer is recommended. It should be inserted into the thickest portion of the thigh, next to the body cavity. This is the portion of the turkey that is the last to cook done. For final checking, be sure the thermometer has not been displaced. When the turkey is done, the temperature should read about 180° to 185° F.

As a further check, cover the thumb and forefinger with a paper towel. Pinch the thickest portion of the thigh. If the turkey is done, the meat will feel very soft.

Q. Why does the roasting time for poultry sometimes vary from the recommended printed timetables?

A. The shape, quality, and temperature of the bird; the roasting pan; method used (dry vs. moist heat); and oven temperature all influence the roasting time.

Q. What is the advantage of a deep-basted turkey?

A. Each slice of white meat of deep-basted turkey is tender and juicy. This is because liquid fat is added where hand basting cannot reach and the turkey inner bastes as it roasts. Butterball Swift's Premium Turkeys are deep basted, both the regular and the stuffed.

AIRY -- Floral-printed cotton on a light ground gives an airy look to the large couch in this distinguished living room setting. The Desley fabric is repeated in tie-back draperies at the window, while upholstered chairs echo predominant colors in the print. The furniture is from Drexel's Trevi collection.

It's In To Be Thin By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

Thin is in, but so is a sense of well being.

It's not enough to be thin, if you are getting there by means of a teeth clenching starvation diet. A woman who has jangling nerves because she is undernourished isn't beautiful to her family, her friends or to herself.

If you listen, your body will talk to you. You can be slim and well fed too-if you will eat the basic four foods daily, but restrict your intake of fats and carbohydrates. Avoid fad diets-they make you tense and unhappy because your body is wiser than you are.

Hope To Make Amends Against Quincy

For Raiders It Was One Of Those Days

By TOM SULLIVAN

"We'll just have to forget about that one and look forward to Thanksgiving Day when a win will make up for this game and make the season a success."

Those were the words of North Quincy Football Coach Ralph Frazier following last week's shocking 18-12 defeat at the hands of Somerville, a team which had won only one previous game over winless Chelsea.

"We had a complete breakdown both on offense and defense," said a disappointed Frazier. "I don't know what happened, maybe the films will show us something. It was just a bad day but you can't look back. You have to look ahead and the only thing lying ahead of us is Quincy. I suppose the wolves will be after us for this game but they'll forget this one if we can just beat Quincy."

North had a day off the previous week and, although Frazier wouldn't use this as an excuse, it undoubtedly had a lot to do with the Raiders' rustiness.

"I thought the off day would help our injuries to heal but, instead, we had some more during practice and several boys were under par today," the coach said.

"But that was no excuse and I don't want to take anything away from Somerville. They have taken their lumps this year but they deserved that win today."

North hadn't fumbled for five games but the Raiders lost the ball three times on fumbles in the second half, twice late in the game when they had good drives going.

Frazier couldn't single out many players but did praise Kevin Egan, Bob Morton and Billy Fong for their defensive efforts. Jack Linnehan ran well and gave Frazier "more than 100 per cent" and Tom Burke, the team's leading runner and scorer, again ran well with 54 yards gained. Egan also did some good running.

The Somerville defense, porous all year long, had its best day and gave Quarterback Bobby McKay a rough afternoon. Although he did run well and scored both touchdowns, he completed only two of 13 passes for 28 yards and was intercepted twice.

North had a slight edge on the ground with 168 net yards to 131 for Somerville, but the Highlanders' Pat Scrima, who was under no pressure at all and had all the time in the world to throw, hit on 11 of 18 passes for 99 yards and two touchdowns. On most occasions his receivers were in the clear. He also was intercepted twice. Somerville had 14 first downs to 12 for North.

North took the lead late in the first period when McKay went around right end on a keeper for 11 yards. A rush for the points failed.

Somerville came right back and drove from its own 40 in 13 plays to tie the score on Scrima's three-yard end sweep.

North Quincy recovered its second half kickoff but soon fumbled the ball back and Somerville marched in 12 plays from its 43 and took the lead on a six-yard pass from Scrima to end Don Willey.

North went 59 yards following the kickoff in 12 plays, all on the ground, and McKay scored on a sneak to again tie it up. A pass for the go-ahead points failed.

Somerville came right back and, with the help of four straight pass completions, marched 68 yards and scored the winner on a Scrima to Paul Nunziato six-yarder.

North started to drive but fumbled the ball away on Somerville's 39. The Raiders got another shot when Scrima, to the surprise of everyone, passed with only a little more than a minute to play and Fong made a fine interception and raced to the Somerville 21. But, again North lost it on a fumble on the Somerville 18 and that was that.

Central Has Losing Season But Big Winning Attitude

Central's ninth grade football team this fall had only a 3-5 record but Mike Casali, one of the junior high school league's veteran coaches, was pleased that, despite the losing season, 32 of the 36 boys who reported for the club remained throughout the year.

"The boys' attitude was tremendous," Casali said. "Many times when you have a losing record, some of the boys lose interest and drop out and I think the fact only four dropped out this year proves their great desire."

Mike pointed to Mark Reale, Gary Quinn, Bruce Shea, Paul Coner, Steve Wentzell and Pete Raymer as the backbone of the Central squad.

"Actually, our record is deceiving as we were in every game and only a touchdown separated a win or loss in most games," Casali continued. "They were truly a great group of boys to work with. I've been at Central for some time and love it. I hope to be able to coach here for a long time."

The other members of the squad were Bear Bray, Bob McIntosh, Kevin Mahoney, Andy Wickinson, Joe Joyce, Dave Mannai, Bob Carroll, Bob Lingoes, Tom Healy, Fred

McEachern, Paul Todd, Greg Egan, Dennis Lynch, Bill Pitts, Rick Marino, Dave Keating, Pete McDonald, George Condos, Joe Lyons, Mike Gibbons, John McLaney, John Tronca, Ed Melia, Scott Mitchell, Martin O'Sullivan, Rick Avery, Mark Barry, John Alleva, Steve Mann, Frank Chiacchieri, Bob McCullough, Darby Lyons, Rick Joyce and Frank Goldberg. Jack Rabel was manager.

Although the eighth grade team coached by Joe Ryan was winless and finished with an 0-4-3 record, Casali explained that Tyan, like seventh grade coach Bob Louis, made it a point to get every boy into every game.

"Joe and Bob are great coaches and handlers of boys and the boys on both squads had great attitude and hustle. The eighth graders should do much better as ninth graders next year," Casali said.

Louis' seventh graders had a fine season with a 4-1-1 record and finished right behind Sterling's league champions.

"Bob is a fine gentleman whose only concern is the boys," Casali lauded. "Here at Central the winning factor is secondary."

The seventh grade roster included Scott Awed, Bruce Brennan, Steve Bulger, Walter Burum, Joe Canavan, Jim Connell, Bob Coner, Dan Cuddy, Brian Dierf, Rich Dunderdale, Doron Ezickson, Keith Fontaine, Jim Frye, Wayne Gardiner, Pat Gibbons, Tom Gilbert, John Govoni and Joe Johnson.

Heartache At Medford

Presidents Lose In 'Best Game' Of Year

While North Quincy's football team will be going into the Quincy game on Thanksgiving after its poorest showing of the year, the Presidents will be coming off its best game.

Despite an outstanding all-around performance, Hank Conroy's Quincy team dropped a 15-8 heartbreaker to powerful Medford last week at Medford, dropping the defending Greater Boston League champs to a 4-4 record.

"This had to be our best game," Conroy said. "The defense in particular was terrific. We held [Kevin] Cuniff, who has been running wild all year long, to 50 yards, and they couldn't complete a pass. And the offense also performed well. We fumbled the ball away once on Medford's six and had a pass intercepted in the end zone another time. They couldn't do much offensively with the exception of one 47-yard touchdown run. A bad pass from center set up their first touchdown. I'm mighty proud of our boys for their performance. They deserved better."

Quincy out-rushed the Mustangs, who are 7-1 for the year, 270 yards to 228, gained 114 yards passing to none for Medford and had seven first downs to five for Medford.

Medford's first touchdown was set up when Kevin Shea went back to his own 40 to punt but the pass from center sailed over his head and Medford recovered on Quincy's 26.

"Dan Spencer played an outstanding game on defense as did three sophomores, Mike Varrasso, Dave Sten and Paul Riggs, who started his first game at line backer," Conroy lauded.

"Fred Lumley and Allen Franzipane played extremely well at defensive end and the defensive backfield was also great.

"On offense Steve McCarthy [125 yards gained] was his usual brilliant self and Bob Malvesti again ran well. Jimmy Walker played another fine game at quarterback [seven for 18 passing for 114 yards] and Dave Coull, despite a bruised shoulder, made some more good catches. He and our other end, Bobby McDermott, were both hurting. Joe Davis, a line standout, was sick all week but played a fine game."

Mike Colonna scored both Medford touchdowns. Following the bad pass from center in the second period he scored from the seven.

In the third period he scored on his 47-yard run and Art Ventresco kicked a 25-yard field goal.

Quincy's only score came late in the game when Malvesti scored from the one following a nice run by McCarthy to set it up. Walker's pass to Rich Walter added the points.

Arthur Morrissey, an instructor at Quincy Vo-Tech, has been named coordinator of Quincy Junior High School football, succeeding the retired Jack Donahue, who held the post for several years. Morrissey wasn't appointed

220 At Morrisette Awards Banquet

More than 220 guests and members of the Morrisette Post Legion baseball team attended a banquet in the team's honor last week at the post.

The Morrisette team won the Norfolk County championship and finished second to Leominster Post 151 for the state championship of American Legion Baseball.

Chick Whelan of Needham, chief scout for the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, was guest speaker. He delivered a serious talk on youth and some humorous baseball stories.

Whelan, who signed seven of the Pittsburgh players in the 1971 World Series told the group "the youngsters and ballplayers of today are America's hope of tomorrow."

Master of ceremonies was Carl Leone, athletic director of Quincy Public Schools.

Attending were Mayor-elect Walter J. Hannon, Rep. Joseph E. Brett and Brian Carter, commander of Norfolk County American Legion.

Robert Leo Eng, state commander of American Legion, presented the state runner-up plaque from Ford Motor Co. and announced the appointment of Morrisette Post Commander Nicholas Malvesti as state vice chairman of baseball.

Norfolk County baseball chairman Charles Ward presented the District 6 [Norfolk County] championship trophy to Past Commander Ambrose Powers.

Coach Ray Cattaneo and assistant coach Bill Corcoran presented each player a certificate, jacket and team picture and promised a little extra work next year to try and win the state championship.

Among the guests were baseball scouts Bill Kearns of the Kansas City Royals, Bernie Oates of the New York Yankees and Jack Burns and Tom McDonald of the Boston Red Sox.

ENC Hopes Dimmed

Bradley Sidelined For Season

Eastern Nazarene College had expected the finest basketball team in the school's history this year but as the Crusaders get ready to open their season Friday at Boston Garden against Gordon College, prospects have dimmed considerably.

A year ago ENC had its best season ever with a 21-4 regular season record and 26-5 overall. Snubbed for an NAIA Tourney bid much to the disappointment of Coach Jim Smith and the players, the Crusaders won the Kings College Tourney in Briar Cliff, N.Y., and accepted an invitation to the National Christian College A.A. Tourney in Chattanooga, Tenn. They went to the finals before bowing to top-seeded Azusa Pacific of California, 98-86.

ENC was the first team from the Northeast ever to win a game in that tournament.

With every player due back from that standout squad, it appeared the Wollaston school would be very much in the running for a coveted NAIA District 32 Tourney bid.

But things have changed and not for the better.

Ron Bradley, ENC's most brilliant performer the past two years who led the team in scoring both years, made the NAIA District 32 all-star team for the second year in a row, was named the MVP of the NCCAA Tourney and made the Kings Tourney all-stars, will spend this year on the sidelines.

If that isn't bad enough, Clarke Adams, one of Smith's three shooters [Bradley and Don Eads were the others] has transferred to another school after averaging 17 points a game last year. Only Eads, who averaged better than 23 points and was named to both the Kings and NCCAA Tourney all-stars, is back from that trio.

Bradley, former North

Quincy High captain, underwent a knee operation in April and it hasn't come along as well as expected. "Ron wants to play but after practicing for a month he discovered the knee gives him as much pain as ever," Smith said. "The operation was a success and it is just a matter of the knee being strong enough to take the constant pounding."

Bradley will not be idle, however, as he will work with the junior varsity squad.

ENC opens its home season Nov. 30 against Barrington. It will play in the Trevecca Invitational Tourney at Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 3 and 4, the Mt. Vernon Invitational at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Jan. 28 and 29, and the Kings Tourney March 9 to 11.

Then, despite the loss of Bradley and Clarke, it is hoped the NAIA Tourney will be next.

The Red Team maintained its first place standing in the St. Joseph's Hockey League Sunday by defeating the Gold team 2-1 at Neponset MDC Rink.

Mike McNalley and Jaime Crowley were the goal scorers as the Reds picked up their second straight victory. John Alfano tallied the Gold score.

In other action, Rod Burrows and Doug Rand had two goals each to pace the Blues to a 5-2 victory over the last-place Green team.

Dennis Larkins tallied the remaining Blue score, Shawn

Polley chalked up both Green goals.

The Reds will meet the second-place Blues in a battle for the league lead at 5:15 p.m. Sunday at Neponset Rink. Also on the double-header is a match between the Gold and Green.

FIREMEN & HEART

It is universally agreed that two thirds of all heart attack deaths occur in the first hour. And of those who die in the first hour, medical experts claim that half live 30 minutes. It is this group that can be saved by emergency treatment and two California Fire Departments, Inglewood and Los Angeles County, are doing it.

The pilot program became possible under a new law which permits specially trained personnel to administer necessary drugs and perform other emergency heart care duties.

The rescue teams have gone through extensive training and each carries specialized medical emergency equipment and drugs plus a radio that allows conversations with doctors and also transmits the EKG results to the hospital.

It is quite an ambitious undertaking that warrants investigation by other communities. They're saving lives every day.

Special Interest In B.C. - H.C.

There will be considerable Quincy interest in future Boston College-Holy Cross football games.

Rich Menchi, all-scholastic end at Quincy last year, and Tom Colclough, younger brother of Jim, former Quincy ace, are playing outstanding ball for B.C. John Provost, the Presidents' top running back a year ago, is starring for Holy Cross.

Colclough, who didn't play high school ball but starred in the Army, caught a touchdown pass and Menchi was a standout in last week's 48-8 romp over Dartmouth, completing an unbeaten season for the Eagles.

Provost, who has run well all year long, scored two touchdowns in the Holy Cross Frosh's 25-20 loss to Rhode Island.

'Gone With The Wind' Breezing Back As Musical

How the mighty have fallen! Two years ago PETER FONDA and DENNIS HOPPER were riding the crest of their "EASY RIDER" bonanza... Film critics flipped their keys backwards creating new rave superlatives. A long haired following of worshipping under thirties basked in the brilliance of their anti-heroes. Theatre owners were putting in overtime adding up the "EASY RIDER" cash-in-flow, and fantasizing the fantasizing take of FONDA and HOPPER's next release... That was two years ago... It is now the end of '71 and FONDA-HOPPER, the golden boys of '69, have come up cinematic losers...

If "THE LAST MOVIE" is an example of DENNIS HOPPER at his creative best, I for one hope the "boy wonder" never makes another flick. What HOPPER has produced is not entertainment, but a potpourri of irrelevancy ticketed to the taste of sub-adolescent minds... A four star failure, if such a thing is possible, and most definitely one of the worst edited pictures of the past 10 years... "THE HIRED HAND" was to have been PETER FONDA's contribution to the genre of great westerns in the "HIGH NOON" tradition. At best, it wouldn't rate in the old KEN MAYNARD-HOOT GIBSON B-category...

Critics have been embarrassed by the FONDA-HOPPER flops, and played down their reviews so not to offend. The Youth Market, which allegedly comprises 74 per cent of the market, have stayed away in droves. Theatre owners are groaning for having booked the films in their houses... Not exactly shades of "EASY RIDER". But then again, isn't that era, though two years past, on the wane?... If PETER FONDA and DENNIS HOPPER are to grow and succeed in their craft, they, like others in the business, are going to have to stop catering to the whims and fancies of viewers with delayed, hypersensitive juvenile mentalities...

The Broadway acting itch is bugging more than one actor... SAMMY DAVIS JR. is contemplating a Broadway return in an all-Black version of "A TREE GROWS IN BROOKLYN". And a musical version of "GONE WITH THE WIND" has television actor GEORGE MAHARISHI frothing for the Rhett Butler lead... Sports enthusiasts take note that the fourth game of this years World Series was the third highest-rated game in the Series classic. Better than 21 million homes were tuned in... Those who couldn't forget JENNIFER O'NEILL in "SUMMER OF '42" won't want to miss her second motion picture, "SUCH GOOD FRIENDS". The film world premieres in New York Dec. 22, and will be making the greater Boston rounds sometime in January...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: Female impersonator JACKIE discussing why impersonators won't appear regularly on television or in the movies: "We're not accepted by the majority of people as 'entertainers'. Like the customers who watch our acts in clubs. Some consider us freaks. But in reality they're the freaks, because they're the ones who've paid to see us perform. If they don't like our act, tough'...' A native of Portugal JACKIE talked on the difference of attitudes between Europeans and Americans: "People here are basically narrow-minded. To be blunt they're backward. In Europe, peoples attitudes are so different. They accept you for what you are, not what they think you are"... A world traveler of 15 years impersonating experience, JACKIE singled out, "The Madeira Club in Provincetown as the top Club in America"...

Those familiar with the life and times of MARLON BRANDO should be aware by now of his two sided personality. You know, like the old temperamental BRANDO, and the new cooperative BRANDO... For the past year and a half, BRANDO has been at his very best behavior. He didn't pout on the set, give directors a hard time, or back out of contracts the last minute... Those who follow this column will remember my mentioning that DAVID MERRICK had signed him for a lead role in "CHILD'S PLAY". MERRICK undoubtedly was mesmerized by the personality change in this highly talented actor... However, no sooner did these two start working together, than did the old BRANDO re-surface.

St. Mary's Parish Honors Sexton Vincent Evacious

Parishioners and friends honored sexton Vincent Evacious Monday night with a roast beef banquet on his 45th anniversary as custodian at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

Rev. John J. McMahon, pastor, presented Mr. Evacious a color television set in the testimonial in the parish hall.

Among the other gifts he received were a wristwatch from the church ushers and a clock radio given by members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Invited guests included: Msgr. John Mullarkey, retired from St. Pius Church, Lynn; Rev. Walter Flanery of Pope John Seminary, former curate at St. Mary's; Rev. Anthony Cintolo of Framingham, former curate.

Mayor-elect Hannon, Rep. Joseph E. Brett, Councilor-elect Joseph LaRaia, Ward 6 Councilor J. Vincent Smyth and Ward 4 Councilor Albert R. Barilaro along with parish curates Rev. Richard Conway and Rev. Francis O'Brien.

Sr. Joanie, sister superior of St. Mary's School, spoke for the nuns of the parish; Mrs. Gail Kilcommons brought the greetings of parish women; Fred Donahue spoke for the men and Jean Flanagan spoke for the children of St. Mary's School. Toastmaster was Edmund Grogan.

● Youth Speaks Out

Society's Children

On Oct. 5, of this year the Student Government of North Quincy High passed a proposal that the boundaries of the school be extended to include the store at the corner of Hunt and East Squantum Streets.

The proposal was then forwarded to the administration of the school for approval. The reply of the administration was as follows: "We are reluctant to recommend to the office of the Superintendent of Schools the extension of the school boundaries...until such time as our present grounds are maintained in satisfactory condition."

We suspect that the administration has not brought the problem of litter into proper focus. When one attempts to solve any problem, it is important that he attack the source and not the symptom. The real source of the litter at North Quincy High, or anywhere else, is our society and the way in which it has "programmed" the people of our society into disregarding other people's property and rights when disposing of waste, and how many are there among us who are not guilty of this?

Everywhere one goes today he is confronted by trash, foul air and polluted water. Every day we allow big business to contribute to environmental deterioration by pumping tons upon tons of filth into our air and water. Blame has been placed on factories, dumps and people but actually little has been done to stop the problem. When will this problem be solved? Hopefully soon; probably never.

The fact is that there is litter at North Quincy High, just as there is at nearly every street corner in this country. Committees can be formed, and Class Officers can talk about litter at assemblies, and we can always strive for improvement, but if we are not pleased with the results, we should all remember that the students of North Quincy High are all members of a dirty society, and as long as this is true we shall all share the blame.

●Newspapers keep reporting the small numbers of American deaths each week in Vietnam as if it's something to be proud of. We should only be proud when there are none.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

Many people don't know why they're married. They're not sure the purpose of the marriage...where they're going...or what goals they're trying to achieve. Somewhere in the Old Testament it says..."where there's no vision the people perish." This applies not only to national leadership...it applies in a marriage.

There are several types of marriages. Often people are living one of the types without realizing it...and are confused because too often their marriage isn't what they want...and what they want is a very blurred picture.

One type is the CHILD CENTERED MARRIAGE. This is the marriage where everything is centered around the children...children's desires come first...children's needs come first...trips are where the children want to go. Going out to eat...we go where the children want to eat...and never without the children. There are camping excursions with the children...visits to museums...children's drama and musical concerts. Everything is with...and for the children. Sometimes husband and wife agree that they want this kind of marriage. Very often only a wife wants it...and gets it...but has an unhappy husband. Sometimes it's what a man wants while his wife is looking for an adult relationship which she doesn't have with her husband. It's doubtful that such a marriage is very good for children. It's likely that there'll be two lonely adults...probably strangers to each other...when the children are grown and leave. Is this your kind of marriage?

Another type is the DUAL TRACK MARRIAGE. In this type the husband runs his business or profession...takes business trips...has his friends...goes to his club. The wife runs her life of clubs...charity luncheons...perhaps a teacher...artist...or runs a boutique shop of her own. They run on dual tracks. They may even compete for business success...or income...or prestige. One wife said..."I had to do something...I was left alone for weeks at a time...so I started my business and it has given me greater income than his." Some couples may cooperate...lunch together occasionally...combine a business and shopping trip to New York. This type of marriage works fine...so long as the dual tracks are parallel. A clown can ride two horses if they run along together. But this is tricky if they don't.

Then there's the MOMMY LITTLE BOY MARRIAGE...and the DADDY LITTLE GIRL MARRIAGE. There are grown men who still need a mommy to clean up after them...get them up mornings...goad them to fix the broken step...care for their money. They didn't learn to be responsible as little boys...mommy did it all. They didn't even need to learn to think...mommy thought for them. In the marriage of this grown up little boy he has just transferred his dependence upon mommy to his wife. Only the domineering wife likes this arrangement...and she sooner or later loses respect for her "little boy husband".

Many grown women still want to be daddy's little girl. Some husbands need a "little girl wife" to make them seem big and strong. But most men deplore this kind of adult woman. Her problem is that Daddy spoiled her...and now she expects the same indulgent treatment from her husband. She never learned at home to cook...nor to be responsible for her room and other home chores. Daddy required nothing of her...just worshiped her...his little beauty. This "little girl wife" places a heavy burden upon her husband. Is this the kind of marriage you have?

The marriage which most people want...and few people have...is the ROMANTIC COMPANIONSHIP MARRIAGE. Their marriage is a continuation of their courtship. They have much variety in their activities...they come first with each other...they go together everywhere and like it...they never tire of making love with each other...they never run out of new ways and places to express their deep affection for each other. They never allow anything...nor anyone to come before each other. They make decisions together...they feel a mutual tug of their dreams for the future. With each passing year they know each other better...have deepened their love for each other...have learned by each other's habits and ways of life to please each other more and more. They have become ONE...an adult love story. Though most people start out this way...only a few continue this way...because only very mature adults can live out this type of marriage.

Finally...there's the COMBINATION MARRIAGE. In this marriage there is devotion to and care of the children...but the children don't dominate. There are separate interests...but back home each evening they share these interests with each other. They go out together and feel occasionally as romantic as they did at the Junior Prom. This kind of marriage is probably what most people settle for in the end. If it meets both partners' needs it may be the marriage which will have the most lasting power. Once again...only adults can make this kind of marriage work.

But after all...isn't marriage for adults...the ones who have goals...vision...feel the tug of their dreams?

Quincy will observe Thanksgiving Day tomorrow with special church services, family turkey dinners, the annual Quincy-North Quincy football game and public school charitable projects.

Twenty-four families will receive fully-prepared turkey dinners as a gift from the students at Atlantic Junior High School.

The students collected $400 for 24 20-pound turkeys which have been prepared by the school's home economics classes and distributed by the Salvation Army.

Needy families will also thank the 86 kindergarten children at Wollaston School who donated canned goods for two holiday baskets.

More than 15,000 persons are expected to crowd Veterans Memorial Stadium this year for the 39th annual city championship football game.

Quincy and North Quincy High Schools enter the last game of the season with identical 3-3 records in Greater Boston League competition.

The North Quincy Red Raiders will be looking for their first Thanksgiving Day victory in three years as they face last year's league champion Quincy Presidents.

Opening kickoff will be at 10 a.m.

Members of every graduating class since the two teams began competition in 1933 will gather at the soccer field behind the stadium at 8 a.m. for a reunion.

Signs denoting school and year will be set up at the gathering point for each graduating class.

The Quincy Police Department has detailed 21 men to direct traffic and handle the crowd at the game.

Brett Reports $8,929

Hannon Spends Total $35,318 In Mayoral Election Campaign

Mayor-elect Walter J. Hannon spent a total of $35,318 on the preliminary and final election campaigns, or almost four times the $8,929 expended by his opponent, Rep. Joseph E. Brett.

The $17,446.42 Hannon spent in the final election equaled almost exactly $1 per vote as he defeated Brett 17,966-15,373.

Brett, on the other hand, spent only $6,090 in the final campaign, according to figures filed with the City Clerk's election office. In the preliminary election Hannon reported he spent $17,852 compared to $2,838 for Brett.

Some 129 persons made contributions to the Hannon campaign, including 28 donations of $200 or more. Brett received 89 contributions from individuals and organizations, with only four parties donating more than $200.

Prime sponsor of the Brett effort since the primary was the Massachusetts State Labor Council, AFL-CIO, with two grants of $500 each.

Other contributors included Edward Moore of Milton, $200; Peter MacDonald, 102 Presidents Lane, $250, and Theresa E. Golden, 38 Terne Rd, $300.

Persons contributing $300 or more to Hannon's campaign included Erwin S. Cohen, 26

Rockway Ave., Weymouth, $300; James R. Fallon, 82 Fayette St., Quincy, $500; Helen B. Hannon, Kennebunkport, Me., $1,000; Walter J. Hannon, 45 Forbes Hill Rd, Quincy, $1,500.

Also Edmund Hohmann, 48 Sealund Rd, $300; Edwin G. Johnson, 138 Washington St, $500; Marshall B. Sedman, 59 Reedsdale Rd, Milton, $500; and Joseph F. Simpson, 381 Quincy Ave., $500.

Financial statements on the councillor-at-large race show Arthur H. Tobin reporting contributions of $535 and expenses of $1,369. Joseph J. LaRaia received $3,695 and expended $3,887.

Paul C. Kelly, who placed fourth in that race, spent some $4,963, or more than twice his contributions of $2,036.

David R. Houston received

$2,950 and spent $2,828, while Joseph P. McDonough, who received no campaign contributions, spent $646.

Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham spent $1,239 for re-election. His contributions totalled $1,455.

Councillor-elect William D. Delahunt of Ward 5 reported contributions of $2,218 and expenditures of $2,201.

In Ward 6, Councillor J. Vincent Smyth received $230 and spent $409 for his re-election.

School committee returns show winners Harold C. Davis spending $1,285 with contributions of $320 and Francis X. McCauley spending $1,495 with contributions of $1,350.

Christopher F. Kennedy spent $1,121 and received $205. Leo J. Hannon Jr. received $727 and spent $731.

BREAST CANCER-CURE

Breast cancer is so common - over 60,000 American women contract it every year - that physicians agree that every woman should examine her breasts every month for signs of it. At least 85 per cent of all breast cancers are curable if caught early enough. But over half are now fatal because of needless delay. The intelligent woman who examines her breasts monthly, and in a systematic manner, stands an excellent chance of detecting cancer early - before it can endanger her life.

Unfortunately, far too many women wait too long to see their doctors when a suspicious lump is felt. In a Scotland study of several thousand breast cancer surgery patients, the average size of the tumor was a little over an inch - three times the size of the smallest lump that can be felt.

If you are not sure how to examine yourself, ask your local Cancer Society office or your family physician.

Thought Clover

Talents flourish best,
When your eyes focus on this clover-cocoon bed, Burgeoning with leaves of four thought-blossoms.

For "three poems" have I unfolded,
To be folded in Any process of Creation.

We begin with the First
leaf-bud:

"As a man thinketh ..."

In moods of meditation, mind

Becomes flooded with thoughts and ideas,

Flashing back and forth, waiting

For your right selection movement.

Creeps in the Second
leaf-bud:

Procrastination ... enemy of production.

Crush we must, its negative
fangs of inertia,

If positive gestures are to be aroused and mastered.

Bringing us to the third
leaf-bud:

Springing with action ... Hand Power.

Displaying intricate expressions of mechanical and intellectual dexterities.

Essence of the Fourth
leaf-bud:

Is Service to All people.

Paramount ... "circulation is," for this

Symbolic and fruited Success
Clover;

Topped with power volts both in

The consumer and product consummation.

THINK PRETTY Beauty is as near as kitchen

By PEGGY WALKER
Copley News Service

Any woman can be a natural beauty. The makings are only as far away as the kitchen, in most cases.

A growing school of beauty buffs who believe in using what comes naturally will tell you you'll find some of the world's best beauty treatments right there where you whip up the bananas Foster and the turkey tetrazzini.

And it doesn't take a degree from Cordon Bleu in Paris to qualify for kitchen cosmetology.

Here's a sampling of how some at-home, do-it-yourselfers keep up their good looks with some pretty simple fixings from the kitchen cabinets. No overnight miracles are promised but those who recommend them believe the recipes are as good as anything yet to be found in a jar.

One part honey to two parts oatmeal mixed into a paste, said one pretty career girl, makes a good facial pack. And if there's not honey in your cupboard, oatmeal mixed to a fine paste with warm water or milk is said to do the trick.

Another naturalist substitutes cornmeal and water for her facial, and perks up her skin with a cucumber masque made simply by pulverizing the cucumber in the blender.

For shining, fresh-looking skin after cleansing, oranges, lemons and limes make good astringents. Mix them with a little sour cream and apply. Bananas are suggested for the skin that requires less tightening.

Add a smidge of honey around the eyes, mouth and on the neck and it will work to seal in moisture while the sour cream masque goes to work. Remove with cool water.

For variety on the facial pack, egg white mixed with evaporated milk is said to be a good tightening treatment.

The egg may be one of woman's best beauty aids. Beaten egg adds gloss to hair and works as a conditioner after shampooing. One beauty simply cracks the egg over her head, works it into the hair and rinses it out.

Another uses one part egg white with two parts water as a hair set.

More hair treatments from the kitchen include chamomile tea or lemon juice for blondes, as after-shampoo rinses, and for brunettes, vinegar.

Lemon juice bleaches hair when it needs to be disguised, said one proponent. She advised its use, either full strength, or mixed with water or milk, to bleach unwanted facial hair.

Here's a tip for soothing irritated or dry skin: a little baking soda or borax added to warm bath water helps, and almond meal also acts as a soother in the tub.

Baking soda (bicarbonate of soda) is also an excellent water softener. It's nonpolluting, by the way, it's cheap and it contains minerals found in famous health spas around the world.

P. S. — Baking soda also acts as a deodorant. If dusted on like powder after bathing, it will help keep the skin dry and it's also recommended for those with oily hair. Add a tablespoon to two ounces of shampoo.

For those with dry hair, a treatment to try is adding two tablespoons of polysaturated oil to three ounces of shampoo.

And for dandruff — reach for the spice shelf. Herbs are being used more and more in commercial shampoos for their mild astringent qualities. Some help cure skin irritations and eruptions, are therapeutic as antiallergics, stimulate the scalp and hair growth and fight dandruff.

You can add herbs to your own hair treatment. Try a mixture of rosemary, grated burdock root, sage and thyme, boiled in one pint of water strained and cooled, to keep dandruff in control.

It's In To Be Thin By Lois L. Lindauer Director, The Diet Workshop

Your elementary education should tell you that one high caloric dinner, plus one Ice Cream Soda or Sundae at 10:00 p.m., will equal at least two extra pounds at your next weigh-in. And it could be more—depends on your metabolism.

It isn't new math to old calorie counters, but we still sometimes think that what we eat after dinner doesn't count. Especially if we eat it in the dark. Not true. If you stoke the furnace with more fuel [food] than it can use, the result is ugly, demoralizing and unhealthy fat.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Services For William J. Martin, South Shore Bank President

Services were held for William J. Martin Jr., 35, of 27 Summer St., Marshfield, president of South Shore National Bank, Quincy, since February 1970.

Mr. Martin died Nov. 17 at Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

He graduated cum laude from Milton Academy in 1953 and received his bachelor's degree from Yale University in 1957.

After his graduation he joined the Navy and served until 1960 when he was discharged as a lieutenant.

Mr. Martin received his masters degree from Harvard University School of Business Administration in 1962.

He joined South Shore National Bank that summer serving as a bank cashier. He developed and directed the data processing division and the systems division of the bank the following year and headed the automation department of the bank.

Mr. Martin was elected a vice president and appointed a director of the bank in 1964. In 1968 he became an executive vice president.

In February 1970 Mr. Martin was elected president of the bank.

Mayor James R. McIntyre described Martin's death as "a real tragedy for Quincy and the business community of the South Shore."

"He was a fine young man, extremely intelligent, a young leader of the banking world whose future was unlimited," the Mayor said.

"It was a deep personal loss for me since I knew him well and liked him very much," said Mayor McIntyre.

Mr. Martin was also a director of the New England Bankcard Association, a director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and Jordan Hospital, Plymouth.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Gail [Anderson] Martin; two sons, William J. Martin III and Timothy W. Martin, both of the home address; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Martin Sr. Mr. Martin Sr. is a former president of the bank.

Vandals Strike Again At Quincy Memorial Co.

Vandals have caused some $5,000 damage at Quincy Memorial Co., 218 Willard St., West Quincy, in two separate incidents during the past two weeks.

About 50 headstones were knocked over last Thursday and vandals attempted to set fire to the neighboring Harding Welding and Piping Corp., 232 Willard St.

The previous Friday intruders toppled 28 gravestones on display, according to Paul Ricciardi, president of Quincy Memorial Co.

Last Thursday's damage amounted to approximately $3,000. Ricciardi said some of the overturned stones weighed as much as a ton.

The welding company suffered $30 damage to a door which vandals had splashed with gasoline and ignited.

Firemen arrived to extinguish the blaze shortly after 8 p.m. The state fire marshal's office has been called in to investigate.

Community Clinical Nursery To Receive Federal Aid

Community Clinical Nursery School of Quincy is one of nine institutions in the 11th Congressional District which will benefit from more than $2,500,000 to state departments.

Cong. James A. Burke, D-Milton, said the funds have been granted to the departments of Education, Mental Health, Public Health and Public Welfare to be used on behalf of handicapped children.

Cong. Burke also announced that Norfolk County has received $1,168,000 for Title I programs for Children in low-income families, foster homes and institutions.

Kenneth P. White, 57,

President Quincy Junior College

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Quincy Junior College President Kenneth P. White, 57, of 97 Pinckney St., Boston.

White died Saturday of a heart attack after the car in which he was riding struck a guardrail on Route 24 near the Route 27 exit.

He had served as director and then president of the college since its beginning in 1958.

"For more than a decade President White spent his every energy nurturing the junior college he so deeply loved, from its initial founding to its present status as a proud and flourishing institution," said School Superintendent Dr. Lawrence Creedon in tribute.

An ecumenical service was held Tuesday at Bethany Congregational Church in Quincy. Burial was at Riverside Cemetery, Newcastle, N.H.

In lieu of flowers, contributions in his memory may be made to the Kenneth P. White Scholarship Fund, in care of Quincy Junior College, 34 Coddington St., Quincy.

Classes in the day and evening and the community services divisions were cancelled Tuesday and Wednesday in respect to Mr. White.

Dr. Creedon's tribute follows: "The untimely passing of Kenneth P. White, president of Quincy Junior College, has saddened all of us who have been privileged to work with this gentle man and dedicated educator.

"Kenneth P. White and Quincy Junior College are synonymous in the minds of thousands of young people and area residents who came in contact with the President of the college.

"For more than a decade President White spent his every energy nurturing the junior college he so deeply loved, from its initial founding to its present status as a proud and flourishing institution of higher education.

"Mr. White was the first and thus far only President of Quincy Junior College and his passing brings to a close a chapter in the development of the college.

"For the past several years President White has been in declining health, but his dedication to his school time and time again forced him to stay at the helm for just one more semester.

"In an era of rapid change, the abandonment of tradition, and unrest on college campuses, President White moved ahead slowly developing Quincy Junior College from a part-time evening school for a few dozen students, with only himself and a secretary as full-time staff people, to an institution that now enrolls over two thousand students.

"While other institutions were discarding their heritage, Ken White set about the task of developing traditions at Quincy Junior College. He was always close to the student body and that factor more than any other undoubtedly accounted for the fact that during this present period of campus unrest Quincy Junior College never became the scene of overt acts of civil disobedience.

"In the past few years President White became a staunch advocate of Quincy Junior College affiliating with the network of state supported community colleges. He looked forward to the day when his college would move to its new campus and take its place among the other community colleges of the Commonwealth as South Shore Community College.

"To me personally, Ken White's untimely death is a personal loss. I have worked closely with him for close to a decade and came to hold him in high esteem. He gave his life to Quincy Junior College, and no man could do more."

City Championship At Stake Thursday A

By TOM SULLIVAN

THE GAME IS THE GAME whether or not there is anything at stake except the city championship.

That is the way Quincy Coach Hank Conroy feels as he seeks his sixth win in eight starts against North Quincy on the holiday.

The past three years the Greater Boston League and Eastern Mass. Class A titles were at stake but this year there is nothing but the city crown and another win in the 39-year series hanging on the outcome.

A year ago Quincy won, 16-6, to complete its first perfect season and win its first undisputed GBL Crown as well as sharing the Class A championship.

Two years ago Quincy's 53-0 breeze, the highest score in the series, gave the Presidents a share of the league title.

In 1968 North would have won its second league title but Quincy upset the appecart, 21-8, to give Somerville the crown.

"This hasn't been a particularly good season for us [4-4]," said Conroy, but we have been improving and a win in this game makes the season a success.

"We were in every game except the Weymouth South game which we definitely took too lightly, and the boys have played good ball, have come along well as we hoped and the defense in particular has begun to jell, raising our hopes against North. We looked for improvement and got it. The defense was the best ever in our last game at Medford.

"And this is the big one no matter how a team has done during the season. The boys want to say they defeated North."

The last game was a heartbreaker for Quincy as it held the renowned Kevin Cunniff of Medford to 50 yards and outplayed the Mustangs throughout the game.

Conroy is trying for his fourth win in a row and sixth in eight games against the Raiders.

His first two teams won, 12-8, and 20-16, then lost the next two, 8-0 and 14-6. His last three won, 21-8, 53-0 and 16-6.

Quincy's offensive hopes rest on the running of Steve McCarthy, rated the best runner in the GBL, and Bobby Malvesti and the running and passing of quarterback Jimmy Walker. Jim Hanlon, converted from end to fullback, also runs well.

Other backs who have come along and done some good running include John [Duke] Whitney, Jack Warren, George Sisti and Pete Gacia.

Kevin Shea and Paul Creedon, a junior, back up Walker at quarterback and do a good job.

Three of the keys to the improving defense are sophomores, 250-pound Mike Varrasso, big Dave Sten and Paul Riggs.

Conroy will open with an offensive lineup of Dave Coull, an outstanding pass receiver, and Bobby McDermott at end, Bobby Volpini and Joe Davis at tackle, Ed Sylva and Ron Smith at guard and Frank Catrambone at center.

Walker, McCarthy, Malvesti and Hanlon will make up the starting backfield.

Starting on defense will be Fred Lumley and Allen Franzipane at end, Sten and Varrasso tackles, Dan Spencer and Hanlon middle guards, Joe Coner and Riggs or McDermott linebackers, Malvesti, Gacia, Rich Silva or Walker halfbacks.

McCarthy, McDermott, Coner and Davis are the Quincy captains

Last Year's Attendance 15,336

A year ago, a crowd of 15,336 paid to see Quincy defeat North to end its first perfect season.

Despite the fact this week's classic has nothing at stake except the city crown, the crowd is expected to approach that of last Thanksgiving.

Although the paid crowd was 15,336, it was estimated that more than 20,000 may have witnessed the hard-fought clash, including the two high school bands, cheerleaders, special guests and the many who perched on the walls, in trees or lined the MBTA bus garage yard.

The record paid crowd for the long series was 18,003 back in 1946 when Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone sparked Quincy to a 31-6 win.

"Although the official paid attendance was 18,003, I bet there were 25,000 watching that game," said Jack Donahue, now retired, who coached North that year and who piloted the Raiders for 37 years before giving up the reins in 1960.

s Quincy, North Clash In THE GAME

If any man has good reason for wanting a win over Quincy on the holiday it is North Quincy Football Coach Ralph Frazier.

In three years as a varsity linebacker for North and two years as the Raiders' head coach, Frazier has yet to enjoy the sweet taste of victory over the Presidents.

Not only that, but Ralph was on the North team of 1955 which was walloped, 44-20, the biggest score in the series until the Presidents' 53-0 breeze two years ago and Frazier was North's first-year coach on that occasion.

"Yes, a win this year would be particularly sweet for me," Frazier agreed. "A win over Quincy is naturally what we all want but for me it would be especially welcome.

"Following our first few games I suppose people were favoring us to win but the way things changed the past few weeks it looks like a pretty even bet."

North started out by winning its first four games before losing a 20-0 lead and bowing to Medford, 24-20. Meanwhile Quincy was having its troubles and was struggling along.

However, the Presidents improved steadily, especially on defense, and are coming off their finest game of the year despite a 14-8 loss at Medford, while North comes into the big one following its poorest game, an 18-12 surprise loss to Somerville.

"We will be as healthy both mentally and physically as we have been for any game and when you lose one like we did against Somerville, you are anxious to play the next game and it is a good thing for us Quincy is that game. The boys are really raring to go and make up for that loss."

Frazier stressed that he will make no changes for the Quincy game and will continue to rely on the running and passing of Bob McKay, one of the Greater Boston League's premier quarterbacks, and the ball carrying of Tom Burke, Jack Linnehan and Kevin Egan.

McKay has two fine passing targets in big ends Dave Mahoney and Jim Driscoll, while Burke, a senior who hadn't played since his freshman year, is also an excellent receiver.

Burke ranks as one of the best runners in the league and a fine duel looms between him and Quincy ace Steve McCarthy.

North's defense was strong all year but the pass defense was weak against Somerville as the Raiders failed to rush Pat Scrima and also left the receivers wide open on most occasions.

Frazier will start an offensive line of Ends Driscoll and Mahoney, Tackles Dick Meyer and Joe Morrissey, Guards Bill Matthews and Bill O'Hare and Center Paul Cadigan.

McKay, Burke, Linnehan and Egan will start in the backfield with Bobby Morton and Sophomore Carl Leone backing up McKay and Billy Fong. Paul Cunniff and John Pomerole among those ready to step in as ball carriers.

On defense North will start John Harrington, Bernie Halloran or Mark Mulvaney at left end, Driscoll or Steve Fransoso at the other end, Meyer and Morrissey at tackle, Walter Collins and Egan at line backer, Mahoney or Mulvaney at the corners, Morton at safety and Fong, Bob McCormick or Bobby Guerriero halfbacks.

Frazier North's Third, Conroy Presidents' Eighth Coach

When the city rivals clash on the holiday, Ralph Frazier will be only the third North Quincy coach since the series began in 1933.

In contrast, Hank Conroy is the eighth coach to guide the Quincy forces.

Jack Donahue coached North from 1933 through 1960, Carl Leone coached from 1961 through 1968 and Frazier began in 1969.

The first Quincy coach to face North was Jimmy LeCain, who coached from 1933 through 1936, followed by Harry Downes in 1937, the late Munroe MacLean from 1938 to 1942 [he then entered the service], Owen Webb in 1943, Danny Alvino in 1944 and '45, MacLean returning from 1946 to 1951, Bill Sullivan from '52 to '59, Jack Garrity from 1960 through '63 and Conroy from 1964 until the present.

Leone, Creedon Familiar Names

Back in the mid-40's Quincy's Athletic Coordinator, Carl Leone, was a standout quarterback for Quincy High.

In the late 40's Supt. of Schools Dr. Lawrence [Larry] Creedon was a guard for North Quincy.

Leone's son, Carl, is now a sophomore quarterback at North

Quincy and could see some action in the Thanksgiving Day game.

Creedon's son, Paul, is a junior quarterback for Quincy and, although his offensive action has been limited, he has played a great deal on defense and is certain to see action for the Presidents Thursday.

Quincy Jayvees Finish Undefeated

Bud Mosher's Quincy junior varsity football team was undefeated this fall with a 7-0 record. Most games were won by comfortable margins with the 14-0 win over Weymouth South the closest.

Mosher, who has had a good deal of success with the jayvees, lauded John Ford for his running. Paul Creedon for his work at quarterback on offense and halfback on defense, safety man Dave Ferris, End Paul Riggs and defensive tackle Ed Kelly.

Ted Sadowski's North Jayvees just missed an undefeated year as it lost toughies to Malden and Revere and finished up 5-2.

"Bobby Morton, who plays only on defense with the varsity, was our offensive quarterback, sharing these duties with sophomore Carl Leone."

Sadowski said, "Both did very well."

Sadowski also singled out Paul Cunniff for his running, Pete Quinn for his work in the defensive line, linebackers Paul Hemphill and Burt Bray, Jack Pomerole for his fine running and Reggie Sandifer, who came along fast in his first year of football.

No League Or Class Title At Stake

For the first time since 1967 the holiday classic will have no bearing on any league or class titles.

Only the satisfaction of winning the big one and winning the city crown will ride on the game.

Last year's 16-6 Quincy win gave the Presidents their first perfect season, their first outright Greater Boston League crown and a share of the Eastern Mass. Class A title.

Two years ago the Presidents' 53-0 breeze gave them a share of the GBL crown for the first time.

In 1968 Quincy's 21-8 upset win prevented North from winning its second GBL title, which it would have captured with the expected win.

Incidentally, North's 8-0 win in 1966 gave Carl Leone's Raiders a perfect season, their first GBL championship and the Class A co-title.

Officials Lineup Same As In '70

The officials who handled the Quincy-North game the past two years will again be in charge Thursday.

Joe Berman of Hull will be the referee, John Krikorian of Brockton umpire, Al Benson of North Reading field judge and Edgar Stowell of Bedford head linesman.

And the old reliable Quincy's LeRoy [Curley] Rogers, who handles the electric clock for all Quincy and North home games, will handle this chore on the holiday.

Mark Conroy Follows In Father's Grid Cleats

Mark Conroy, son of Quincy Coach Hank Conroy, has been the outstanding back this fall for Norwich University's football team.

Two weeks ago, following a come-from-behind 22-18 win, Conroy was named the ECAC player of the week. He gained 180 yards, two short of the school record, scored two touchdowns, kicked a field goal and an extra point.

Mark, a former Scituate High standout, also gained more than 150 yards in his previous two games. He has scored 54 points, including three field goals, for the Cadets.

Quincy Sophs Top Raiders

Dave Burke's Quincy High School sophomore football team completed its fourth undefeated season in six years last Saturday when it topped North Quincy, 26-14, before a large crowd at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy finished with a 9-0-0 record while Ted Sadowski's North sophs were 3-2-1 on the year.

Quincy took a 14-0 lead on touchdowns by quarterback Robin Carrera and Danny McDermott and a two-point conversion pass from Carrera to Bob Benn.

North bounced back to tie it up when John Flynn carried three straight times and scored from the three, quarterback Carl Leone scored on a keeper and Leone passed to Dave Chartier for two points.

The young Raiders made a great goal line stand and halted the winners on a pass interception by Mike Dever but they then fumbled, Quincy recovered and McDermott scored his second touchdown.

With time running out and third down and 12 deep in its own territory, North passed but just missed a first down as Quincy took over.

Steve Oriola then ran it in for an insurance touchdown.

Oriola, McDermott and Carrera stood out for the young Presidents on offense while defensive coach Jack Raymer singled out McDermott, Tom Moriarty, Dave Goguen, Bob Pettiti, Dan Murphy, Bob O'Neil, Pete Ramponi and Rich Folino for their performances. Folino stopped a North drive by intercepting a pass.

Sadowski, who had words of praise for his entire squad for 'not quitting', hailed the running of Flynn, who had a 40-yard run, Phil Robinson for his two-way performance and the defensive play of George Hill, Terry Egan and Dever.

Players To Be 'Fenced In'

For the first time in the 39-year history of the Quincy-North game there will be no worries about the crowds lining the end zones, the kids running on the field at half-time or dogs interrupting the game.

A new four-foot high vinyl chain link fence was recently installed all around the field and was used for the first time at the North-Somerville game two weeks ago.

The fence has seven gates which can be locked.

"This is something that should have been installed 25 years ago," said retired coach and teacher Jack Donahue.

Vespaziani Scores 60 Points

Sterling Eagles Undefeated, Take 8th Grade Title

Halfback Paul Vespaziani scored 60 points in six games to lead the Sterling Eagles to an undefeated-untied season and the city championship for eighth grade football.

Vespaziani went in for eight touchdowns and six conversions to score almost three-fourths of the 82 points rolled up by the Sterlin offense.

The Eagles defensive unit, led by end Guy Marden and middle guard Bill Jennings, had a perfect record spoiled in the third game when they gave up eight points to Central. Sterling blanked their opponents in each of the other five games.

In the season opener against Broad Meadows, Vespaziani scored two touchdowns and Anthony Cedrone scored a two-point conversion to give Quincy a 14-0 victory.

Vespaziani's two touchdowns and one conversion in each game was Sterling's total offense as the Eagles downed Atlantic 14-0 Oct. 6 and defeated Central 14-8 on Oct. 15.

Two-way star Guy Marden plunged for two touchdowns. Vespaziani tallied two conversions and defensive tackle Richard Salvucci picked up a safety the following week for an 18-0 win over Broadmeadows.

The Eagles lowest scoring game came against Atlantic on Oct. 29 when Vespaziani picked up another touchdown and a point-after for the 8-0 victory.

The season ended Nov. 5 when Marden and Vespaziani scored touchdowns and Vespaziani scored a conversion for a 14-0 win over Central and the city title.

Other stars of Coach John Gostanian's team included tackle John Omar, linebacker Frank Harding, quarterback Eric Carrera, offensive tackle John Riggs, offensive end Paul Ramponi and defensive linebacker Charles Gaziano.

Sterling Soccer Team Beats All-Stars, 3-1

Coach Joe Amoroso's Sterling Junior High soccer team, which is unbeaten in its last 27 games and has won three successive city titles, capped its season with a 3-1 win over the league all-stars.

The all-stars got off to a fast start when Broad Meadows' Joe McEachern passed to John MacKay of Atlantic-North who scored.

Peter Keenan tied it up for Sterling when he belted home a Glen Schlager pass. Ed Coletta scored the winner in the second period with Marco DiCenzo, the league's top scorer, assisting.

Following the game several trophies were awarded. Scott DeMarco of Sterling received the Most-Valuable Player trophy, the coaches and referees making the selection.

Trophies also went to the MVPs of each team, two going to each team. The winners were Wayne Lamie and Ed McGowan of Point, Mark Ramondi and Bob Meivis of Central, Bob Razer and Joe McEachern of Broad Meadows, Ken O'Sullivan and MacKay of Atlantic and Edson Westland and DiCenzo of Sterling.

The final award presented was a new cup for the league champions. This cup will go to the champ each season and is called the Sweeny Cup in honor of Charles Sweeny, who led the drive to get soccer started in the Quincy public schools.

ENC Opens With 84-40 Victory

Despite the loss of its standout two-way performer, Ron Bradley, the Eastern Nazarene College basketball team opened its season last week with an 84-40 win over Gordon in the annual Bagpiper Classic at Boston Garden.

Bradley, who led the Crusaders' scorers the past two years and sparked ENC to its best season ever, 26-5, a year ago, underwent a knee operation in April and it hasn't responded to treatment as well as expected.

Ron, a junior with a year of eligibility left, will work with the junior varsity this year and return to the lineup next season.

Bradley's place in the backcourt is being taken by two seniors. Don Eads, who averaged 25 points a game last year, should pick up some of the scoring slack and Quincy's Steve Shoff, a little 5-8 ball handling whiz, will quarterback the club.

The rebounding slack will be picked up by 6-7 forwards, Rick Reyenger, Quincy sophomore, and Howie Briggs.

Rounding out this year's squad are Don Constantine of Quincy, Ken Ambach of South

Weymouth, Tom Gunsalus, Gerry Whetone, Dave Eads, Terry Briggs, Mike Cox and Howard Briggs.

The Crusaders will open their home season Tuesday night against Barrington.

Speaking of Shoff, he led the ENC scorers in soccer the past fall as he scored 25 goals in leading the team to a 9-4 record, the best in history.

Steve scored three goals in the 5-1 win over Stonehill in the last game of the year, while North Quincy's Bob Mollica also scored one.

6 Sterling 7th Graders Good Prospects

Among the players who will be trying to give Sterling Junior High's soccer team a fourth straight city title next fall will be six seventh graders who played a good deal this year.

The six played the entire last period of the final game against Point and Coach Joe Amoroso rates them all "excellent prospects."

They are Bob Sweeny, Chris Sidoti, Tom Pecoraro, Mario Proscante, Bruce Hunt and Randy D'Angelo.

Santa And Mickey Mouse Coming To Town

200,000 Expected At Christmas Parade Nov. 28

The one and only Mickey Mouse will be honorary marshal Nov. 28 as the 20th annual South Shore Christmas Parade salutes the new Walt Disney World in Florida.

Mickey and his friends will be joined by 25 floats, 30 bands, 20 marching units, and hundreds of others parading along Hancock St. from School St., Quincy Center to Beale St., Wollaston, starting at 1:30 p.m.

An estimated 200,000 people are expected to line the two and one-half mile route to cheer on their favorite band or Disney character and, of course, Santa Claus.

For the 20th straight year, Santa will be riding atop the last float of the procession in what has become the largest Christmas parade in Greater Boston.

Twenty-five clubs and organizations have been busy making floats with Disney themes to compete for some $3,000 to $5,000 in prize money.

Among them will be such favorites as Dumbo, Snow White, Cinderella, Alice in Wonderland, Sleeping Beauty, Treasure Island and the Aristocats.

Members of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce have gathered $1,800 in prize money for musical units, including awards for marching band, Class A and Class B drum and bugle corps and high school.

Some 30 Walt Disney characters will march in seven separate units, featuring Mickey and His Friends, Fantasyland, Adventureland, Frontierland, New Orleans Square, Main Street U.S.A., and Tomorrowland.

Children's television personality Willie Whistle of WSBK-TV, Channel 38, will ride on a display for the Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots campaign.

More than 300 Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts will march in troop or pack units.

Mayor McIntyre, city officials and South Shore legislators have also been invited to participate in the festivities.

The Festival Prince and Princess, honorary king and queen of all Christmas Festival events, will greet their subjects from an open convertible.

Festival chairman is George C. Fay of 69 Scammel St., Anthony M. Famigletti, superintendent of the Quincy Cemetery Dept., is parade marshal. Secretary is Bernard C. Moore of 14 Elm St.

TURKEY TRIMMING—Miss Jeanne Noonan, home economics teacher at Atlantic Junior High School, and her students put the finishing touches on 24 Thanksgiving turkeys which will be distributed through the Salvation Army to needy families in the area. The students of Atlantic Junior High were responsible for the $400 which was donated to purchase the turkeys and trimmings.

Ambrose Powers Honored

Junior Post Commander Ambrose Powers received a gold life membership, past commander's pin and honorarium at the recent Past Commander's Night at Cyril P. Morrisette Post.

Past Commander Paul A. M. Hunt was master of ceremonies for the program Nov. 16 at the West Quincy American Legion post. Newly-installed commander Loretto Bersani and Past Post Historian Gary Haggerty made the presentations.

Leo F. Mullan of Cambridge, National Executive Committee member for Massachusetts was main speaker. A banquet was prepared and served by post members.

Atlantic Junior Students Treat 26 Families To Turkey Dinner

Twenty-six needy Quincy families will have Thanksgiving Day turkey dinner thanks to students at Atlantic Junior High School. Two home economics teachers at the school, Miss Mary Keegan and Mrs. Joanne Noonan, initiated the Thanksgiving project. Students in the school made donations totalling $400. The money was used to purchase 26 20-pound turkeys and the necessary trimmings. The teachers and their students spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday preparing the turkeys and cranberry bread, cranberry sauce, gravy, stuffing and a vegetable. The prepared food was given to the Salvation Army in Quincy for distribution to the families.

Brownell Swearing In Today

Gov. Francis W. Sargent will swear in Atty. Thoms F. Brownell of 15 Moreland St., Wollaston, today as State Representative from Ward 1.

He has been meeting this week with constituents at City Hall to discuss legislation to be filed for the 1971 session in the House.

Ward 1 residents may reach Mr. Brownell at his home to suggest bills which must be submitted before the Dec. 1 deadline.

Brownell said he was "very happy" with the results of the election in which 4,169, or 35 per cent of the registered voters in the district participated.

"All my opponents conducted very capable, hard campaigns," he said. "Many had very good ideas and I would be happy to sit down with any of them at any time to bring about worthwhile programs for the city of Quincy."

Among the bills Brownell intends to file is a request for a commission to study the unemployment situation in the South Shore and what effects the closing of General Dynamics shipyard would have.

"This is a problem we should anticipate," he said, "because I don't think the yard is in a healthy state."

Earl Wilson's Book Expose On Show Business

In this era of blossoming nostalgia-revivals, it is only fitting that one of the great masters of early cinema should be feted with a showcase festival all his very own...CHAPLIN is back... And with such style. Billed as "His Seven Masterworks", the selection of pictures are a composite of something old and something new... "CITY LIGHTS", "MODERN TIMES", "THE GREAT DICTATOR", "MONSIEUR VERDOUX", "LIMELIGHT", and "THE CHAPLIN REVIEW" are six in the yesteryear category which highlight CHARLIE CHAPLIN in his funniest moods...

"A KING IN NEW YORK" was made by CHAPLIN in the late fifties. A political satire lampooning the august nature of the political animal, it has never before been released in this country... And from what this critic has gathered, "A KING IN NEW YORK" may well be CHAPLIN's most definitive work... "His Seven Masterworks" have already been booked for the New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Boston markets. More than likely, they will premiere simultaneously in a very few months... The CHAPLIN Festival will prove to be one of the more stimulating events of the 1972 season. For who can really avoid the cinematic charisma of the CHAPLIN wit?

TOY WHITE is an odds on favorite to win election as the new president of the National Assn. of Theatre Owners... Ooops, and aren't the French film directors screaming bloody murder at DAVID WOLPER for the latter's '72 Olympic cinema snub. WOLPER will be working on a documentary of the Olympic Games which will take place in Munich next year... In order to give his film an international flavor, WOLPER contracted a score of directors from many different countries to submit film footage. But yikes, no Frenchmen have been invited to take part... And are they ever taking a slow burn... Such is life...

VULGARITY DEPT: The Jesus Revolution is, sad to say, having some eerie side affects. A new motorcycle film just out is titled "THE JESUS TRIP". Like other of its' genre, the picture depicts the moors and loves of a violent gang of bike desperadoes... However, what makes the picture an obnoxious put-off, is the addition of a character called "Sister Anna". That she is a religious Nun, is in no way shadowed. According to the script, she like the others, wants nothing more out of life than the pursuit of love, love, love... Exploitation? Naturally! Too many filmmakers today will capitalize on anything that equals dollars and cents... Including Jesus Christ...

Please, don't ever, ever, read EARL WILSON's "THE SHOW BUSINESS NOBODY KNOWS" if you're under the illusion that the entertainment world is sugar 'n spice, and everything nice... This book is not for the weak at heart. If anything, it's an expose on an expose... As forecast in this column some months ago, "THE FRENCH CONNECTION" is the runaway good-guy cop pic of the year. In its' premiere engagement at two New York theatres, it did a whopping $302,000 the first 10 days. When it makes the Boston scene, be sure to catch it. Strictly a thrill a minute...

A planned "Polish Film Week" will take place in Washington, D.C. this January, with a simultaneous "American Film Week" taking place in Warsaw, Poland... "X, Y & ZEE" can't help but be rated R. The language is coarse to say the least... CANDY DARLING [no, that's not his real name], shows what being a female impressionist is all about in "SOME OF MY BEST FRIENDS ARE". As an actor, and impressionist, CANDY DARLING seems assured of having a long and prosperous career... "THE STEWARDESSES" is right up there in the top 10, and gives every indication of hauling in the loot for months to come...

Where did ANNE BANCROFT disappear to? She was one of the central ingredients in the 1966 success "THE GRADUATE". Her performance as the seductive Mrs. Robinson earned her an Oscar nomination for Best Actress in 1967... Since then her film output has been zilch... Is she playing hard to get? Surely, in the past four years, at least one suitable script must have come her way... Hard to figure. Unless of course Miss BANCROFT's retired from the motion picture business without letting anyone in on her secret... Model turned actress CYBILL SHEPHERD shows potential in her first outing, "THE LAST PICTURE SHOW". Remember her name. Miss SHEPHERD could be one of the acting surprises of the early seventies...

RINGO STARR has got to be a fluke. "200 MOTELS" displays him for the actor he will never be. One of the flakiest screen appearances I have ever seen... JACK SOMACK of Alka Seltzer fizz fame film debuts in the highly regarded SHIRLEY MACLAINE starrer, "DESPERATE CHARACTERS"... As for Miss MACLAINE she has never been better. Motion pictures are her media, not television... JAMES STEWART is in ratings trouble, as are so many other top marquee names who took the plunge in boob tube land... Watch for TOPOL to be nominated a Best Actor award for his "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF" antics. Yes, and that is a prediction!

"WEST SIDE STORY" is making the re-release rounds. For those too young to remember, this musical was tabbed Best Pic of 1961. Well worth the price of re-admission... "BLUE WATER, WHITE DEATH" gets my vote as the documentary of the year... Chicago's ROY LEONARD is one of the more refreshing Talk Show host in the business today...

Twin Moon Stamps At Quincy Post Office

Authentic "August 2, 1971 First Day of Issue" cancellations of the twin moon stamps enclosed in a beautiful folder are now available in limited supply at the Quincy post office announces George K. Walker, Postmaster, Boston Postal District.

Each of the twin stamps is a design entity. Viewed together they show, on the left, the landing craft on the moon's surface with the earth and sun above, and on the right, the jeep-like lunar rover bearing the two astronauts. The inscription at the bottom of the stamps is "United States in Space...A Decade of Achievement."

Walker said only a limited amount of souvenir folders is available. The folders — three types which differ only in the city cancellation — can be obtained for $1. each.

These three types of historic folders were canceled at Cape Kennedy Space Center, Florida; Houston, Texas; and Huntsville, Alabama, where NASA's George C. Marshall Space Center is located.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The Speculation Corps thinks Mayor-elect Walter Hannon's right arm at City Hall will be Joseph Shea of White St.

Shea, they figure, has the inside track for appointment as the new mayor's executive secretary.

A candidate for City Council a couple years ago, Shea is now an assistant to Norfolk County Registrar of Deeds Barry Hannon. Shea was a top aide in Hannon's mayoralty campaign.

He's well liked around political-civic circles and if Hannon does tap him for the executive post, Shea should be quite an asset.

INSIDERS believe the City Council presidency is now a three-man race: John Quinn, Arthur Tobin and Clifford Marshall—not necessarily in that order.

Tobin and Quinn reportedly are the closest to putting together the necessary five-vote bloc for the honor of banging the gavel for the next year.

If Tobin does win the presidency, it will be the first time to the best of current memories that a council president succeeded himself after serving two years.

MAYBE Walter Hannon had the right idea about not vacating his House seat if elected mayor. The way it stands now, he will decide later whether or not to seek re-election to the House.

During his mayoralty campaign he said the city had been put to enough expense already by special elections.

City Clerk John Gillis estimates special elections this year have already cost Quincy more than $30,000.

That includes a special primary and special final election for state senator when James McIntyre gave up the seat to accept the $40,000 senate counsel post.

And for the special primary and special final election when Arthur Tobin gave up the Ward 1 House seat to run for the senate.

SPEAKING OF ELECTIONS, Ward 1 residents were really called upon to perform their civic duty this year. They were asked to go to the ballot box six times — the above four elections and the city preliminary and final election. And, a good many of them turned out for all six.

IF YOU LIKE to look ahead, Mayor-elect Hannon will take his oath Jan. 3 at 10 a.m.

But where seems to be the question. Hannon reportedly may break with tradition and have his inaugural at the Quincy Vocational-Technical School instead of at City Hall.

"No, dolling," she replied, "It's just the way my coat is buttoned."

Anderson Questions Expenditures

Proposed Hospital Budget Cuts Termed 'Misleading'

A member of the Quincy Hospital Board of Managers has called for sweeping budget and personnel cuts in a letter which hospital officials have termed "unfortunate and misleading."

Carl W. Anderson sent the letter last week to City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Mayor McIntyre, Mayor-elect Hannon and city councillors.

In it he suggested that capital outlay appropriations of $165,000 could "safely be stricken from the budget along with the 300 additional employees that were hired between 1966 and 1971".

Anderson questioned the need for budget increases from $5,350,329.38 to $10,479,126.26 and staff increases from 950 to 1,250 employees over the last five years.

The 300 additional employees, he said, correspond with an increase of only 105 patients per year.

Jack Williams, chairman of the board's public relations committee, said the added employees represent full and part-time staff including the new intensive care unit, clinical sides and clerical aides for Medicare paperwork.

Board chairman Edward Cronin called the letter "a direct insult to all members of the board of managers of Quincy City Hospital.

"I find it further insulting that [he] saw fit on his own to write such a letter and that he would not have the common courtesy to discuss it either with me... or with the entire board of managers."

Cronin said the situation has been "blown way out of proportion" and indicated he would have the board investigate all allegations.

Dr. Milton Brougham, president of the medical staff, said, "The Board of Managers as well as the administration and the medical staff have been extending every effort to maintain the high standard of medical care and provide the latest developments in medicine to Quincy residents.

"This requires funds, but the cost to Quincy residents has been less than to patients in comparable areas," he said.

No-Fix Ticket System To Begin In February

Quincy's new no-fix parking ticket system, passed unanimously this week by the City Council, will go into effect in early February.

The new system, with fines ranging from $1 to $15 will require employment of meter maids and institution of stickers for windshields of residents with hardships.

Capt. Roy Caviocchi of the Traffic Division, said the program will not begin until February because of a backlog of printing orders at the only agency authorized by the state to print no-fix tickets.

In approving the no-fix system, the council turned down a five-cent increase in parking meter costs and reduced the proposed fine for blocking snow removal from $20 to $15.

The council also acted unanimously to add 38 men to the police department and appropriated $33,000 for a feasibility study of an ice skating rink at Quincy High School.

The added policemen and a new contract providing patrolmen's salary of $10,400 was accompanied by a council appropriation of $103,195 to cover salaries for the remainder of the year.

Poet's Corner

Love Escaping

If love has any meaning at all, it has meaning to me

Because I have everything I need all wrapped up in one person I cherish and need,

More than anything my heart could ever desire

This poem you're about to hear is a token of the feelings I have for this person that has for the first time brought great meaning into my life:

I have a love so warm and dear

That every day I'll keep her near,

And when the sun shines in my eyes

I'll think of her before I rise

My love is deep my love is true,

My love has meaning because of you

I need her warmth in cold of night

I need her truths of wrong and right,

I'll feel her sorrow and deepest fears,

I'll share her happiness through coming years.

I have a love I'll share alone,

If this be a sin, I shall never atone

Sometimes I wonder if love so strong

That through our strength we'll find no wrong

If love is taking good and bad,

I know with you, I'll never be sad

If love can't grow through one's own needs

Love is towering strength, or greed

If my love has been ever true,

It shows no boundaries when I'm with you.

Paul Barbadoro

I Wish

I wish he was here by my side

Comforting me as time goes by

I wish I could tell him "I love him"

Like I did once before.

I wish it was like my first date,

And him waiting at the door,

To see me in my light blue gown,

As I come down.

I wish we could run across the fields,

And look at each other,

And knew every moment was real.

I wish those times could once more be true,

But all the fun we had is over and through,

We once had love, and now I am blue.

Because I know all my wishes won't come true.

U. S. Athletes Go On Parade At Winter Olympic Games

What fashions will Japan see when the U.S. Olympic Team goes on parade in the city of Sapporo in February at the 1972 Winter Games?

Our men and women athletes will wear colorful contemporary clothing in red, white and blue, shown above. The parade apparel is the joint effort of Sears, Roebuck and Co., and the U.S. Olympic Committee. Sears will also provide travel uniforms for the athletes.

The men athletes on parade will wear a dramatic blue leather, double-breasted, lined trenchcoat with epaulettes, sleeve belts and wide lapels, topped by a matching, broad-brimmed shaped leather hat. Wrapping up the outerwear is a six-foot, red-and-white acrylic scarf knotted at the neck. On hand are blue leather gloves with stripes of red and white. Underneath, a white turtleneck sweater is worn over blue double-knit boot pants—tucked into high, sherpa-trimmed blue boots.

The women will be a brilliant flash of red in a mid-length wool cape worn over a white turtleneck self-belted sweater and navy wool pants—tucked into knee-high, crepe-soled navy suede boots. A white knit hat and red knit gloves complete the women's now-look uniforms for the parade.

The city of Sapporo is Japan's eighth largest city and is located in the northernmost and coldest island of Japan, Hokkaido. The city has completed a high-speed commuter railway system for the games, with the trains using rubber tires for quiet and comfort.

Happy Homemaking

By BARBARA BAKER

Before driving nails for picture hooks, first see where the nails for the baseboards are driven. Nails for baseboards are always put in the studs which give support that the plaster alone fails to provide.

If you are ever caught without a ruler, you will find a passable substitute in your wallet. A dollar bill is just slightly over six inches long and can be used as a tape for rough measurements.

To clean soiled parchment lampshades, dip a soft clean cloth in milk and rub the shade until it is clean, then wipe dry with a clean cloth.

To anchor your garbage can against strong winds or stray dogs, set it inside an old car tire.

When washing windows, use up and down strokes on the inside but go crossways on the outside and any smears that are left can be removed since you will know just which side they are on. Also, crumpled newspaper is wonderful for rubbing glass to a shine.

Director, The Diet Workshop

Forewarned is forearmed. Christmas is coming. And so is the Mince Pie, special Cookies and all the other goodies we associate with that holiday.

This is no time to forget your diet. And it won't be easy because this is the time when those friendly enemies who started you on your dieting path start the now familiar strains of their "It's holiday time - you don't have to be so careful now" song. Don't listen. Look instead at your figure in the mirror before you decide that this is the time to give your diet a vacation.

Let's make sure that the jolly fat person sitting under the tree on Christmas morning is not you.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun, or at 28 Merrick Avenue,

TEETH & PREGNANCY

Are teeth more vulnerable during pregnancy? No! The belief that pregnancy increases the rate of tooth decay is wrong. It's based on the false assumption that in providing calcium for a growing fetus, the mother's teeth are decalcified and thus more susceptible to decay.

Clinical studies show that neither the extent of decay nor the rate of new cavities is higher in pregnant women. It's a scientific fact that the fetus does not absorb calcium from the mother's teeth.

A variation on this old wives' tale is the widely held belief that a mother loses a tooth for every child. It's also without foundation.

If cavities do increase during pregnancy, the cause is higher consumption of sweets, neglected oral hygiene or other bad habits.

Beautiful Lights

Tall buildings are sparkling spectacles as the lovely lights gleam in the sky. Night has unfolded its blanket of beauty on the ugly city. The stars light up the sky like shining bulbs. Buildings stretch up to the sky, trying to reach the stars. The moon peers out of the clutter of clouds. Stars and moon glow together blotting the sky with lights. Then, when dawn breaks, the city changes back to its ugly self.

City Magic

I see the neon signs flashing and blinking and the buildings all lit up. The most beautiful sight is the shadows of the buildings peering into the water. They look so realistic that one could almost touch them.

Lots of people think that a city sounds beautiful when it is silent but a city would be empty without the sounds you hear. The noises of cars starting and stopping...the sound of horns honking...people's heads popping in and out of their windows shouting. These are the happiest sounds you could hear. The sights and sounds of a city are magic indeed.

Thanksgiving

In 1620 the Pilgrims and the Indians met. They liked each other. The Indians helped the Pilgrims grow vegetables and hunt and fish. They had the first Thanksgiving feast in 1621. They shared lots of good foods. Every year we remember about America's first Thanksgiving.

Irksome Habit

My main difficulties in making and keeping friends are small in number but large in seriousness. My main problem is my faithful temper. When playing sports, unless in a strange atmosphere, I shoot off my head like a madman.

Whenever my friends make a human mistake, I make it into a major catastrophe. This wouldn't be so bad, but many kids are sensitive to criticism, take it literally and don't attempt the sport again.

The one constant friend I have understands this and just yells back. We now seldom get into fights. My brother Jim is like that too. He tells me to be quiet and just says that I'm not so "cool" myself and that keeps me still.

I've learned to accept mistakes and try to help the person who makes them and thanks to my brother and friends I've been able to cope with this problem.

City At Night

Wherever I look I see radiant light glimmering through the dark night like fiery eyes waiting; watching for a chance to pierce the gloominess. They gleamed as a chance to break through was almost possible.

A building taller than the others stood up proud and powerful, exposing the beauty of its beaming, shimmering glow like it was a gleam of hope lighting the unlightable darkness.

Yet, as I stand there watching this majestic sight, I know it will come to an end, but there will be other nights hiding the ugliness of the day.

Why!

Thanksgiving you are supposed to be thankful to God. He brought the Pilgrims through the first winter. And the Indians helped them. Now the pilgrims are very famous people in America.

King James was the King of England when the Pilgrims came to America. Starting when the Pilgrims gave thanks, we have always celebrated in America.

Giving thanks is all about Thanksgiving. Indians were kind to the Pilgrims. Nothing could turn the Pilgrims back when they left England. Even all the troubles... God helped them get safely to America.

Small Miracles Of Nature

The spider's web reminds me of my milky white communion dress, or Grandma's Sunday lace mantilla. In the morning it looks like a diamond necklace when it's covered with dew drops.

When I Was A Cornflake

When I was a cornflake I floated around in a bowl, of course I knew how to swim then. When all of a sudden I stopped swimming. And I saw something. It was a hand. There was something in the hand. And the thing in the hand picked me up like a tractor picking up dirt. And then I went into a dark tunnel with things hanging down from the tunnel. The white things chopped me up, I was dead.

Sights Of A City

The city is a beautiful sight at night. Wherever I look I see bright, radiant lights shining in the sky. Blinking neon signs light up all the stores. Everything flows like a great, golden campfire at midnight. The moon glares down in one magnificent streak. All the lighted buildings resemble one giant checkerboard.

Soon it will be dawn. The majestic sun will rise and it will be morning again hiding the beauty of the night.

Beauty In Nature

Beauty is found in many small things. If only people would take time to look.

They've missed the humming and color of a small bumblebee, or the splendorous color of autumn leaves, falling from the trees. They've probably missed the raging glory of a wind-howling blizzard, and the delicate beauty of the soft white blanket to follow.

In a way, I feel a bit of sorrow, for these people who have never bothered to really see all of the small wonders in nature, which are free and quite easy to view when you are aware.

Lace In Disguise

The spider web - a miracle thing of beauty, something to behold in its splendor. Dainty little threads of lace, woven into an awesome sight, and yet, it's as deadly as it is beautiful.

A fly gets caught in the sticky substance, and there is no way out. The spider, hidden, crawls to the insect menacingly. He wraps the fly up like a Christmas package. The pitiful fly writhes in pain as the spider prepares for a hearty meal - "fly soup".

'Just Be My Friend'

I sat with Paul, my son, at the football banquet recently...with other fathers and the 17 boys on this 5th and 6th grade team of the Scituate Youth Center. A number of thoughts went through my head. Such occasions are not only pleasant...they are extremely stimulating to me.

One of my thoughts was...these men are trying to be good fathers to these boys. Nobody ever taught us how to do it. No course in college...no public school...or parochial school ever taught us to be fathers to boys and girls. They only warned us to "avoid being a father"...before it was time. But not one word...[correct me if I'm mistaken]...about the meaning...the importance...the power of fatherhood. The only possible training that any of us fathers got was from watching our own fathers. If they were good fathers...knew how to be men...how to treat boys...and women...how to do things...use good judgment...cope with difficult situations...that's good training for the father role...watching a good Dad. But I'm not sure how many men have had that opportunity as they grew up. There are so many weak...absentee...busy...alcoholic fathers...and these men don't do much to make men of their sons...nor women of their daughters. The truth is that most men find themselves in the father role...with little preparation for it they can read to learn how to be a father...and many men do this. But what most of us do is to learn by trial and error...what works and what doesn't...and by the time we begin to get the feel of the role it's too late.

But those men at the banquet seemed to me to be in there pitching...and I heard more than one boy telling other boys of some event which began with..."My father..." I got the impression that these fathers were being quite successful with their fathering role.

A second thought...what do you talk about with your 12 year old? Our minds are so taken up with adult living...and making a living that it is difficult for a man to know what to talk about with his boy...or girl. We try with such silly questions as "How's school?" But that's not good for a conversation...because it usually ends with "O. K." The good father keeps feeling he should make conversation with his boy...or girl. Everybody tells him he should be communicating. But what shall he talk about? He could talk about sex...contracts...the "price freeze"...or his business slump. But could the boy?...or girl? Probably what most of us end up doing is letting the son...or daughter take the lead...and trying to talk about what they may open up...which probably isn't very private...or revealing of feelings.

I observed that the men at the banquet tables were "trying" to be good fathers by talking with their sons.

My third thought was this...suppose we have the knowledge of how to be good fathers...suppose we have somehow found the key of communication with them...HOW DO WE FIND THE TIME? Most fathers are working men...whether with their hands or brains. Most of us live in the suburbs which means we leave early to commute to work...and often get home too late to spend time with the children before bedtime. Some men are even holding second jobs which takes up their evenings. The pressures just to keep up...pay the taxes...supply the family needs...hopefully a few little extras...just don't leave the average man much time to really get deeply involved into this thing of fathering.

But...gentlemen...with all our excuses...of no training for the job...the difficulty of communicating with a twelve year old...the lack of time...we just better find a way. I attribute the large percent of youth problems to an inadequate father relationship...the undisciplined boy...the promiscuous girl...the ones that don't think...the ones that can't cope or make decisions...the ones who have no set or priorities. Well...on the day that we're forced to take the day off...to be in court at the judge's request...it may sound rather weak to stammer out..."I didn't know how to be a father"... "I couldn't talk with my boy/girl"... "I didn't have time."

Another counselor handed me recently a great little thought...

"Don't walk in front of me...I may not follow.
Don't walk behind me...I may not lead.
Walk beside me...just be my friend."

Maybe that's what "being a father" is all about...just being a friend. Our boys played good football...they had a great coach. I just had another thought...mmmmmmmm...wonder how he found the time?"

Prize-Winning North Band To Perform In New Jersey

The $500 first prize won by the North Quincy High School Band in Sunday's Christmas Festival Parade will be put toward an "exchange concert" trip to Dumont, N.J., next spring.

The 92 band members, majorettes and color guard will board buses March 3, pending school committee approval, to visit the homes of students in the Dumont High School Band.

The two units will give separate and joint concerts in New Jersey on March 4 and the Dumont contingent will come to Quincy for similar performances

April 14, according to North Quincy Band Director Carl Leone.

Leone said he hopes concert funds, the parade award and contributions from the music parents group will provide the more than $1,200 needed for the trip.

The North Quincy Band, sponsored in the parade by the Quincy Sun and Barry's Deli, won the $500 grand prize given by Norfolk County Trust Co., for the best high school unit.

Judges chose the Quincy High School Band second among the 11 secondary school contingents who participated.

Former North Grid Star Hail Appointment Of 'Bo' Lyons As Northeastern Coach

By TOM SULLIVAN

Congratulations to Bob 'Bo' Lyons, former North Quincy High all-scholastic lineman, upon his being named as head coach of the Northeastern University football team.

Bob, one of the finest high school players this writer has ever had the pleasure of covering, received the appointment last week when the popular Joe Zabalski retired after 24 years as the Huskies' coach.

"I am very happy to be named head coach but it is going to be awfully hard to fill Joe Zabalski's shoes," Bo said. "He is an institution here and beloved by everyone. I know what he means by the pressure of the job. I already am, having a hard time sleeping."

Bo was a line stand-out under Coach Jack Donahue in 1951, 1952 and 1953 and was captain of the Raiders in his senior year. He made most of the all-scholastic teams.

Following the 1953 season, when Lyons helped spark North to a 20-7 win over Quincy, its first win since 1948, Donahue told this writer, "As a center both on offense and defense, he is that good."

One of Zabalski's greatest players at Northeastern, Bo captained the Huskies in 1957. As a center both on offense and defense, he was selected to the 1956 and 1957 all-New England teams.

"Bo was one of the finest players and finest men I ever coached and I'm very happy he is succeeding me," Zabalski said. "He is admired by everyone and should make a stand-out coach. He was an ideal assistant."

Lyons was Northeastern assistant for nine years.

Before going to Northeastern in 1963, Bo was a high school assistant for several years, and was Jack Garrity's aide at Quincy High. He also coached at Malden Catholic, Sakashem High in Long Island and Whitman-Hanson.

"Bo was an excellent assistant coach and really knows his football," said Whitman-Hanson Coach Bob Teahan, the dean of Old Colony League coaches. "He made many friends and gets along with everyone. He should do a great job as Northeastern coach and I wish him the best of luck. He is a great man as well as a stand-out coach."

Zabalski this year captured his 100th win and wound up with 101. In 1953 and 1963 he was voted Coach of the Year by New England football writers and also in 1963 and 1967 by the UPI. In 1963 and 1967 he was voted District I Coach of the Year by his peers in the American Football Coaches Association.

His most successful year was 1963 when he led the Huskies to their first undefeated, untied season with an 8-0 record. This earned the team an invitation to the school's first bowl game, the Eastern Bowl in Allentown, Pa. Other outstanding years were a 6-0-1 year in 1951, a 6-1 record in 1953 and a 7-1 record in 1967.

Lyons now is a resident of Hanson.

Many Quincy and area players starred at Northeastern under Zabalski and it is expected that Lyons will attract many more.

Sam Mele Takes In Game

The usual number of city officials, school officials and graduates of Quincy and North Quincy were present for last week's game.

Among those watching North's win was Sam Mele, special assignment scout for the Boston Red Sox, who has attended nearly every Thanksgiving game since becoming a Quincy resident over 20 years ago.

Rains Hurt Gate

10,057 Pay $10,200 To See Rescheduled 39th Classic

The Thanksgiving Day rains washed away several thousand dollars in gate receipts for the Quincy-North game.

Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone reports the official paid attendance at the Saturday shifted game was 10,057. Gross receipts: $10,200.

Total attendance - including unpaid - was estimated between 12,500 and 12,700.

"If the game had been played on Thanksgiving Day as scheduled, I think we would have had 4,000 to 5,000 more paid fans in the stands," said Leone.

Last year's official paid attendance was 15,336 - representing a gate return of $17,222.

"We had a poor gate sale this year," said Leone. "We only sold about 1,000 tickets at the gate-about $1,500 worth. We usually sell 4,000 to 5,000 on Thanksgiving Day."

Many who would have bought tickets on Thanksgiving Day weren't able to attend the game on Saturday, for one reason or another, explained Leone.

Many probably had to work or had other things already planned to do.

And for many, a Thanksgiving Day football game on Saturday somehow just isn't the same.

Leone estimates that probably 12,500 to 12,700 saw Saturday's game.

The 2,500 to 2,700 "unpaid" viewers included members of the two school bands, cheerleaders, drum majorettes, political guests and traditional fence jumpers.

... And The Rains Came

The heavy Thanksgiving rains which caused postponement of all but seven of the 82 scheduled schoolboy football games in Eastern Mass., also washed out a gallant effort by Quincy officials to get Quincy Veterans Stadium into shape for the scheduled game.

Quincy, like every other city and town, battled the early week snow problem and if it hadn't rained, the field would have been in excellent condition for the classic, which was put off until Saturday.

"It has been a real team effort here to get the field ready," said Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone. "The school department, parks department and highway department joined together and had the field cleared Monday."

"Any school that didn't get the snow off Monday was in real trouble because ice formed by Tuesday and there isn't much you can do about ice once it is on the ground."

"That's why I can't say enough about the men in Quincy who got the field ready. They even went to the two high schools and cleared the practice fields so the clubs could work out."

Like other school authorities, Leone was disappointed that the game had to be postponed. "This is the day we want to play the game," he said, referring to Thanksgiving.

"Every school depends on the receipts of the Thanksgiving Day game when planning their athletic budgets, so, like everyone else, we planned to play if possible."

But, then came the deluge and - no game on Turkey Day.

Fence Makes Crowd Control Easier

Not only was the Quincy Veterans Stadium Field in unusually fine condition for last week's game thanks to the work of the school department, parks department and highway department, but the recently installed vinyl link fence made it easy for the police to control the large crowd.

Missing were the familiar dogs to interrupt proceedings and the many youngsters running on the field at half-time. And the crowd stayed behind the fence all the way and the police detail had no trouble.

Quincy, North Bands In Salute To Ivar Nelson

The Quincy and North Quincy bands dedicated the outstanding half-time show on Thanksgiving to Ivar Nelson, popular director of music for the Quincy Schools.

Nelson was unable to attend the annual classic because of illness.

Conroy: 'It Was Their Day'

Frazier Finds Quincy Win Tasty Dish

By TOM SULLIVAN

The happiest man in Quincy this week must be Ralph Frazier, North Quincy's football coach. It took six years as a player and coach but Ralph finally enjoyed his first win over Quincy last week in the 39-year old intra-city series.

Ralph was a starting guard for three years at North under Coach Jack Donahue and the Raiders lost all three games.

In his first two years as North's head coach Frazier also lost but last Saturday he piloted this third North team to a convincing 30-12 victory at Veterans Memorial Stadium in the annual game which had been washed out on the holiday morning.

"I just can't explain how great I feel," said the delighted North coach. "It took a long time for me to get a win over Quincy but this makes our season a success and helps us forget our failure to win the Greater Boston League championship."

FINAL NORTH SCORING

	TD	PAT	TOTAL
Burke	10	0	70
McKay	8	4	52
Egan	5	0	30
Linnehan	3	8	26
Mahoney	1	2	8

Frazier credited North's ground game, its best of the year, for the cherished win. Bob McKay, his outstanding quarterback, threw only five times, once in the first half, as the Raiders stuck to the ground.

"We knew the field would be pretty muddy, despite a remarkable job by the various city departments in getting in shape," Frazier said. "It was especially muddy in the middle so we ran to the sidelines virtually all day. I knew we would be better off running than trying to pass. Bobby did another great job at quarterback, handing off flawlessly and running well himself. He also hit on three of his five passes.

"Every back ran well, and the line opened up some excellent holes. The defense also did its part and we contained [Steve] McCarthy very well. When you stop a runner like him, you help your cause tremendously." Tom Burke, a senior who hadn't played since the ninth grade, capped a tremendous season by pacing the ground gainers with 81 yards. He had a touchdown run nullified by a penalty. Jack Linnehan gained 73 yards, McKay 48 and Kevin Egan, outstanding both ways, had 34.

Frazier praised the entire offensive backfield and also hailed the performances of Dick Meyer, brilliant both ways; Bobby Morton, Egan on defense as well as offense, John Harrington, Steve Fransoso, Dave Mahoney, Billy Fong and Bobby Guerriero.

"We didn't put too much pressure on Jimmy Walker, their fine quarterback, but the secondary did a great job covering the receivers," the North coach added. "It is a tribute to Walker that he completed so many passes [nine for 22]. The ball really had eyes on some of his completions. He did a remarkable job."

Quincy Coach Hank Conroy, seeking his fourth straight win over North and his sixth in eight tries, was philosophical about the loss.

"North did a tremendous job defending us and they bottled up McCarthy effectively," he said. "Bob Malvesti ran well and Walker did a tremendous job for us. It was a good spectator game and we stayed in there but two fumbles and pass interception ruined us. North's ground game was fantastic and it just was their day."

The fumbles referred to by Conroy set up North's first and second touchdowns and Egan ran back an interception 61 yards to salt it away for the Raiders.

"Dave Coull and Bobby McDermott stood out again at end and had some fine pass receptions," Hank continued. "On defense Dan Spencer, Mike Varrasso, Joe Coner, Malvesti and McDermott were outstanding."

North ground out a net of 225 yards on the ground to only 80 for Quincy. Walker and Kevin Shea combined for 12 out of 30 passing for 150 yards while McKay's three for five picked up only 27 yards. North had 16 first downs and Quincy 13.

Meyer fell on a Quincy fumble at North's 35 and the Raiders drove to their first score in 13 plays.

After marching to the one-foot line, Linnehan scored but offsetting penalties nullified it and on the next play McKay went in. Burke rushed for the points with Egan having the key block.

It didn't take Quincy long to score as Walker hit McDermott for 19 yards and then connected with Coull for 24 yards to North's 21. Three plays later Malvesti raced 16 yards for the touchdown. Walker passed to Coull but he was just out of bounds on the try for the tying points.

Another Quincy fumble was recovered by North's Walter Collins on the Raider 29 and in 11 plays the Raiders had scored again. Burke ran 16 yards and Linnehan 15 to spark the drive. Linnehan went 10 yards to the five and with 30 seconds left in the half he scored from the one. McKay rushed for the points as North took a 16-6 lead off the field at the half.

In the third period Egan intercepted Walker's pass on his 39 and with some fine blocking, he galloped 61 yards to wrap up the decision for the Raiders.

North drove from Quincy's 41 following a Shea kick and with passes from McKay to Mahoney for 10 yards and to Jim Driscoll for 11 helping out, the winners scored their final touchdown on a one-yard plunge by Egan. McKay passed to Driscoll for the points.

Quincy threw 15 passes in the final period and after Walker passed the Presidents 71 yards to the seven, with completions of 14 yards to McCarthy, 18 to McDermott, 13 to Malvesti, who made a circus catch, and 16 to McDermott, Malvesti scored from the six.

Shea took over after Quincy's Pat Corcoran recovered a North fumble on Quincy's 44 and hit on three of eight passes but North held on the one-yard line as the game ended.

The win was North Quincy's 15th in the series. Quincy has 21 wins and three games ended in ties.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Ted Mack Rejected Elvis Presley Twice

Is there a psychiatrist in the house? JACKIE MASON either has a bizarre sense of humor, or he's in such wacked out shape, he's in need of a thorough head examination. The "Mouth" is attempting to world premiere his just completed "ROGER THE STOOLIE" at, of all places, Attica State Prison... Like, what's MASON trying to do? Start another riot... Films have premiered at some pretty far out locales, churches, synagogues, cat houses, et al, but never in this reviewer's memory has a State Prison been a site... More than likely, MASON is attempting to capitalize on some free, and cheap publicity, to garner viewer interest for this "STOOLIE"... In protest, I just may pass up the film...

Former Philadelphia Eagle halfback TIM BROWN just inked on the dotted line for a healthy part in "A PLACE CALLED TODAY"... Just one man's opinion of course, but for my money "THE HELL WITH HEROES" is ROD TAYLOR's best acting stint to date. The smuggling yarn, circa 1968, gave TAYLOR the opportunity to flex his emotions like no other vehicle he's appeared in... SONNY and CHER fans won't want to miss this slick duo in the modern film version of "THE GREAT SEBASTIANS"... Sure, "THE LAST PICTURE SHOW" is a great picture, but I can't understand all the adulation heaped on director PETER BOGDANOVICH. After all, this is his "first" film to date. Let's wait until BOGDANOVICH makes another film or three before hailing him as "great"...

And while on "THE LAST PICTURE SHOW" soundboard, what about the superb character performances of BEN JOHNSON and CLORIS LEACHMAN? All one reads about in the acting department, is of the impressive debut of mannequin CYBILL SHEPHERD. Sure she's a beautiful gal and all that. But, again, this is her "first" pic also... BEN JOHNSON, on the other hand, is a seasoned pro of 16 years hacking out a living in three line character parts. He first came to public attention in "THE WILD BUNCH" two years back... An immensely talented thespian, JOHNSON brought to "THE LAST PICTURE SHOW" an earthy, rugged sense of masculinity which gave the production a sense of reality in a cast assemblage of, for a good part, unidentifiable non persons...

Long after the memory of BOGDANOVICH and SHEPHERD have diminished in the public's eye, the likes of BEN JOHNSON will still be on the screen. It is experience, longevity, which make for "greatness". Not a one-of-a-kind shot in the dark... RITA HAYWORTH has a cameo role in the upcoming "WRATH OF GOD"... CLINT EASTWOOD drops the "GARY COOPER" histrionics, and settles down to serious acting in "PLAY MISTY FOR ME". Such a relief to see him without six guns and stirrups. At least we know EASTWOOD can act... What is HARRY GARLAND doing these days? Hasn't been seen on the little or big screen for over a year now...

QUOTABLE QUOTE: TED MACK groaning why he never allowed ELVIS PRESLEY on his Amateur Hour: "I guess I don't always recognize talent. I turned ELVIS down twice on my Amateur show"... Needless to say, TED MACK's loss was the world's gain... ALICE PLAYTEN, she of bubbly commercial fame, makes an auspicious motion picture debut in "WHO KILLED MARY WHATEVERNAME?"... Turkish actor-director YILMAZ GUNEY walked off with six major awards at the recent Adana [Turkey] Film Festival. Though not an international celebrity, GUNEY is considered his country's answer to, say a PAUL NEWMAN...

LIZA MINNELLI, who debuted so dramatically in "THE STERILE CUCKOO", is prepping a film for '72 audiences based on the life of a Southern Belle of the 1920's... "THEY CALL ME TRINITY" didn't exactly set American box-offices on end, but the TERENCE HILL starrer is still ranked high on Italy's all-time money list... Hard to figure "BILLY JACK". As a picture it bombed in eastern "sophisticated" cities, and yet is doing big money in Mid-Western locales. It's been playing the Minneapolis-St. Paul market since mid May, and in 6 months racked up a lusty $1 million in receipts...

Boston newspapers are going the way of New York City in its dealings with hard core porno advertising. The Boston Herald Traveler and Globe are nixing X-rated pic ads... Certainly is about time!... Those confusing title clashes: Scotia International's "THE FROG" and American International's "THE FROGS" are not to be confused as one and the same. And no, neither has to do with "frogs"... SIDNEY POITIER scores with "THE ORGANIZATION" to the tune of $1.2 million its' first two weeks on the road... HUGH HEFNER is expanding his operations with the purchase of movie houses. Mr. Playboy recently purchased the Cinema 57 Rendezvous in Manhattan...

ANGIE DICKINSON and BARBARA EDEN are two of a kind. They're beautiful, talented, and in no way concerned with the pursuit of a full time film career. And they've each turned down their share of top scripts... EDMUND O'BRIEN is still making movies. He just completed an assignment for "WHAT'S A NICE GIRL LIKE YOU"... Nice to know he's not retired. The screen can use the expertise which this gifted craftsman has endowed it with, since he won a Best Supporting Oscar in 1954... SENTA BERGER gets this viewers nod as one of the more beautiful girls in the film industry today... OSKAR WERNER hasn't had a good role since his doctor role in "SHIP OF FOOLS". And that was in 1964, which is too long an artistic drought...

Buying A House?

By JOHN L. DAVIDSON

This column is directed to the young family interested in purchasing a home but knowing little of what is involved throughout the various stages of the transaction.

Dear Mr. D.

We are a young family starting out, looking for our first home. Could you please tell us how much the banks require you to earn, per month, before granting you a mortgage loan?

Ans: Every banker that I have spoken to has said that you cannot afford to pay in one month, more than what you take home in one week. This includes principle, interest, taxes, insurance and all other annual recurrent costs.

Dear Mr. D.

What is the most important physical feature one should consider when purchasing a home?

Ans: A very basic fact that many people misunderstand is that when you buy a piece of real estate, you are basically buying land with improvements on it. If a beautiful house happens to be one of the improvements, all well and good, but you are still buying the land. In my opinion a good flat, well graded and well drained piece of land is the most important physical feature. Not only will it be much easier to maintain [which by the way is a stipulation in your mortgage contract] but it will also keep your basement drier and make outside entertaining much easier and more pleasurable.

Dear Mr. D.

Aside from the downpayment is there any other money that must be paid out before moving into a new home?

Ans: Definitely. Aside from the downpayment you have legal fees, insurance binders, inspection fees, tax adjustments, fuel adjustments, bank fees and utility adjustments just to name a few that come under the heading of closing costs. These closing costs sometimes total five hundred to one thousand dollars over the downpayment.

If you have a question please send it to John Davidson, c/o The Quincy Sun. We will print the questions we feel will have the greatest common interest. The rest of the questions will be personally answered by Mr. D. if you supply us with your name and address.

Brett Bills Ask Preservation Of Wollaston Golf Course

Rep. Joseph E. Brett has filed two alternative bills for the 1972 Legislative session in an attempt to maintain Wollaston Golf Course as open land.

An act to establish a Quincy-Milton Golf and Winter Sports Authority was filed this week as an alternative to Brett's earlier bill for MDC acquisition of the land.

In letters to Mayor McIntyre and Milton Selectman Chairman Francis F. Brooks, Brett asked the town's cooperation with Quincy in joint ownership of the course, which is on the Quincy-Milton line.

"It is understood," he wrote, "that legislative authorization is necessary for two or more communities to participate in a joint venture such as proposed in the bill."

The city or town government must also approve such a plan before it can be presented for action in the General Court.

Brett's bills followed announcements this Summer of tentative plans for construction of high-rise developments on the land in the West Squantum St.-Granite Ave. area.

The Golf and Winter Sports Authority bill calls for the mayor of Quincy and Milton selectmen to appoint five members each to a governing board.

Such a board would have authority "over all activities on the course.

The bill instructs the authority to issue bonds to pay "all or any part of the cost of the project," not to exceed $3 million.

Among other bills filed by Brett are measures to provide MDC funds for correction of drainage problems along Furnace Brook and Blacks Creek, and to prevent the re-location of Quincy Shore Drive in connection with any improvements to Wollaston Beach.

Also filed by the Quincy Legislator is a bill to allow persons 18 years and older to participate in the game of "Beano", another to establish an agency for the registration and licensing of automobile mechanics, a bill calling for the repeal of the so-called "free lunch" program for all elementary school children in the state, and, a revision of the school aid formula.

He has filed for payment of interest to tenants on security deposits held by landlords, establishment of day care centers for cerebral palsied youngsters, and an annuity plan for widows of former legislators who served before the state's retirement system was established.

● Youth Speaks Out

● There has been a squabble because U.S. taxpayers are footing the bill for Martha Mitchell's private automobile. But, it's better to pay for her automobile charges than her phone bill.

● It appears that all the trouble spots in the world have directions as part of their name. Witness East and West Pakistan, Northern Ireland, Southeast Asia, and The Middle East. We hope Eastie and Southie aren't next.

● President Nixon is taking quite a few side trips on his way to Russia and China. The puzzling thing is that he won't get any votes from France and England in 1972.

● HEW charges that Boston is running two separate educational systems, one for whites and one for blacks. There's no problem like that in Quincy. There's only one system and its lily white.

● The time between classes at QHS remains at four minutes, even with Open Campus. If anyone can get from the fourth floor of the Voc-Tech to the third floor of QHS in four minutes, you are wanted for the 72 Olympics.

● Many have suggested that sex does not belong in the movie theatre or at least it should be on the screen.

Insiders report that Arthur Tobin has put together the necessary five-vote bloc to have another go at City Council president.

The only one who can keep him from succeeding himself as wielder of the gavel for another year is, they say, -- himself.

Question: Will he be willing to step aside and let one of his colleagues have the honor?

If he decides to stay on, he will be the first council president in the city's history to succeed himself after serving two years.

AND, of course, that would be sure to have the Speculation Corps figuring Tobin as a mayoralty contender two years hence.

They'll say he's "minding the store" for the Democrats to take back City Hall in 1973.

WOLLASTON businessman Richard Newcomb seems to be the best bet to become the city's new purchasing agent in Mayor-elect Walter Hannon's administration.

Present Purchasing Agent George Riley is definitely planning to return to his private insurance business by February.

Newcomb is a long-time friend of Hannon's and has been one of his top aides in all of his political campaigns.

CITY HALL observers think that Atty. Joseph McParland, another close Hannon associate, will eventually replace Harry Pavan as city solicitor.

MEANWHILE, over on Coddington St., Charles Sweeny and Paul Kelly reportedly are facing a three-to-three vote deadlock for the School Committee vice-chairmanship.

Close observers see newcomer Harold Davis as the final "swing vote".

ANYONE got a 16-mm movie sound projector they don't need? Mrs. Agnes Costello of Wollaston, is looking for one. Not for herself, but for inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction.

Agnes, a member of the Norfolk County Sheriff's Associates, notes that the only Sunday entertainment at the jail is movies.

The present projector is on the fritz. If you happen to have a projector you could donate or lend, contact her at 479-4580.

DID YOU know that the state of Massachusetts is the ninth largest consumer of Scotch whisky in the nation? [Well, some people like to keep track of things like that.]

OBSERVATION via Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist: "The only thing wrong with being a good sport is that you have to lose to prove it."

YOU PROBABLY never thought of it, but 60 per cent of all the Christmas cards mailed in your home town are for delivery in your home town. So notes Postmaster George Walker who should know. But, please, pleads he, mail them early.

TYPO TERROR DEPT: In the Newport News [Va.] Times-Herald: The original dining room was on the second floor of the old building that was destroyed by fire in November, 1961. You reached it by elevator or by a cranberry jelly and lettuce and tomato salad.

HERE'S ONE: From "The Insider", published by inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction:

Police are searching [in Las Vegas] for thieves who emptied the garage of a Las Vegas home and stole the family watchdog.

About $700 worth of property was taken as well as the 100-pound husky.

The dog's name is "Killer".

Bishop-Elect Maguire Promises 'Respect, Service And Love'

By DICK MATTULINA

Rev. Msgr. Joseph F. Maguire, pastor of St. John's Church, has promised "continued and renewed respect, service and love" in his new office as auxiliary bishop of Boston.

Msgr. Maguire is one of two new bishops named Tuesday by Pope Paul VI.

"I am thankful to His Holiness for considering me worthy of this responsible office," Msgr. Maguire said.

"I welcome the opportunity to share and shoulder the burdens of our devout and spiritual leader, Archbishop Humberto S. Medeiros."

Msgr. Maguire, 52, was appointed pastor of St. John's Church this June to replace Rev. Msgr. Frederick G. M. Driscoll, who retired.

He was born in Roxbury, graduated from St.

MSGR. JOSEPH F. MAGUIRE
Columbkille's High School in Brighton and from Boston College and was ordained by then Archbishop Cushing in 1945.

He served as a curate at St. Joseph's in Lynn, St. Ann's in Readville, Blessed Sacrament in Jamaica Plain and St. Mary of the Hill, Milton.

In 1962 he was named secretary to Richard Cardinal Cushing and was elevated to monsignor in April, 1964.

Msgr. Maguire became Archdiocesan master of ceremonies in 1965 and has served as an Archdiocesan consultant since 1968.

Archbishop Medeiros said he was "overjoyed" with the elevation of Msgr. Maguire and Msgr. Lawrence J. Riley of Hyde Park.

"Their priestly holiness and zeal are well known to all in this their native archdiocese, and have long been a source of inspiration to all the faithful," he said.

The Archbishop said he and Bishops Thomas J. Riley and Jeremiah F. Minihan "extend warmest solicitations with a promise of fervent prayer."

Peace

Peace, they say, is tranquility
Then why is there mobility
Of guns and tanks that go to war

And open up a bloody door
That's filled with sorrow to every man

And brings bad tidings throughout the land

They say that we must never hate

But could it be that man's only fate

Is to live and die by a code of war

Pray, not me, I'll kill no more
For man does not realize what he has done

When he takes a life with his smoking gun

Can we say that we are free
When we kill our own humanity

I put it to you right or wrong
Our lovely world with blood is scorched.

Paul Barbadoro, Quincy

Golden Autumn

Aglow is autumn, draped in Its fiery, flaming garments,
For its time—for His Golden anniversary.
Celebrating the world's harvest, of

Nature's "fruit trees",
Juicy and mellow.

And d flowers brimming in full beauty,

Gay farmers harvesting their food crops,

For storage and consumption.

Strands of melodies are heard from above.

As we look and see Teaming birds, chant their

Last chords of adieu,
While slippery squirrels,

With nuts in mouths,
Dash to their hiding nooks.

Clouds of mist and foliage dew, brings

"Rains of falling leaves," Dipped in nature's hues of gold and copper.

And as they drift,
They huddle in bunches.

Getting ready for their winter's slumber.

Autumn is summer's end,
And winter's beginning.

Wearing its first snow,
He has given the world,

Production-galore—and in Giving "its all" He now
Is ready for His earned Rest, to awaken "fresh and crisp" for Next year's splendidous

... Rejuvenation ...

Christmas Gifts From Your Kitchen

The sweetest gift of all comes from your kitchen, created especially with loving care for someone you wish the happiest, merriest Christmas. And when your gifts come packaged in beautiful plastic containers that can be used all year 'round, they're appreciated even more.

Luckily, these special gifts are kind to the Christmas budget. Ingredients and the Tupperware containers they're hidden in are inexpensive. A little thought, a few happy hours in the kitchen and lots of love are easy and make Christmas a very personal, special holiday. Children can help decorate the gifts by adding colorful ribbons, candy canes and hand-fashioned paper Santas.

Creamy fudge, your secret Christmas candy, chiffon pies, holiday cakes and gelatin molds are only a few gift suggestions. There's a plastic container to fit every gift, so the food stays fresh and air-tight sealed. If you're looking for an unusual Yuletide recipe to use for gifts (or to prepare for your own family), Cranberry Orange Bread might be just the surprise to bring on holiday smiles. Present it in a plastic bread server so the gift's recipient can enjoy the container—and think of you—until next Christmas merrily comes along.

Cranberry Orange Bread

- | | |
|---------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1½ cups raw cranberry halves | 1½ teaspoon soda |
| 1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts | ½ cup butter or margarine, melted |
| 2½ cups sifted flour | ½ cup warm water |
| 1 cup sugar | ½ cup orange juice |
| 2 teaspoons baking powder | 2 tablespoons grated orange rind |
| 1¼ teaspoon salt | 1 egg, beaten |

Toss cranberry halves and nuts in ¼ cup flour. Combine and sift together remaining flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and soda into mixing bowl. Add remaining ingredients; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fold in cranberry-nut mixture. Pour into greased 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan. Bake in 350 degree oven until done, about 1 hour. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pan; cool on wire rack. Makes 1 loaf.

Trend Favors Artificial Trees

A SNAP OF THE FINGERS AND IT'S UP, thus doing away with one of the very few unpleasant Yuletide tasks—putting up the cumbersome and often lopsided Christmas tree. A new lifelike artificial tree from Sears has branches which drop down when the tree is placed upright and fold up for easy storage when the tree is not in use.

Instead of trudging around to tree lots, more and more families are investing in a convenient, economical, neat and safe artificial Christmas tree. The trend is reflected in sales of artificial trees which have more than tripled in the past 5 years, according to James D. Martin, tree buyer for Sears, Roebuck and Co.

"Today's artificial trees are more lifelike than ever and in many cases look better than natural trees," Martin explained. "They never have a bad side and are usually fuller." Artificial trees are reproduced to mirror the subtle differences in needle shape, color and branch formation that characterize the most popular natural trees—Scotch pine, Canadian fir, Mountain fir, balsam, and blue spruce.

"Realistic color is important in the minds of people who are thinking about an artificial tree," Martin notes. "The dark green tree is still very popular, but now some trees have light green tips on dark green and blue needles to capture the exact color of a natural tree. In addition, simulated Mountain fir, Canadian fir, Scotch pine, balsam and blue spruce trees are available with snow-like flocking."

The trees are easily assembled by following printed instructions. And to keep assembly time to the bare minimum, a new "insta-shape" model developed for Sears allows the seasonal decorator to pull the tree out of the carton, attach it upright to the tree stand and step back to watch the hinged branches fall into place.

Safety is another important benefit of artificial Christmas trees. They can't dry out and become flash-fire tinder. And since they require no water, electrical fire hazard is removed.

It's In To Be Thin By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

The dieter has a new clothes friend...

It's not a who—it's a what.

It's a waistline!

Yes, the figure is coming back. No longer will sack-like figures be able to be hidden under sack-like or A-line dresses.

Why is this good news? Because no longer can you labor under the delusion that no one can see a few extra pounds under your flowing garments [wasn't ever true anyway], and ipso facto, this will either keep your problem under control, or keep you better informed. The pinch of a right waistline will also serve as an early warning signal to maintainers.

Maybe our new motto should be—if the belt pinches, it's time to diet.

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free "Sweet Rewards for Dieters", please write me in care of the Quincy Sun, or send a self-addressed legal-sized envelope to me at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York 11566.

'Holiday Arts Fair' Dec. 21 At Parker School

A "Holiday Arts Fair", featuring drawings, etchings, and woodworking projects made by students, will be held from 9 a.m. to 11:35 a.m. Dec. 21, at the Francis W. Parker Elementary School.

The exhibit will be held in the arts and crafts room in the basement of the school for the benefit of parents of the school's 415 students. Students began "serious work" on their projects right after Thanksgiving and have been "busy as Santa's helpers in getting all of these things ready" in time for the scheduled showing, according to Principal Eugene Creedon.

"We feel that this exhibit is a significant part of the art program in our school and allows the kids to express themselves in a different dimension", Creedon said.

Students in the school will have a chance to view their own work in the exhibit area during the scheduled showing along with the works of some 32 special class students, also enrolled at the school.

The placement of drawings and the setting up of the exhibit area will be handled by third grade teacher Miss Alice Helfrich. The school's Parent-Teachers Association will provide coffee and refreshments for visiting parents.

Living, Today

'Correcting Marital Conflict'

Tom and Jane were a well-dressed couple. As soon as they sat down, Tom handed me an envelope and said, "Doctor, I'd like you to open this...then you'll see why we're here." I proceeded to open the envelope which contained a pair of TWA round-trip tickets to Athens.

"Beautiful"...I exclaimed..."I've visited Athens twice...you have a real treat in store. What's the problem?"

"We know"...Jane said..."we've always wanted to visit the Parthenon and at last we're going. But we have trouble agreeing on the simplest things...and we're just wondering how we're going to make out on such a long trip...in such close contact if we can't talk things through with each other at home. Don't you think it could be rather miserable?"

"Whether on a trip or at home the lack of good communication can create a lot of unhappiness"...I said.

"She talks too much...and I don't talk enough"...Tom said.

"Then we have an adjustment problem"...I pointed out and we began to talk about the principles of good dialogue. We had only a short time before the day for their trip...but in the few sessions this couple learned how to talk...and listen...and feel in a true pleasurable husband/wife communication. When they returned they told me that it was the happiest seven days of their marriage. Tom said..."As thrilling as it was to see Athens it was even more thrilling to be enjoying each other as we did." In spite of the price freeze...many people are planning holiday trips...and "get-away weekends"...for the purpose of rest and relaxation...relief from the responsibilities of life. Usually it's well worth the cost...if your relationship is of such quality that you enjoy each other. Otherwise...why spend good money to be miserable? You can be miserable at home.

I have been impressed with the number of people like Tom and Jane who are recognizing that they have a marital problem...and with the up-coming holiday season...the anticipated ski trips...the winter vacation have decided to do something about their problem...so that they can "get their money's worth" from the holiday. That's why many counselors are very busy at this time of the year.

One couple was anxious to talk about where they were going to spend Thanksgiving because..."last year his sister insulted me...and it's just too hard a trip to get into it with her again." For a whole year there had been hard feelings...and wisely they wanted to wash out the resentment which would prevent feelings of gratefulness. You just can't be resentful...and grateful at the same time. You can bury resentment...but it will rear its ugly head when you least expect it...like on the long holiday weekend...or even Thanksgiving Day...or in Athens. You can delay resolving until after the holiday season. But what a waste...waste of the human spirit when gratefulness and love are thwarted by angry feelings...just as well forget about any fruitful celebration.

People's marital conflicts usually center around the inability to communicate...like Tom and Jane...or around disagreement on how to deal with the children...or sexual mal-adjustment...or immature behavior which one can't accept. You can let these conflicts hang on...haggle over them every day...and night...until they wear you down...prevent you from enjoying any holiday...or any other day for that matter. Or...you can get the problem out into the open...get free enough to talk about it...courage enough to accept your short-coming...and humble enough to resolve it.

"A cheerful heart is a good medicine...but a downcast spirit dries up the bones." [Proverbs 17:22] Don't go off on a holiday weekend with our bones drying up.

Murtle The Turtle

One day our nice teacher got us a turtle for the class and we voted what name we thought would be best. And we all wanted Myrtle for the turtles name. And a few days later Myrtle was gone and we looked all around for her but we could not find her. Then the 3rd grade found her walking across their room. But we were still looking for her because we did not no that Myrtle was at the 3rd grade.

But then they came in our room and asked us if the turtle they had was ours and we said that it was our turtle.

Mayflower

The Mayflower was sailing good until out of the clear blue sky a storm hit the ship. Waves were flying. One man was killed. Most people were ill and very, very sick. Myles Standish took a couple of men on shore with him. Indians shot arrows at them. No one was hurt at all. Still no land to camp on. But finally land to live on. Myles Standish found the land. One day an Indian came to the Pilgrim's camp and showed them how to plant corn. One Indian camped with them. That's how the Indians made friends with the Pilgrims.

GERM KILLER

Apollo Eleven astronauts may have discovered one of the most effective germ killers known to man. Moon dust from collected core samples, when mixed with a protein solution, have been found to consistently kill some of the most troublesome earth-bound bacteria.

After the soil was mixed with a protein solution, it was exposed to three types of bacteria; two described as virulent germs and very hard to kill. The third was common soil bacteria. It killed them all and the test was repeated several times with the same results.

It is interesting to note that other soil samples from Apollo 12 and 11 did not have the same properties. Only the below-surface core samples of Apollo 11 have produced the antiseptic.

If the unknown substance can be isolated and synthesized, there is the possibility that a new type of "penicillin" could be the result.

Vaudevillian Ferry Finds Jobs For Quincy Senior Citizens

By DICK MATTULINA

An old time vaudeville "hokum man" is playing his gift of gab around town to land jobs for Quincy's Senior Citizens.

Edmund F. Ferry, 71, holds forth at the Division of Employment Security, 1433 Hancock St., from 8:30 to 3 each weekday finding full and part-time work for retirees.

He urges any and all of the 15,000 senior-citizens in the city to register for the program financed by the Federal Emergency Employment Act.

In 30-week programs sponsored by the Quincy Council on Aging during the past two years, Mr. Ferry has found employment for more than 100 persons over 60 years of age.

This week, thanks to federal funding, he has begun a full-time, year-round effort.

Mr. Ferry said he is not sure exactly how his name came up to the Council on Aging, but he is thankful for the opportunity to help his fellow retirees.

He said he had never met or spoken to former Council Executive Secretary Donald Strong before Mr. Strong approached him and offered the position.

Except for a stint as manager of the North Quincy Taxi Co., Ferry's previous business experience had been in the theater and music fields.

He was the Ferry half of Ferry and Swain, a singing and talking act which toured the vaudeville circuit, and spent several years as a big band "hokum man" performing comedy routines with orchestras.

Later, though he had never played a musical instrument, he led his own Eddie Ferry Orchestra which played the Club Lido in New York with Glen Gray and the Casa Loma Orchestra.

But in 1970, at the age of 69, he became a senior job recruiter with instructions to try and get jobs for 12 person age 60 or over within a 30-week period.

"I reported to work the first day with a pad and pencil and 103 applications from people I had never seen," Ferry said.

He set to work with newspaper and radio advertising and personal contacts and landed jobs for six people in his second week of work.

By the time his 30-week program ended in August, he had placed 75 senior citizens in jobs around the city.

Between January and August of this year, despite high unemployment levels, he secured jobs for 39 more persons.

And now his one-man show will open again with a two-year grant to back it up.

Ferry said the great majority of the jobs he finds are in Quincy and within access of public transportation so that the elderly in nursing homes or those without cars may work.

[Photo by Don Newell]

The success of the program can be attested to by the many letters and phone calls he has received from employers praising their workers.

Any Quincy resident over 60 who wishes to take advantage of the program is asked to file an application with Mr. Ferry at the Employment Security Office, 1433 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Brownell Seeks Study Of Unemployment

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has filed bills asking the 1972 Legislature to establish two committees to study declining employment in the South Shore.

One bill asks the legislature to appoint 23 of its members to join with union, business, city and town officials to study the situation, especially at General Dynamics shipyard.

The reporting date for this committee would be September 1972 because there are no contracts scheduled for General Dynamics after that date, Brownell said.

The second bill directs the new Executive office of Communities and Development to conduct a companion investigation in the area.

"I am hopeful that this two-pronged approach will produce concrete solutions to very serious unemployment in the South Shore," he said.

Little Height But —

Presidents Thinking Tech Tourney

Although they will have little height, only a few varsity returnees and will be without 25 points and 23 rebounds a game in the person of Bob Pike, Quincy's basketball players are thinking Tech Tourney as they prepare for their Dec. 17 opener against Weymouth South at Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

And Coach Marty Finnegan is delighted with this attitude.

"We just missed making the Tech last year and I'm glad to see the boys thinking they can make it this year," said Finnegan, starting his 12th year as the Presidents' head coach. "It will be an awfully tough job trying to fill Pike's shoes [he is now playing freshman ball at Northeastern] but the spirit and desire of this group is tremendous."

"We will average only about six feet and our success will depend upon our team speed and quickness. If hard work means anything, we may surprise a few people."

Last year Quincy lost its Tech chances when it suffered a one-point loss at Revere. Then, after eliminating North Quincy from the tourney, it ended in disappointing fashion as it became Weymouth South's only victim.

The Presidents ended 10-7 and Finnegan will be depending on this season to a large extent on graduates of Mike Greenlaw's fine junior varsity team which was 14-3.

The only varsity returnees are John Reggiannini, a 5-7 speedster and good shooter who averaged 13 points a game last year; Bobby McDermott, a six-footer who also averaged 13 points, and Ken Furfuri [6-11], who moved up from the jayvees and finished the year as a varsity starter. This trio will play in the front court.

For guards Finnegan is looking to Mark McLeod and Willie Bertrand, up from the jayvees, and Bobby Malvesti, who sat out last year due to a football injury.

"These three boys look good and Bertrand is the fastest man on the squad," Finnegan pointed out. "All are fine ball handlers as is Mike Kelley, another junior varsity graduate."

Three other jayvee grads, 6-4 Bill Keegan, 6-2 Rich Iovanna and 6-2 Jim McKinnon are vying for the starting center position. Other front court men are Ray Papiie, Mike Marvelle and Mike Long, all six-footers and jayvee stars a year ago.

Quincy had a turnout of 50 and Greenlaw has a number of fine prospects working out for his second junior varsity squad.

Friday night the Presidents will play in the annual Greater Boston League jamboree at Medford and will play host Medford in the third abbreviated game which will consist of two seven-minute periods.

After next week's non-league opener against Weymouth South, Quincy will open its league campaign on Dec. 21 at Everett and on the 23rd will host B.C. High in a non-league affair.

QUINCY'S Chuck Condos is a wing on the 1971-72 Bowdoin College varsity hockey team. A graduate of Quincy High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Condos of 59 Merrymount Road.

Quincy Grid Prospects Look Bright For '72

Quincy football fans who were disappointed by the varsity's 4-5 record this year, can look forward to next year with great anticipation.

This fall's junior varsity, coached by Bud Mosher and Gene Macomber, was 7-0, winning most games handily, and the sophomores, under Dave Burke and Jack Rayner, were 9-0, their fourth unbeaten season in the last six years under Burke.

The 1972 team's hopes will depend a great deal on the jayvees and sophomores as Hank Conroy's varsity club was pretty well depleted.

The number one and two quarterbacks, Jimmy Walker and Kevin Shea, graduate and junior Paul Creedon will be battling it out with sophomore Robin Carrera for the starting job next fall. Creedon, who saw only limited offensive service with the varsity, played a good deal on defense and was the jayvees' number one signal caller. Carrera, whose brother, Steve, was an all-time great at Quincy and shone at Brown, was the soph's quarterback.

Varsity and junior varsity backs returning will be John Whitney, Dan Sullivan, Dave Ciani, Dave Ferris, John Ford, Rich Silva, Vin Picardi and Mike Kelley.

Linemen coming back include Jim Smith, John Franceschini, Frank Guido, Rich Della Barba, Ed Sylva, Ron Smith, Mike Varrasso, Rich Russo, Ed Kelly and Dave Sten.

The only returning end with any experience will be Paul Riggs.

Others coming back from the varsity and jayvee squads are Jim Haefer, Gerry Fanning, Mike Ryan, Gordon King, Dave Maggiani, Ray Papiie, Steve Goulart, Rich Sullivan, Bob Lamie, Steve Polley and Paul Flynn.

Varrasso, Sten and Riggs were all starters this year as sophomores and should be really outstanding next year.

Burke's sophomores include Carrera and Backs Kevin Hurley, Paul Hajjar, Dave Goguen, Jim

Smith, Henry Fitzgerald, Charlie Awed, Bond Doucette, Steve Tragellis, Dan McDermott, Mike Kenney, Steve Oriola, Wayne Ponder, Pete Ramponi, Bob Vecchione and Jim Cahill.

In Cranberry League

Beau's Place Gives Quincy Standout Semi-Pro Team

Thanks to the efforts of Mike Greenlaw, Quincy Junior varsity basketball coach and former North Quincy High and Colgate standout, Quincy has a star-studded semi-pro basketball team playing in the Cranberry League this year.

The Quincy team, Beau's Place, sponsored by Beau Page, is loaded with college stars, one who played two years of pro ball and another who was a Celtics draft choice.

Beau's opened its season

Sunday at Rockland and edged Rockland Legion, 108-105.

Last night [Wednesday] it played at Wareham and Sunday night will open its home schedule against the Weymouth Alphas at Quincy Vo-Tech gym. All home games will be played there at 7:15 p.m. on Sundays.

Greenlaw is one of four former North Quincy High players on the squad.

Mike, [5-11], was an all-time great at North and was a standout for Colgate, capturing the team in his senior year.

The other former Raiders are Paul Gulliksen [6-6], who starred at U-Mass and last season played for the Weymouth Alphas; Rich Sprague [6-3] of Northeastern, a fine shooter, and Dave Cahill [6-3], former North captain and an aggressive performer.

The rest of the squad reads like a Who's Who in Basketball:

Allen Dalton [6-2] was named a Small College All-American at Suffolk U. after starring at Hyde Park High and was a Celtics draft choice.

Mike Dunn [6-3] played at Sacred Heart of Weymouth, then starred with the great Jim O'Brien at Boston College.

Jimmy Hayes [6-4] was All-American at Boston University and played for the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association.

Marty Shroofer [6-4] starred with Hayes at B.U. where he was co-captain.

Bob McNamara [6-6] was B.U. co-captain, starred at Dorchester High and is an outstanding jumper.

John Hassan [6-6] played at Weymouth High and Boston U.

"Our intention is to bring an outstanding grade of basketball to Quincy and to allow everyone to watch it free of charge," Greenlaw said. "I have invited all Quincy Junior High coaches to attend all of our games with their players. Beau Page has been tremendous, getting us gyms for scrimmages, buying new uniforms and he is just a great sports buff."

"Connie Spillane, the league president, has done a wonderful job for semi-pro sports and if it wasn't for him, there probably would be no semi-pro basketball or baseball around these parts. This is a good league with many outstanding college stars on every roster."

Quincy took an 87-77 lead into the final period at Rockland and stood off a late rally by the home team. Dalton had 34 points and Greenlaw 28 to spark Beau's.

The Quincy home schedule:

Dec. 12	Weymouth Alphas
19	Easton Huskies
Jan. 2	Rockland Legion
9	Wareham T.T.
16	Plymouth A.A.
30	Weymouth
Feb. 6	Easton

Raiders Shape Up As Fast, Sharpshooters

Last year Coach Bob Nolan missed by one game of taking his fourth North Quincy basketball team in five years into the Tech Tourney and the veteran coach rates his current team as "probably the best shooting team I've had."

That one game which kept the Raiders out of the Tech was a loss to arch rival Quincy. Nolan's team, which finished 11-6, then went on to eliminate Weymouth North from the tourney. Weymouth is coached by Bob's brother-in-law, Bill Kearns.

"We don't have especially good height this year but we will be physically strong and quick," Nolan said. "We will press a lot more and again will stress defense. We have always had good defense and I think this season we will score more than usual."

Bob emphasized that the players "have excellent attitude and are dedicated to the game."

The only varsity returnees are Captain Dave Nelson [6-3], Bob McKay [6-1] and Dave Mahoney [6-0].

The rest of the varsity players are graduates of Joe Amoroso's junior varsity squad which was 11-5 a year ago.

Jim Driscoll [6-5] should help tremendously on the boards and can also shoot. The others are Bob Torino, Jamie Doherty, John Stevens, Peter Quinn, Peter Belotti, Dave Bray, Dan Small, Ken Marsters and Bill Shea.

"I expect a lot of scoring from Nelson, who averaged 16 points a game over the final eight games last year, Marsters, McKay, Doherty and Driscoll," Nolan said. "This again will be a 10-man team with different combinations going against different types of opposition."

North, which has scrimmaged Winthrop, Milton and Boston Tech, tunes up Friday night against Everett in the annual Greater Boston League jamboree at Medford. The Raiders open their season Dec. 17 at Weymouth North and open their league season at home against Medford on Dec. 21.

Amoroso's jayvee squad includes 12 sophomores and three juniors.

The sophs are Frank Schuler, Rick Coughlin, Carl Leone, Bill Berberan, Dan Minton, Phil Robinson, Steve Orlando, Jed Phalen, Steve Miller, John Flynn, Steve Maloney and Steve McLaughlin.

The only juniors are Bernie Halloran, John Orlando and Brian Cox.

Nolan paid tribute to his managers, seniors Mike Morrissey and Richie Kelleher, junior Burt Bray and ninth grader Pat Morrissey.

Every one of Nolan's players during his career at North have gone to college or prep school and last year's seniors were no exception.

Tony Kelly is at U. of Rhode Island, Brian Donahue and Bob Flaherty at Bridgton Academy, Leo Papile at Keene State, Jack Walker at Salem State, Dan Zink at Amherst and Ken Baker at Westfield State.

Returnees, Jayvees Give Frazier Reason To Smile

Although North Quincy's football team failed to win the Greater Boston League title this fall, it did beat Quincy for the first time in four years and finished with a respectable 6-3 record.

And things look bright for the Raiders next fall as Coach Ralph Frazier has several returnees from this year's varsity as well as a number of fine jayvee players and a strong sophomore squad. Ted Sadowski coached both the jayvees and sophomores which had good seasons.

Although Bob McKay, one of the GBL's premier quarterbacks, will graduate, Frazier will be well fortified at this position in 1972 with Bobby Morton, backup to McKay on offense and a starter on defense, and sophomore Carl Leone coming back. Morton was the offensive starter for the junior varsity while Leone played regularly for the sophs, sharing the chores with Bruce Stephansky.

Among the fine varsity and junior varsity backs coming back will be Burt Bray, Bob McCormick, Bernie Doherty, Ken Perrin, Reggie Sandifer, Paul Cuniff, Charlie Smith, Bob O'Sullivan and John Pomerole.

Returning linemen include Paul Cadigan, starting center; Bill Schotzel, Mark Mulvaney, Wayne Bell, Gene Griffin, Paul Hemphill, Bill Folger, Jim Neal, Peter Quinn, Bert Bertoni, John Stevens and Steve Fransoso. Most of these players saw a good deal of varsity action.

Ends Billy Carroll, Bernie Halloran, Jim Fatses, Doug Connors and Bill Welch will also be returning. Carroll and Halloran played a good deal with the varsity.

In addition to Leone and Stephansky, sophomore backs coming up from the squad which this year was 3-2-1, are Harry Colleen, Steve Durkin, Mike Dever, Mike Boyd, Bob Boussy, Phil Robinson, John Flynn, who ran well in several varsity appearances, Rich Desmond and Terry Egan.

Linemen are Ron Frizell, Tom Donovan, Steve Constany, Brian Faherty, Doug Green, Dan McParland, Chris Costello, Wayne Gobbi, Joe Marinelli, Paul Keeley and Steve Tracey.

Sophomore ends who will be battling for varsity berths are Joe Carroll, Gary Flanagan, Dave Charter, Tom Hannon, George Hill, Brett McGrath and Joe Condon.

Quincy, North Junior Hockey Teams Open

The Quincy and North Quincy junior high-freshman hockey teams will open their Greater Boston League season Saturday night at the Boston Arena, where all games will be played on Saturday nights this year.

Quincy, again coached by Ken Hayes, former North Quincy star goalie, will face

Chelsea at 8 p.m. and North, with Ed Goguen, former Quincy standout, returning as coach, will take on Somerville at 9.

Hayes' Quincy team was league runner-up with a 7-3 record last year, while North was fourth with a 4-6 record.

Each team draws players from Central Junior High, while Quincy also has players from Sterling, Broad Meadows and Point, North draws only from Atlantic-North in addition to Central.

MBTA To Install Bicycle Racks

The MBTA has ordered bicycle racks for installation at each of the three stations on the South Shore Extension of the Red Line.

MBTA General Manager Joseph C. Kelly said "several of our commuters have been arriving at stations astride their bikes and have been locking them with chains to handrails or trees.

"In time this practice would cause damage, especially to the trees," he said.

The authority will install one 10-bicycle rack at each station and will add more if needed.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Frazier V.S. Daniels
Live On Television Jan. 15

Ed note to the JOE FRAZIER-TERRY DANIELS Jan. 15th mismatch. This will be the first heavyweight championship fight to be broadcast live on television since the MUHAMMED ALI-ZORA FOLLEY fiasco of March 1967... For the past five years all championship bouts were screened on closed circuit, then shown video-taped a week to 10 days later on ABC's "WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS"... Versatile RAYMOND ST. JACQUES will produce, direct and star in "COME BACK CHARLESTOWN BLUE". The picture, a sequel to "COTTON COMES TO HARLEM", deals with the Blacks' struggle for survival during the bleak Depression years of the 30's through involvement with the numbers racket...

THEODORE BIKEL, for many years a workhorse character actor, takes a shot at stardom with the lead role in "LITTLE ARK"... Interested in film reviews? If so, be sure to grab your copies of the Arno Press "VARIETY FILM REVIEWS, 1913-1970"... And while you're at it, bring a friend to help you carry home the nine volume, 7,000 page "FILM REVIEWS". Scheduled for a fall 1972 publication, the compilation of VARIETY newspaper reviews will cost in the vicinity of, are you ready, $1,600 plus tax... Looks like I'll have to start saving my pennies... Director FRANK CAPRA will be the honored guest at next year's second Dallas Film Festival.

VIKKI CARR has her agents scouting suitable film properties... Is JUNE LOCKHART eyeing a return to motion pictures?... Keeping in tune to the younger generations religious "kick", United Artists is readying the re-issue of "THE GREATEST STORY EVER TOLD". When first released several years back, this film was a financial flop. Now however, with the "Jesus Craze" in full swing, "GREATEST STORY" should prove to be a box office runaway... Wouldn't you say newscaster WALTER CRONKITE has become somewhat of a cult hero with anti-administration foes? CRONKITE'S superimposed grandfather image is right in keeping with nostalgia, though it doesn't always make for reliable news coverage...

History Updated Dept: BUTTERFLY McQUEEN, famed for her "Prissy" role in "GONE WITH THE WIND", is now working as a receptionist at the Mt. Morris Recreation Center in New York... And what of OLIVIA D. HAVILAND you ask? She took a break from the lecture circuit to make a Movie-Of-The-Week, "SCREAMING LADY". Also in the file are old standbys RAY MILLAND and JOSEPH COTTEN... TOM TRYON does the GREGORY PECK "wooden bit" in "THE NARCO MEN". TRYON will never win any awards for his acting, so he just may stick with his new vocation as a writer... Actor RODDY McDOWALL is short of satisfactory in his directing debut, "TAM LIN". Even the gracious presence of AVA GARDNER can't save this one...

TUESDAY WELD appears next in "PLAY IT AS IT LAYS"... BRIAN KELLY has a $5 million suit pending against Honda of America Co... Originally signed to play the lead in "LOVE MACHINE", KELLY was knocked out of the role by an accident which had incapacitated him for over a year now... KELLY claims his Honda was "malfunctional", and demands reimbursement... Don't shed any tears for the recently TV-axed ANTHONY QUINN. He's still as busy as ever. QUINN is talking a picture with JOHN WAYNE... "TENDER, LOVING CARE" needs just that if it is to succeed at the box office. The LEE MARVIN starrer is being repaired via a complete editing overhaul...

QUOTEABLE QUOTES: JOANNE WOODWARD commenting on her children's self development: "What I mean when I say I'm raising my children not to have children is that this should not be their sole aim in life. Getting married and having children isn't why you grow up. You grow up to become a human being first"... For the curious, the James Bond series is nine film years old. Time flies, eh?... LORNA LUFT, JUDY GARLAND's other daughter, shows promise of developing into as big a star as her sister LIZA MINELLI... RICHARD WIDMARK is being wooed by DAVID MERRICK to appear on Broadway...

Watch for "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF" to spawn an epidemic of musicals. Hollywood producers are dusting off their checkbooks in a spending spree hoping, of course, to cash in on the "FIDDLER" musicburst... Time will tell just how successful the musical Renaissance will be. Remembering the overflow of unsuccessful musicals generated by "THE SOUND OF MUSIC" bonanza I really have no faith in the "FIDDLER" off-shoots... SUSAN GEORGE is being touted for her performance opposite DUSTIN HOFFMAN in "STRAWDOGS"... FABERGE, the cosmetics people, pulled out as the sponsor of the TV special "GEORGE HARRISON AND FRIENDS". What, couldn't she see eyelash to eyelash?...

Billed as "the ultimate in sensual behavior," "EROTICON" is a notch XXX rater for sure... Hounded by the authorities during his lifetime, the documentary "LENNY BRUCE WITHOUT TEARS" depicts BRUCE as the social threat he never was. Ahead of his time, yes. But compared to today's "do your own thing" generation, Lenny Bruce was a lamb... VICTOR BUONO was a last minute "THE WRATH OF GOD" cast addition... DANNY KAY is contemplating slowing down to a semi-retirement career pace... Is the RYAN O'NEAL appeal slipping a notch or three? JAN-MICHAEL VINCENT caught O'NEAL short by grabbing the lead in "DEADLY HONEYMOON". The picture was originally slated as an O'NEAL vehicle, but the producers had second casting thoughts after they saw VINCENT in "GOING HOME"...

ENC Hopes Rise With Eads

It was felt that the Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, expected to be the strongest in school history, would have its troubles when it was discovered ace Ron Bradley would be sidelined for the year following a knee operation.

However, it now appears that if Don Eads, who shared the scoring honors with Bradley last year, remains healthy, the Crusaders will enjoy another banner season.

After sparking ENC to an 84-80 win over Gordon in the opener at Boston Garden with 39 points, Eads scored 37 to pace a 93-88 victory over Barrington.

Then the sharpshooter added 37 more as ENC toppled Mount Vernon of Ohio in the Trevecca Invitational Tourney at Nashville, Tenn.

The Crusaders led Mount Vernon by a 44-35 count at the half and outscored the losers, 51-43, in the second half.

Rick Reyenger, 6-7 center from Quincy, had 10 points and grabbed 16 rebounds, while holding Mt. Vernon's 6-5 Dave Cowns to 20 points, well below his average. Dave Eads, who transferred from Mt. Vernon, was outstanding against his former mates. Steve Shoff had 14 points and Dave Constantine 12. Both live in North Quincy.

In the win over Barrington, Dave Eads had 17 points and Reyenger 14.

Tuesday night the Crusaders played at Nassau, will be at Western New England Friday and will host Nyack in an 8 o'clock game Saturday night. They then will be idle until Jan. 7 when they are home to Bridgewater State.

● Youth Speaks Out

- Many people at Quincy High were disappointed with their class pictures - they came out looking like themselves.
- There is now a 10 cent deposit on lunch trays at QHS. Many feel we should be paid just to eat the food.
- Sen. Muskie said that a Black V.P. couldn't win in '72. The only group upset over this statement are the other candidates who aren't going to have a Black V.P. candidate either.
- Boston Garden is planning to evict Schoolboy Sports and state politicians are neglecting sports facilities other than hockey - and then they wonder why there's an increase in juvenile delinquency.
- The way Detroit is recalling cars, it might be better to own a 1932 Bomber than a 1972 model.

ECONOMIC STABILIZATION

This column of questions and answers on the President's Economic Stabilization Program is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about wages and prices.

Q - What kinds of price increases are permitted during Phase II?

A - The basic policy set by the Price Commission is that price increases will not be allowed except as justified on the basis of cost increases in effect on or after November 14, 1971, taking into account productivity gains. While price increases, in the aggregate, must not exceed 2½ per cent per year, many adjustments will be below 2½ per cent, and some will be above this figure as justified by cost increases and other factors. Price increases will not be granted to any individual or firm to compensate for losses from increased costs that couldn't be passed on during the August 16-November 13 freeze.

Q - How do these rules apply to manufacturers and service industries?

A - Prices charged by manufacturers, service industries and professions may not be increased over freeze period levels, except as a result of allowable cost increases in effect on or after November 14, adjusted to reflect productivity gains. In any event, price increases must not result in any increase in a firm's pretax profit margin [as a percentage of sales] as established during the firm's base period.

Q - How are retail and wholesale prices controlled?

A - Retail and wholesale prices are controlled on the basis of customary initial percentage markups which are applied to the cost of the merchandise or service. These customary initial percentage markups cannot be higher than those in the markup base period. Moreover, a firm may not increase its prices beyond that amount which would bring its net profit rate before taxes [as a percentage of sales] to a level greater than that in the base period.

Retailers are to post prominently their base period prices for all covered food items and for many other selected items other than food as specified in the regulations. Until all such selected prices are posted, retailers are not permitted to increase any prices. In any event, such base period prices must be posted no later than January 1, 1972.

Q - What is the general pay standard applicable to new labor agreements?

A - The general pay standard applicable to new labor agreements and, where no labor agreement is in effect, to existing pay practices, permits annual aggregate increases normally considered supportable by productivity improvement and cost of living trends. Initially, this general pay standard is established at 5.5 per cent.

In reviewing new contracts and pay practices, the Pay Board will consider ongoing collective bargaining and pay practices and the equitable position of the employees involved, including the impact of recent changes in the cost of living upon the employees' compensation.

Q - Next month I am scheduled to receive a pay increase higher than 5.5 per cent under the terms of a contract negotiated before August 15. Can I get the increase?

A - Yes. Existing contracts and pay practices previously set forth will be allowed to operate according to their terms, except that specific contracts or pay practices are subject to review, when challenged by a party at interest [i.e., either labor or management] or by at least five members of the Pay Board, to determine whether any increase is unreasonably inconsistent with the Board's criteria.

Q - Are rent increases still frozen?

A - Yes. The freeze on rents will continue, with certain adjustments, until guidelines are developed by the Price Commission in consultation with the Rent Advisory Committee. Landlords are required to record and make available upon request both the unit-by-unit freeze-period rent and the basis for any adjustments.

The following rents, however, have been exempted from price controls by the Cost of Living Council: 1) rents on commercial, industrial and farm property and 2) newly constructed or substantially rehabilitated dwellings offered for rent for the first time after August 15, 1971.

49,952 Invited To Inaugural Ball

Hannon, Council Take Oath Jan. 3 At Voc-Tech Gym

Mayor-elect Walter J. Hannon will be the first mayor in the city's history to take his oath of office outside of city hall.

Hannon, Quincy's 24th chief executive since it was incorporated in 1888, will be sworn in Jan. 3 at 10 a.m. at the Vocational-Technical School auditorium.

A special order of the city council recently declared the Voc-Tech gym as a legal site for council meetings and official proceedings.

City Clerk John M. Gillis will administer the oath of office in what observers believe is the first swearing in ceremony to be held in a location other than City Hall.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, who succeeded Republican Amelio Della Chiesa in 1966, will release the reins of the city to Hannon, the 19th Republican mayor of Quincy.

Also to be sworn in is the new City Council, which includes newcomers Theophilus McLelland of Ward 3 and William D. Delahunt of Ward 6 and Councillor-at-large Joseph J. LaRaia, who has been returned to the board.

The council will elect its president at the ceremony with speculation that Councillor-at-large Arthur H. Tobin will become the first council president to succeed himself.

Invitations are being mailed to each of the 46,952 registered voters in Quincy for an inaugural ball to be held in the gymnasium at 8 p.m. Jan. 3.

Mayor-elect Hannon has appointed John T. Williams of Quincy as general chairman of the inaugural day committee.

Mrs. Williams, president of the Bankette Co. Inc. of Wollaston, is a member of the Quincy Hospital Board of Managers.

Coordinator for the event will be Mrs. Robert Mitchell of Quincy.

Members of the Liaison committee are Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon and Edward M. Smith of the school department and City Clerk John M. Gillis.

Also on the liaison committee are Joseph P. Shea, executive secretary to Mayor-elect Hannon; Jack Brown of the school department and Herbert Blake, superintendent of buildings.

Smyth Asks Support For Aircraft Bill

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth has asked Quincy residents to express their support for the proposed Aircraft Noise Abatement Act by writing Sen. Edward W. Brooke and Cong. James A. Burke.

Interested persons may write the Congressmen in care of Quieter Air, Box QA, Boston, Mass. 02101.

In a recent letter to Brooke and Burke, Smyth said "West Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy are the areas most seriously affected by the noise and pollution of jet air traffic."

"The take-off and landing patterns are very low especially over Montclair, Atlantic and Squantum because of the close proximity to Logan Airport," he said.

He pointed out that the "extremely loud and numerous" noises often interrupt conversations and television programs and are "distracting to sick people."

He urged them to "Feel free to call upon me if I can be of any assistance to you in the enactment of this important and far-reaching environmental bill."

Brownell Proposals Include Consumer Protection Package

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has filed a number of proposals to strengthen consumer protection in the Commonwealth as part of his legislative package of 46 bills filed for consideration by the 1972 session of the legislature.

The major proposal would establish consumer protection divisions in the various district attorney's offices throughout the state.

Rep. Brownell said "this legislation is needed to bring the rapidly expanding field of consumer protection closer to the people."

In another measure, statutory guarantees would be established on major working parts of used cars sold by dealers to protect purchasers who buy used cars "as is".

The legislation would provide a two-year guarantee on major working parts, such as the transmission and engine, on cars less than one year old, an 18 month guarantee on cars from one to two years old, a one year guarantee on cars from two to three years old, and a six months guarantee on cars three years or older.

In a related bill all used car dealers would be required to post a bond of at least $5,000 before doing business in the Commonwealth. This bill is designed to ensure that used car dealers stand behind their representations to customers.

Brownell has also filed a bill requiring insurance companies to provide copies of medical information used by insurers to deny liability to policyholders in accident and health policies.

This legislation would require insurers to supply that information when requested by the cancelled policyholder.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

One of the biggest problems in adult life is immaturity. Many people have been crippled by well-meaning...but indulgent parents...so that they are unable to cope with adult responsibility...to roll with the punches of life...to talk things out reasonably...to be free of the childish habits and ways of thinking about themselves...about their relationships with other people.

Here's the man who still has to be called four or five times each morning to get him up to go to work...who gets angry at his wife if he oversleeps. What's his problem? Immaturity.

Here's the woman who is a chronic complainer about her lot in life...where she lives...what she doesn't have...cries much...particularly if she doesn't get what she wants...blames her husband for not giving her emotional security. What's her problem? Immaturity.

I remember a wife literally begging me to teach her husband to be a man...about the use of money...how to be a sex partner...how to take care of the home property...how to get along with other men in the car pool. "You've got to teach him"...she insisted. "He just doesn't know how to be a man...no one ever taught him...he's still such a little boy." Quite a tall order for the counselor...wouldn't you say? And yet...the shortcomings of this man were overcome in a short time...because he was likely to learn.

That's the key...no one is likely to grow up unless he/she wants to grow up...acknowledges the need to grow up. Any learned behavior can be unlearned...but only if one wants to unlearn and relearn ways of life that work.

This is what education is all about...maturing...growing up...learning to live...learning to cope. Too much of our education is lopsided...an intellectual emphasis only leaves people in an immature state and unprepared for real life. It's fine to learn facts...formula...dates...figures...rules...theory. But to omit learning in depth...how to be a person...how to act...how to feel...what to say...how to use good judgment...what to do when life gets out of the normal routine...creates an immature adult.

The year after I graduated from the University of Kansas, I became principal of a small rural high school. I received a call one day from the head of the History Department of the University asking if I would hire Dr. Samuel Brain [not his true name, of course] to teach history in my high school. This man had received his Ph.D. some time before but no superintendent wanted him on his staff. He had ONLY knowledge...he just didn't fit anywhere...not at home...nor on a job. Too many adults are like Dr. Sam...smart...brain knowledge of a particular field...but otherwise immature.

How can such immature adults "grow up fast"...since time is marching on...and since people they live with are suffering from their immature behavior. Three suggestions...First...A marriage partner of an immature adult does well not to accept the immature behavior. Reject the behavior...not the person. If it was his/her permissive childhood which created the problem, nothing is to be gained by continuing to be permissive. Talk it out..."I will not tolerate the unmade beds...the dirty house...the dirty words...the belittling...the drinking...the 3 a.m. coming home." Make it clear that such immature behavior is unacceptable.

This can be strong motivation to change...because if the immature partner loves and needs you he/she will not want to lose you. Fear can have its positive values. It can speed maturity.

Secondly...Let the immature person humble himself...stop the loud mouth...the bragging talk...a display of ignorance which is an embarrassment to the partner. Defending one's immature behavior only entrenches the condition. Humbly look at yourself. That's a necessary beginning.

Third...Start watching the way mature people function. Ask questions...stop making statements. You don't really know enough to make statements. Ask WHY? Why do you do it this way?...Why doesn't this work?...Then go on to ask HOW? How can I do it so it will work for me? How can I change to a better way of life?

Many adults are maturing by participating in courses...seminars...therapy groups...sensitivity training. Our Therapy Group on Friday mornings is helping people to find better ways of relating...coping with life problems...because we are asking WHY? HOW? WHICH WAY? We learn from each other.

A word for the services of the teaching counselor. I wish there were a "fast grow up pill"...with no unpleasant side effects. But there is no such a thing. More and more people are wanting to "grow up fast"...and find the professional with broad personal and practical experience of great help. With your counselor you can batter out conclusions which can change your life.

You can grow up fast...Just as fast as you want to.

A Mouse

A mouse scuttled across the floor.
Running farther till I stepped upon his tail.
I said, "I'm sorry"
And he turned very pale.

Well, I asked, "What's your name?"

Nothing did he say.
I got off his tail,
And he ran right away.

Happiness is seeing a turkey, buying a turkey, plucking a turkey.

Happiness is washing a turkey, stuffing a turkey, cooking a turkey.

Happiness is carrying a turkey, eating a turkey and being thankful for it.

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving to me means a lot of things. Going to grandma's house for a big meal. This special holiday is in memory of the pilgrims that came from far away.

They wanted freedom just as we do. And they got it. We always have a big turkey, cranberry sauce, stuffing, potatoes, carrots, wine and sweet apple cider. We also have desert either pudding or jello.

The Lord has bought them good, just as we because he bought them safely to America and gave them a home to settle in.

Pilgrims Trip

It was spring in 1620 and the Mayflower was ready to sail. My mother, my sister, my father, and I packed up all our clothes and things. Next we got on. Suddenly a man shouted "all aboard". Then we all screamed yes!!! I could feel the boat swaying gently out of bay. The land got smaller and smaller until there was just a little bit of land. Out ahead there was just blue and blue. A few beautiful days went by. One day I was lay out on the deck when a big gust of wind nearly blew me off the deck. Luckily there was a rope nearby so I grabbed a hold of it then ran downstars! The waves got higher and higher. After a few minutes the waves started to come the bow. "Close all hatches" a man suddenly shouted!!!! Inside men and women tumbled like rag dolls being shaken in a box!!!!

Thanksgiving is a joyful day for me. We all sit down and have a feast of turkey.

We also have potatoes, squash and gravy too. All these foods are good for me and you.

When the Pilgrims came to land,

They jumped on Plymouth Rock and onto the sand.

There they knelt and prayed in thanks,

They all prayed on the ocean's banks

They came over on the Mayflower,

Through many a storm and many a shower.

The Indians came and they all met,

That's a time they'll never forget.

They planted corn and wheat, They worked in the cold and in the heat.

At harvest they all had a big feast.

That they'll never forget at the least.

The turkey was roasted.

And the Indians never boasted.

Thanksgiving is a time to eat. Good food and good meat.

Students Tour Norfolk County Offices, Court

Students from Norfolk County schools have been participating in a series of "Court House Visits" initiated by District Atty. George G. Burke.

Members of Burke's Drug Abuse Prevention Unit have been conducting tours on Mondays and Fridays to "create positive thinking towards the judicial system."

Visitors are given a chance to "see how the court system operates," Burke said, so they will "appreciate better the quality of justice in the American Judicial System."

Visits start at the drug center with an explanation of the drug education program and a briefing on the jury system.

The students then meet

Burke or one of his assistants who take them through the process of arrest and trial and explain the role of the probation officer.

The system of county government is explained at the County Commissioners' office before the students are ushered into court to witness proceedings scheduled for the day.

Often a judge will take time during a recess to address the students and explain how a judge is appointed, how he travels from court to court on a "circuit" and how he handles certain cases.

The purpose of the tours, Burke said, is to educate and "inculcate in the students a respect of laws through which the common good is protected."

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Blue Cross announces a new choice for Federal Employees. The Harvard Community Health Plan. You don't have to be sick to benefit from this revolutionary health care plan.

Now Federal Employees from the greater Boston area can choose between two totally different types of Blue Cross health care methods. Both give you the best when you need it the most. That is, both give you the maximum health care protection available.

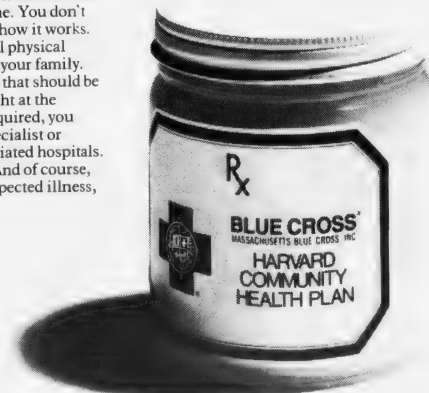

The first is our traditional method. The way it works is like this: you pay a premium; then, when you need health care services, Blue Cross reimburses the provider afterward. Federal Employees can choose the High Option Plan. It's a service benefit plan, which means there's no fixed dollar limit on the basic benefits you receive. In most cases, full coverage is provided without deductibles for 365 days a year. And there is also a Low Option Plan, an indemnity plan that's lower in cost.

The second method is the new choice, the Harvard Community Health Plan. It's a Health Maintenance Organization, which means that it emphasizes preventive medicine. You don't have to be sick to benefit. Here's how it works. Your premium pays for an annual physical and eye examination for you and your family. If the physician detects anything that should be taken care of, he can treat you right at the Center. If special treatment is required, you will be treated by an affiliated specialist or admitted into one of the four affiliated hospitals. Your premium covers this, too. And of course, it also covers you in case of unexpected illness, hospital stays and accidents.

The Harvard Community Health Center is located in Kenmore Square. Besides the doctors' offices, the Center includes laboratory and X-ray facilities, 24-hour emergency call services, a pharmacy, counseling services offices and health education facilities. It's actually a one-stop health center.

When you join the Harvard Community Health Plan, you still get the nationally recognized Blue Cross card. Which means you can get into any of over 7000 hospitals across the country.

So when it comes time to choose your health care plan for next year, remember our two choices. One of them is sure to be right for you and your family. And isn't it nice to know that whichever one you choose, you'll be getting the best when you need it the most?

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Laurel & Hardy Hit In West Germany

With 1971 drawing to an end, it's only fitting to single out for praise the recipients of the American Guild of Variety Artists [AGVA] top entertainers of the year awards... And in this respect we salute the following AGVA winners: TOM JONES, male musical star; BARBRA STREISAND, female musical star; FLIP WILSON, male comedy star; CAROL BURNETT, female comedy star; and are you ready for this?... TANYA the elephant, singled out as the top animal act of 1971... And natch' old skinsome himself, BOB HOPE, literally walked off with the "Entertainer of the Year" trophy... In a polling of the 10,000 member AGVA, BOB HOPE was the top vote getter...

And yup, WARREN BEATTY, actor, lover et al, really is a political activist. For some months now BEATTY has been thumping U.S. college campuses on behalf of Sen. GEORGE McGOVERN... Keep your eye out for singer CLAUDIA VALADE. Those who caught the FRANK SINATRA show in Boston a while back, will remember Miss VALADE as the showstopper of the night. A gal with talent to match her good looks, Miss VALADE should hit the top charts by the end of '72. And yes, that is a prediction... "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF" broke all opening week records in New York and Los Angeles. Socked the reserved seat engagement record with a $150,000 gross...

"BLACK BEAUTY" still rates high as one of the premiere releases of the holiday season... For the curious, film/book royalties and copyrights are exempt from price controls under NIXON'S Phase II freeze-in. How does that saying go, "the rich get richer"... The Greatest Show on Earth's College of Clown's recently graduated its' Fourth Annual Class of Clowns. Ceremonies took place in Venice, Fla., with those graduating magna cum laude joining RINGLING BROS. AND BARNUM & BAILEY for its 1972 tour... The late great SPENCER TRACEY and KATHERINE HEPBURN were the longest-running co-star team in film history. Over a span of 25 years they co-starred in 9 pictures, with "GUESS WHO'S COMING TO DINNER" being their cinematic triumph...

QUOTABLE QUOTES: ELLIOTT GOULD, in Cambridge recently to pick up a Harvard Lampoon "Worst Actor of the Year" award [?], badmouthing the film industry with "The whole business is parasite-it's easier to be a parasite than an individual." Nothing like biting the hand that feeds ya, eh GOULD baby?... Canadian actor ALEXANDER KNOX is back in the writing business with his just typed "NIGHT OF THE WHITE BEAR". The novel is KNOX'S second, his first being "BRIDE OF QUIETNESS" penned 38 years ago... Boston will never replace New York City as a film capital. Gotham has been tapped for locale shooting for 10 motion pictures...

HERB JAFFE predicts "1972 will be the biggest year in the history of United Artists". JAFFE, an executive of UA, bases his intuition on "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF", "HOSPITAL", "DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER", and the WOODY ALLEN chuckler, "WHAT YOU'VE ALWAYS WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT SEX"... With such a lineup of blockbusters, how are we to doubt his "prediction"... CARL REINER will be on Broadway next spring as director of the comedy "TOUGH TO GET HELP"... The ink dries on that $1.75 million 16 week contract ANN-MARGRET signed with the LAS VEGAS HILTON... Don't tell JILL ST. JOHN that ole' England has an all too high density of smog/pollution. "TARGET" is the sixth film she's made in that country...

Hard to figure why "THE CHAMPION" hasn't been released. The film was completed a year ago, edited and scheduled for release this past summer. And yet?... Really no explanation why the JON VOIGHT starrer hasn't made the theatre scene. Unless of course the producers feel JON VOIGHT is no longer a draw... At least one thing's for sure. The public will be able to judge the merits of "THE CHAMPION", if not in a theatre, then on the home screen... GEORGE SEGAL is at his dramatic best in the drug scenario "BORN TO WIN"...

Boston's West End Cinema continues its policy of giving the public the most scintillating of X-raters. That managements latest lure is a caper titled "DAGMAR'S HOT PANTS INC"... A tip of the ole' beret to talented DIANE BAKER whose documentary "ASHIANA" won a special Jury Prize at the recent Atlanta Film Festival... JAMES MASON still ranks as one of England's top thespians. Can't remember MASON ever having given a sub-par performance... Nostalgia has West Germany in a LAUREL and HARDY frenzy. Their old flits have patrons queuing at the box office... What's director WALTER LANGE doing these days?...

JAN-MICHAEL VINCENT is superbly arrogant as the unforgiving son in "GOING HOME". Far and away one of the more talented young actors in the business today, VINCENT could prove a bigger ticket draw than say RYAN O'NEAL... JOE NAMATH buzzed in and out of Burbank for a "LAUGH-IN" take... MICKEY ROONEY and MARTY ALLEN are teamed up for a package of three comedies. Shades of ABBOTT and COSTELLO? You never know. Come to think of it, ROONEY and ALLEN has a nice ring about it... JOHN WESTON has been tapped to design the costumes for the "BILLIE HOLIDAY STORY". Though not a household name, WESTON is considered one of the better costume designers now making the Hollywood scene.

THINKING OUT LOUD DEPT: This may be the era of Women's Lib, but modern film portrays its heroines as whores, thus degrading all of womanhood if not humanity. Ironically, films in the pre-Women's Lib era showcased its heroines as "Ladies"...

Officials Pledge Support To Psychological Testing Service

The South Shore Psychological Testing and Counseling Service, 24 Adams St., has received support of Quincy school, court and medical officials upon its recent licensing - for drug treatment.

The 11-year-old center received its license to treat addicts from the Department on Mental Health in November.

This allows the Center to take referrals from the courts.

The Center is run on a part-time basis by Gerald Gherardi, guidance counselor at Quincy's Vocational-Technical High School and William J. Sullivan, social studies teacher at Quincy High School.

"Most of the kids we deal with are psychologically dependent," said Gherardi. This is not the same as an addict who has become physically addicted to a drug, he said.

"We become an advocate for them," Gherardi continued. He explained that many adults are reluctant to work with a troubled and often aggressive adolescent.

He and Sullivan have lived in Quincy for a long time and know the community resources well.

The two men have helped many youths get jobs and deal with other problems.

Parents are consulted only with permission of the youth involved. Counseling where all are present is often fruitful.

Because the center offers testing and services to a crossroad of clients, a person with a drug-related problem has a certain amount of anonymity by choosing the Center.

Gherardi stressed that all files are kept strictly confidential.

McCauley Requests Repeal Of State 'Hot Lunch Law'

School Committeeman-elect Francis X. McCauley has asked Rep. Walter J. Hannan to file "the necessary legislation to effect the repeal of the so-called 'hot lunch law'".

McCauley told the mayor-elect he feels the city can not afford to provide free lunches to elementary school children under the law, which becomes effective in 1973.

"This statute," he wrote, "when fully implemented, will saddle the already overburdened taxpayer with an additional $8 to $12 million in municipal costs."

"I am certain that your efforts, not only as a state representative but as our city's chief executive, will be successful in effecting the repeal of this legislation," McCauley told Hannan.

PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

True, after many years of a downward trend, the drug price index has gone up. But the rise is a modest one compared to the overall cost of health care and consumer prices. In the past year, prescription prices rose 1.7% while the cost of living was climbing 6%.

The average prescription today cost $3.68, which works out to a little more than one-half cent of the consumer dollar. [And less than a dime of every medical care dollar goes for these health-giving medicines...a smaller percentage than a family spent 10 years ago.]

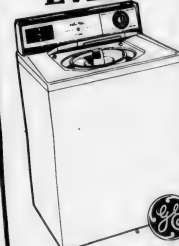

For this, the purchaser gets products that are more effective than those available 10 years ago and six out of ten of the most often prescribed drugs were not even available then. More ailments are being controlled and patients get out of the hospital sooner [or stay out altogether]. And this can mean sizeable savings in the family's health care budget.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. You can also pay your electric or telephone bills or use our notary public service. Hospital equipment and supplies for rent or sale. Prescription tax and insurance records kept plus 24 hour emergency service in North Quincy. Open 7 days a week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Quincy Icemen Face Medford In Opener

Quincy's hockey team opens defense of its Greater Boston League championship Friday against Medford, which finished a close second a year ago, at Boston Arena. The game is the second on the four-game card which starts at 6:30.

Coach Bob Sylvia, whose Presidents won the title with a 14-2-4 mark, edging Medford [14-5-1], is worried about the same problem which has hounded him in recent years.

"We should have an outstanding defensive team with great goalies, but we must develop some scoring punch," said the veteran coach, who has made a habit of taking his teams into the state tourney. "Even when we won the championship last year, we had our troubles scoring and this year we don't have anyone who scored as many as six goals a year ago."

Sylvia is strong in goal and, with the junior high continuing to come up with standouts, Quincy appears set here for years to come. Artie Boyle, who played regularly last year, is one of the best in the GBL and Sylvia raves about Sophomore Glen Prescott, who sparked the junior high team to a 7-3 GBL record a year ago. A third goalie, Dennis McCarthy, also looks good.

Although Capt. Rick Pattin is the only really experienced defenseman, Sylvia feels this will be a strong point with Steve Bergonzi, Russ Corner, Mike Gilcoin and Mike Norton, another fine sophomore, joining Pattin.

The Presidents' coach designates his lines by color rather than number.

The orange line has Asst. Captain Steve Cedrone at center and Paul Campbell and either John Prescott or Tom Hamill at the wings.

Asst. Captain Jim Cattaneo centers the blue line with Jim Starkey and Jack Black on the wings.

Pete McNally is the center and Paul Vesaziano and Sophomore Pete Jannis the wings on the yellow line and the green line is comprised entirely of sophomores, Pete Lindbloom at center, Bob Gilbody and Steve Ryder on wing.

"Boyle, Cedrone, Cattaneo and Pattin are the most experienced players but Campbell, John Prescott and Bergonzi also have had much service," Sylvia said.

"We haven't progressed as well as I had hoped for but the boys are tired from early morning practices and we have had several muscle pulls and other injuries," Bob continued. "We are starting to come along and I hope we are ready for Medford, which again looks strong. We tied Arlington Catholic, 2-2, in a jamboree at Melrose and I wasn't too pleased with our performance.

"Black and Starkey look like they might develop into good scorers and I repeat that we must find some scoring punch to go along with a fine defense."

Sylvia looks for a close race which he feels won't be decided until the end. He points to the fact that Chelsea, Malden and Everett have new coaches and feels a new team always tries to win for a new coach. He picks Revere, fourth place finisher last year, as the team to beat. The GBL was represented by four teams, Quincy, Medford, Malden and Revere, in the tournament last season.

"We have a lot of other outstanding sophomores who should make Jack Scanlan's junior varsity team strong again," Bob concluded.

Eads Hot

ENC Tops Nyack, 76-63

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, with a 5-2 record and just six points away from being undefeated, will be idle until Jan. 7 when it hosts Bridgewater State.

The Crusaders, with Don Eads maintaining his 30-plus game average, topped Nyack last week, 76-63, for victory number five.

Eads, who is taking up the slack left by the sidelined ace, Ron Bradley, added 30 points against Nyack while his brother Dave contributed 15.

Rick Reyenger, 6-7 pivot man from Quincy, grabbed 11 rebounds for ENC.

In their previous game the Crusaders were nipped by Western New England College of Springfield, 82-79 as Eads scored 22, Dave and Terry Briggs 16 each.

Earlier ENC had pulled out an 83-30 overtime decision over Nason. Eads, sitting out nine minutes of the game, was held to 19 points, Dave had 16 and took down 13 rebounds, Briggs scored 13 and Reyenger 10 and had 16 rebounds.

Eastern Nazarene's only other loss was an 85-82 decision to host Trevecca in the finals of the Trevecca Invitational Tourney at Nashville, Tenn.

Trevecca won the game from the foul line as ENC was hit with twice as many fouls as the host club.

"I'm not saying we didn't deserve the fouls but I thought a lot more should have been called on them," said a disappointed Coach Jim Smith.

McIntyre Team Rolls High Little Loop Three

The Mayor James R. McIntyre team rolled a 1,312 to score high team three in last week's competition of the Quincy Little Loop bowling league.

Local 513 scored high team single with 456 and Mike Martinelli tallied high single and three with 122 and 319.

Bryan Post remained in first place with a 23-9 record, Montclair Men's Club is 21-11 and Atlantic Fuel and Hal Davis teams were tied third with 19-13 records.

Rounding out the field are McIntyre, 18-14; Local 513, 17-15; Hutchinson Oil, 15-17; Brett, 15-17; Elks, 15-17; Bowladrome, 14-18; Hennessy, 13-19; Morrissey, 12-20; Burke, 12-20; and IAM 14-21.

Dick Magnarelli leads the league in individual scoring with a 95.5 average, followed by Mike Martinelli at 92.7, Brian Connolly at 92.6 and Steve Martinelli at 92.6.

Others in the top 10 are Frank Granara, 92.0; Bruce Perry, 91.9; Dick Voelkel, 91.8; Joe Gullins, 91.3; Mike McBride, 90.0 and Nick Anastas, 90.8.

Creedon Thanks Officials For Stadium Preparations

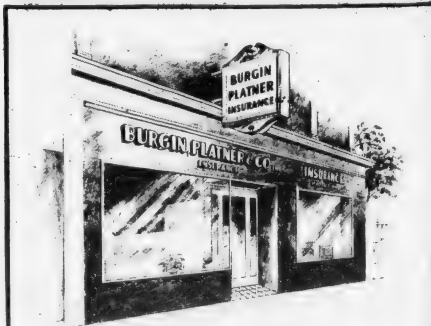

School Superintendent Lawrence P. Creedon has expressed his thanks to the highway, sewer and park and recreation departments for their preparations of Memorial Stadium for the Thanksgiving football game.

Letters of thanks have been sent to Alfred J. Raymond, highway superintendent; Russell Frano, sewer superintendent; and George Page, foreman of the Park and Recreation Department.

"As a result of your efforts and those of your associates the game was able to be played on Saturday on a field that was, considering weather conditions, in excellent shape," he said.

"Will you please convey to all men in your department a sincere thank you."

North Meets Malden In Opener Friday

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's hockey team had only a 3-13-4 Greater Boston League record a year ago under new coach Ron Erikson, himself a former Raider star.

This season Erikson is not looking toward a league title and is pointing for a .500 record as the team prepares for Friday night's opener against Malden at Boston Arena, where all games will be played.

"We don't have much experience and are particularly green on defense," Ron said. "It is hard to predict how we will do and we open against a really strong team in Malden."

"We don't have much size and are very young. We have many underclassmen and should be stronger next year. But this is a tremendous group of boys and they are great to coach. We lost a lot of close games last year and I think we will make a respectable showing this winter."

North has an experienced goalie in Bob Guerriero, a senior who played in half the games last year. Senior Rich Masotta has had some experience and Erikson likes the looks of junior Jim Fatses and sophomore Dave Messina.

"The key as to how we will do rests on the defensemen, all underclassmen," Erikson said. "They have a lot of potential and should come along but they haven't come along as well as I had hoped in scrimmages."

The defense pairings have Juniors Mike Hanley and Doug Connors, Sophomores Robbie Henderson and Dave Noonan and Sophs Ronnie Frizzell and John Sturgess.

Erikson has three lines of equal strength and they will have to be revamped after the opening game. Steve MacKay, one of the best looking forwards, will miss Friday's game as he took the cast off a badly sprained ankle only last week.

The probable first line for the opener will include Senior Steve Leofanti at center with Senior Keith Losordo and Junior Ken Graham at wing.

The second line will have all juniors, Kevin Jago at center, Rick Kelley and Joe Lannon at the wings.

Three sophomore make up the third line, Brian MacIsaac at center, Bob Morse and Andy Collieran wings.

Another line which may see some action includes Junior John Lynch at center and Seniors Joe Flemming and Al Grassiosso wings.

Junior Glen Mosesso and Sophomores Steve Tracy and Jim Mullaney will see both varsity and junior varsity service as will Jerry McLaney and Paul DiCristofaro.

Erikson has a new junior varsity coach, Jack Crowley, a former Quincy High all-scholastic who replaces Ralph Younie, another former Quincy star. Crowley captained Boston State in hockey and was State's top scorer in his junior and senior years. He is a physical education teacher in the elementary schools.

North Meets Everett

Quincy Junior Icemen Loom As Title Threat

A year ago Quincy's junior high-freshman hockey team finished second in the Greater Boston League with a 7-3 record and Ken Hayes' team proved last week it must be considered a title threat this year.

Quincy, following a 6-1 opening night win over Chelsea, will face Malden Saturday night at 9 at Boston Arena.

Ed Goguen's North Quincy team, which was fourth with a 4-6 mark last season, will try to bounce back from a 3-2 loss to Somerville when it meets Everett at 8 p.m.

Quincy scored two goals in each period to breeze past Chelsea. The young Presidents scored two shorthanded goals in the opening period when Frank Guest tallied with Quincy one man short and Ed McDonald made it 2-0 with the winners two men down.

Ted Wiedemann scored twice in the second period while in the third session seventh grader Paul Connolly and eighth grader Billy Hamill completed the scoring.

"I was very pleased with our performance and honestly think we have an excellent chance to win the championship," Hayes said.

Goguen was satisfied with the young Raiders' showing despite the close defeat.

"The boys turned in a fine performance and I think we will come along and win our share of games," he said.

Quincy, North Take On The Weymouths

The Quincy and North Quincy basketball teams open their season Friday night following good showings in the annual Greater Boston League jamboree last week at Medford.

The Presidents host Weymouth South while the Raiders travel to Weymouth to face Weymouth North. Both are non-league games.

They open their league seasons Tuesday with Medford at North Quincy and Quincy at Everett. Next Thursday Quincy hosts B.C. High in a non-league contest.

North defeated Everett, 22-19, while Quincy bowed to Medford, 28-22, in last week's abbreviated jamboree games.

Capt. Dave Nelson had 10 points and Jamie Doherty seven for the Raiders, and Coach Bob Nolan praised the defense, especially the play of Bob McKay and John Stevens.

"I was satisfied with our performance and was especially pleased with the defense," Nolan said.

Coach Marty Finnegan was also satisfied despite Quincy's loss to one of the league powerhouses.

"We learned what we sought out to learn and I used all 12 players," he said. "Our scoring was well-divided and all in all I thought the boys did well. Medford got off to an early lead and we couldn't catch up."

John Reggiannini, Mark MacLeod, and Ken Furfari had five points apiece and Bobby McDermott had four.

Quincy Trackmen Face Rindge Tech Dec. 21

As Quincy's winter track team prepares for its Met League opener Dec. 21 against Rindge Tech [8 p.m. at Northeastern University], Coach Gene Macomber is faced with a familiar problem—lack of scoring depth.

"We always have several boys who win events but have lacked the important seconds and thirds which are so important," said Macomber, whose team was 2-6 last year. "It looks like the same story this year, unless a promising group of sophomores come through for us."

Tom Hall, assistant coach and head coach of spring track and cross country, is enthused by these sophomores.

"This is the finest sophomore group we have ever had," he said. "I think some of them will give us those vital second and third places."

The standout scorers for the Presidents are veterans Bob Ciano, Pete Daley, Bob McDermott, Paul Wahlberg, Brian Feeney, Dave Coull and Roberto Volpini, all fine scorers last year.

Ciano is undefeated in winter and spring track and cross country for three years. Used mainly in the mile in winter track, Macomber will use him in other events, depending upon the opposition.

There are 11 sophomores on the squad and only six seniors. The seniors are Ciano, Daley, Wahlberg, Feeney, McDermott and Coull.

Running the 50-yard dash will be John Johnson and Ray Lawyer. Lawyer and Sophomores Pete Ramponi and Paul Riggs will run the 300, Daley and three sophs, Dave DiBona, Don O'Brien and Gary Hawes will be in the 600, Wahlberg, Mark MacLeod and Soph Fred Norikus in the 1000, Ciano, Marty Swirko and Soph John Ahola in the mile, and Feeney and Soph Joe Bouchie in the two-mile.

Lawyer, Ramponi, Ciano and Daley look like the number one runners on the relay team.

In the hurdles it will be Coull, McDermott and Kevin Cox, while Volpini and Sophomores Mike Varrasso, Dave Sten and Kim Derbes will operate in the shot put and Johnson, McDermott and Cox in the high jump.

"We will shift the distance runners around and it will depend upon who we are facing as to which races they will enter," Macomber explained, "if we just get some depth, we should make a good showing this year."

Quincy had been scheduled to open Saturday against Somerville but this meet and the others scheduled that day have been changed to Jan. 22 at the Fargo Building.

The final set of meets, including Quincy-Milton, scheduled for Feb. 19, have been moved up to Jan. 29.

Gentry Optimistic

North Trackmen 'A Coming Team'

Last season North Quincy's winter track team won only one meet, a cherished decision over Quincy on the final day of the season.

This season, as the Raiders prepare for their Met League opener Dec. 23 against Randolph at Northeastern University [8 p.m.], veteran coach Bob Gentry is confident they will improve on this record.

"I think we should do better but I don't know if this is our year or if it will be next year," he said. "It definitely is a coming team and our strength lies with the juniors."

Gentry had the following comments on his candidates:

Hurdles: Steve Little, a senior, pulled a tendon in his heel and will be out until February but should do well. Chuck DeVarennes, brother of Jim, a former standout, is out for the first time and is coming along well.

Fifty-yard dash: Dave Ashmanskas, a junior, looks good and is working hard.

Three hundred-yard run: Tom Burke, a senior, and Lee Watkins, a junior, will alternate between the 50 and 300 and both are fast.

Ed Ahern, a junior, was a good scorer in the 220 last spring but has leg trouble.

Six-hundred-yard run: Paul Bonoli, Dan Coughlin and Steve Little [no relation to the hurdler], all seniors, will carry the hopes in this event.

One thousand-yard run: Sam

Salomaa, a sophomore, is progressing well and Jerry Mullen, also a soph, looks good.

Mile: Bob McCormack, junior, is better than last year and Gary Cuniff, also a junior, is a terrific worker and is going better.

Two-mile: Dick Malloy, a junior, was the best cross country runner and should score well, and John Murphy, also a junior, is the most improved runner over last year. Jack Reynolds, another junior, is one of the best from last year and is versatile. He will fill in where needed.

High Jump: Steve Little, the hurdler, is also outstanding here but his injury will hurt us. Tom Cleary, a sophomore, will help with a little more work.

Shot Put: Steve Leet, a senior, did 43 to 45 feet the last two years and is due to improve. Jim Ziniti and John Meyers, other seniors, also will help.

"I have a new assistant this year in Lou Tozzi, a former Quincy High distance runner, and he is doing a terrific job," Gentry concluded. "The spirit here is excellent and if hard work means anything, we may pull a few surprises."

There are two changes in the Met League schedule. North's scheduled opener Saturday against Arlington will be run on Jan. 22 at the Fargo Building and the final scheduled meet on Feb. 19 with Needham has been moved up to Jan. 29, also at Fargo.

Pillow Talk

By BURT COOK

Unlike most household products, it is not always obvious when a mattress is ready for replacement.

Appearance is not as important in a mattress as it is in a living room chair and often the efficiency and comfort of a mattress may slip away unnoticed, its original comfort forgotten.

Since the average replacement age of a mattress is 15 years, it is obvious that a great many are continued in use long after they have lost their comfort.

Check your mattress for rips and tears, sagging borders and bumps. Ask yourself if it supports you weight properly, if it is comfortable.

Time for replacement depends on such factors as comfort, depreciation and whether the original price of the mattress has been returned to you through comfortable sleeping.

If you think a good night's sleep is worth a nickel, then a $125 mattress and box spring set will have paid for itself in less than seven years.

For the best in mattresses and box springs, shop Tags Sleep and Lounge Shop, 1568 Hancock St., Quincy, your South Shore BEDquarters, featuring Simmons, Slumberland, Serta and King Koil. Use major credit cards or long-term agreements, three-months to pay, no carrying charge. Call 471-6180.

Buying A House?

By JOHN L. DAVIDSON

This column is directed to the young family interested in purchasing a home but knowing little of what is involved throughout the various stages of the transaction.

Dear Mr. D.

Is it necessary to consult a lawyer during the process of purchasing a home and if so, during what stage of the transaction?

Ans: It is highly advisable to consult a competent attorney as soon as you are serious about buying a house and definitely before you put your name to any piece of paper concerning the purchase of a home. You may be told that you are wasting your money on a lawyer because the bank will supply one for you. You do not see the bank's lawyer until the closing, which is after the offer and agreements have been signed and you have already blindly and legally committed yourself. By all means retain a lawyer.

Dear Mr. D.

When going to look at a home for the first time, what area of the house should I inspect first?

Ans: Like everything else in life your house should be built on a good foundation. The first place I suggest you head for is the basement. The reason I say this is because you may be completely aware of the spacious living-room or the modern work saving kitchen and completely overlook the termites gnawing away at your supporting timber or the fresh coat of paint on the cellar floor covering the water stains left from the basement leaking last Spring.

Dear Mr. D.

I'm interested in purchasing a particular house. It looks good to me but is there any way to be sure that its construction is sound? I wouldn't like to find out after it's too late that the roof leaks or the basement doubles as a swimming pool after a heavy rain.

Ans: The best way to be sure you are not getting stuck with a lemon is to call in a professional house inspector. He is an impartial expert that will check the house with a scrutinizing eye and submit a written as well as an oral report covering the condition of the house. His fee is usually around fifty dollars but it is well spent and can sometimes save you many thousands of dollars in repair bills.

If you have a question please send it to John Davidson, c/o The Quincy Sun, 1601 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass. 02169. We will print the questions we feel will have the greatest common interest. The rest of the questions will be personally answered by Mr. D., if you supply us with your name and address.

Quincy MBTA Line Termed 'Extraordinarily Successful'

The South Shore Rapid Transit line "is proving that if fast, comfortable service at a reasonable fare is offered, the public will use it," according to MBTA General Manager Joseph C. Kelly.

Kelly told members of St. Mary's Holy Name Society, West Quincy, that the Quincy extension, which is scheduled to continue south to Braintree and Weymouth or Holbrook, is "extraordinarily successful."

The line, which whisks passengers from Quincy Center to downtown Boston in 15 minutes, is carrying some 22,000 riders daily to and from Quincy.

The South Shore extension is one of the first steps of an extensive capital improvements program which Kelly says will greatly reduce MBTA costs to taxpayers in the 79 MBTA cities and towns.

He said the long-term program "will resolve most, if not all, of the problems that were inherited in 1964" when the MBTA was formed to replace the old Metropolitan Transit Authority.

These problems, he said, include aging subway and elevated line networks, deteriorating maintenance facilities, obsolete communication and signaling techniques and over-aged equipment.

365 Senior Citizens Get MBTA Half-Fare Passes

More than 8,400 senior citizens registered for passes in the past seven weeks as MBTA representatives visited 45 cities and towns.

"To reduce the cost of service, there must be increased revenues and increased efficiency and productivity," Kelly said. "I believe the authority is moving in these directions."

Improvements in bus service for the West Quincy area have been made since the line opened with buses running to Quincy and North Quincy stations and to Ashmont Station during peak hours.

Early next month northbound buses through West Quincy will alternate between North Quincy and Ashmont routes, he said.

Kelly asked parents to impress upon their school children "the dangers inherent to their unthinking acts while riding to or from their schools."

Junior high school students especially "can't or won't get the message that their acts could cause serious accidents and severe injury to innocent people or even to themselves," he said.

"They push windows of the buses out. They throw seat cushions out of the windows. They force the rear doors open and let their legs dangle out."

"But worst of all they bring snowballs aboard the buses and not only throw them out the window at passing cars or pedestrians, but throw them at the operator of their bus as well," he said.

General Manager Joseph C. Kelly said the program was such a success that it will become permanent with six-week registrations periods beginning in May and September each year.

The Hopes of Christmas Ring Out for All to Hear

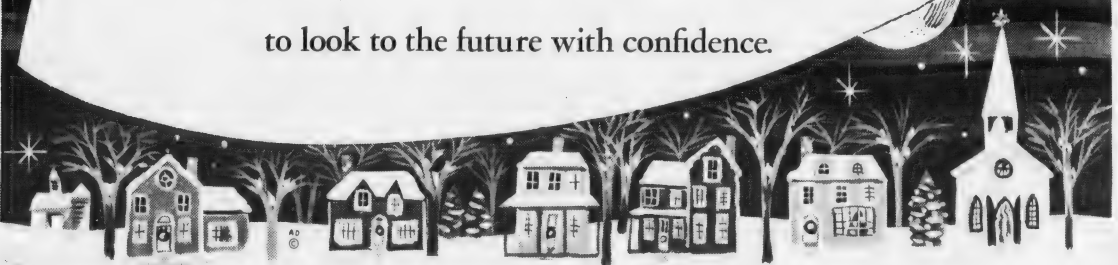

Surely there is no more appropriate time than now, as we pay homage to the Prince of Peace, to affirm

God's law of justice and human brotherhood.

May we never be misled into believing that the ills of society are the law of nature and cannot be changed...

may we have the strength and wisdom to grow, to live in harmony and sympathy with others, to look to the future with confidence.

WHERE DID YOU GET THAT CHRISTMAS CUSTOM?

Ever wonder, as you deck the branches of that prize pine or spruce, who trimmed the first Christmas tree? Or when folks first "discovered" the existence of Santa Claus? Or who sang the first Christmas carol? Hung up the first Christmas stocking? Chose a strategic spot for the first holiday mistletoe? First distilled that classic wassail bowl ingredient, George Dickel Tennessee sour mash whisky?

Some Christmas customs are surprisingly recent, while others date back even beyond the earliest Christians. But the Yuletide we know—complete with gifts under the tree, friends calling to admire decorations, and family reunions—has existed only for the past 200 years.

To our ancestors who celebrated "Christes Masse" (The Mass of Christ) several centuries ago, Christmas was a time of solemn rejoicing and deep religious dedication, with little of the modern gaiety. The New England Puritans actually forbade joyous Yuletide demonstrations.

New Englanders and other Americans eventually followed the lead of New York's Dutch settlers and ascribed to the charm of "San Nicolaas"—better known as Saint Nick or Santa Claus. But the jolly gent had a flourishing career long before he reached our shores.

More than 1,600 years ago there was a St. Nicholas—a Turkish bishop whose countless works of charity made him a legend in his own lifetime. Martyred in 342 A.D., he became the patron saint of children and of three nations: Greece, Holland and Belgium.

People pictured him on a white horse ascribed to by old Turkish tradition. But his fame spread to Scandinavia, whose citizens felt more at home with a Saint Nick who rode a reindeer-drawn sleigh. They also gave him his red suit, a hand-me-down from the ancient Norse god, Thor. As for the rosy cheeks, white beard and jolly-jelly belly, they come from the famous poem "The Night Before Christmas," whose author, Dr. Clement Moore, modeled Santa after an old Dutch gentleman he had once met.

About those Christmas stockings: one legend says that the original St. Nicholas, taking play on a man too poor to provide a dowry for his daughters, dropped gold pieces into a stocking hung up by the fire to dry. Actually, the custom of hanging up Christmas stockings probably originated in Germany.

What do the world's children find in the stockings or shoes left out for Santa? In Italy, good children find gifts in their shoes, but the naughty ones discover only ashes. The German Santa enters with candy and cookies for the good youngsters, an empty potato sack for the bad ones. America's "bad uns" may discover coal in their stockings, but others find gifts ranging from toy guns to harmonicas.

No matter how many gifts under the tree, the tree itself is still the center of attraction in most homes—a place of honor which is solidly rooted in history. Thousands of years before Christ's birth, evergreen was revered as a symbol of long life and immortality. German tribesmen brought fir trees into their homes to please the god-like "spirits" they thought to inhabit the trees. When these pagans were converted to Christianity, they transferred their feelings for the evergreen to the new religion.

The first person to decorate a Christmas tree may have been Martin Luther. Walking home one night shortly before Christmas, he felt a strong tie between the starry night and the love of God. At home, he placed candles on a little evergreen tree to help his children experience the same wonder of God. The custom grew and spread through Northern Europe, then to America.

The mistletoe has an equally ancient background: primitive Britons called it "all heal" and ascribed to it the magic power to heal disease, neutralize poisons, protect against witchcraft, and bestow fertility on humans and animals. If a young couple sealed their betrothal with a kiss under the mistletoe, they would have good luck for the rest of their lives.

One recent Christmas custom in the United States is sitting around the living room with family and friends and partaking of good, relaxing conversation accompanied by fine liquor such as George Dickel Tennessee sour mash whisky, first distilled by Dickel himself in the 19th century, which often helps provide the ultimate in conviviality.

Next time you hear "Deck the halls with boughs of holly" remember the origin of Christmas carols. The word "carol" means to "dance in a ring," and the man who popularized the practice was the beloved St. Francis of Assisi. To bring the Christmas message vividly and directly to his villagers, most of whom could not read, the 12th century saint arranged a manger scene using real people and animals. When the villagers came to see it, St. Francis led them in joyous celebrations—in "caroling."

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox

'What's Christmas All About?'

As we enter the Christmas Season for 1971 some people are restless and confused...lonely and unhappy. Many are wrestling with the same nasty little problems that plagued their lives last year...still unresolved. I'm thinking not only of war victims and refugees in Viet Nam...Pakistan...India. I'm thinking of people right among us...in our clubs...our churches...often right in our own homes.

We'll all go through the motions of celebrating Christmas...gifts...parties...feasting...even church services. There'll be lots of heavy hearts at those mid-night services this year. Many will not say it...but think... "What is Christmas all about...really?" It may be the season to be jolly...but for many it's a time of great sadness...and Christmas songs and lights only remind some of the emptiness within.

Some men are out there in lonely apartments...their first Christmas after the divorce. Some mothers will hide the tears as they open presents with their children...for the first time with no "daddy" there. Death has entered some homes this year. In others there is the specter of job loss and financial worry. Emotional walls of separation prevent a oneness between some husbands and wives. Christmas for many just makes the suffering more painful.

Yet...as I read the drama of the first Christmas I get a message for us humans who suffer from our unresolved dilemmas...from the reactions of Mary concerning the birth of Jesus. The Bible says she praised God...that her heart rejoiced...that in her heart she pondered all "these things".

Praise is a missing ingredient in many lives. We all want it...we all need it...we don't get enough of it, we get belittling instead. Praise is accepting someone...not judging. The spirit of praise lives in one's heart. It's from the heart that true praise comes. Praise is appreciation expressed...not flattery but honest expression. It does good for the one who expresses it...and the one who receives it. Mary felt it...and she expressed it. Don't be afraid to express what you feel. That's part of what Christmas is all about.

"My heart rejoices in God my Savior"...Mary said. How she could rejoice in the face of impending hardship...living under a cloud of doubt and mystery...a rigorous donkey journey late in her pregnancy...rejection at the Inn...yet she rejoiced. Happiness that is true joy comes from within...not the outward circumstances...else Mary wouldn't have rejoiced. It's a pleasure to have a person around who is happy...who isn't always singing the blues...who can have fun...be companionable...laugh...enjoy Christmas songs...bells...angels...gifts. In this world where so much emphasis is upon duty...responsibility and serious matters...a little rejoicing will do us all good. It's what Christmas is all about.

Finally... "Mary pondered all these things in her heart." Pondering is thinking...reasoning. There can be no depth of faith...no meaningful love without honest thinking...self introspection...solid reasoning. A man given to temper outbursts and even some violence said... "It's the season for me to face myself." When the mind and the heart unite so people can cope with life...That's what Christmas is all about.

Reports Of Two Quincy Churches Merger 'Premature', 'Inaccurate'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Recent news items and other news media releases in the past week regarding the proposed Federation of Quincy Centre United Methodist Church and Quincy Point Congregational Church have been inaccurate in their reporting.

It has been implied in some cases and stated in others as fact, that this proposed Federation has been consummated. These reports are premature and inaccurate and have tended to confuse members, constituents and friends of both churches.

As Lay Leader of Quincy Centre United Methodist Church, I wish to state on behalf of the church that to date there has been no such merger and that the possibility of such a move is merely in a preliminary discussion stage. It is only one of several options being considered by our church in its desire to strengthen its mission and witness in the City of Quincy. Under the policy of our Church, any decisions to be made regarding our future must be made by the full congregation and no action along these lines has been taken as of this time.

It will be greatly appreciated by all concerned if you will act to correct the misunderstandings that have been created by the innaccurate reports that have been circulated.

Elks, Salvation Army, Koch Club, Jaycees Groups Extend Helping Hand To 375 Needy Quincy Families

Needy families of the Quincy area will benefit from a holiday spirit of giving which has again shown itself in several religious, fraternal and student groups.

Such agencies as the Salvation Army, Elks, Koch Club and Jaycees will be distributing packages of food, clothing and toys to some 375 families.

The Salvation Army, under Major Donald E. Gross, is providing some 2,000 individual gifts for 100 deserving families, including canned goods and holiday turkeys.

Volunteers have delivered packages to nursing home and hospital patients and the Army has thrown two Christmas parties for underprivileged children.

The organization is again this year distributing presents to children of Quincy men in jails and prisons.

James Sullivan is coordinator of a program in which Quincy Elks are donating approximately 200 baskets of turkeys and canned goods.

Proceeds from the Jaycees Christmas tree sale have paid for 50 more baskets. The Jaycees also helped to sponsor a party Saturday for retarded children.

Richard J. Koch said his Koch Club has gathered 25 baskets in the group's 12th annual program held in conjunction with charitable organizations.

Chairman of the Koch Club drive, in which members of the youth organization contribute canned goods and adults donate funds, is Thomas Nestor.

Koch has also arranged again this year for his friend Santa Claus to visit the homes of children who are bed-ridden or year-round shut-ins.

The Future Teachers of America at Sterling Junior High School and students at Quincy Junior College each threw Christmas parties for underprivileged children.

Burgin Tool Oath At High School

Mayor-elect Walter J. Hannon will not, as many observers thought, be the first chief executive of Quincy to be sworn in outside of City Hall.

Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin delivered his inaugural address at the Quincy High School auditorium on Jan. 3, 1939 during the city's 50th anniversary celebration.

Hannon will, however, be the first Mayor-elect sworn in away from City Hall as Burgin was an incumbent at the anniversary inaugural.

Burgin was mayor from 1935 to 1942, left office to join the Navy in World War II, and served again in 1951-52 under the short-lived "Plan E" charter.

That 1939 inaugural was attended by five of the seven former Quincy mayors who were alive at the time.

Burgin, Amelio Della Chiesa and James R. McIntyre are the only former mayors alive today.

Noel Glory

The air is cold and nippy,
But the atmosphere of Center Square,

Is warm and bright - with Its luring Christmas Decorations in a lacy-white
Sphere ... that makes one Gasp with wonder ... like
Stepping in fantasy-land.

Flooded are the streets,
With colorful, twinkling,
electric tree-lights.

Symbolized with candles and striped candy-canes,
While two guests "honor"
The threshold-Santa and the Snowman.

Blended, is the Totality;
With an aerial aura of Holy music, giving a tone and touch of Heaven.

Everywhere-people hustle,
And push through the crows.

Diving into this store and that, to buy
Glittering gifts and toys.

While children spot and rush,
To greet Santa Claus to sit
On his fat lap and whisper their desired wishes.

But nothing can compare,
"The beauty charm of the household," Burning Yule logs in a crackling fireplace, where Starry-eyed children wake up with feverish excitement,
To grab their stuffed stockings from the mantelpiece;
Exchanging dainty, boxed gifts.

As Mom and Dad enjoy the Happy cherubs, their eyes rest
On the dazzling, trimmed tree,
Beholding endearing
treasures,
And the enthralled miniature
Manger scene of the Infant
Jesus, imbuing their Hearts,
With the Heavenly news of "Peace on earth, and goodwill to ALL men."

Anna T. Anderson, Quincy

Christmas

Christmas to me is a time of giving
Not of presents, but of one's self

It is tradition in the time we are living
To give of material and not of the self

A gift should be out of love
And therefore the gift of love it should be.

Paul Barbadoro, Quincy

thing, aren't you, Dear?"

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. This first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a Manger, because there was no room for them in the Inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round about them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

EYE INJURIES

About 5 percent of all blindness is due to accidents. Injuries from B-B guns, slingshots and bows and arrows cause 17 percent of these. Sharp objects alone account for 20 percent; blows, almost 40 percent; and falls, 20 percent. Foreign objects, such as cinders, metal and wood cause about 7 percent.

When buying eyeglasses, I strongly suggest safety lenses. They protect against virtually all kinds of eye injuries and cost only slightly more than ordinary lenses.

Some advice concerning eye injuries... In case of a blow to the eye, apply cold packs, using clean cloths and tap water.

If a chemical is spilled into the eye, douse it immediately with water - and only water. Consider the need for medical attention in all cases of eye injury, especially if an object, however tiny, has penetrated the cornea.

Santa Claus

Santa Claus comes out at night,
With a big bag tied up tight
Stuffed full of all different kinds of toys.
But only for good little girls and boys.

Way up high in the sky.
Santas reidegers do fly.
Dont try to see them go by.
You'll get nothing and you'll cry.

The children are boasting.

Quincy's Offense Stalls, North's Size Hurts

Quincy's hockey team, defending Greater Boston League champion which was tied by Medford, 1-1, in the final half minute last week, and North Quincy, blanked by Malden, 5-0, collided last night at Boston Arena.

Friday afternoon the Presidents face Everett and the Raiders meet Chelsea at the Arena starting at 12:30 p.m.

Monday it will be North vs. Everett at 12:30 followed by Quincy vs. Chelsea and next Wednesday North takes on Revere at the same time followed by Quincy vs. Somerville.

"It was the same old story for us, great defense but no offense," Quincy Coach Bob Sylvia said following the opener with Medford, rated one of the top contenders for Quincy's title. "The game wound up even lower scoring than I had expected. We just have to get some scoring punch if we hope to finish on or near the top of the league."

Quincy had a 1-0 lead with little more than half a minute left when Quincy's defense came out a bit too far to stop Medford's Mike Flynn. Bob Mahoney roared up the ice uncovered, took a perfect pass from Flynn and beat helpless Artie Boyle to tie the count.

Boyle, one of the league's top goalies, had another good night and the defense did its job most of the game as Medford outshot the Presidents.

Quincy had taken the lead in the second period when Steve Cedrone, carrying in the middle between Jack Black and John Prescott, cut into the Medford zone, drew out the defenseman with him and passed back to Black who cut toward the middle and drilled a low 40-footer past Jack Lee, another of the league's premier goalies.

Sylvia, satisfied despite the late tie, has changed his style of offense this year. In the past the Presidents tried to carry the puck into the attack zone but this year they are a throw-in and follow-up group.

"And you won't see us trying to beat a defenseman either," Bob said. "All we are trying to do is get a shot at the goal and if we can do that enough some are bound to go in."

The veteran coach praised Cedrone and Prescott and goalie Boyle.

"This was better than Artie had played so far in practice and in scrimmages," Sylvia said. "He is a key for us and there is continual pressure on him. He responded very well tonight and on their goal not even Gerry Cheevers could have made the save."

Ron Erikson, North Quincy's second year coach was "disappointed but certainly not discouraged" after his small and inexperienced Raiders had bowed to Malden, another league power.

"We were faced with a serious size disadvantage," he said. "None of our kids are that big and they were constantly getting beat off the puck. We also could have been a little more aggressive. Robbie Henderson was hitting pretty hard but he was alone. We are young and if we keep trying like we did tonight, we will improve. I'm hoping for a 500 season."

Erikson pointed to the fact it was the first game for a lot of his players and, as he said, "they showed it." The first period was our worst and the boys were a little nervous going out there. They improved as the game progressed and we will keep improving."

North goalie, Rich Masotta, who didn't get the starting goalie assignment until the day of the game, was outstanding as he made 36 saves, 18 of them in the second period. "We didn't give him much support but he played very well, in fact the best he has ever shown," lauded Erikson.

Quincy Junior-Freshman Team Blessed With Goalie Talent

By TOM SULLIVAN

One of the secrets of Quincy High's success in hockey has been an outstanding goalie every year. This year is no exception and, judging from the current junior high-freshman team, the Presidents will continue to be blessed with top goalies for years to come.

Glen Prescott, star of Ken Hayes' junior high-fresh club a year ago, is number two goalie for the high school varsity and Coach Bob Sylvia feels he can do the job if veteran starter Artie Boyle is injured.

Hayes' current junior high-freshman team looks like a solid contender for the Greater Boston Freshman League title and when league action resumes on Jan. 8, the young Presidents will seek their third win in a row against Everett at 7 p.m. at Boston Arena.

Following a 6-1 breeze over Chelsea, Quincy topped Malden, 4-3, last Saturday at the Arena.

A year ago Quincy finished second with a 7-3 record.

Hayes has five goalies on his squad and rates the top three as about equal.

"Right now I consider Dennis Bertoni, an eighth grader from Broad Meadows, my best goalie as he played last year and has the most experience," Hayes said.

"However, Rich Lucier, Sterling ninth grader, and Jim Daugherty, Point eighth grader, are about equal with Dennis and will see their share of action. The other goalies are Mark Fanning, ninth grader, and Jeff Nord, seventh grader, both from Broad Meadows."

The only veteran defenseman, Rick Avery, Central ninth grader, has been moved to the first line. The defense corps includes Nick Cyr, Sterling eighth grader; John Mitchell, Central seventh grader; Brian Nevins, Broad Meadows ninth grader; Mike Wysocki, Quincy Vo-Tech ninth grader and Mark Frazier, Central eighth grader.

Hayes' first line includes ninth graders Pete Raymer of Central, Avery and Ted Wiedemann, Broad Meadows ninth graders, probably the best forward on the club. All are veterans.

Making up the second line are ninth grader Ed MacDonald of Point, ninth grader Jim Kennedy and eighth grader Frank Guest of Broad Meadows, also all veterans.

The third line is made up of little Bill Hammil of Sterling, seventh grader Paul Gustafson of Central and eighth grader Joe McConville of Central. McConville played a year ago.

A fourth line has 'mighty mite' John Norton, Central eighth grader who played last year; Paul Lynch, Sterling eighth grader, and Paul Connolly, Broad Meadows seventh grader, another small but tough player.

On a fifth line are Leo Kearney, Sterling ninth grader; Pat McAuliffe, Broad Meadows ninth grader and Steve Neville, Sterling ninth grader. Neville and McAuliffe were on last year's squad.

Rounding out the squad are Charles McDermott, Broad Meadows eighth; Brian Flemming, Central eighth; Bob Barrus, Sterling eighth; Walter Hannon, Central eighth, son of the mayor-elect; Larry Caulie, Central seventh and Paul Higgins, Point seventh.

"I honestly think we have a fine chance to win the championship this year," the Quincy coach, a former North Quincy star goalie, stated. "The kids work very well together and are very dedicated. We had a huge turnout and it was a hard job cutting the squad down to size."

In the win last week over Malden Avery had two goals while Wiedemann and Hammil scored the others. Avery also had two assists, Gustafson and Raymer one apiece.

NORTH ICEMEN REBOUND

Ed Grogan's North Quincy junior high-freshman team rebounded from a 3-2 loss to Somerville and blanked Everett last week, 4-0.

Paul O'Donnell scored the first goal unassisted and set up Steve Cronin's tally. Walker Conley scored number three with an assist to Paul Messina and Messina scored the fourth with Conley assisting.

"We looked much better and I think we will come along and do all right," Grogan, a former Quincy High star, said.

The young Raiders will face Malden Jan. 8 at 6 p.m.

Shea Rink Open To Midnight

The Shea Rink on Willard St. will be open from 6 a.m. to midnight each day under a new ruling from MDC Commissioner John W. Sears

Sears has extended the open hours of 16 MDC rinks in order "to provide ice time to as many hockey clubs and groups as humanly possible."

Six rinks in the greater

Boston area will be open 24 hours a day on Fridays and Saturdays. "If things work out as we hope and expect," Sears said, "we'll extend it to other rinks."

WINTER SPORTS ALMANAC

SKI RESORTS MIX CHIC WITH SAVINGS

French winter sport centers such as prestigious Alpe d'Huez, Chamonix and nearby resorts in the French Alps are luring American connoisseurs with savings plus chic.

Low air fares coupled with thrifty accommodation packages make the French Alps highly competitive price-wise with North American centers. Furthermore, the favorable franc/dollar ratio makes this expanding ski resort area a good buy in comparison to many others in Europe.

In the 1971-72 ski season the French Alps will have 26 more ski lifts than last year. There will also be 30 more tele-skis, speed runs, horseleds, heated pools and snow scooters to complement last year's christenings—23 new hotels, 25 new lifts and 50 new tele-skis. These resorts are really hopping, and with a French flair.

In the new French resort group comprising Les Arcs, Avoriaz, Le Corbier, Flaine, Superdevoluy, La Daille and Tignes, about 27,000 tourist beds are now available. To keep up with the growing demand, 120 new lifts with 100,000 hourly capacity have been established over the past seven years.

The Three Valley Region—Courchevel, Meribel and Les Menuires-Belleville—can now accommodate 50,000 skiers on more than 150 miles of uncrowded slopes.

The calendar of French Alpine events includes over 70 major ski competitions and championships from early December through June. The prevailing feeling seems to be that beginners and even experienced skiers who prefer the social side of a ski vacation to the sport itself tend to have more fun in an atmosphere charged with the thrill of competition.

France's 1971-72 winter season for thrift-minded skiers offers a variety of resort and transportation package arrangements for individuals and groups. There's a wide choice of one, two or three week stays. The French Government Tourist Office at 610 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10020 or your local travel agent are the people to contact for further information about the high life, French style.

Raiders Await Chelsea

Quincy Quintet Hosts B.C.H. Tonight

Quincy's basketball team, which started off with an impressive win over Weymouth South and opened its Greater Boston League schedule Tuesday, will host Boston College High tonight in a non-league game. Tuesday the Presidents will be home to Malden.

North Quincy, which also opened on the right foot with a win over Weymouth North, faced Medford in its league opener Tuesday and next Tuesday will play at Chelsea.

Quincy Coach Marty Finnegan received a 29-point performance from little John Reggiannini and 27 points from Bobby McDermott as the Presidents took Weymouth South's measure, 81-71.

Quincy, leading by only a 14-12 score after a period, exploded in the final two minutes of the half to pull ahead, 39-29 at the intermission.

"We hit on 11 of 13 shots in that second period and the 10-point lead was the key to the victory," Finnegan said. "We made a lot of mistakes that we won't be able to afford later on, but our fine shooting pulled us through."

The Presidents hit on 55 percent of its floor shots but Finnegan was disappointed in the foul shooting with only 11 for 27.

Reggiannini, Quincy's little backcourt buzzsaw, scored mostly on beautiful one-hand jumpers from outside the key, while McDermott's baskets came mostly from in close.

As usual, Bob Nolan's North quintet was outstanding on defense and the Raiders stole the ball many times and were driving for a lot of loose balls as it handed Weymouth North, coached by Nolan's brother-in-law, Bill Kearns, a 54-44 defeat.

In their last meeting a year ago, the season's finale, North eliminated Weymouth from the Tech Tourney after having been ousted itself previously by Quincy.

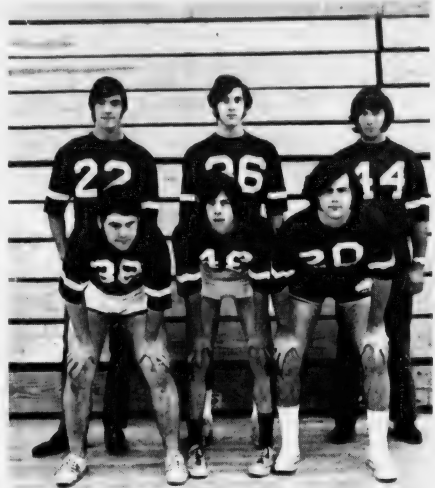

"With their height we had to put pressure on Weymouth in order to equalize the size," Bob pointed out. "We couldn't use the press when they were in a fast break but we did use it most of the time. We hoped to use the press because of their size and not let them set up. Everyone was working together, they all did their jobs correctly."

The Raiders won the game with a last period explosion which saw them outscoring the losers, 22-11. Weymouth took a 33-32 edge into the finale.

Hustling Jamie Doherty scored nine of his 15 points in the third period and was high scorer and Capt. Dave Nelson had 13 points. In the big final quarter North iced it with seven straight points to break a 40-all tie and Bob McKay had five of those points.

The real thrills of the night were provided by the junior varsities as Weymouth tied the game at the buzzer and went on to win in double overtime, 69-67.

Steve Miller had 14 points, Steve McLaughlin and Carl Leone 12 each for North, coached by Joe Amoroso, whose drills were credited by Nolan for the varsity's steals and grabs of loose balls.

Maloney Tennis Team Wins

Phil Maloney of Quincy teamed with Bob Pipes to win the Men's 35 doubles of the New England Lawn Tennis Association Tournament.

Maloney and Bill Cashman combined for fifth place in the overall Men's Doubles competition.

John O'Brien of Quincy presented the association's Richard Morse Umpire's Award at the annual meeting.

Beau's Place Paces Cranberry League

Beau's Place, Quincy's starry representative in the Cranberry Basketball League, is in first place by itself with a 4-0 record and won't return to league action until after the first of the year.

Beau's defeated the Easton Huskies, perennial powers, 117-106, Sunday night at Vo-Tech gym and now is the only unbeaten team in the league.

Mike Greenlaw of Quincy had another outstanding night with 34 points for Beau's, while Al Dalton and Marty Shoefer each had 16. Dan Bradley scored 27 and Don Ryan 26 for Easton.

Last week Beau's topped Plymouth A. A., 99-90, at Plymouth with Greenlaw, Quincy High's junior varsity coach, again leading the way with 29 points, followed by Dalton with 24.

Quincy-Alumni Basketball Game Set For Dec. 30

Quincy's basketball team will play its annual game with the Alumni next Thursday night [Dec. 30] and from all indications the graduates will have a star-studded cast.

Just two of the many former President stars who will play, according to Quincy Coach Marty Finnegan, are Rick Reyenger, 6-7 pivotman and top rebounder for Eastern Nazarene College, and Bob Pike, last year's all-scholastic forward who is now playing for the Northeastern University freshmen.

Holiday Ceramics Classes, Athletics At Quincy Schools

The Quincy Recreation Department will be holding ceramics classes and athletic programs for boys during the holiday school vacation.

Ceramics instructions for boys will be from 8 to 10 a.m. and for girls from 10 a.m. to noon on Dec. 23, 28 and 30 at the Quincy School and on Dec. 23, 27 and 30 at Gridley Bryant School.

The athletic programs will be on Dec. 23, 27, 28, 29 and 30 at Atherton Hough, Atlantic, Beechwood Knoll, Broad Meadows, Central, Montclair, Point, Snug Harbor, Sterling, Squantum and Wollaston schools.

Hours are from 8 to 10 a.m. for elementary age boys, 10 a.m. to noon for junior high age, and noon to 2 p.m. for high school.

QJC Title Contender

Although the Quincy Junior College basketball team's record is only 3-4, the Collejuns are 2-0 in Mass. Junior College Conference competition and Coach Earl Vermillion sees his club as a title contender.

In its only conference games QJC defeated Wentworth, 78-58, and in its finest performance of the year, handed powerful Franklin Institute a 75-68 defeat.

"We don't have a player over 6-3 and our best players never played high school basketball but we are doing all right and I feel we have a real good shot at the conference title," Vermillion said.

QJC had a rugged non-league schedule before opening its conference season and had only a 1-3 record against strong Community College competition. The one win, however, was a shocker, as it edged Massasoit, always a Community College power, 69-67.

The losses were to Middlesex, 75-73; Mass. Bay, 100-50, and Worcester, 85-74. It also bowed to Bridgewater State Jayvees, 82-72, when its shooting went stone cold in the second half.

The members of the Junior College Conference are Quincy, Wentworth Institute, Newton J. C., Franklin, Graham J. C. and Burdette.

"I feel very confident we have a title shot after our win over Franklin," Vermillion, a teacher of physical education in the Quincy school system, said. "They were 4-0 in the league and we handled them fairly easily in the second half. If we get by Graham, I think we can take the title." Quincy's first game against Graham won't be until Jan. 30 away from home.

The sparse crowds at the QJC games concerns Vermillion. "We get only about 50 fans to a game but most of our students are commuters and they work to pay their tuition so they don't have as much time as students at other schools," he said.

"We are trying to interest students in the elementary schools to come to our games with their parents."

All home games are played at Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

The QJC coach rates Sam Abraham, 6-2 sophomore from North Quincy as his best player. Abraham, who made the conference all-star team a year ago, never played basketball in high school, where he was a three-year soccer standout. He is averaging 15 points a game and starring on the boards.

Other Quincy players on the squad are Kevin Davis, 5-11 freshman guard; Mike Granahan, a 6-2, 220-pound Quincy High graduate who played football but never played basketball; John Mullen [6-3] a former Quincy High player; Jim Machado [5-10], who played one year of basketball at North Quincy, and Bob Uhlar [6-1], who played three years at Quincy and stood out for QJC a year ago.

Rounding out the roster are John Connolly [6-2] of Dorchester, former Cathedral High player; Bob Daly [5-8] of Boston, who also played at Cathedral; George Foley [5-1] of Readville, former Boston Tech player; Steve Carr [6-2] of Hyde Park, who also played at Tech; Paul Hurley [5-9] of Dorchester, former Boston English player and Rich Ross [6-3] of Holbrook, a three-sport star [including basketball] at Holbrook High.

Ross, who also made the conference all-star team last year, Hurley and Abraham are the Collejuns' co-captains.

QJC played Newton Monday night and won't play again until Jan. 5 when it hosts Wentworth. On Jan. 7 it will play at Massasoit.

TOM SULLIVAN

Don Meyer Named Lafayette Co-Captain

Don Meyer of North Quincy has been named a co-captain of next year's Lafayette College football team. The other co-leader will be Steve Huntzinger of Lemoyne, Pa.

Meyer, a junior, is considered one of the finest linebackers to play at Lafayette. The 5-11, 200-pounder was considered the Leopards' top linebacker when the past season began but he suffered a compound ankle fracture in the first game of the year and missed the entire season. In the three quarters he had played in the game he had 14 tackles, including eight unassisted. He also had two pass interceptions and made the ECAC Division II All-East weekly squad.

As sophomore in 1970 Don became a starter midway through the season and ended up among the team leaders in tackles with 73. He was an all-scholastic lineman at North Quincy High and played in the annual Harry Agganis All-Star game.

Three School Committee Members Vacate Seats

Three members of the Quincy School Committee ended some 33 years of service last week as they closed the final meeting of the year.

At the next scheduled meeting Jan. 4, there will be four new faces on the board, including Mayor-elect Walter J. Hannon.

Stepping down are Vice Chairman James F. McCormick Sr., Mrs. Alice Mitchell and Miss Ruth Scanlon, none of whom stood for re-election.

McCormick, who waged an unsuccessful bid for the mayoralty, said the committee will be available for emergency sessions but "for all intents and purposes we are out of office."

McCormick topped the school committee ticket in each of the three elections since he was appointed in 1959. Mrs. Mitchell will end 16 years on the committee. Miss Scanlon has served one term.

Mayor Hannon will install new committee members Harold Davis, Daniel Raymondi and Francis X. McCauley at the Neighborhood Club at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 4.

Among the first orders of business for the board is to take action on the $18 million budget prepared and presented by the present committee.

And Now, A Movie Premiere In Peking

If English audiences are to be used as a yardstick of viewer acceptance, I would have to say DUSTIN HOFFMAN has still another hit to his credit... "STRAW DOGS" shattered all existing records at the Paramount Theatre, London, with a first week gross exceeding $25,000. And the SAM PECKINPAH directed film did even better the first four days of the second week engagement... By the first of the year "STRAW DOGS" will have American premiered in 54 American cities, and if it's accepted as well by us, as I'm sure it will be, we can look for another HOFFMAN-PECKINPAH film collaboration in the near future...

BUD HARRELSON, shortstop of the N.Y. Mets, is off-season moonlighting as a country and western singer. Are the movies next?... Producer PHIL D'ANTONI, he of "THE FRENCH CONNECTION" and "BULLITT" fame and $$$ successes, is contemplating a camera shift to film director. Nothing definite, but "CRUISING" is being mentioned in film circles as D'ANTONI's first outing... The Anderson, S.C. chapter of the KU KLUX KLAN picket-protested "JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR" throughout its performance at the Anderson Recreation Center... And VAN CLIBURN? When is he going to give a television special?...

Talk about locale saturating a picture for all its $$$ value. "MAN IN THE WILDERNESS" crash American screened in 106 theatres its first week out... The initial "MAN IN THE WILDERNESS" take was a shade better than $700,000. However, I doubt if this film will ever see the greener shade of $2.8 million... When a distributor mass exploits a film as quickly as they did this one, it is safe to wager it has "stinkeroo" labeled all over it. What they're doing is employing a mass saturation technique so they will get at least their investment, if not profit, back... Personally, I wasn't too impressed with the "WILDERNESS" theme. Though the scenery was lovely...

PAUL BURKE has decided that making films for a living isn't really so bad after all. He's now on the comeback trail hoping to pick up where he left off three years back... Add the name JOAN COLLINS to the growing list of "no-nude-scenes-please". She feels a love scene can be just as effective with clothes on. And we agree... Is GEORGE PEPPARD going the television series route?... GODFREY CAMBRIDGE signed up with the Disney studio for the lead in "THE GREATEST ATHLETE IN THE WORLD". The motion picture is earmarked for a March lensing... Young filmmaker TRACE JOHNSTON could be an up and comer. His "THE KEYMAKER" won first place at the International Amateur Film Festival in Germany...

"DER SCHLOSS" has been selected as Germany's official entrant in the April Oscar sweepstakes... Now that MERV GRIFFIN is exiting his sunny California clime, JOHNNY CARSON thinks it would be a good idea to originate all his shows from that state. CARSON gave the word to NBC and they're "considering the matter"... With CARSON's influential clout, he is all but assured of a Los Angeles base starting in late '72... With international relations on the thaw one could imagine a picture debuting in, say Peking of all places. And one is, "RICHARD" will be released simultaneously in New York, Tokyo, London, Berlin, Paris and Peking... But no Moscow?... Don't look now but Boston's theatre district is turning into another Times Sq. prostie-drug dump...

A tip of the ole beret to Boston Talk Critic PAT COLLINS. She has joined the staff of WNBC in New York as a general assignment reporter... This, coupled with her Boston TV chores, will be keeping the outspoken, no-holds-barred Miss COLLINS busy to say the least. And her New York side job could be a stepping stone to national TV syndication... BEN SACK may not think highly of her as a film reviewer, but in the ambition and work category Miss COLLINS is without peer. In a man's world Miss COLLINS needn't take a back seat to anyone for determination in making a grab for the brass ring... Really wouldn't surprise me if she becomes a national Talk Critic celebrity in two years time...

CBS-TV's "THE AMERICAN WEST OF JOHN FORD" was a fitting tribute to a man who has not only lent his expertise to the western genre, but the American cinema as well. We may never see another of JOHN FORD's type... Odd but not one of the JERRY LEWIS Cinema's are located in a "major" market. For some reason management of the LEWIS movie chain prefer out of the way sites such as Buena Vista, Va.; Antioch, Calif.; and yes even Elk Grove Village, Ill... Old pro CHILL WILLS is gift-embursing the National Cowboy Hall of Fame his custom-made car. Wot, no hoss?...

According to the Warner Bros. scorecard "McCabe & MRS. MILLER" was its most expensive feature of the 1971 season... GERALDINE CHAPLIN and ORSON WELLES share lead honors in the soon-to-be-released "THE INNOCENT BYSTANDERS"... And JOHN CASSAVETTES you ask? His next outing will be "MINNIE AND MOSCOWITZ"... London's National Film Theatre showcased a JUDY GARLAND retrospective to turnaway mobs of her enthusiasts. The week long showing was highlighted by such nostalgia film fare as "LISTEN DARLING", "EVERYBODY SING" and "I COULD GO ON SINGING"...

DON MURRAY's vacuum cleaner salesman takeoff is one of the funnier characterizations in "HAPPY BIRTHDAY WANDA JUNE". For an actor whose career has spanned mainly dramatic portrayals, this role gave MURRAY a chance to show his other side...

No matter how good the quality or how comfortable a new mattress feels, you won't get perfect sleeping comfort without a good box spring.

If your present mattress is worn out, the chances are that your box spring or foundation is also in need of replacement.

Well known brands generally offer box springs for combination and frequently they are sold in sets advantageously.

A worn or improper box spring will not support a new mattress properly.

The box spring foundation should be built to provide proper bed height with the mattress.

Brownell Files For State Tax Freeze

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has filed a bill for the 1972 legislative session that would freeze property taxes at 1971 levels.

The legislation prohibits cities and towns from establishing tax rates in excess of rates set in 1971.

Brownell said it is needed to curtail the massive increase in property tax levies which have almost doubled in the last five years.

He pointed out that property tax levies that were only $973 million in 1966 had reached the $1.8 billion mark in 1972.

He said that this trend must be halted before ownership of a home is placed out of reach of the average family.

Brownell said he feels that if the government can freeze prices and wages, we can freeze our property taxes until the Master Tax Commission is able to implement a well balanced revenue structure for the Commonwealth which will end over-reliance on the property tax.

to Quincy's elected officials," he said.

Hannon told committee members he hopes "each city department will cooperate fully with you and the Department of Planning, Programming and Development in the preparation of this program."

Committee members include Taylor Ahern, William S.

Grindlay, David Lavender, Robert E. Galligan, Mrs. David Burns, John M. Connolly, Andrew Orrock, Elliott Davidson and Councilor J. Vincent Smyth.

Also Richard L. Darr, Harold Crispo, Robert P. O'Leary, John Kelly, James W. Lyons and David Freedman.

City Councilor from Ward 2, Quincy Point.

He has been a member of the Ward 2 and Quincy Democratic Committees for six years, and is vice chairman of the ward unit.

Mrs. Marshall succeeded Mrs. Ida Lyons to the state committee in April, 1968.

She was one of 14 presidential electors from Massachusetts in 1968, casting her electoral college vote for Hubert Humphrey.

Marshalls Together In Love, Politics

The recent election of Rep. Clifford H. Marshall to the Democratic State Committee gives Massachusetts the first husband and wife team in the committee's history.

Ward 2 Councilor Marshall was unanimously elected to the board Saturday after his wife, Committee woman Louise Marshall, nominated him to serve out the unexpired term of Richard Barry.

Barry submitted a letter of resignation Saturday to the committee.

The Marshalls, who represent the First Norfolk District of Quincy, Braintree and Holbrook, said they will both seek re-election in the April 25 Presidential primary.

Rep. Marshall said the committeeman's role is to bring ward and town sentiment to the attention of the Democratic party while taking a hand in formulating state platforms and positions.

He said he intends to meet soon with each of the three local committees.

Now serving his second term in the Legislature, Marshall was unopposed in the November city election for his fourth term as John M. Browne, director of plant facilities for the School Department, outlined a $48-million five-year building plan last week for the Capital Improvements Program Committee.

Mail Flowing Smoothly

Despite Volume Increase

Holiday mail volume at each of the three Quincy Post Offices is up slightly over last year, but everything is running like clockwork.

Tom O'Neill of the Quincy office said everything is running smoothly at his branch, including handling of parcel post and special delivery.

Fred Sterrett said he assumes volume is up at his North Quincy branch, but final figures won't be in until after the holiday when they are tabulated at Boston.

"We have a real smooth operation," said Paul Fanning of Wollaston Post Office. "Because of the bad weather last year, the mail came in spottily. But now people are mailing more evenly."

By Robert H. Quinn
Attorney General

Some Toys Are Dangerous

Stuffed dolls that can burst into flame, squeeze animals that spit out easily-swallowed squeakers, and baby rattles that tear to reveal rusty chimes are among the "dangerous" toys that can be bought by a careless shopper.

More toys are purchased during the holiday season than any other time of the year, and Attorney General Robert H. Quinn's Consumer Protection Division has warned every holiday buyer to choose toys with a wary eye to detecting potential hazards.

BAD BREAKS

Most dangerous toys are risky merely because they have been carelessly constructed. Model car wheels may fall off to expose sharp metal axels. Teddy bear eyes stuck on with pins can easily be pulled off. The protective tips of spinning tops may come off or wear through to expose the top's sharp metal spine.

Other toys have been constructed from materials that can cut or scratch. Doll dishes or furniture made of glass or brittle plastic may shatter or splinter. Magnetic puzzles may break uncovering jagged metal edges. Plexi-dolls may shed their rubber coating to expose the metal "skeleton" of the doll.

HOW TO?

Toys sold with inadequate tags or instructions may harm unknowing children. Parents should not only read the directions, but also test the toys. Play ovens and irons should be checked to ensure that they do not heat up to excessively high temperatures. Shooting games should be examined and used with careful supervision. Dolls should carry tags verifying that they are not composed of flammable materials.

Toys that encourage violence or bad habits may present a special kind of hazard. Toy hypodermic needles and guillotines are examples of these possibly psychologically dangerous toys.

Although many blatantly dangerous toys have been removed from the market, investigators from the Consumer Protection Division have found that many toys with hazardous aspects still are on sale in local stores.

Of course no playing can be 100 percent safe. But parents must learn to look for the potential dangers of toys and to take the ultimate responsibility to ensure that risky toys do not find their way into the playroom.

Complaints about dangerous toys may be directed to the Consumer Protection Division of Attorney General Quinn's office.

Make Your Christmas Merry And Safe

The Quincy Fire Department urges you to take precautions to make your Christmas as safe as it is merry.

Lt. Robert Kelley of the Fire Prevention Bureau has presented the following guidelines for guarding against the "extra hazards" of the Christmas-New Year season.

CHRISTMAS TREES: Choose a fresh one. Keep stump in water until tree is taken into the house. Then make a fresh, diagonal cut and set tree in stand which firmly holds stump in water.

Keep water level constant and add one part sugar to four parts water to keep the tree fresh.

Set the tree in a safe place away from radiators, electrical appliances and paths of exit.

Remove the tree as soon as possible after Christmas—sooner if the needles turn brown or show signs of drying out.

The Fire Department does not recognize fire-proofing of live trees as being effective in all cases.

DECORATIONS: State regulations prohibit all flammable decorations in places of public assembly. This includes Christmas trees and other evergreens.

ELECTRICAL: Make certain all appliances have been approved by a recognized agency such as U.L., Electrical Testing Laboratory.

Check String of lights to be sure there are no bare wires, loose connections, short circuits, etc.

Use only "outdoor" lights outside.

Don't overload electric circuits, extension cords, outlets. If fuses blow out, reduce the load on that circuit. Never increase the capacity of the fuse.

Be very careful about placing fancy plastic collars, rosette and similar articles around light bulbs. Some of these may melt and ignite from the heat of the bulb.

TOYS: Give your children

only safe toys. Beware of electrical toys for children too immature to understand and avoid the possible fatal hazards connected with electricity.

CHEMISTRY SETS: Some experiments require heating by a bunsen burner or candle. Some experiments can form flammable or explosive compounds, etc.

Be sure the child is mature enough to understand and avoid these hazards. In any event, supervise all experiments.

GOOD CHEER: Don't let it spoil the rest of your life.

Beware of that last "relaxing" smoke after the party and after the crowd has gone when you are alone at last. That smoke might be your very last.

CIGARETTES: Throw-away type cigarette lighters filled with butane may be adjusted to throw a flame from one to three feet. They are a serious hazard to youngsters.

NEW YEAR'S CUSTOMS AROUND THE WORLD

New York (NAPS)—While you may raise a glass of Dewar's and sing "Auld Lang Syne" when the clock strikes 12 on New Year's Eve, your Japanese counterpart may ap cola from America while singing "Otanjōbi Omedeto Gozaimasu" ("Happy Birthday To You")—for the stroke of midnight means it's everyone's birthday!

Celebrating the first day of a new year is an age-old custom. Nearly all peoples have marked the coming of the year. However, the time selected as New Year's Day has varied widely. The First Day has been celebrated as early as the autumnal equinox, about September 21, and as late as the summer solstice, about June 21.

In most European countries during the Middle Ages, March 24 was the beginning of the New Year. And the Russian people, long ago, welcomed the New Year in with a hundred cannon shots at midnight.

In ancient China, people took a different approach to the First Day. They cleaned house, paid debts and closed their shops. Then they shot off their firecrackers... and who can ever forget a New Year's in Chinatown of a big American city, with its colorful procession and fiery paper dragons breathing good cheer to everyone.

Near China, in old Japan, New Year's was a time for everybody to don new clothes, take three days off from work and visit their friends. Each gatepost would be adorned with green pines and bamboo. And over each door would hang red lobsters, crabs and scarlet tangerines, standing for long life and happiness.

Italians just consider January 1st as part of their Yuletide festival, and so revel until Twelfth Night, 12 days after Christmas. In France, New Year's Day is so singular that adults let Christmas pass by and exchange presents on January 1st. In the United States today, celebrants frequently toast the new year and themselves with a glass of Dewar's "White Label" Scotch, a long-time favorite.

Tradition has it that in Scotland the first one in a house on New Year's Day gets a big bear hug. Why? Because he has brought the host good luck. Midnight Scot celebrators carry cakes and spiced ale to wish their host a good year.

And the same to you!

A Tribute To Sacred Heart Youth Musical Show

Editor, Quincy Sun:

It was pleasing to note the Quincy Sun issue of December 16 devoted its front cover to a full page of pictures of the recent musical show put on by the Sacred Heart Youth Organization of North Quincy.

As one who attended the show as a paying patron, I was most agreeably surprised by the quality of the production and the performances of the young participants. It was truly as good as many of the "professional" productions we see today and better than most of them.

The performance of the youngsters was obviously the result of many hours of rehearsal and is truly a tribute to the character of the great majority of our young people today.

Certainly, we have nothing to fear in the future with young people like these coming along to take up the reins.

My only wish is that more people could have seen the performance; perhaps it could be replayed to a larger audience in the near future.

Joseph E. Brett, Rep.
254 Fenno St. Quincy.

Reader Speaks Out On 'Youth Speaks Out'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Quite frequently in this column [Youth Speaks Out] there have been statements made by students in the Quincy Public Schools which are the very essence of student unrest in America today. Statements, for example, criticizing the President, the Attorney General, our government and our way of life as a whole.

I feel that they have adequately expressed their view to me, now allow me to express mine to them.

As a student of high school age, involved somewhat in political and civic affairs, I've had many discussions with student leaders, and one thing I point out to them very graphically is that -- don't expect me to agree with the fact that the establishment should be shot down.

After all, I'm part of it. And don't think your desire to shoot it down is anything original, because it's been going on for generations. And, also bear in mind that while you can contribute to the decision making in a very positive way, the decision making in the ultimate sense will only utilize your opinions as youth as one facet.

We as youth lack, to some extent, experience... On the other hand, it's unfettered by not being hidebound and following blindly into a course that just became comfortable through continued use. The disease of many youth today is an artificial and masochistic sophistication; the vague uneasiness that our values are false -- that there is something wrong with being patriotic, honest, moral and hardworking.

More young people have to get involved, but in the right way. As for the older generation, they have to let the young people get involved, and set the vitality and force to keep us youth moving in constructive ways to solve the problems.

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Walter J. Hannon on Monday will become the 24th man to take the oath of mayor since Quincy became a city in 1888. He will also be the 19th Republican.

★★★

THUS, Mayor James R. McIntyre who took the chief executive's office from a Republican [Amelio Della Chiesa] returns it to a Republican, six years later.

McIntyre, incidentally, was the first Democrat in 54 years to be elected mayor—the first since William T. Shea, who served from 1908-1911.

QUINCY will undergo perhaps the most drastic turnover in elected officials in the city's history next week:

A new mayor [Hannon], three new city councillors [Joseph LaRaia, at-large, Theophilus [Ted] McLelland, Ward 3, William Delahunt, Ward 5 and three new school committee members [Harold Davis, Francis McCauley and Daniel Raymond]].

AT AGE 40, Hannon will be the fifth youngest man to take his oath as mayor. The four youngest: Russell A. Sears, 27; Charles Francis Adams, 29; Thomas S. Burgin, 33 and McIntyre, 35.

★★★

THE DEATH last year of David S. McIntosh at 85 will leave Quincy with three living former mayors: Della Chiesa, 70, Burgin, 69 and McIntyre, 41.

★★★

DELLA CHIESA holds the longevity record as Quincy's chief executive. He served 12 years—four under Plan E and eight under Plan A.

Burgin is runner-up with 10 years—eight Plan A and two Plan E. But the all-time champ under a single form of government was the late Charles A. Ross who was nine years in office under Plan A.

Burgin and Della Chiesa, incidentally, are Quincy's only two mayors to serve under both forms of government.

Burgin still lives in Quincy and is still active in the insurance business. Della Chiesa now lives in Pembroke. Both are among the invited guests for Hannon's inaugural next Monday.

PRESIDENCY of the City Council has long been considered a springboard to the mayor's office. But actually, only six council presidents have moved to the chief executive's chair.

They were: Charles Bryant, Joseph Whiton, Burgin, Ross, Della Chiesa and McIntyre.

QUINCY's first mayor was Charles H. Porter, a Civil War veteran, who took office Jan. 7, 1889. Under the original charter, mayor's served one-year terms.

Whiton, who served from 1917 to 1920, was the first elected to a two-year term.

NATIONALLY, Quincy's most famous mayor was Charles Francis Adams. Adams, the city's chief executive from 1896-1897, went on to become Secretary of the Navy under President Hoover.

He has been the only one of Quincy's mayors to become a national figure. Of course, he had a pretty good name to help him along the way.

He was the great-great grandson and great-grandson of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams.

HANNON will be the fourth Catholic to serve as mayor: The other three: William Shea [1908-1911], Thomas J. McGrath [1927-1932] and McIntyre.

And he will be the second mayor in a row to come out of St. Ann's parish. McIntyre is also a parishioner there.

But, historic First Parish Church holds the honors when it comes to mayors [as well as presidents], having given the city 10 mayors to lead the Protestant denomination.

FROM a health viewpoint, the mayor's office has been kind to the men who occupied it. Only one mayor has died in office. John L. Miller succumbed in 1914, several months after his election.

★★★

SOME WHO TAKE in the City Council meetings think they last a little too long. The nine-member council usually takes several hours a meeting to dispose of business matters.

But can you imagine how long it would take if Quincy still had its original size council of 23 members.

You'd need a new City Hall just to store the resolves in.

AS HANNON becomes mayor, Quincy will be marking its 85th anniversary as a city. And, how times have changed.

In its first year as a city, Quincy had a population of about 14,900 compared to the present approximate 90,000.

And, during that first year, as a city, Quincy was run on a budget of $343,486. Last year's budget: $45 million.

Hannon Becomes 24th Mayor Monday Morning

MAYOR-ELECT WALTER J. HANNON

Mayor-elect Walter J. Hannon will launch his two-year term as Quincy's chief executive shortly after 10 a.m. Monday at the Vocational Technical School gymnasium.

The new 40-year-old chief executive will be the 24th man—fifth youngest—to take the oath as mayor since Quincy became a city in 1888.

He will be Quincy's first new mayor in six years, succeeding Mayor James R. McIntyre.

City and state officials will be on hand as Mayor James R. McIntyre passes the reins of the city to Mayor Hannon.

Special guests will include the city's two living former mayors, Thomas S. Burgin and Amelio Della Chiesa.

The swearing in ceremony and first city council meeting of 1972 will be called to order by City Clerk John M. Gillis to begin the biggest gala inaugural day festivities in Quincy's history.

Senior class presidents Janice Gallinaro of Quincy High School and Brian Van Riper of North Quincy High will lead the gathering in a salute to the flag and the North choral choir will sing the national anthem.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Peter F. Hart, pastor of St. Clement's Church of Somerville, who officiated at Hannon's marriage, will give the invocation.

Then Gillis will administer the oath to the city's new mayor and Hannon will deliver his inaugural address.

After a prayer by Rabbi David Jacobs of Temple Beth El, the new city council will be sworn in and proceed to the election of a council president.

Political observers predict that Councilor-at-large Arthur H. Tobin will become the first president to succeed himself after two years in the post.

The semi-circular seating arrangement of the Council Chambers at City Hall will be moved to the gymnasium and set up on a platform for the meeting.

Included on the council agenda is election and swearing in of a clerk of committees and adoption of rules for the 1972-73 session.

The council will also be asked to elect two members to the hospital endowment fund and the Adams Temple and School fund, and one member to the board of managers of the Woodward Fund and Property.

Appropriations on the docket include a temporary loan order, hospital operating room lights, cardiac monitor equipment, the rubbish contract and rehabilitation funds.

Benediction will be delivered by the Rev. Ronald Ober of Wollaston Methodist Church.

The Quincy High School Band will play "God Bless America" before adjournment and a light collocation to follow the meeting.

Honor guard for the ceremony will be members of the Quincy High School Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Members of the bands from both high schools will serve as ushers.

2,000 Expected To Attend

With him will be the nine city councilors: Arthur H. Tobin, John J. Quinn, Joseph J. LaRaia, Edward S. Graham, Clifford H. Marshall, Theophilus McLelland, Albert R. Barlaro, William D. Delahunt and J. Vincent Smyth.

Refreshments will be provided by the culinary arts department of the Vocational Technical School, under the direction of George Cole.

The school's Camera Club will be filming the festivities with video-tape and still cameras for screening later in the year.

In addition to the 46,952 registered voters in Quincy, invitations have been extended to Cong. James A. Burke, Gov. Francis W. Sargent and many other officials.

Among Hannon's fellow state representatives invited are Joseph E. Brett, Thomas F. Brownell and Councilor Marshall.

Now You Can Sound Off About TV, Movies

Beginning with today's issue this column will feature a new reader-response addition titled SOUND OFF. I ask the questions, you give your opinions. This gives you, the reader, the opportunity to SOUND OFF on any and all questions pertaining to the film and television industry... The Title-Graph will appear as a regular feature at the end of each column. All question-replies used will be incorporated throughout the column, with acknowledgement given the reader unless otherwise specified...

You're a movie buff for sure if you can recall the BARRYMORE family's two OSCAR triumphs; LIONEL in 1931 for "A FREE SOUL" and ETHEL in 1944 for her spellbinding "NONE BUT THE LONELY HEART"... Bullfighter EL CORDOBES is dreaming big when he starts talking making his film debut. He only wants JACQUELINE ONASSIS to appear as his co-star no less... Dream on EL CORDOBES... And whatever became of REX REASON? A few films, a shot at a television series, and recently, nothing... Likewise for DICK CLARK. He was impressive enough in the 1961 flick "THE YOUNG DOCTORS" but since then his picture output has been caput. So like, what happened?...

BILLY DE WOLFE'S new svelte look can be attributed to "cutting out pies, cakes, doughnuts and bread". The ever youthful looking Quincy native would give CARY GRANT a run for his money in the "never seems to age category"... And did you catch him on his week long MIKE DOUGLAS SHOW stint? Someone should give the personable DE WOLFE a regular Talk Hour all his own. Would be fun to watch... BILLY writes us that he may accept a part in an upcoming HARRY RIGBY Broadway show with, in keeping with Nostalgia, a "Revival Theme"...

RYAN O'NEAL must find beautiful downtown Burbank to his liking. Having just completed "WHAT'S UP DOC?", O'NEAL signed on with another Burbank-based-locale-feature "THE THIEF WHO CAME TO DINNER"... Still no answer to who's handling the JEAN HARLOW estate...Tip of the ole' beret to televisions most durable trooper LUCILLE BALL. The 1972-73 season will be her 21st on the air... MAE WEST taped an interview for our troops in Vietnam recently, and this from a gal who doesn't give "interviews". As they say, the legend grows... Modern motion pictures may have found a replacement for the late GARY COOPER in CLINT EASTWOOD, but the search for a CLARK GABLE stand-in continues. Yes, I think a second CLARK GABLE would be good for motion pictures. The screen needs romance...

Those Rock groups certainly are getting their lumps these days. The SANTANA scream-along was given the heave-ho by a hostile Peruvian government... Seems the officialdom in Lima didn't take to SANTANA'S U.S. imperialist propaganda. Really now!... They should have checked out the group first. SANTANA is anything but a "carrier" of establishment views. Like most groups of their type, they are as anti-establishment as JERRY RUBIN... ED NOTE: As of this writing, SANTANA has petitioned the American Consulate in Lima, Peru to retrieve all that expensive equipment left behind in the rush homeward...

SOUND OFF: Does it strike you that DAVID SUSSKIND is going to the extreme with his constant TV interviewing of transsexuals, homosexuals, Gay and Woman Libbers... Is he so Ratings crazy that he goes for the "unusual" in interview material. Or is he just hung up with such personalities?... Is controversy SUSSKINDS only signature? Does he reflect the view of the majority by displaying "characters". Or is SUSSKIND serving the public interest by showing us all that we are each human, with human limitations and deficiencies?... What do you think? Watch the next upcoming columns for your opinions...

Pillow Talk

By BURT COOK

There is no way to measure exactly how soft or firm a mattress is.

Since all mattresses are hand made, firmness is dependent on how the manufacturer makes it and what he puts into it.

So one of the best tests you can make to determine if the mattress you want to buy is right for you is to kick off your shoes and lie down on it.

Mattresses may be ordered in soft, medium, firm or extra firm, but the important point is whether or not it supports the body adequately.

And, if you have been sleeping on an unsuitable mattress, don't complain that a good new one is uncomfortable immediately after delivery.

A period of adjustment from the old to the new may be necessary, but your back will thank you for it.

The New Year

The New Year's a notebook unblemished and white,
The New Year's a penny
untarnished and bright.
The New Year's a baby just this minute born.
A beautiful baby asleep in the morn.

Let's write in the notebook, nor leave any smudges,
Let's spend the bright penny to settle our grudges:
Let's comfort the baby who'll cry when he wakes—
And discovers he's stuck with his father's mistakes!

Intangibles

We each face life in our own way.
Making excuses for our shortcomings.
Dreaming dreams of future things
That may never come to pass.
But care not to go.
Else we will not go on.

Life— Beauty for some, for others what?
Can we be happy or must fear reach out
In an intangible way...casting shadows?

We try for courage.
Our hearts flutter oft at a thought.
What? What?

Should we live day to day?
The future what?
Dare we think? No!
Think not, Think not...

Christmas

Let us rejoice, it is Christmas
Yes, let's throw away all our grudges at least until after the holidays.

Yes, repent, it is Christmas
I believe in God so on His day, I will do good for man
It doesn't matter what happens for the rest of the year.
As long as I am good on Christmas, God will take care of me.

Western Vegetables Lead The Holiday Parade

Start the holiday party or feast with a colorful vegetable relish tray surrounding a Swiss Fondue pot. Guests and family will welcome the interlude of crisp bright red, green, white and orange raw vegetable nibbles before the traditionally rich and delicious holiday foods.

Prepare the western fresh vegetables a day ahead and let them bloom in ice water.

Fresh Vegetable Relishes w/Swiss Fondue

1 pound Swiss cheese 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon flour Pepper to taste
1 clove garlic Dash mace
1/4 cup dry white wine

METHOD: Shred cheese and toss with flour. Rub inside chafing dish or top of double boiler; place over hot water with cut clove of garlic. Pour in wine and heat until air bubbles rise to the surface, but do not boil. Gradually add cheese-flour mixture, stirring until cheese is completely melted. Season with salt, pepper and mace. Serve at once in chafing dish or heavy casserole placed over a candle warmer.

Mixture will be somewhat thick and stringy but if mixture thickens too much, thin with a little dry white wine. Makes 2 cups sauce.

Surround with carrot curls or sticks, celery sticks, cucumber slices, cherry tomatoes, raw cauliflower, broccoli florets, radish roses or other favorite raw vegetables.

Over the river and through the woods...to Grandmother's house we go...

Remember that old Thanksgiving song we used to sing, I do, and I also remember when clothes were scrubbed by hand, hung out to dry and Monday was clothes washing day with a vengeance.

Time has elapsed—progress in technology has helped us to reduce this simple household task in most cases to a few fast trips to the laundry room.

Is it any wonder that we Americans are getting fatter each year? We not only drive to Grandmother's house, but we drive practically everywhere else too—even if it's down the street.

This lack of exercise, coupled with more convenience foods [for the most part high calorie] are the criminals—we are the victims—if we let ourselves be.

Dr. Creedon Elected Survival President

Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, superintendent of Quincy Public Schools, has been elected to succeed Dr. Charles Djerf as president of Survival Inc.

Dr. Djerf, founder of the Quincy-based drug rehabilitation project, is retiring due to ill health.

Other officers include Joseph Whiteman, who succeeds Dr. William Ridder as vice president, and Dr. Carol Lee Griffin and Mrs. Maude Johnson, re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

In accepting the presidency, Dr. Creedon said "I do so with a sense of obligation to take my turn in a leadership role in attempting to rehabilitate young people that get involved in drugs.

"Without the initiative taken by Dr. Djerf" two and one half years ago, he said, "quite possibly Quincy would be in the limbo most communities are in in reference to working with drug-afflicted kids."

Dr. Creedon, a member of the Survival board of directors since its inception, said he is "looking forward to continued work with social agencies on the South Shore."

He cited as examples the South Shore Mental Health Agency, Quincy District Court and Police and Norfolk District Atty. George G. Burke.

"When Survival was first organized, the use of heroin was almost an unknown affliction to area young people and now we have hundreds of known heroin addicts in the area," he said.

The presidency of Survival is not an office one would campaign for, Dr. Creedon said, "because it would be a lot better, naturally if such an organization did not need to exist."

McIntyre Asks MBTA Minibus 'Loop'

Mayor James R. McIntyre has suggested that the MBTA use "minibuses" to provide a "loop route" around Quincy Center for transportation to and from the shopping areas.

The route proposed in a letter to MBTA General Manager

Joseph Kelly would carry shoppers and commuters from Quincy Center Station around Quincy Square and back to the station.

Minibuses would travel along Hancock, Granite, School, Elm and Mechanics Streets, Revere Rd., Washington and Hancock Sts.

"I hereby request that Quincy be allocated a minibus at the earliest possible time for the route described," McIntyre wrote.

Seven Retire From Quincy Post Office

Six mail carriers and a postal clerk were given gifts Friday at a retirement party at the Quincy Square Post Office.

After a brief ceremony which included thanks from Supt. Thomas F. O'Neill, the men made their last trip on their appointed routes.

Each retiree had between 30 and 35 years service behind him.

Alfred B. Knasas of 63 Summit St., Quincy, is retiring after 32 years, most of which he spent delivering parcel post. Mr. Knasas races pigeons for a hobby.

Joseph J. Newton of 146 Sherman St., Wollaston, plans to spend his retirement on Cape Cod. He has been a letter carrier for 35 years, mostly in West Quincy and downtown.

Malcolm H. Greaves of 142 Rice Rd., Wollaston, has spent 30 years with the post office as a carrier in West Quincy and for the past five years as a supervisor.

John J. Caruso of 21 Berry St., Quincy, is ending 30 years of window service at the Quincy Square post office. Mr. Caruso said he will spend his retirement traveling and fishing.

Joseph F. King of 102 Nantasket Ave., Hull, has been a carrier in Quincy for 15 years and a post office employee for 30 years.

Albert T. Gill, 1509 Turnpike St., Stoughton, plans to travel to England now that his 33 years as a postal employee have ended.

John E. Murphy of Witawaumet Rd., Weymouth, has delivered mail in Quincy Point for the past five years. He has been a postal employee for 35 years.

Brownell, Tobin File For Light

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin have co-filed a bill requiring the Department of Public Works to place a pedestrian traffic light at the MBTA station on Upland Road.

The location has been the scene of two fatal accidents in less than a month which have claimed the lives of Miss Sharon Grassi of Quincy and Mrs. Donna McMullen of Jamaica Plain.

DPW officials had earlier told Brownell that a traffic survey of the area would have to be conducted before the light could be installed.

Health High-Lights

By Jack Silverstein

This Is The Season....

After just spending five days at the Quincy City Hospital, checking out some minor chest pains, I thought it might be a good idea to briefly repeat what most of us already know, but tend to overlook.

Any chest pain can more appropriately be called a feeling of oppression or distress, and is usually described as a squeezing, crushing, or vise-like sensation, rather than as sharp or knife-like in character. The intensity varies and the typical seizure lasts only a few minutes. The patient usually relates the attack to exertion, overeating, or an emotional upset, and notes that it disappears with rest.

Now that snow shoveling time has arrived and the bitter cold windy days blasts our bodies - which are now one year older, we should do well to remind ourselves that chest pains indicate that something might be wrong and a trip to a physician immediately is in order if for no other reason than to find out that nothing is wrong.

This pain or dullness can also happen while you may be watching television or eating. It can wreak havoc with your schedule or be a blow to your ego. But if you let it go, you might not have an ego or a schedule about which to be concerned.

In my case, I was fortunate. I will soon be back playing handball and jogging. Although it is not necessary, I have given up smoking and will cut down on cholesterol rich foods. Other adjustments will be made again when I receive another warning from my parents...Mother Nature and Father Time.

Purlie: A Musical That Makes Religion Fun Again

By WILLIAM JEROME

Religion is fun again. Foot-stomping, vocal-easing, and relaxed, moving, brotherly fun. And the Black folks love it. And why not — under the super inspired rhetoric, movement, sermonizing of Reverend Brother Purlius, what could be better?

So the scene opens, in PURLIE now playing at the Colonial Theatre to an excited audience all ready but not yet won. In some three hours time the tuned in crowd is toe stomping and ready for the next service.

What passes in-between is a light show. Oh so light. Some funny, fast moving preaching and teaching. History brought to the fore — humanly. Incidentally the good guys in this music comedy wear black hats. The "Baddies" wear a white hat.

The story line: Seems a pencil thin, frock coated "Reverend". One Purlius returns to his "home", roots and people. With a purpose. He is greeted by Missy his sister-in-law. In tow is a gawky, bashful "Junior Choir Singer from Alabama." Chosen by design or inspiration to help "defraud the evil land-owner of some "will" money of a Bessie May. Said plot is foiled by the evil one who begins to punish the scalawags. The big purpose is to acquire the Bethel Church [barn] with the much needed $500. Some strong singing group and solo numbers fill the time here in Act. 1.

Our protagonist is a strong willed, wiry electric soul. He can quote the Bible endlessly. He has the gestures and savoir-faire of a top notch Evangelist. And the "parishoners" eat it up. Encourage him and the spasm is contagious.

The play proceeds happily which is what you expect. There are no strident passages. The folk get what they want and they want very little.

We get a lot of history and moralizing. It is hard at times to digest. The truth, just as the rancid "commissary" food the folk are forced to buy is distasteful. But it is all done in good humor. Plenty of sight gags, gestures and mimicking. Some unusual change of voices and casting deep, deep expressions brought rises to the audience.

We are treated to three scenes. A ramshackle house. This unfortunately occupies a great portion of the stage. It forces much action up front and leaves little room for dancing and the like. It is a bit reminiscent of "shack" sets from Cowboy productions, O'Neills, Moon for the Misbegotten, etc. We miss the originality. We are blocked visually and never see any distance, or hill and dale so often referred to by the folks.

The Captains' Commissary is a similar situation. It is a southern brick store front angled in. Minimum of stage space left.

The new Freedom "integrated" Church is a bit like a Rustcraft card ... the lines of a Wyeth meeting house but sparkled up. It has fairly prosaic lines. The people, the parishoners live it up. The Reverend — well, he electrifies it. We begin with the mean Captains' funeral ... and the middle is flash-back. The ending picks up, or I should say, lays down the Captains' casket. A fitting march, a rousing hymn and a new history begins.

A slam-bang human down to earth show. Fine cast. You will remember each player well. Kudos to Robert Guillaume as Purlie, a bow to the graceful, sweet Missy; Carol Jean Lewis, and incomparable Lutibelle [Patti Jo] will amaze you with her glitshiness, her song belting and her "purpose".

Give it a go. Stomp a toe and read some "history" and see a new Passion done with excitement.

Veneto Carolers Raise $74 For March Of Dimes

The eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Veneto of 85 Stedman St. were debating whether or not to go Christmas caroling this year when one of the sons came up with an idea. "Why don't we do it for the March of Dimes," said 10-year-old Drew.

The rest of the family agreed immediately, gathered nine of their friends and proceeded to raise $74 for the fight against birth defects while singing door to door in West Quincy.

The Veneto children's crusade covered Shirley, Campbell, Grove and Upton Sts. on Wednesday and Thursday but were rained out of their planned performance on Stedman St. Christmas Eve.

Working for the March of Dimes is not a new thing for the Venetos.

Mrs. Veneto's mother, Mrs. Honor F. Goodman of Brighton, was chairman of the Boston March of Dimes on four different occasions.

And the family has held several "mini-fairs" at their home, raising more than $200 in one day.

Carolers included Joseph, Debbie, Karen, Robin, Drew, Betty, Stephanie and Christopher Veneto, Eileen Marr, Laura Bertolon, Anne Bertrand, Valerie and Steven Westland, Patricia Cronin, Patricia and Lauren Leahy and Diane Peters.

Sgt. Robert Smith Returns From NATO Exercise

Marine Staff Sergeant Robert W. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith of 63 Allerton St., Quincy, has returned to homebase at Jacksonville, N.C., after participation in the NATO exercise Operation Deep Furrow-71 in the Mediterranean. Smith and other Marines of Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 261 were flown ashore from the helicopter landing ships USS Guadalcanal and USS Inchon, and assaulted a beachhead on the southwest coast of Turkey.

The operation involved American Marines, British Royal Marines and the Turkish Army, and was designed to test new amphibious assault techniques.

"VENETO ADOREMUS" - That's not how the words go, but it may as well be as Joseph Veneto leads seven of his sisters and brothers and their friends in Christmas caroling. The group raised $74 for the March of Dimes. With Joseph are Debbie, Karen, Robin, Drew, Betty, Stephanie and Christopher Veneto, Eileen Marr, Laura Bertolon, Anne Bertrand, Valerie and Steven Westland, Patricia Cronin, Patricia and Maureen Leahy and Diane Peters. In the back row are Mrs. Kay Veneto, Mrs. Marilyn Westland and Miss Nancy Bertolon, who accompanied the carolers.

The Candy-Land Display remains intact and is admired by many until Christmas Day when nieces, nephews and friends of the Draicchio children take what they want. The children, Michele, 20; Billy, 11, Christopher, 7, and Michael, 5, enjoy bringing their friends over. Mrs. Draicchio says the first thing to go up in their house is the candy display -- even before the tree.

In Met Loop Track

North Seeks No. 2 Today, Quincy Hopes To Rebound

The North Quincy track team seeks its second straight Met League win today at 10 a.m. when it faces Rindge Tech at Northeastern University.

Quincy tries to rebound from an opening day loss to Rindge when it meets Needham.

Bob Gentry's North team started in the right fashion last week with a 49-37 victory over Randolph.

North's Bob McCormack sparked the Raiders with two wins, taking the mile run and the high jump.

The Raiders' other winners were Dick Malloy in the two-mile, Steve Leet in the shot put, Tom Burke in the 300 and Jack Reynolds in the 600.

Gene Macomber's Quincy club dropped a 45-41 decision to Rindge when Rindge won the relay. The Presidents led, 41-40, going into that event.

Quincy's Bob Ciano remained unbeaten in winter track, spring track and cross country through three years with a win in the mile.

Other Quincy winners were Ray Lawyer, dash; Marty Swirko, two-mile; Bob Volpini, shot put; and Brian Feeney, 1000.

In College Action

QJC Eyes Fourth In Row, ENC Awaits Bridgewater

The Quincy Junior College basketball team will try to extend its unbeaten Mass. Junior College Conference record to 4-0 when it returns to action on Jan. 5 when it hosts Wentworth Institute at Quincy Vo-Tech gym. On Jan. 7 QJC will travel to Massachusetts Community College for a non-league game.

Although their overall mark is 4-4, the Collejuans are 3-0 in the conference following an easy 87-47 win over Newton Junior College in the final game before vacation.

"I was very pleased with this game and I was able to get everyone in," Coach Earl Vermillion said. "We were a little slow in getting started but the boys got the wheels rolling and broke the game open." QJC led, 43-26, at the half.

Sam Abraham led the scorers with 17 points, followed by Bob Daley with 16, Bob Uhlir with 10 and Tom Machado with 10. Abraham also paced the rebounders with 14.

The Eastern Nazarene College

hoopmen, with a 5-2 record and only six points away from an unbeaten record, will return to action on Jan. 7 with a home game against Bridgewater State.

The next night the Crusaders will be home to King's College in a Seaboard Conference game.

The only losses for Coach Jim Smith's club were by three points to Western New England and by three to Trevecca College in the finals of the Trevecca Invitational Tourney at Nashville, Tenn.

Quincy Icemen To Face Malden; Raiders To Take On Medford

Quincy's hockey team, still suffering from a lack of offensive punch, last night tried to improve on its 2-1-1 Greater Boston League record when it faced Somerville at Boston Arena.

North Quincy sought its second win when it met Revere's undefeated powerhouse.

Next Wednesday, Quincy will take on Malden at 6:30, followed by North Quincy vs. Medford, also at the Arena.

Although Bob Sylvia's Presidents had given up only one goal a game, it had only a 1-1-1 record before it stopped winless Chelsea, 4-3, Monday afternoon.

Following a 1-1 tie with Medford, Quincy topped North Quincy, 3-1, dropped a 1-0 heartbreaker to Everett, then topped Chelsea.

Ron Erikson's North team, following losses to Malden and Quincy, edged Chelsea, 4-3, for its only win. Monday it bowed to unbeaten league leader Everett, 4-1.

Despite the four goals against Chelsea, Sylvia is still unhappy about the lack of scoring punch, something which has hampered the Presidents in recent years, even when it won the title a year ago.

Quincy's winning goal Monday was a lucky one as Chelsea goalie Kevin Keohane attempted to clear the puck, but it went to the Presidents' Pete McNally, who put it into the open net.

McNally set up Steve Cedrone's goal which put Quincy ahead, 1-0, and John Prescott made it 2-0 as he converted Cedrone's pass in the opening period.

Chelsea tied it up in the second period but Rich Patten took John Black's pass and put Quincy ahead, 3-2, after two periods.

In the final period McNally scored his winning goal and Chelsea scored just before the final buzzer.

North Quincy's only goal against Everett was scored by Keith Losordo on a pass from Ken Graham in the second period.

Quincy peppered Everett goalie Robbie Luongo with 23 shots last Friday but couldn't put one past him. Everett scored the only goal of the hard-fought game at 9:07 of the opening period when Joe LaBella, the top scorer for the Crimson Tide, tallied.

Quincy's ace goalie, Artie Boyle, didn't have a chance on LaBella's goal as the Presidents failed to get the puck out of the zone. Boyle, having another great year, had 19 saves.

North came up with its initial win over Chelsea as Steve MacKay scored twice. Steve Graham and Steve Leofanti had the other Raider goals.

"It was nice to score four goals after being held to one in our first two games," Erikson said. "Rich Massotta, playing in only his third varsity game, did an excellent job in goal."

Quincy and North had another of their hard-fought games earlier last week as the Raiders proved they could hold their own with the Presidents. Last year when Quincy won the GBL crown, some of its toughest games were with the Raiders.

Black gave Quincy an early 1-0 lead, converting passes from Patten and Prescott. Black made it 2-0 two minutes later when Patten and Russ Corner assisted.

Jim Cattaneo made it 3-0 in the second period unassisted and Leofanti saved North from a shutout with an unassisted goal in the final session.

scorers at six points.

Three Broad Meadows ninth graders scored in the double figures as the team dumped Atlantic-North 46-42 in the closest contest of the day.

Atlantic took the other two matches with a 42-12 victory for the eighth graders and 22-17 for the seventh graders.

North Gym Team Opens On Jan. 4

The North Quincy gymnastics team usually is among the top 10 teams in the state and veteran Coach George Golding, starting his 12th year as Raider coach, has hopes the team will continue this success this season.

North opens its season on Jan. 4 at home against Milton and Dennis-Yarmouth and starts its Suburban League campaign Jan. 7 at Brookline.

As the Raiders prepare for the approaching season, Golding's biggest disappointment is the fact only two ninth graders, Sean Morgan and Billy Walsh, are out for the team.

"I usually have several more ninth graders and always look forward to having four or five outstanding sophomores each year," Golding explained. "I am really disappointed that there are only two ninth graders this year."

Those two, however, look good, Morgan as an all-around man and Walsh on the rings.

Among the top performers this season are Seniors Kent LeFleur, horizontal bar and vault; Mark Chartier, side horse; Walter Collins, rings; John McGilvary, side horse; Jack Monti, vault and parallel bar;

Don Struzzola, rings; Gary Veroneau, all-around; George Winters, rings; Paul O'Neil, free exercise, and Glen Sullivan, free exercise.

Juniors who look good include Paul Bimler, rings; Rich Golden, rings and horizontal bar, and Dave Merrill, all-around.

Sophomore hopes are Mike Boyd, free exercise; Scott Faherty, rings; Paul Sweeney, horizontal bar; Dave Chartier, side horse; Neil McGilvary, rings, and Dave Sullivan, rings and horizontal bar.

Bill Chaggaris is the Raiders' manager.

Golding, for the first time, has an assistant coach who has had gymnastics experience, Jack Oliva, football coach at Atlantic Junior High.

Golding explained that this year the schools in this state have dropped a few events which are not used in the Olympics and that the schools use strictly Olympic events.

"Gymnastics have mushroomed in this state with 80 schools now having the sport," the popular coach pointed out. He is delighted that Quincy has its first formal team this year and is also competing in the Suburban League.

Marshall Thanks MDC For Ice Time Extension

Ward 2 Councillor-Rep. Clifford H. Marshall recently thanked MDC Commissioner John W. Sears for extending the hours of ice time at MDC skating rinks.

"I firmly believe that this will provide full utilization of these facilities and your flexibility in making this decision certainly shows that you are interested and concerned with providing the maximum amount of service to the public," Marshall wrote.

Central Hoop Sweeps Sterling; Broad Meadows Edges Atlantic

Central's seventh, eighth and ninth grade basketball teams swept Sterling by sizeable margins and Broad Meadows edged the Atlantic ninth graders to prevent an Atlantic sweep last week in Junior High basketball.

Jack Rabel paced Central's ninth grade team with 11 points, Bruce Shea tallied nine and Mark Reale popped eight points to give the ninth graders a 32-19 victory.

Tony Carrea's six points led Sterling as the eighth graders from South Quincy managed just 15 points to Central's 31. Scott Roberts scored 12 points for the Central offense.

The Central seventh graders clobbered Sterling 22-10 with Steve Levinson leading the

Presidents Take On Alumni Tonight

Quincy's basketball team, loser of two straight games following an opening night win, takes a night off from regularly scheduled competition tonight when it plays its annual Alumni game at Vo-Tech gym.

The graduates will have one of their most star-studded teams in years featuring many college standouts.

In addition to the varsity-Alumni game, other features will be included and it looks like a good take-in for the fans.

Quincy and North will return to Greater Boston League action Tuesday night, the Presidents hosting Malden and the Raiders playing at Chelsea.

Bob Nolan's North team showed in its last game it should be a contender for GBL honors when it turned in another superlative defensive performance to upset Medford, one of the top-ranked teams, 48-37. It was the Raiders' second win in a row and their first league game of the year.

"This was a big upset win for us as Medford was picked to have a big year in the league," Nolan said.

North won it with a tight press on defense and a slow, deliberate offense. It led, 20-16, at half-time and increased its lead to 36-26 going into the last period.

Capt. Dave Nelson led the North attack with 17 points and also pulled down 17 rebounds. Jamie Doherty had 14 points and Pete Quinn came off the bench and had eight points.

Many people like turnovers but not the kind the Quincy team has been making.

Marty Finnegan's Presidents opened with a non-league win over Weymouth South but numerous turnovers cost them against Everett, which handed Quincy a 90-78 setback in a GBL opener, and against B.C. High, which won, 72-64, in a non-league affair.

"We didn't play a good game thinking-wise against B.C.," Finnegan said. "We made far too many mistakes. The last two games turnovers have killed us. We have too small a team to be making these mistakes."

"In our opener against Weymouth we had 14 turnovers, we had 23 against Everett and this time had 24 against B.C. You just can't do this and expect to win."

Quincy's defense was adequate against B.C. High but the ball control, which Finnegan had hoped for to offset his lack of height, was hurt by the many turnovers.

Quincy hit on 26 of 63 shots from the floor for 41 percent and was 12 for 16 from the foul line. B.C. High had only 27 of 71 from the floor for 38 percent but hit on 18 of 30 free throws.

Quincy kept the game close most of the way and led at the half, 39-37. It stayed close through the second half as the winners took a slim lead into the final quarter and held on to it. The Eagles pulled away in the waning seconds.

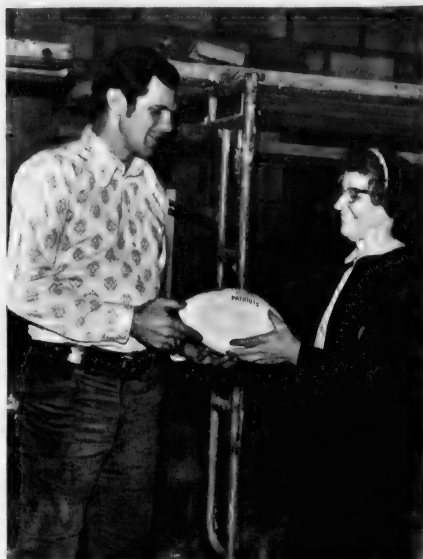

Willie Bertrand led the offense with 15 points, Bob McDermott had 13, Ken Furfari and John Reggianni 11 each and Mark MacLeod 10.

Quincy's junior varsity also lost, 54-44, with Mark Dwyer and Mike Long scoring nine points each.

In the loss to Everett Quincy had a one-point lead at half-time but Everett's foul shooting and Quincy's turnovers enabled the winners to pull well out in front in the third period.

Finnegan hailed the play of Furfari and Mike Marvelle for their floor games and rebounding. Furfari had 18 points, Reggianni 18, Marvelle 16, and McDermott 12.

Quincy shot well both from the floor and foul line but the bigger Everett team had a 48-32 edge in rebounds, a big reason for the win

TOM JANIK, punter for the NE Patriots who has retired, presents ball autographed by the team to Sister M. Johnice, superintendent of the Brintree St. Coletta Day School for development of disabled children. Janik gave the football to the school to be used to assist its expansion program. The presentation was made in the new school building now under construction on Washington St., Brintree, and scheduled for completion in March of 1972.

Quincy Gym Team In Suburban Action

Quincy's first formal gymnastics team will compete in the strong Suburban League this year and Coach Peter Gallagher is hopeful of making a creditable showing despite the fact he has only 12 boys, all underclassmen.

"The league may prove too strong for us but even if we fail to win a meet, I will be happy if we can fill every event," Gallagher said. "We are allowed five boys in every event but I'll be able to enter only about three."

The Presidents have six sophomores and six juniors with two boys in particular expected to be outstanding.

"Tom Campbell is our best gymnast and is an all-around standout, while Dave Moran is another all-around performer," Gallagher said. "Both are sophomores and should develop into really outstanding gymnasts."

Juniors are Randy Califano, rings, parallel bar and free exercise; Chris Toy, rings and side horse; Paul Davis, high bar and rings; Dennis Fitzgibbon, rings and vault; Tim Cully, vault and Mike Priscella, side horse.

The other sophomores are Mike Tribou, vault; Steve Tibideau, free exercise; Bob Gordon, high bar and parallel bar, and Paul Hajjar, rings and high bar.

"I have two eighth graders working out with us and they are great prospects for the future," Gallagher said. "I had Larry Cravell in elementary school and he has been working out in gymnastics for four years. He is extremely dedicated and should be a great one. John Chludjinski is another fine prospect."

Presidents will open their league season Jan. 11 at home against Brookline.

"Actually, it doesn't matter how many boys you have on your team because if enough of them show strength in several of the events, you can score plenty of points with only a few standouts," Gallagher concluded.

1972 Year Of Decision For General Dynamics Yard

By DICK MATTULINA

Rank and file employees of the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard enter 1972 with an air of apprehension about their job future.

Hanging over their heads is the knowledge that the shipbuilding division has received no new contracts since 1969 and rampant rumors that the yard is to be closed.

But management personnel at Fore River are "very optimistic" about the potential for landing new shipbuilding contracts.

A prime reason for such optimism is the avowed belief of GD Chairman David Lewis that the world is about to go "on a shipbuilding binge."

"Hundreds of new ships are going to be built between now and 1980, including a great many 1,000-foot crude oil carriers and tankers for transporting liquefied natural gas," Lewis said.

Lewis became chairman of General Dynamics in October 1970 and was immediately faced with facts showing that the Quincy shipyard has lost $200 million since 1967.

According to an article in Forbes Magazine, he and other top officials must decide by March of 1972 whether or not to close the yard.

"Now we do face a deep valley in ship construction work along about 1973," Lewis said in Forbes, "but if we can see a lot of this new work coming to us after that, we'll keep Quincy open."

Among the considerations for keeping the yard open is that it could cost the conglomerate up to $40 million in severance pay to the 7,000 plus employees to close the yard.

There are six ships under construction in Quincy,

Assistant D.A.

George H. Howard of 16 Connolly Circle, Braintree, has been appointed a special assistant district attorney for Norfolk County.

Mr. Howard is a graduate of Gardner High School, Fitchburg State College and New England Law School and served in the Army from 1954 to 1965.

He was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in 1961, Federal Bar for Massachusetts in 1962, Tax Court in 1968 and Supreme Court in 1970.

including two Navy LSDs, a Navy fleet replenishment oiler and three barge carriers for Lykes Brothers Steamship Co.

The first Lykes Bros. ship went on sea trial this week and the second is scheduled to be christened on Jan. 15.

A shipyard official said the company is "actively pursuing various types of new business and hopes that some of these will result in contracts for new ships."

General Dynamics has bid, for example, on six ships for El Paso

Natural Gas.

The company has exclusive U.S. rights to a Norwegian design for liquefied natural gas tankers which could serve as an impetus for such firms as El Paso to do business with GD.

Forbes quoted GD President

Hilliard Paige as saying the solution to the problem is multiple-ship contracts over which costs can be spread.

And those contracts will come, Paige said, from the energy business such as natural gas and oil companies.
